...on the court it's FLASH!

...in a cigarette it's TASTE!

MILD and yet THEY SATISFY

TASTE above everything

Tobaccos chosen for their richness, delicacy, and aroma . . . aged for added ripeness and sweetness . . . blended and "cross-blended" to bring out just those shades of flavor that make a cigarette . . .

With taste so clearly the ruling thought through every step of manufacture, isn't Chesterfield's steady popularity just the natural result?

FREEZE WITH HEAT The ELECTROLUX Refrigerator

The Kitchenette model is just the right size for the small family. It has a food capacity of 4 cubic feet and makes 56 large ice cubes between meals.

The Years won't make ELECTROLUX Noisy

The new Gas Refrigerator has no moving parts to wear out or to ever make a whisper of sound

NO machinery to need attention . . . no irritating repair bills . . . absolutely noiseless refrigeration. Electrolux, the Gas Refrigerator, is ideal for the smallest apartment or for the largest mansion. A tiny gas flame and a mere trickle of water in a sealed unit do all the work of making cold.

And, best of all, Electrolux costs less to operate than any other refrigerating system.

Drop into our display rooms and let us show you models for your home. We are always glad to arrange attractive terms.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Heading the 200 great circus features, Sells-Floto circus will present at both performances, Tom Mix, himself, and his equally famous horse, Tony.

Other great features will include Poodles Hannaford, the world's greatest riding clown who has returned to the Sells-Floto circus after a tour of Europe and a solid year with a big New York musical production. When Sells-Floto comes to Willimantic today and New London tomorrow you will find Poodles and his family, the original Hannafords, occupying the center ring and presenting the best riding display before the public.

Poodles Hannaford will be but one of the extraordinary features of the 1929 tour. Cliff Acros, the human cannonball, who is shot two hundred feet from a cannon; the Flying Thrillers from Australia; the Clarkonians from France; Mabel Stark and her tigers; Jules Jacot and his fighting lions and Mabel Pelkey the girl gymnast, are but a few of the noted performers.

When you see Sells-Floto you will discover that the old statement "all circuses are alike" is far from the truth.

New England Gas Assoc.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass.—In addressing the annual sales conference of the New England Gas association last week at the Hotel Rock-Mere, Marblehead, with an attendance of more than 300 gas men, President John J. Quinn reviewed the steps which led up to the campaign of advertising being carried on by the gas industry of New England. Mr. Quinn said in part:

"The one hundred years of development and growth through which the gas industry has progressed have witnessed many changes in economic and social conditions and through each successive stage our industry has emerged stronger and better known because of its increased utility and untiring service.

"Because the ever-growing needs of the age have been foreseen prior to any actual change, new appliances have been placed on the market at the exact time when their service would be greatest. Water heaters, laundry dryers, gas-cooled refrigerators, incinerators, heaters for home, garage, and business buildings, are but a few of the many aids to modern living which owe their existence to the far-sighted vision and unfailing purpose, not only of separate individuals, but of the industry as a whole.

"And now the publicity committee, with the aid of its advertising agents, and with the support of member companies, has launched and piloted for over a year a successful educational advertising campaign, the aim of which is to tell the public about the aids to cleanliness and health provided by gas, the better fuel.

"The daily newspapers are the medium in which this campaign is appearing. Newspapers were selected because they have been the proven means of so many successful national advertising efforts. Since the appearance on April 3, 1928, of the initial piece of institutional copy, 'The Romance of Gas—the Better Fuel'—approximately 150 newspapers (including 30 foreign language papers) in New England have been carrying advertisements telling about the advantages of gas—the better fuel. For this a considerable financial outlay is required. There are 30 appliance manufacturers and approximately 87 gas companies now contributing. We want the support not only of every company but of every man in the rank and file of the industry here in New England.

"Institutional advertising is proving to the public that the industry is abreast with the times, even anticipating the needs of modern living. For a little over a year the public has been getting that story, slowly but surely, and just as surely have progressive men and women been responding to its conveniences as a means for more comforts and more leisure hours."

WOMAN ATTEMPTED SUICIDE BY DRINKING POISON ON POST ROAD

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 25—Mrs. Ola Heacock of New York city, last night attempted suicide by drinking lysol. According to the state police she was discouraged because of the attention her husband Ernest J. Heacock, engineer on the yacht of Henry Plant is alleged to have been paying to another women. Her attempt was made at Flanders and it was defeated by the prompt action of her husband and others, who later took her to the Lawrence Memorial hospital. The attempt was made on the post road in front of an inn. For fear she would again endeavor to take her life, Mrs. Heacock is under surveillance at the hospital, where it is stated she will recover.

Nicholas Amaross and Samuel Coal of Philadelphia were both injured early this morning when the automobile in which they were riding struck a tree and overturned on the post road in Groton. Failure to make a curve is described as the cause for the accident.

Lieutenant H. B. Momsen has been assigned to duty at the local submarine base. Lieut. Momsen is the inventor of the lung device which enables trapped sailors on submarines to safely arise to the surface of the water.

In a hearing before United States Commissioner Russell H. Corcoran today, the liquor smuggling case of the fishing boat John M. Hathaway was continued for two weeks.

The city planning board has approved the layout to extend Crystal avenue from its present northerly extremity to the top of Williams street and Mohegan avenue.

Playgrounds for city children and Riverside and Calkins parks have opened for the summer season and yesterday and today both places were crowded with young folks, seeking diversion in the open air. Activities at Riverside park are in charge of Professor M. R. Cobbledick of Connecticut college and George Garvey will direct those at Calkins park.

Carl Westlund, U. S. S. Camden; Mrs. Albert Smith, Westerly; Mrs. Ernest Hrubcock, New York, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

OBITUARY

Fred W. Winthrop

Fred W. Winthrop, 73, retired New York police officer and for many years a resident of East Lyme and New London, died last night at his former home, 298 Bank street, death ending a lingering illness. He is survived by several children. Mr. Winthrop removed to Waterford about 20 years ago and purchased real estate at the Golden Spur, which he developed with the result that within two or three years a summer colony was established there. Eventually other lands were acquired and cottages erected upon the sites until the Spur became a popular place of residence during the summer season. Mr. Winthrop was retired from the New York police department about 25 years ago.

Rosalie Portelance

Rosalie, two months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Portelance, 14 Avery court, died last night at the residence of the child's parents. The funeral was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock, with burial in St. Mary's cemetery. The other twin died about a month ago.

Motorcycle Officer George Cockell last night discovered a culvert in front of 212 Montauk avenue broken and as a result of the dangerous condition of the cover to the basin, automobile tires had been damaged by cars being driven into the opening. The danger spot was reported to the highway department.

The police of Whitensville, Mass., have communicated with the state police requesting the arrest of Ulric Heneault, 17, who with Leo Belledeau and Morris Liberty, ran away from home yesterday. It is believed that the youths are headed for New London and will try to enlist in some branch of the federal service.

Mrs. Pothier, 57 Belden street, reported to Patrolman Lawrence Fardy today that she had stumbled over boxes on the sidewalk in front of 427 Bank street, and in doing so had fallen, her arm striking the walk with force and injuring it. Officer Fardy inspected the sidewalk, but found that any obstruction that had existed had been removed.

Samuel Hyde, 126 Shaw street, a special officer assigned to duty at Ocean beach, reported to the police last midnight that vandals had disconnected the wiring of his automobile, had released all of the air from the tires and stolen his registration. The officer was aroused from his slumber by the closing of a door of his car, which was in the rear of his home. As Hyde peered from the window he observed two young men disappearing into Denison avenue.

Tax Collector Hibbard N. Alexander and wife have concluded their wedding tour. Mr. Alexander resumed his duties at the municipal building today.

James P. Walsh has sold a house and lot on Bank street to Guiseppi Micelli.

Tax Collector Hibbard N. Alexander today issued a release of tax warrant against Martin Greenblatt. The warrant was issued several weeks ago and ordered the sale of real estate of Greenblatt because taxes remained unpaid. Greenblatt paid the tax.

Louis M. Cerretto, 22 Tenth street, was arrested last night charged with reckless driving and will be presented in the police court tomorrow. Cerretto was arrested following his auto colliding with a car owned by John P. Kansfield, Eastern Point, Groton, the latter making complaint against the New Londoner to Patrolman Ernest Opperman.

At the silver medal speaking contest held last night by the Loyal Temperance union, in which five members competed, Steall Paskewich, won first prize. The affair was conducted under the supervision of Mrs. Abbie F. Thompson, superintendent of the legion.

A party of 21 was entertained at a luncheon and bridge Friday by Mrs. Frank O'Donnell of Waterbury.

At the annual meeting of the Women's Home Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church held last night at the home of Miss Alice Smith of Broad street, the entire staff of officers who served during the past year were re-elected.

On Friday, Miss Mary Burlake of Uncasville graduated from the New York college of music. She is expected to arrive home for the summer vacation in the near future.

Owing to unfavorable weather conditions the lawn party which was supposed to have been held this afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Augustus Tyler of Gardner avenue, was postponed.

Members of Troop No. 10, New London Girl Scouts will leave this city tomorrow for Lakeville manor, vacation house of the Connecticut council of Catholic Women. The girls will spend a two weeks vacation there.

Members of Circle No. 2 of the First Baptist church held a surprise package party in the church parlors last night. A short business session preceded the business meeting. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Marion D. Duffy, Mrs. Florence Jeffery and Mrs. Howard B. Ross. The meeting of the organization will be held at the home of Mrs. Stager in Waterford on July 15.

Student nurses at Lawrence Memorial Associated hospital enjoyed a delightful strawride Saturday night. Forty members were present and the party was chaperoned by Miss Henrietta Altman, an instructor in the training school.

Edmund C. Johnson of Broad street, entertained at a dinner party last night given in honor of Captain and Mrs. Adolphus Andrews of the submarine base. The affair was held at the Lighthouse inn. Following the dinner bridge was played.

In the Groton town court yesterday morning Stuart R. Lumas of Springfield, Mass., was fined $100 and costs on a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Michael J. Holland of Groton was ordered to pay $15 a week for the support of his family. Boleslaw R. Sescit of New London was fined $25 and costs on a charge of reckless driving after having pleaded not guilty to the charge. Frank Findlay of the U. S. C. G. arrested on a charge of intoxication had his case nolled on payment of costs in the amount of $11.55. Nason B. Wells of Southbridge, Mass., had his case nolled. The case of Patsy Vitro of Groton, charged with evasion of responsibility in a recent automobile accident had his case continued for one week.

Joseph V. Perry, 67 year old fisherman of 130 Shaw street, gave an exhibition of grit and Spartan like fortitude as is seldom seen today, when his right arm was almost completely pulled from its socket when it got caught in a heavy fishing net, which being partly raised from the water, dropped suddenly. While suffering extreme pain, Perry by the use of his left arm succeeded in getting his other member from the rope net. He succeeded in starting the boat and steering it from Race Rock up the Thames river to the foot of Trumbull street, where he moors his boat. After securing his boat he made his way to the store of a friend who immediately rushed him to the Home Memorial hospital. His arm was amputated and today his condition was reported as very favorable.

John Page of 5927 Ocean avenue, a well known resident of New London died at his home last night shortly after 6 o'clock. The deceased suffered a heart attack last September and since that time they have occurred at frequent intervals. He was born in England and came to New London in 1870 where he founded a stone mason contracting business, which was instrumental in assisting on the construction of Bulkeley high school and St. Mary's Star of the Sea and the Second Congregational churches. He retired about 20 years ago.

The deceased is survived by two daughters, both of whom live in this city, Mrs. Thomas Scott and Mrs. R. E. Black and one sister, Mrs. C. S. Comstock of East Orange, N. J.

At an annual meeting of Groton voters held last night in Pleasant Valley schoolhouse, a report of the investigating committee of the second school district recommending the construction of a three room brick schoolhouse at an estimated cost of $25,000 was laid on the table.

Reckless Driving Charge

When the case of Abraham Kaufman of Norwich came up for hearing Monday in the New London police court, Judge John T. McGarry postponed hearing until Wednesday. Kaufman is charged with reckless driving, having been arrested on Williams street early Sunday morning by Patrolman Dennis Murphy.

UNION STREET MERCHANT ARRESTED FOR FIGHTING

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 25— James Lakas, of 99 Union street, one of the proprietors of the New York Coffee Pot, State street, was arrested tonight at the instigation of his partner, James Frans, 33 Meriden street. Lakas posted a bond of $50 for his presentation in the police court tomorrow.

The arrest of Lakas was the outgrowth of a dispute over money matters. Frans has been a partner in the business but a comparatively short time and until recently the affairs of the restaurant were apparently conducted satisfactorily. Tonight a dispute arose over the financial affairs of the restaurant and as the two partners exchanged harsh words, it is alleged that Lakas attempted to destroy the check book, which showed the output of checks, by burning the book. The book was rescued by Frans, although numerous pages were obliterated by fire. A fight started and when Lakas struck Frans several blows on the fact and head, the latter made complaint to Sergeant John Courtney, who arrested the fighter.

Louis Marholis, plumber, was arrested tonight by Sergeant Frank Howard on a charge of evasion of responsibility and will be presented in the police court tomorrow. Margolis was arrested upon complaint of Councilor James A. May after the car the plumber was driving, collided with the city official's auto. Instead of stopping, Marholis, it is claimed, attempted to drive away.

Paul F. Herlihy, 125 Trumbull street, Hartford, and Louis Caretti, 22 Tenth street, were automobile drivers who were arrested this afternoon charged with violation of the city's parking ordinances. Both drivers posted bonds of $2 for their presentation in the police court tomorrow.

William Forrest, adlesman, was presented in the police court today charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. He was fined $10, but the execution of the sentence was suspended upon Forrest paying the costs of the court, about $9. Forrest went to the Hotel Winthrop at 4 o'clock this morning and instead of going to one of the rooms which was occupied by some one unknown to the traveling man, When Clerk J. Allen Beckwith refused to permit Forrest's annoying the occupant of the room, Beckwith became the victim of a flow of verbal abuse. Forrest's actions became unbearable and as a result, complaint was made to Patrolman George McCaskey, who arrested the commercial man.

Mrs. Christine Smith, Jersey City, N. J.; R. A. Dutch, Old Lyme; John A. Rosen, 143 Cottage street, New Haven; J. Raymond Linehan, 70 Robin street, Providence, R. I., and Ralph Roods, R. F. D., No. 3, Putnam, were charged with failing to obey traffic regulations and as each of the drivers failed to appear in court their bonds of $2 each were declared forfeited.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

Finally starred in her own right in "The Awakening," the Samuel Goldwyn picture which comes to the Broadway theatre on Thursday for three days, Vilma Banky, knew far and wide in moviedom as the "Hungarian Rhapsody," can now turn back and look with some pride over the steps of the ascent she has climbed to the top of the screen ladder in the last three years.

Here has been no mushroom burst of splendor, fading as suddenly as it appeared. Thanks to her own good sense and the tactical ability of Samuel Goldwyn, who first brought her to the United States, she can congratulate herself on possessing a firm and sound hold on the movie public.

Practically from the day when she chased Samuel Goldwyn down the platform of the station in her native Budapest to tell him that she would sign his contract after all, she has been in constant danger of getting "star-itis," the strange disease which attacks and sometimes ruins picture actors. Her arrival in New York was a triumph and her first appearance in an American picture, "The Dark Angel," with Ronald Coleman, spread her name from end to end of the United States. Anyone less astute than Samuel Goldwyn might have starred her immediately. But the pioneer independent producer of moving pictures was too canny to take chances.

Miss Banky was immediately borrowed from Goldwyn for no less an honor than the leading feminine role opposite Rudolph Valentino in "The Son of the Sheik" and "The Eagle," thus becoming the envy of every female person in Hollywood. Her return to the Goldwyn lot might have been the signal for starring, but Mr. Goldwyn still preferred the policy of watchful waiting. Miss Banky and Ronald Colman, successful once, were teamed up together for a series of romantic love stories, and soon became as famous as the old combination of Beverly Bayne and Francis X. Bushman.

Palace Theatre

Another milestone was passed in the development of sound pictures when the Fox Movietone all-dialog play, "Thru Different Eyes," is presented for the first time at the Palace theatre today.

Entirely aside from its sound perfection, "Thru Different Eyes" is a highly dramatic, entertaining production that stands on its own. It is a unique picture, in that it tells the story of a murder trial in three different ways: first, as seen by the defense attorney, then the district attorney, and finally as it really happened.

The cast is of unusual excellence, co-featuring Mary Duncan, Warner Baxter and Edmund Lowe. Miss Duncan will be remembered for her outstanding performances in the recent silent dramas, "The River," "4 Devils" and "Our Daily Bread," as well as her great success on the stage in "The Shanghai Gesture" and other productions.

Baxter and Lowe repeat their sensational success of "In Old Arizona" and establish themselves securely as leaders in the medium of Fox Movietone. The balance of the large cast is of an unusually high type, and includes such well known players as Earle Foxe, Natalie Moorehead, Donald Gallaher, Florence Lake and Sylvia Sidney.

Those who miss "Thru Different Eyes" not only will miss the greatest sound picture yet produced, but also will deprive themselves of an evening of wonderful entertainment.

Edward Everett Horton, Winston Miller and Ruth Renick have the leading roles in the new Coronet Talking comedy, "Ask Dad," a playlet in dialogue which will be on the program at the Palace theatre today.

Since the inception of sound pictures, Horton has become one of the screen's most popular players. He is a skilled actor possessed of an ideal recording voice. The talking screen, which spelled the doom of so many screen favorites, brought Horton to the heights of popularity.

Other features on the same program include a Pathe Sound News, the events of the world in scene and sound and a sound Topics of the Day, the funny laugh reel of the screen.

GREENEVILLE

OBITUARY

Mrs. Joseph Bray

On Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock Greeneville lost one of its oldest residents in the passing of Mrs. Margaret Hinchey Bray at her late home, 58 Prospect street, following an illness of some duration. She was the widow of Joseph Bray. Mrs. Bray was born in Ireland, the daughter of John Hinchey and Johanna Malone Hinchey and came to this country when a young girl. The greater part of her life was spent as a resident of Greeneville. The deceased is survived by three sons, Joseph and James Bray of this city and Patrick Bray of Hartford; four daughters, Miss Catherine Bray of Hartford, Mrs. Frank McLaughlin and the Misses Mary and Hannah Bray, of this city. Mrs. Bray was a devoted member of St. Mary's parish until her age prevented; was a faithful parishioner. She was possessed of a wonderful disposition which made her a loving mother, a kind and helpful neighbor. News of her death was learned with profound sorrow by her many friends and acquaintances in the vicinity.

Miss Josephine Shea and Miss Julia Casey have returned to their homes on Prospect street after spending a few days at Eastern Point, the guests of Miss Lena Van Dawn of New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Mulkins and son, Paul of Holyoke, Mass., spent the week end with Mr. Mulkin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Mulkin of Boswell avenue.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Third Baptist church held their annual picnic at the home of Mrs. Irving Larkin of Ripley Hill on Friday with 14 women and 9 children present. At noon a luncheon was served on the lawn, consisting of potato salad, frankfurts, rolls, pickles, radishes, strawberry short cake and coffee. In the afternoon the ladies and children enjoyed ice cream, cookies, watermelon and cherries. All present voted they had an ideal day.

Mrs. Harry Brothwell and daughters, Mae and Mabelle of Boswell avenue, are making an extended visit with Mrs. Brothwell's parents in New Rochelle, New York.

Mrs. James P. Clark and daughter Grace Clark and Mrs. Merton Darrom of Niantic visited with Mrs. George A. Howard of Central avenue.

The home department of the Third Baptist church held their annual picnic at the home of Mrs. Elmer Mulkin of Boswell avenue on Tuesday. A regular survey of the month's Sunday school lessons was conducted by the leader, Mrs. Mulkins, after which a short business meeting was held. The work committee reported fifteen quilts tied during the winter months and a number of tops made and sold. A social time was held and the hostess served a luncheon consisting of salads, sandwiches, cake, cookies, and orangeade. Those present were Mrs. Quinley, Mrs. Rose Burdick, Miss Ida Baker, Mrs. Harry Conklin, Mrs. Mary Mathews, Mrs. James Spicer, Mrs. Irving Larkin and Mrs. Elmer Mulkins.

Mr. and Mrs. James Blackford and daughter, Jeanne of Danielson spent the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Shea of Prospect street.

Mrs. George Morrow and children and Miss Gladys Wilson of 13th street are spending a number of weeks at Quonochontaug beach.

FUNERAL

Edward C. Gwiazdowski

The funeral of Edward Charles Gwiazdowski was held Tuesday morning at 8:30 from his home at 126 North Main street, followed by requiem high mass at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's church, with Rev. W. J. Topor as celebrant, Rev. S. A. Ickek, deacon and Rev. Wojciestuck of Suffield as subdeacon. Organist Hancin was in charge of the musical part of the service and the bearers were Andrew Warakomski, Andrew Jankowski, Andrew Machal, Paul Lupacz, Joseph Lupasz, Chester Supicki, Bronislaw Lubinski, all members of St. John's society, and Andrew Wojkiewicz. The church was filled with the sorrowing relatives and friends of Mr. Gwiazdowski, making one of the largest funerals ever seen at the church. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery where Rev. Father Ickek conducted the committal service at the family lot.

Relatives and friends were present from New Haven, Pennsylvania, Middletown, Meriden, New Britain, Eagleville, Southington, Versailles and Montville. Among the great number of beautiful flowers sent for the funeral were the following: Standing cross, from His Pals; pillow, from his wife; pillow, father and mother; wreath, brother Frank; spray, brother Zygmond; spray, brother John; cross, sister Victoria; wreath, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nowosadko; wreath, brother Clarence; spray, sister Julia and Joseph Marks; spray, Richard Thoma; wreath, James Fitzpatrick; wreath, cab drivers from the square; spray, Sarah Benson; wreath, Ilene Thompson; standing cross, employes of Armour & Co.; cross and spray, Mr. and Mrs. Hannaford and sister-in-law, Mabel Clark; wreath, Albert Chapman; wreath, Mr. Scott. There were also 12 spiritual bouquets and beautiful flowers and spiritual bouquets sent by Frank Petrowsky representing meat dealers and garage dealers of the city.

Mr. Gwiazdowski, whose death occurred Saturday, is survived by his wife and a five-year old son, besides other relatives.

SAYS SALAMUCHA WAS AT BUILDING 20 MINUTES BEFORE FIRE BROKE OUT

Probable cause being found, Paul Salamucha, 30, of Greeneville, presented in the city court Tuesday morning on a charge of arson, was bound over to the next criminal term of the superior court by Judge H. H. Pettis. The accused man remained in a cell at police headquarters until evening when he was able to furnish bonds of $2,000. He was bound over following testimony testimony was offered by the defense.

After Civil Engineer Pitcher explained a number of photographs of the exterior and interior of Union hall, where the fire in question occurred on June 17 about midnight, Tax Collector Harold T. Robinson took the stand. He testified that Salamucha owed $100 on the tax payable May 10, but previously he had made regular payments on the taxes on the building. Tax Collector Robinson admitted that there were other people in Norwich, who still owed money on the May tax. on cross examination by Attorney Curtis Morgan, counsel for Salamucha. Also defending Salamucha is Attorney Thomas J. Kelly.

Paul Anthony of No. 41 Thames street, former owner of the building, said that he had a second mortgage of $2,500 on the building, after the defense admitted that the Chelsea bank also had a mortgage of $5,800. Salamucha had agreed, according to the terms of the mortgage, to pay the interest on the principal and also $250 of the principal every six months. He had not made the June 3 payment, the most recent one, which was $75 for interest and $250 on the principal.

After telling of the rental of the stores and dance hall in the building Capt. John E. Blackburn of Engine No. 2, Greeneville, testified that the alarm for the fire was received at the Greeneville station on the night of June 17 about 11:45 o'clock. Arriving at the hall, which is located 150 feet distant, the firemen found the main entrance locked, but got into the building by forcing in a door and went to the third floor, where flames were shooting out of a window. There was a dense cloud of smoke in the third floor, which smelled strongly of kerosene, he testified. After the fire was put out an investigation was conducted and the firemen found a pail with about a quart of liquid, which had a strong odor of kerosene. This was found under the stage. The walls of the compartment under the stage also smelled strongly of kerosene.

Captain Blackburn said on cross examination that several empty cans were also found under the stage and that the pail containing the liquid was turned over to Deputy Chief Dennis J. Brennan. Attorney Kelly on picking up a jar containing the liquid found in the pail was ordered to put it down by Judge Pettis.

Joseph Marciniak of Hallville testified that on June 17 he hired the hall from Salamucha for $15 in order to hold a wedding reception for his daughter. He said that he had not seen anyone smoking in the place during the time he was there from 6:15 a. m. until after 11 p. m. Marciniak testified that Salamucha came to the dance hall at 7 p. m. and was there when the last of the party left after 11 p. m. The former said that he did not know of the fire until the next day.

Following testimony by Julian Marciniak, brother of the bride, John Gromke was called and said that he saw Salamucha leave the building between 11:30 and midnight, shortly before the alarm was given. Edwin Nevins, who did not see Salamucha leave the building, told of discovering the fire and notifying Capt. Blackburn and Police Sergeant Matthew Delaney.

Joseph Tosco of 27 Howard street, a neighbor of Salamucha, testified that he went to the fire and upon learning that it was in the building owned by Salamucha, he returned to inform Salamucha. He blew the horn on his truck three times, near Salamucha's apartment, to which he went and also received no answer there. Salamucha appeared suddenly from a shed and being informed of the fire asked Tosco if he were fooling. Salamucha was about to go to the hall when Sergeant Delaney appeared and took charge of him, asking Salamucha to come along.

At the conclusion of the testimony by the state's witnesses Attorney Morgan announced that the defense had nothing to offer, but said that the state's evidence had been insufficient to convict anyone on such a serious charge, but Judge Pettis was of a different opinion and bound Salamucha over.

WHEN PROF. SWEET WALKED TIGHTROPE ACROSS SHETUCKET

Not many who were boys and girls in Norwich 70 years ago are still residents of the city to recall the tightrope walking feat of Prof. Sweet across the Shetucket river in 1859. Who the professor was and where he came from is not easy to determine, but what he did is still a vivid memory with at least four of the present day residents of Norwich, these being Attorney William H. Shields, Mrs. Daniel Tracy of 330 Main street, Albert A. Clark of 24 McKinley avenue and Joseph P. Monaher of 41 Park street.

Prof. Sweet was an imitator of the famous Blondin, a tightrope walker par excellence, who in 1858 did the spectacular feat of walking across Niagara Falls on a tightrope, stretched as taut as possible at a height of about 150 feet above the water by an arrangement of small stay ropes on the shore ends. Blondin put a climax to his performance by carrying a man across on his back, trundling over a loaded wheelbarrow and walking across the tightrope in a sack.

Small boys all over the country got the tightrope walking craze when they heard what Blondin had done at Niagara Falls and he had many other imitators. One of these was Professor Sweet who came to Norwich where his approaching feat was duly hailed by the town crier and bell.

The Apollo hall building then stood in Norwich on Main street, about where the Boston store now is. One end of the rope was run from the top floor of this building and the other end was fastened to a tree on the other side of the Shetucket river, where the guy ropes were arranged to take up the slack and make the rope as taut as possible for Professor Sweet. He appeared in due time, walking out across to the opposite side of the river and back to the center of the rope where he made a pause to carry out the big advertised feature of the performance, that of cooking a meal over the river.

As Prof. Sweet balanced on the rope over the middle of the stream he unstrapped from his back a tin contraption which served for a stove, lighted some papers in it and fried an egg which he ate with apparent relish, before he walked back to the Apollo hall building.

Attorney Shields, Mr. Clark and Mr. Monaher were boys in the crowd that milled around on the river bank to see the intrepid professor, but Mrs. Tracy had an even better opportunity to see what went on for she was then employed in the tailoring establishment of Bussey and Fry at 11 Shetucket street, about where the Thames National bank is now, a location that afforded a complete view of all that the professor did on the tightrope.

STATE FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU FOR NEW LONDON

A new state free employment bureau, the eighth in the state, will be opened in New London, August 1, it was announced Tuesday by Harry E. Mackenzie, state commissioner of labor and factory inspection. The bureau will be in charge of State Senator Mason Manning, of Stonington. During the last year the seven free employment bureaus in operation in Hartford, New Haven, Norwich, Waterbury, Bridgeport, Stamford and Danbury.

Commissioner Mackenzie also announced the appointment of Charles Keane, of Norwalk, as a factory inspector.

BOZRAHVILLE JEWISH COUNCIL REPORTS PROGRESS IN YEAR

The Bozrahville section national council of Jewish women held its last regular meeting Monday afternoon at the Prospect house, Fitchville, with Mrs. Nathan Gilman presiding.

Much enthusiasm and applause greeted the reading of the annual report which showed a very active year in the fields of adult education, citizenship, social welfare, emigrant aid, farm and rural work, international good-will and peace.

The president's message was very optimistic as it cited the humble start of this organization eight years ago with a membership of 11, in comparison with the organization today, not only in its increased membership but in its active participation in every worthy cause, which has won for it the recognition as an important factor in the community.

The officers elected for the ensuing year are as follows:

Mrs. Nathan Gilman, president; Mrs. Gertruda Silberman, first vice president; Mrs. Anna Wechsler, second vice president; Miss Ruth Golub, secretary; Mrs. Esther Schatz, treasurer.

The board of directors is: Mrs. Minnie Jacobson, Mrs. Charles Gordon, Mrs. Cel la Caroline, Mrs. Mary Cohen, Mrs. Ida Telzonsky.

The following committee chairmen were named: Scholarship loan fund, Mrs. Gertrude Silberman; peace, Mrs. Nathan Gilman; social welfare, Mrs. Bessie Smith; farm and rural work, Mrs. Dora Dember; education, Mrs. Minnie Jacobson; ways and means, Mrs. Sophie Greenstein; civics and legislation, Mrs. Rose Agranovitch; emigrant aid, Mrs. Lena Miller; Jewish woman publication, Mrs. Louis Pollack; publicity committee, Miss Ruth Golub; entertainment, Mrs. Gertrude Silberman.

The following delegates and alternates were elected to the 12th triennial convention to be held at Los Angeles, Calif. January, 1930. Delegates: Mrs. Anna Wechsler, Mrs. Gertrude Silberman, Mrs. Rose Agranovitch; alternates, Mrs. Charles Gordon, Mrs. Nathan Gilman.

After the business meeting a pleasant social hour was enjoyed by the members. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Minnie Berkman.

Groton Has Measles

The epidemic of measles which has passed through New London and the town of Stonington now seems to have moved over into Groton as 16 cases of measles in the borough and two in the town are reported this week by the state health department. There are also 5 cases in Stonington, one in Danielson.

Other communicable diseases in eastern Connecticut are the following: Whooping cough, Windham, 2; diphtheria, Danielson, 2, Killingly 1, Windham 1; scarlet fever Groton 1, Norwich 2.

Union Services for the Summer

Union services for the summer months are to be held on the Sundays of July and August by the United Congregational church and Park Congregational church. From Sunday June 30 through Sunday, July 28 they will be at the United church. For the Sundays in August and the first Sunday in September the services will be at Park church.

CENTRAL BAPTIST PICNIC HELD AT GARDNER LAKE

Over 100 members of the Sunday school of the Central Baptist church, their parents and friends enjoyed the annual school picnic held Tuesday at Whittle's Grove, Gardner Lake. The picnickers began to gather in front of the church shortly after 9 o'clock following the ringing of the church bells, the signal that the picnic would be held. They were taken to the lake in automobiles furnished by church members.

All sorts of diversions were in store for the children at the lake, including a programme of games, swimming and boating, there being 20 boats at their disposal. A basket luncheon was held and later in the afternoon a delicious clam chowder was served. The home of Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, Jr., was generously thrown open for the use of the picnickers.

The committee in charge of the chowder comprised Mrs. Henrietta Tefft, Mrs. James Parker, Mrs. Walter Phillips, Mrs. Charles Hewitt, Mrs. Herbert Rogers, Miss Nellie Rathbun and Mrs. Harold Johnson. Emory R. Davis, superintendent of the Sunday school, and Arnold Smith, had charge of transportation and those furnishing cars were Shepard B. Palmer, Miss Marion Young, G. Warren Davis, Miss Constance Raymond, Mrs. Harry Kromer, Joseph S. Adams, Frederick Ost, Marvin Warner, C. C. Treat, W. S. Spencer, Dr. E. S. Burdsall, Jacob Gallup, Louis Bell, Harold S. Burt, Charles F. Whitney and Emily Gallup.

LIGHTNING STRUCK CENTRAL VILLAGE HOTEL; SMALL DAMAGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

CENTRAL VILLAGE, June 26—Lightning at 10.30 tonight set fire to the ancient Central hotel here. The bolt evidently ran down into the basement to where there is an oil-burning heater and within a few moments smoke was pouring out of all sides of the building. The structure of wooden construction and three stories in height is one of the oldest in eastern Connecticut.

Fearing destruction of the building, which has an interesting history, calls for help were sent to various surrounding communities, including Danielson, from which point a big pumper and a crew of men were sent down. The fire did no serious damage to the building though it ran around through the partitions for a time and necessitated firemen cutting through the roof and walls here and there for the insertion of streams of water. The amount of damage could not be ascertained tonight.

Lines of hose stretched across the state highway tied up traffic for more than an hour.

A small musical instrument with pipes, played in ancient China, was not unlike a saxophone in appearance.

DAWES STRIKING FIGURE AT BRITISH SOCIAL FUNCTION

At Third Royal Court Held at Buckingham Palace, the American Ambassador, in Ordinary American Evening Dress, Was the Cynosure For Many Eyes—Eight American Young Women Were Presented by Ambassador and Mrs. Dawes—It Took Two Hours For the 400 Young Women to File Past the Queen.

LONDON, June 26—(AP)—The simple dignity of the ordinary American evening dress worn by United States Ambassador Charles G. Dawes tonight made him a striking figure at the third royal court of this brilliant social season held at Buckingham palace.

The dress he chose instead of the customary silk knee breeches prescribed by court custom and adopted by his two immediate predecessors was accentuated by the brilliant uniforms and glittering medals of other diplomats representing nearly every country in the world.

As he stood in the diplomatic circle with Mrs. Dawes after they had paid their respects to her majesty, Queen Mary, the tall commanding figure of the general was the cynosure of many eyes.

Eight American young women were presented by Ambassador and Mrs. Dawes. They were the Misses Frances M. Barclay of New York, Rosemary Barr of Chicago, Dorothy Chase of Waterbury, Conn., Natalie Coe of New York, Pauline Fenno of Boston, Lillian Sanger of New York and Mrs. Edward P. Hutton and Mrs. Aymar Johnson, both of New York.

Her majesty stood in a beautiful gown of green and gold in the midst of the great ballroom in front of a single golden throne. The king still is recuperating from his recent illness at Windsor Castle. The queen wore a diamond crown and the famous diamonds known as "Lesser Stars of Africa" and also the Order of the Garter.

As at the first court this year, the prince of Wales walked at his mother's side in the procession from the drawing room to the ball room and then took his place in the royal circle. While the debutantes were ushered forward one by one to curtsey to her majesty, the prince stood chatting with Princess Ingrid of Sweden and others of the royal family. He wore the scarlet uniform of a colonel of the Welsh guards while the princess was charming in a dress of soft pastel shade.

Others in the royal circle were the veteran duke of Connaught, a tall soldierly figure in the scarlet of a colonel of the Grenadier guards, Prince George in naval uniform, the duchess of York in a gown of white georgette trimmed with silver and diamants, and Lady Patricia Ramsay.

The gowns of the American debutantes, several of which were specially designed in Paris, attracted much attention. All wore the regulation headdress with three feathers.

It took two hours for the 400 young women to file past the queen.

TO BE LARGEST AVIATION ORGANIZATION IN WORLD

NEW YORK, June 26—(AP)—Merger of Wright Aeronautical corporation and Curtiss Aeroplane & Motor company and ten affiliated companies into the largest aviation organization in the world was announced tonight.

The merger which is to be effected through the formation of a holding company—Curtiss Wright corporation—brings together the businesses founded by America's air pioneers—the Wright brothers and Glenn Curtiss.

In addition to Wright and Curtiss corporations the following companies will be taken over through an exchange of stock: Keystone Aircraft corporation of Bristol, Penn., Curtiss-Robertson Airplane Manufacturing company of St. Louis, Curtiss Airports Corp., Curtiss Flying Service, Inc., Curtiss Aeroplane Export Corp., Curtiss Capronl Corp., New York Air Terminals, Inc., and New York & Suburban Air Lines.

An exchange of stock offer will be made to share holders of Travel-Air Manufacturing company of Wichita, Kansas, and Moth Aircraft Corp. of South Lowell, Mass.

Curtiss-Wright Corp., will have assets of $70,000,000 but at current market values it will rank as a several hundred million dollar concern. It will be approximately 20 times as large as the newly formed Detroit Aircraft Corp., and in assets will be nearly three times as large as United Aircraft and Transport Corp., which controls the Boeing group of companies and the Pratt & Whitney Motor.

The corporation will have an authorized capitalization of 12,000,000 no par shares, of which 2,000,000 will be Class "A" stock entitled to preferential payment of $3 a share annually and which will be convertible share for share into common stock and callable by the company at $40 per share. The remaining shares will be common stock. Both classes will be entitled to vote.

LITTLE HOPE FOR THE FOUR SPANISH AVIATORS

MADRID, June 26—(AP)—Premier Primo De Rivera believes that one more day will determine so far as man can the fate of Major Ramon Franco and his three companions who left Cartagena, Spain, last Friday for New York and never reached the Azores.

"Tomorrow's searching should be considered nearly conclusive one way or the other," he declared at a cabinet meeting, "ending the enormous anxiety and uncertainty of all Spain from official circles down."

What little hope remained, he thought, lay in the fact that the smaller naval units and the British airplane carrier Eagle were due to search tomorrow the area considered most likely to have been the grave of haven of the Spanish airplane.

Another flurry of hope came tonight when the premier received what purported to be a report from the Britian admiralty that one of its planes had sighted wreckage. No details were given and a check-up with the admiralty revealed that it had not sent such a message and knew of no foundation for such.

FIRE CHIEFS SIGHT SEEING IN NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, June 26—(AP)—The New England Fire Chiefs' association, numbering about 400, spent today looking over the city and watching exhibitions of fire fighting apparatus and demonstrations at Waterside park. A fire test in the afternoon consisted of a large pit filled with combustible oil and gasoline which was ignited and extinguished by a new type of foam used in fighting oil fires.

A drill by rookie firemen at the drill tower on Dixwell avenue, completed the day for the visiting fire fighting leaders.

A banquet tonight at Savin Rock, at which over 300 were in attendance, was addressed by Mayor Thomas A. Tuttle of New Haven, and Chief Oliver T. Stanborn, president of the association, of Portland, Me.

CREDIT MEN IN ANNUAL SESSION IN MINNEAPOLIS

MINNEAPOLIS, June 26—(AP)—Adoption of a resolution tendering its fullest cooperation to President Hoover's recently organized law enforcement commission was the outstanding event today of the National Association for Credit Men in the 34th annual convention here in Minneapolis.

WIFE OF TRENOR RICE TO RENEW DIVORCE SUIT

WILLIMANTIC, June 26.—(AP)—Edna Shorter Rice, wife of Trenor Rice, who was indicted last February for the murder of County Detective William E. Jackson, here, and whose case was nolled by the state at the May term of the superior court, will bring action for divorce, it was made known today, at this session of the court. The action was filed a year ago, by Mrs. Rice, but after Rice's indictment and subsequent confinement at the Brooklyn jail, she declared she would drop the suit. This case, however, will be brought by Mrs. Rice, charging desertion.

Samuel B. Harvey, one of Rice's defense counsel, will act as attorney for Mrs. Rice. Mrs. Rice has been living with her mother in Canterbury for over a year and her husband in Willimantic, at his Brown avenue home. After his release from the county jail, following the nolle of his case by the state, he returned to the Brown avenue house, where he has been engaged in raising poultry and vegetables.

At the time of Rice's arrest charging him with the slaying of Detective Jackson, in the kitchen of his home in this city on the evening of January 29, and his indictment in February for the crime, Mrs. Rice steadfastly remained by her husband. She often said she would drop the divorce proceedings she had instituted six months before.

The divorce action will probably be brought before the superior court early next week.

NINA WON 475 MILE YACHT RACE FROM NEW LONDON

BALTIMORE, Md., June 26—(AP)—The Nina, a trim stay sail schooner owned by Paul Hammond and Elihu Root, Jr., was officially designated tonight as the winner of the 475 mile yacht race from New London, Conn., to Gibson Island.

Announcement of other prizes has delayed pending arrival of the other starters. Of 41 boats in the race only thirteen were anchored off the Gibson Island Yacht club tonight.

The Nina was declared the winner despite the fact that Sachem, owned by Rowe B. Metcalfe of New York, finished nearly ten hours ahead of her. The decision was based on a handicap system.

All three craft entered in Class D finished tonight. The last to moor was the Kestrel, owned by Dudley F. Wolfe, which docked at 6 o'clock.

All the craft which have not yet reached here are expected tomorrow.

AMPHIBIAN PLANE MIAMI MAID FORCED DOWN

CAPE CHARLES, June 26—(AP)—The Miami Maid, of Miami, amphibian plane, which left Miami, Fla., this morning for an attempted non-stop flight to New York, was anchored at the mouth of Kings Creek about a mile from the town of Cape Charles tonight after being forced down this afternoon on Hog Island, on the Atlantic side of the eastern shore of Virginia Peninsula.

Just what the trouble was could not be determined, early reports had indicated that the plane had engine trouble. So far as could be determined, there were two persons aboard the craft, a man and a woman, but their names could not be learned.

The Maid of Miami landed at Hog Island shortly after 3 o'clock. She took to the air at 5:20 o'clock and was reported to have headed for New York. However, as the craft circled over Cape Charles several times about six o'clock before landing, it was assumed she merely came into Chesapeake bay to seek a safe landing place for the night.

GAME WARDENS BATTLE WITH CLAMDIGGERS

REVERE, Mass., June 26—(AP)—The flats off Point of Pines in this city were a battleground today where 20 clamdiggers and three game wardens staged a pitched battle. Of the clamdiggers, two were outstanding inasmuch as one was arrested and the other left the scene of battle wearing a pair of bracelets, the gift of one of the wardens. Several weeks ago the waters of the section showed some pollution and a ban on clamdigging was applied by the health authorities. To the diggers this meant only that in addition to watching out for clams they had to watch for officers. This was apparently easy as the flats provided an excellent view of the mainland.

The wardens today in some unexplained manner reached the scene of operations. Their arrival was resented by the 20 diggers and the battle was on. Among the other unexplained happenings of the day was whether the diggers disarmed the arms of the law. Witnesses said they did, that rifles carried by the wardens were taken from them. John Gallo of this city was the only representative of the diggers to make the trip to the Saugus police station with the wardens when they returned. The others, including the man with the manacles did not wait to escort the wardens over the muddy flats to shore.

Clam digging has long been one of the minor industries in this section. The digging is done mostly by those of foreign extraction who market their produts wherever they get the opportunity. Most of the clams, when the ban is not on go to the roadside stands that sell fried clams to those visiting the beaches hereabouts. Bans have frequently been placed on the digging and this led the diggers to take precautions against arrest. Those, who defied the law with great frequency took boats on their excursions to the flats and when the officers chased them they would swim to the boats and paddle away to safety.

CONTROVERSY OVER THE TARIFF RATE ON SUGAR

WASHINGTON, June 26—(AP)—The keen controversy over the tariff rate on sugar which has agitated producers and consumers for many weeks, was taken before a senate finance sub-committee today, with a group of witnesses demanding upward revision of the duties.

Although four sub-committees listened to testimony on various sections of the tariff bill passed by the house, the sub-committee considering the sugar question occupied the focal point of interest. The result of the day's activities found on the committee's desks a sheaf of requests for increased duties on sugar, wool, hides, iron and steel and a host of miscellaneous commodities.

At the hearing on the sugar tariff, the witnesses were given a severe cross examination and the senators showed clearly that they regarded this levy as one demanding more attention perhaps than any other in the bill. Heading the group of witnesses was William M. Jardine, former secretary of agriculture under Calvin Coolidge.

DROPPED FLORAL TRIBUTE ON GRAVE OF HIS FRIEND

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., June 26—(AP)—Roger Q. Williams stopped long enough in his preparations for a flight to Rome this afternoon to drop a floral tribute from an airplane near the grave of Erwin B. Steiner, of Birmingham, Ala., a friend of his, who was buried today at Mt. Hope cemetery in Westchester county.

Williams, who stopped off here on his way to Old Orchard beach, Me., with Lewis Yancey on a new attempt to fly to Rome, took a plane aloft with Charles Levine Yancey and Alexander Blumenthal as passengers to fly over Steiner's grave and drop flowers.

Steiner, who came here from Birmingham last year to join Levine in an airplane manufacturing company, died yesterday.

MONOPLANE PATHFINDER LANDED AT PORTLAND, ME.

PORTLAND, Me., June 26—(AP)—The monoplane, Pathfinder, in which Roger Q. Williams and Lewis A. Yancey hope to fly to Rome, landed at the airport here tonight after a flight from Roosevelt field, N. Y. Rough condition of the beach at Old Orchard, starting point of the proposed hop, prevented a landing there.

Williams and Yancey said they contemplated no trans-Atlantic hop for several days.

On the flight from New York, they found that two instruments were out of adjustment. Besides adjusting or replacing these instruments, a number of test flights must be made before the actual takeoff, Williams said. The flyers were accompanied by John McCormick, mechanic.

LAUDABLE SENTIMENTS BY CANADIAN KIWANIANS

MILWAUKEE, June 26—(AP)—A program of international good will with a recommendation that Canadian Kiwanians associate themselves with the League of Nations society was outlined in a report on public affairs for Canada submitted today at the international Kiwanis convention.

"We believe that we should protest more vigorously against the publication of speculative articles about the 'next war' and the possibilities as to the nations, now on the most friendly terms, who may be the antagonists," said the report, drawn up by Harold M. Dixon, of Victoria, B. C., chairman of the committee for Canada.

Burned To Death In His Blazing Plane

Francis Phillips Was Held by His Safety Belt When Plane Overturned at Roosevelt Field, N. Y.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. J., June 26—(AP)—Held in his blazing plane by his safety belt, Francis Phillips, 21-year-old son of the late John M. Phillips, so-called "Queens sewer pipe king," burned to death in the presence of 200 persons today as his plane overturned in landing and caught fire.

Conscious for several moments as the flames soared around him Phillips, who was a cripple, shouted instructions and then entreaties to mechanics and fliers making vain efforts to quench the flames and reach him.

Phillips' passenger on the death ride, Henry R. Goldsmith, a student flier, was fatally injured and burned. He died in hospital at Mineola.

The plane, a two seater, had just taken off from the field and was about 35 feet in the air when its motor failed. Phillips apparently attempted to turn it to make a landing but the plane nosed to the ground and burst into flames.

Goldsmith was thrown several feet clear of the plane but burning oil had ignited his clothing.

Phillips was married and the father of a baby girl. His mother also survives.

He had been a non-commercial flier for several months and had a good reputation as a pilot among other fliers at the field.

Young Phillips gained considerable publicity the past winter when he attempted to reach safe deposit boxes in Montreal banks to remove securities and papers of his late father before state officials who had investigated the Queens sewer scandals, could have them impounded.

The elder Phillips was under indictment at the time of his death at Atlantic City last year.

Phillips inherited one-third of his father's estate, reputed to be several millions.

The widow and a daughter, received the other interests in the estate.

Phillips was married secretly last June to Helen Carroll Baines, described at the time as a "New York and Philadelphia society woman".

PRESIDENT BASEBALL CLUB KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 26—(AP)—James A. Perry, president of the Indianapolis American association baseball club, was killed this afternoon when an airplane he was piloting crashed at Schoen field. Fort Benjamin Harrison, twelve miles northeast of Indianapolis.

Perry had just taken off from the army post field. When his airplane was about one quarter mile from the field the motor stopped and the plane fell. Perry was dead when officers from Fort Harrison reached the wreckage.

Perry only recently had made his first solo flight. He was president of the Curtiss Flying Service, Inc. He had landed at Schoen field only a short time before the accident having flown from the Mars Hill airport west of Indianapolis where he had been awaiting the arrival of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh.

SCHOONER YACHT BURNED AND SANK IN BUZZARDS BAY

WOODSHOLE, Mass., June 26—(AP)—Atwater Kent's 50-foot schooner yacht, Arletha, burned and sank a half mile off Wing Neck light, in Buzzards bay, near here tonight. Mr. Kent, radio manufacturer, and his captain, were both rescued uninjured by coast guard boat 280, out of Woods Hole station.

The Arletha sank in 15 feet of water in the channel after fire, which apparently started from gasoline in her engine room, had burned a hole in her bottom. She was sighted aflame and the coast guard boat raced to the rescue in time to prevent injury to her occupants.

Mr. Kent and his skipper were taken to New Bedford for the night. The Arletha's rigging was well above water as she lay heeled over in the shallow channel. Efforts will be made tomorrow to find out how seriously she was damaged by the fire. As she lies now she is an obstruction to sea passage, and must be raised as soon as possible.

FORMER BANDIT MARRIES HIS BOYHOOD SWEETHEART

COFFEEVILLE, Kas., June 26.—(AP)—Old timers in Coffeeville were surprised to read today that Jack Dalton, supposed member of the notorious Dalton outlaw gang, had been married in Albuquerque, N. M., to "Cattle Annie" Burke, his boyhood sweetheart. History records that Emmett Dalton was the only one of the Dalton boys to survive a pitched battle here in 1892, when the gang raided a bank. Grattin and Bob Dalton were slain by possemen.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 26.—(AP)—Jack Dalton, 60, survivor of the notorious Dalton gang of outlaws who made history in the frontier days of Oklahoma, was married here today in an aerial wedding to "Cattle Annie" Burke, his boyhood sweetheart. The reformed outlaw and his bride will live on a ranch in Arizona.

NO RECEPTION FOR STOWAWAY SCHREIBER

OLD ORCHARD, Me., June 26.—(AP)—Arthur Schreiber, Yellow Bird stowaway, returned to Old Orchard tonight in the manner in which he left two weeks ago—by air.

Accompanied by his father, Morris R. Schreiber, Portland furrier, who met him today when the Leviathan docked, he flew in a plane piloted by Zeb Bouck. None of the family was at the beach to greet them.

About 50 persons who were at the beach awaiting arrival from New York of Roger Q. Williams in the monoplane "Pathfinder" saw the Schreibers land.

Young Schreiber and his father immediately left by automobile for their home in Portland, 18 miles away. As far as could be learned, no reception had been planned for the youth in his home city.

REPORT SIGHTING OF AIRPLANE WRECKAGE

LONDON, June 26—(AP)—A Reuters dispatch from Madid tonight stated that the premier had announced that an airplane from the aircraft carrier Eagle had sighted the wreckage of an airplane. No details were given.

Five Persons Held For Marlow Murder Case

Gambler Was Given Ride From Broadway, New York—Found Slain in Gutter in Queen's.

NEW YORK, June 26—(AP)—A trusted friend—one such as guided Arnold Rothstein to his death—summoned Frank Marlow, racketeer gone broke, on his fatal gangland ride from Broadway to a gutter in Queens Monday night, police said today.

This information, said Police Commissioner Grover Whalen, was obtained from four men and a girl who had had dinner with Marlow a short time before he was shot. The five persons were each held in $50,000 bail as material witnesses today and almost simultaneously, a John Doe warrant charging homicide was issued.

It was handed to detectives who immediately disappeared refusing to disclose where they were going although two other detectives earlier in the day had left for Boston, saying the "answer to the Marlow murder mystery is there."

"Marlow got a telephone call about half an hour before the party left the restaurant," said Whalen telling of the dinner. "He returned to the table and told the others he had made an appointment with friends, but would rejoin them in a couple of hours. Obviously the call came from a close friend—a person Marlow was sure he had no reason to fear."

It was such a voice that called Arnld Rothstein, gambler, from another Broadway restaurant to the Park Central hotel where he was shot last November. Police said the killings were unconnected although similar in many details.

The dinner guests, who had been at the Aqueduct race track with Marlow Monday afternoon, were held in five city prisons in default of bail. They are: Johnny Wilson, former middleweight boxing champion; Edward (Boston Louie) Lewis; Al Siegel, a dancer; Ignatius Coppa, proprietor of the restaurant where the dinner was served, and Mary Selden, dancer and so-called sweetheart of Lewis.

It was the young dancer who was the last of the party to say goodbye to Marlow. As he left her, she told police, he met two men at a Broadway corner from which Marlow began his 45 minute ride that ended when he was dumped, fatally wounded, into a gutter across from a cemetery in Flushing. Police are looking for the two men mentioned by the girl.

Police would not say whether they had positive theories from their investigation, but the case developed several lines of inquiry on which a half hundred detectives were engaged. One concerned the loss of $5,700 by Lewis on a horse which Marlow had identified as a sure winner at Aqueduct Monday; another dealt with the belief that Marlow had become entangled in an alcohol bootlegging feud in Boston, where police are seeking two gangsters in connection with the killing. Still an effort to check a story that Marlow, once a Broadway night club owner, gambler and fight promoter, had been slow to pay on a $40,000 debt to the gang of the late Frankie Yale, Bylknofo7d-wlpfuc.wu U ETAOIN—Brooklyn beer runner, whose career was ended several months ago by shotgun fire from a speeding automobile.

Police said there is much evidence that Marlow was down at the heel financially, and when he sold out his share in the Rendezvous night club for $10,000 he was forced to part with it immediately to collectors for the Yale gang. At that time, police said, these collectors are supposed to have issued an ultimatum about the balance.

Marlow's domestic affairs also were under scrutiny. He was estranged from his wife, and had made Dolores Farris, showgirl, beneficiary of an insurance policy which was found among his effects. Miss Farris spent some time in Boston, whence Marlow had come recently, with a road company of a musical show, and is now in London. Police also said they were investigating an accident in which Marlow's widow recently suffered a fractured shoulder.

WORKING ON THE MARLOW MURDER CASE IN BOSTON

BOSTON, June 26—(AP)—Boston police today were active in the search for two men wanted by New York authorities for questioning in connection with the murder of Frank Marlow, fight manager and alleged "racketeer," Monday night in New York.

One of the men sought was acquitted of a murder charge in connection with a local liquor war several months ago, the police said. Sergeant William J. Harrow of police headquarters said that this man was seen leaving a downtown restaurant Saturday or Sunday night in company with Johnny Wilson, Wilson is the former middleweight champion who is being held in New York as a witness in the shooting.

It was reported that when this man was on trial here Marlow came to Boston with $65,000 to be used in defraying the expenses of the defence.

Gangland here had several reasons as to why Marlow was "taken for a ride." One report was that Marlow had welched on race track bets and another that he had aroused enmity through his efforts to flood the great Boston district with Philadelphia beer. The police made no statements along these lines.

The police tonight were devoting much of their attention to checking up the report of Marlow's presence in this city over the week end. It was said that this would have a definite affect on the alibis of those held in New York.

The New York detectives working here were checking this report. It was said that they had been informed that a man answering Marlow's description won $3,000 at faro in a Marieville, R. I., gambling house Saturday night.

It was reported here that the Federal hill district of Providence, R. I., was being searched for information.

The police here also learned that a slush fund was being raised here to defend Wilson and his associates in New York.

DIBATTISTA GUILTY OF FIRST DEGREE MURDER

HARTFORD, June 26.—(AP)—Frank DiBattista, who shot and killed Samuel Kamaroff, a grocer, in his store on the night of April 1, while trying to hold him up and rob the cash register, was found guilty of murder in the first degree this afternoon.

Three superior court judges sat in judgment as jury trial had been waived under the law.

A date for hanging was not set.

CHARGES DEMOCRATS WITH ABUSE OF POLITICAL POWER

Henry W. Anderson, in Keynote Address to the Virginia Republican Convention, Denounced the Democratic Party For Alleged Waste and Inefficiency in State and County Government—Declared That the Election Machinery of the State Encouraged Fraud.

RICHMOND, Va., June 26—(AP)—Excoriating the democratic party for what he termed flagrant abuses of political power and infringements upon the rights and liberties of the people, Henry W. Anderson, of Richmond, in his keynote address to the Virginia republican convention tonight called for the removal from power of those guilty of its abuses as the only remedy.

The speaker denounced the democratic party for alleged waste and inefficiency in state and county government and for failure to carry out campaign promises before turning his verbal fire on the taxation policy, the primary and election laws, the administration of law and the "short ballot" amendment which gives the governor the right to appoint three state officers formerly elected by popular vote.

The major attack was centered on the election machinery of the state, which Mr. Anderson said encouraged fraud. He charged that there were about 50,000 persons connected with the state and local governments who with their families could easily select a governor under the present system. He said the question of political and social relations between the races had been definitely and finally determined and that the election laws could be liberalized and simplified without disturbing this condition.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 26—(AP)—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived at the Mars Hill airport here at 6:20 o'clock this evening, after a flight from Columbus, Ohio. They will spend the night here.

Colonel Lindbergh is making an inspection of the airports along the airmail line of the Trans-Continental Air Transport company. He probably will fly to St. Louis tomorrow.

Mrs. Lindbergh was greeted at the airport by Mary Ann Ketcham, of this city, a classmate at Smith college.

Colonel Lindbergh had no comment to make on the death here this afternoon in an airplane accident of James A. Perry, president of the Curtis Flying Service of Indiana, Inc. Perry had been waiting to welcome the colonel this afternoon and had made a flight to another field. He was killed when his plane went into a nose dive as he took off for the return flight to the airport at which Lindbergh landed.

RADIO CORPORATION TO ENTER MOVIE INDUSTRY

CHICAGO, June 26—(AP)—The Chicago Daily Journal today quoted Leon Rubenstein, a representative of the Radio Corporation of America, as declaring that negotiations for an affiliation of Fox and Zukor film interests with the Rako corporation had been broken off and that radio would enter the movie industry competitively.

Rubinstein, the Journal said, asserted the radio corporation's program in the movie field would be to "dynamite all competition."

"We are going ahead competitively," he was quoted. "We will buy and build theaters. What competition we can not swallow into our organization we will dynamite out of the field.

Mr. Fox and Mr. Zukor prefer to remain in the picture business. That is the reason the deal is off."

JOHN N. KING SLATED FOR AN APPOINTMENT

HARTFORD, June 26—(AP)—John N. King, son of former Attorney General William A. King, of Willimantic, is slated for appointment as a special assistant attorney general to work with the state banking department in carrying out the provisions of the fraud law of 1929, it was learned at the state capitol today. Bank Commissioner Lester F. Shippee today pointed out that the new fraud act became effective July 1, and that investigations under it would be made with the intention of court action.

UP FOR REFUELING ENDURANCE FLIGHT

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., June 26—(AP)—Martin Jensen took off at 7:32:02 p. m. (Eastern daylight time) today in a new attempt to set a refuelling endurance flight record in the monoplane "Three Musketeers."

With Jensen were his wife, Mrs. Margaret Jensen, and William Ulbrich, who accompanied Jensen and H. B. Clarke in two previous attempts to set a new refuelling record in the "Three Musketeers."

Clarke will operate the refuelling device in a Fokker plane piloted by Emil Burgin. In the previous attempts a catapult device was used but proved unsatisfactory.

IN THE AIR 88 HOURS ON ENDURANCE FLIGHT

MINNEAPOLIS, June 26—(AP)—The Miss Minneapolis, endurance plane seeking to better the record of 172 hours, 32 minutes established at Fort Worth, Texas recently, droned away its 88th hour in the air at 9 p. m., today, as it continued its triangular course between Minneapolis, Northfield and Hastings. At 7:00 o'clock the ship was refueled at Northfield, as it was on its 82nd lap of the 80 mile course.

The pilots Thorwald Johnson and Owen Hourgland were hopeful that a new world's record for sustained time in the air would be established before the ship descends.

THREATENS TO TELL STORY OF NEWSPAPERS DEAL

AUGUSTA, Ga., June 26—(AP)—William Lawrence, defendant in an injunction suit brought by his partner, Harold Hall, for operating control of the Augusta Chronicle, and three South Carolina papers they own, said today he did not wish to issue any statement except that "if the injunction proceedings are not withdrawn either by Mr. Hall or the International Paper company, that the whole story of the deal will be included in my answer."

KELLOGG MAY SEE HIS ANTI-WAR TREATY IN FORCE

WASHINGTON, June 26—(AP)—Frank B. Kellogg, former secretary of state, personally may witness the formal ceremony placing into full force the anti-war treaty which bears his name and for completion of which he strove so diligently before leaving office.

Deposit by Japan of its formal ratification of the treaty is now the only step necessary to bring the pact into operation. Today's approval by the Japanese privy council of the treaty is expected to be followed by its immediate sanction by Emperor Hirohito.

Although no arrangements have been made for the ceremony of Japan's deposit which will bring the peace instrument into force, it was widely suggested in governmental circles here today that Mr. Kellogg probably would be invited to come to Washington to see the completion of the work which he started. It is believed the arrangements will be made by Secretary Stimson and the Japanese Ambassador Debuchi.

Mr. Stimson expressed gratification today over the action of the Japanese privy council. He added that he believed Mr. Kellogg would be very pleased by the pact's approval by Japan.

No proclamation by President Hoover is necessary to make the treaty effective, Secretaary Stimson said, and the ceremony of Japan's deposit would bring the past into full force.

DOUBTS IF DUTY ON HIDES WOULD BENEFIT AGRICULTURE

WASHINGTON, June 26—(AP)—Thomas O'Hare, of Boston, appearing today before a senate subcommittee for the boot and shoe workers union, said he doubted whether a duty on hides would benefit agriculture.

"A duty," he declared, "will bring an added cost for shoes and the farmer uses one-third of the shoes produced."

He urged that if a duty on hides were approved, a compensation duty of 35 per cent ad valorem ought to be imposed on shoes which under the house bill would be assessed 20 per cent.

Importations of boots and shoes, he said, were gradually increasing and were "mocking" the domestic industry.

He added that unemployment in the industry at present amounted to from 20 to 25 per cent and that if no duty were levied, production of shoes in New England would gradually decline.

GEN. FREYDENBERG TO RELINQUISH HIS COMMAND

TAZA, Morocco, June 26—(AP)—General Freydenberg, a brilliant French soldier who quit a monastery for the barracks in his fortieth year, in an order of the day to the soldiers and officers under his command in the Meknes district, today announced that he was relinquishing his command and returning to France.

The dashing red-headed general, who won all his stripes from corporal to brigadier-general on the battlefield, was in charge of the territory where a French detachment was ambushed June 10 and where the poet of Ait Yakoub was besieged by dissident tribesmen from the Atlas mountains.

Army circles thought that he had been recalled because of the interpellations facing the government on its Moroccan policy in the chamber of deputies.

WILLIMANTIC

Office 824 Main Street

[illegible] NUMBER EXPECTED AT SPECIAL CITY MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 26—With an [illegible]-growing public interest in taxation and the manner in which city funds are expended, there is expected to be a large turnout at the special city meeting called by Mayor Charles A. Gates for Friday night. The specific purpose of this meeting is to lay a tax rate on the city grand list of 1928, which totals $15,914,181. The work of the city board of relief which is composed of Mayor Charles A. Gates, Alderman William E. Webber, chairman of the board, and City Clerk Arthur L. Clark has been completed, this board having met with but two complaints.

The tax rate last year was 13 mills and this was an increase of one and one-half mills over the previous year. The additional funds were used for the purchase of Windham field for a soldiers' memorial park and other necessary appropriations.

Citizens who are familiar with the expenses that must be met by the city are almost unanimous in the belief that the 13-mill tax will again have to be fixed. As the matter stands a 13-mill tax will be $52,407.11 short of the budget which calls for $259,290.68, where as the tax will yield but $206,883.57. The city fathers hope to make up the difference by means of sewer assessments and payments on sidewalk construction, but there is a strong possibility that special appropriations will have to be secured from time to time during the year.

LIONS CLUB ORGANIZED WITH J. H. WILSON, PRESIDENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 26—A local club of the International Association of Lions Clubs was organized here Tuesday night and the following officers elected: President, John H. Wilcox, teller of the Willimantic Trust company; first vice president, Dr. E. E. Goron; second vice president, Harry Kaufman; third vice president, Carl E. Rice; fourth vice president, M. Leslie Nichols; secretary, Alan Eaton; treasurer, Frederick J. Williams; lion tamer, William E. Bishins; tail twister, George H. Millard, Jr.; chaplain, Rev. David Winslow Lovett; publicity man, Roy W. Downer.

An address on the aims of the club and the objectives of Lionism was delivered by Commissioner M. King Gillette of New York city, who was instrumental in the organization of the club. Also present were President Charles Cassidy, Past President Dr. Copland K. Markoff and Max Hanover of the Norwich club. The initial membership numbered 15 and this is expected to be increased substantially within the next few months.

A short calendar session of the Windham county superior court will be held in this city Friday morning at 10 o'clock with 19 cases and four uncontested divorce actions on the list for the session. Judge L. P. Waldo Garvin of Hartford will preside. The cases of local interest on the list are: Chauncey E. Macfarlane vs. John Meier; Samuel Chesebro and P. J. Twomey vs. Hutchings Organ company; Anna Rice vs. Trenor A. Rice, a hearing on default for failure to plead and the city of Willimantic vs. U. S. Fidelity and Guaranty company. One of the uncontested divorce actions is that of Margaret Bedford St. Peter vs. Edmund F. St. Peter.

Two cases scheduled to follow the short calendar are: Fred Gee vs. Noel E. Mallans and Jean B. Paulhus vs. Emma Halm. Wendell Hardy and Jerry Nelson, youthful bandits who held up and robbed Donald Cookburn of Melrose, Mass., in Putnam about two weeks ago and were captured after a chase that led to Danbury, will probably be arraigned on bench warrants Friday. The boys were bound over to the criminal session and are now in the county jail at Brooklyn awaiting trial.

Officers of the Exchange club elected for the year are: President, Attorney E. Frank Bugbee; first vice president, George R. Gurley; second vice president, Harry L. Garrigus; third vice president, John F. Carr; secretary, Arthur E. Morrill; treasurer, Edgar E. Bass; board of control members, Ashton C. Persons, Russell W. Potter, George M. Graves and Carl R. Alford.

Gertrude Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Phillips of Windham and D. Lloyd Hobron, son of Mrs. John D. Hobron of Niantic, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents at 2.30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Rev. Edward F. Smiley, pastor of the Windham Center Congregational church officiated, the single ring service being used. Mrs. C. F. Putnam of Jamaica, L. I., sister of the bride, played the wedding march from Lohengrin.

The flower girl was dressed in pink crepe and carried a basket of garden flowers. Among the guests were friends from Floral Park and Jamaica, L. I., Niantic, New London, Cromwell, Hartford, Manchester, this city and Windham. The groom is a graduate of Bulkeley high school and Brown university, class of 1925 and the bride of Windham high school.

After their honeymoon they will reside in Hartford where the groom is employed.

OBITUARY.

George Gilbert.

George Gilbert died in Detroit, Mich., at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. He was born in Willimantic, May 9, 1886, a son of Pierre and Phamie Bourque Gilbert. He leaves two brothers, Fred of Providence, R. I., and Nelson Gilbert of this city and two sisters, Mrs. Annie Berard of this city and Mrs. Delia Chartier of Hartford, also several nephews and nieces.

Ralph B. Gates was elected chancellor commander at the annual meeting of Natchaug lodge, No. 22, Knights of Pythias held in Odd Fellows' hall on Monday night. Other officers elected were: Vice chancellor, Ernest E. Higgins; prelate, Herman Meyerhardt; master-at-arms, Maurice King; master-of-work, Charles A. Gates; inner guard, Owen D. Leach; outer guard, Charles H. Beebe; representative to grand lodge, George Arnold; alternate, Harold James. Chancellor Commander Gates will name the holders of appointive offices at a future meeting.

The rooms of the Republican club in the Franklin block will be used as temporary quarters for the following organizations while alterations are being made to the Savings Institute building: Obwebetuck lodge, No. 16, Windham encampment No. 16, Canton Windham No. 2 and Violet Rebekah lodge No. 57, I. O. O. F., and Natchaug lodge No. 22, Knights of Pythias and Puritan temple No. 2, Pythian Sisters. These organizations will return to their former quarters when the alterations work is completed.

A light truck owned by the Southern New England Telephone company and driven by Ernest C. Sears of 136 Mansfield avenue and a truck driven by Harry Segal of Village Hill, collided with slight damage on Main street near Soldiers' Memorial park shortly before 8 o'clock this morning. The local man claimed that Segal gave no signal of his intention to make a left turn, Officer Joseph Lariviere investigated the accident.

The church school will present a pageant entitled Blue Boys and Girls at the First Congregational church in South Coventry next Sunday. The costumes to be worn in this Oriental presentation were brought direct from the Orient by the pastor, Rev. Charles G. Johnson, Jr. D., who has just returned from a cruise. Another unique feature of the occasion will be the use of water from the River Jordan at the baptismal service.

The matinee and evening performances of Sells-Floto circus which played here today drew crowds from the city and the many neighboring towns. The appearance of Tom Mix, cowboy herd of the movies and his famous horse Tony was a tremendous drawing card, especially with the children.

There were 12 tables in play at the regular whist held in the American Legion rooms Tuesday evening. The men's prizes were donated by Mrs. Isabel F. Taylor, Mrs. Emma Martin and Mrs. Stella Taylor and were won by Francis Loveland, Dr. W. E. S. Keating and Leo Prue. The women's prizes, donated by Mrs. Bernadette Gaudreau, Mrs. William Taylor and Mrs. Emma Doyle were won by Mrs. Belanger, Mrs. Moran and Mrs. M. Negrelle. The door prize, donated by Mrs. Olive Nield, went to Mrs. Robarge.

Mr. and Mrs. John Phillips and son Walter, Stowell Burnham and Arthur Keopke of North Windham left today on an automobile trip to Niagara Falls, Utica, N. Y., and other places of interest.

Miss Florence Horwitz went to New York today to spend several weeks with relatives.

COLCHESTER

CLASS DAY EXERCISES HELD AT GRANGE HALL

(Special to The Bulletin)

COLCHESTER, June 26.— A fair-sized crowd attended the annual class day exercises of the graduating class of Bacon academy held in Grange hall Wednesday afternoon. The program follows: Address of welcome, by class president, Edward Seger; roll call, Joseph Micholajick; class history, Estelle Kendzior; class statistics, Sylvia Stock; class prophecy, Stephen Krop, Hyman Levine; class will, Jeanette Stern and Eliza Slopak; presentation of gifts, Harry Deitch and Irving Levine; class oration, by Sydney Standish. At this point, the graduating class adjourned to the Bacon academy where the historical ivy was planted at the north side of the building. Miss Eva Strick delivered the ivy ode following which Edward Seger, president of the class of 1929, went through the ceremony of handing the class trowel to Samuel Jaffe, president of the class of 1930. The program closed with the singing of "Baconia" by the entire student body of the school.

About 200 were in attendance at the Bacon academy senior promenade held at Maple Shade casino in Salem, Tuesday evening. Dancing started at 8:30 and continued until shortly after midnight. A New London orchestra furnished the music. The hall was prettily decorated with the school and class colors.

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the large dairy barn and silo at the former Giles Taylor farm, now owned and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. J. Falkowicz, on the Hartford turnpike about 2 o'clock Wednesday morning. The Colchester fire engine, with a squad of men, responded to a call but the fire had gained such headway when discovered that the building was destroyed. The nearby house was saved. Luckily, there was no live stock or hay in the barn as the Falkowicz family had only recently purchased the farm. Loss was estimated at $4,000, and is understood to be partially covered by insurance.

WEDDING

Smith—Drelich.

Miss Catherine F. Drelich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Drelich, of Colchester, and Leo J. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Smith, of Newark, N. J., were united in marriage at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning at St. Andrew's Catholic church on Windham avenue. The Rev. Father Nalewajk performed the ceremony.

Miss Helen Bass of Linwood avenue, Colchester, was the bridesmaid, and Miss Helen Drelich, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. Stanley Savitsky of North Westchester, [illegible] of the groom, acted as best man. [illegible] usherred [illegible] carried a novelty [illegible] of white [illegible] buds. The maid of honor wore pink georgette with a bouquet of pink roses, while the bridesmaid was attractive in Nile green georgette [illegible] number of friends and relatives were present from Colchester and many surrounding towns.

Following the ceremony, a wedding dinner and reception were held at the home of the bride's parents on the old Middletown turnpike. After a honeymoon trip to Canada, the couple will reside in Newark, N. J., where the groom is employed by a public service company.

There was a large attendance at the rummage sale held in the Congregational chapel Tuesday and Wednesday, the proceeds to go for the benefit of the center grade school hot cocoa fund.

Benjamin K. Singer has returned from several days' trip to New York.

GOSHEN

Dr. Harry C. York, who gives the afternoon address at the 200th anniversary celebration of Goshen Congregational church, Sunday, June 30, is a native of this place, a graduate of Norwich Free Academy and of Yale college, where he won the degree of P. H. D. After graduation he accepted a call to teach in a college in Ceylon, India, where he remained for several years. After returning to the United States Dr. York taught in a college in the south. For the past several years he has been identified with a college in Elmira, N. Y., as professor of religious education, dean of the Elmira School of Religious Education and president of Chemung Co. Council of Religious Education. His name appears in Who's Who in America, Who's Who in American Education and in the Bibliographical Dictionary of American Scholars.

The first of a series of sermons from the life of the Apostle John was given on Sunday morning by the pastor. He also led the Christian Endeavor meeting in the evening, from the subject "Jesus Teaching Self Control." A film of pictures, The Shepherd and His Sheep, was shown at the close of the meeting. John Hinckley read a portion of the 10th chapter of John, at the beginning and the 23rd Psalm was repeated in unison at the close.

Mr. and Mrs. Faulkner and daughters were recent guests of relatives in Norwich Town.

Mrs. Charles Hinckley and sons recently attended the Clark family reunion.

Workmen while spraying fruit trees recently at Maple Hill farm came across a large swarm of bees. A ladder, a bee veil, and a hand smoker were procured and the bees dropped off into a basket and were secured.

The exercises at the 200th anniversary of the Goshen church to be held next Sunday will begin at 10 o'clock, D. S. standard time. The historical address will be at the morning session. The church bell has quite a history. Its silvery tones sounded over the hills and valleys at Lee's surrender in '65. The bell was rung scouard it was broken. It was repaired and since then has peal out the alarm for many a fire, its weekly call to Sunday services, it has rung the requiem for the departed ones, and the joys of liberty have been rung out on the morning of the 4th of each July and wedding bells also. When the church burned in 1898 the bell melted but the many pieces were carefully saved and the present bell was cast from them. It rang out as it never rang before on Armistice day, Nov. 11, 1918, at sunrise. On the new bell is this verse of scripture: "Let him that heareth say Come." On Sunday it will again ring out over the hills and valleys the [illegible] of 200 years. C. L. S.

Burgess Bedtime Story

A Bubble Burst

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

None likes the one who brags too much;
The world has little use for such.
—Old Mother Nature.

It had come to the ears of Chatterer the Red Squirrel, over in the Green Forest, that his big cousin, Happy Jack the Gray Squirrel, was all puffed up with pride and vanity because he had fought and whipped Robber the Rat. It had come to Chatterer's ears that Happy Jack was doing a great deal of boasting.

"I'll run over and see that fellow," thought Chatterer. "I'll see if he will boast to me. If he does, I'll teach him a lesson."

So Chatterer the Red Squirrel went over to the Old Orchard and in no time at all he found Happy Jack the Gray Squirrel. "What's this I hear?" demanded Chatterer. "What's this I hear about you?"

"About me!" exclaimed Happy Jack. "What have you heard about me?"

"That you met Robber the Rat and he chased you up a tree," said Chatterer maliciously. He knew just what effect it would have on Happy Jack.

"Who told you that?" demanded Happy Jack. "Who told you that? I did meet Robber the Rat, but he didn't make me climb any tree. He was the one who ran. I half killed that fellow. He was glad enough to sneak down into his hole and he hasn't been seen since. The idea of anyone saying that Robber could make me run! It would take someone twice as big as Robber to make me run."

"I want to know," drawled Chatterer. "My, how brave you are! It must be fine to be so brave and be admired so by everybody and have such a fine opinion of one's self. My, my, my, it must be wonderful to be so bold and brave!"

And then, without any warning whatever, Chatterer the Red Squirrel suddenly rushed at Happy Jack, gratting those sharp little teeth of his and looking like a little red fury. Happy Jack simply turned tail and ran. It wasn't that he was afraid of Chatterer. He was twice as big as Chatterer. So it wasn't fear that set him to running. It was an annoyance. Happy Jack is clumsy beside quick moving little Chatterer, and he knows it. If Chatterer would fight as Robber the Rat had fought, Happy Jack would welcome a fight. But this Chatterer will not do. Happy Jack knew it and he knew how impossible it would be for him to get hold of Chatterer. So he made the mistake of running away.

Almost at once Chatterer was at his heels. From treetop to treetop, down one trunk, across the ground and up another trunk raced Happy Jack with Chatterer at his heels. All the little people in the Old Orchard saw it. He, who so short a time before had been a hero, was now acting very much like a coward. He who had boasted that he would fight Black Pussy the Cat was running from one hardly half his size. All the feathered folk gathered about and began to jeer. It was just exactly like what happens when a soap bubble bursts. Happy Jack's bubble of vanity had burst. And the worst of it was that he had to keep on running, because that peat of a little cousin of his was right at his heels and would give him no peace.

"What is this I hear?" demanded Chatterer.

All through the Old Orchard they raced and finally over into the Green Forest. There, satisfied with what he had done, Chatterer gave up the chase and went off home about his business. Happy Jack, looking much crestfallen, ashamed and very, very sheepish, stole back to rejoin his family and try to explain why he had run from Chatterer. He soon discovered that such things are difficult to explain.

PLANES IN MANY ROLES DURING TEXAS FLOODS

HOUSTON, Tex.—(AP)— Early summer floods have demonstrated to southern Texas the versatility of airplanes in an emergency.

Transportation of food to isolated towns was not the only service performed by ships of four companies that operate out of Houston. On their return trips the planes brought passengers from flooded districts.

The aviators also learned what sections needed the most relief and when swollen waters were expected to subside. Pictures snapped from the air gave the public an idea of the flood's destructiveness. Newspapers containing these pictures were distributed by plane.

RAILROAD USES PLANE TO STUDY TRAVEL MODES

KANSAS CITY—(AP)—The Missouri Pacific railroad is using an airplane to determine the future relation of air and land travel.

E. H. McReynolds, assistant to L. W. Baldwin, president, has flown about 12,000 miles over the road's territory. He has concluded that the proposed combination of air and rail transportation will not succeed.

"Either a man travels by air or by rail," he said. "He may mix the modes a few times for experiment, but eventually he will make either a rail trip or an air trip. They won't mix, any more than air and highway transportation will mix."

VIRGINIA WILL ENFORCE NEW AIR TRAFFIC RULES

RICHMOND, Va.—(AP)—The state which gave to aviation Com. Richard E. Byrd soon is to put in effect regulations governing flying within her borders.

Suggestions relating to the rules and regulations of air craft, pilots and airports under the act of 1928 are to be heard by the state corporation commission at a public hearing June 28.

The regulations will become effective July 1, subject to any changes that may be made after the hearing. The tentative rules provide for four classes of pilots' licenses—transport pilots, limited commercial pilots, private pilots not designated as students, and private pilots designated as students. Mechanics' licenses will be issued engine mechanics and airplane mechanics.

The new rules also relate to air traffic and plane construction.

Regulations prescribed by the aeronautic branch of the United States department of commerce will govern issuance of licenses.

Catarrh Ruining Nation, Says Physician

"Catarrh is endangering health and ruining the efficiency of our men and women," said a prominent New York physician recently. "Its victims usually let the nasty disease run, little dreaming that, among other insidious results that may happen, is partial or total deafness if catarrh germs penetrate to and destroy the ear drums. You can't kill catarrh germs too quickly!"

Doctors recommend inhaling heated "DEO" vapors of eucalyptus and other antiseptic, soothing, healing oils. These vapors penetrate to innermost recesses of nose, throat and lungs (where sprays or gargles never reach) instantly killing the hidden germs, cooling and soothing the raw, tender, inflamed mucous membrane, and ending all catarrh symptoms quickly.

"DEO (Dennis' Eucalyptus Ointment) is GUARANTEED to end your catarrh—or no cost. Don't hawk, spit, cough, gag, choke any more. Get "DEO" today, at any good dealers.

ALL-STEEL REFRIGERATOR sets new standard of

DURABILITY EFFICIENCY POPULARITY

AN all-steel cabinet that cannot warp. A mechanism that is hermetically sealed, dust-proof and self-oiling. No wonder the General Electric Refrigerator has set new standards! It actually operates more quietly—it uses less current, is provides for maximum food storage.

And—important to busy housewives, it operates automatically, regulating itself so that the temperature is always within the safety zone—several degrees below 50.

These new all-steel models are remarkably low in price, beginning at $215 at the factory. They are as durable as a safe and cannot warp. They keep cold from seeping out and heat from creeping in.

Visit our display rooms and see the new all-steel models and learn how easily they may be bought with conveniently spaced time payments.

There are now over 250,000 users of General Electric Refrigerators. Not one of them has ever spent a single dollar for repairs or service. That was our guarantee to them.

DANIELSON

FORMER LOCAL COUPLE OBSERVE 60TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 26.—Mr. and Mrs. Simon Farley, residents here and in Putnam for years, have just observed their 60th wedding anniversary at their home in Pawtucket. Forty years ago Mr. Farley was engaged in the clothing business here, having a store on Franklin street, at the head of Furnace street. Still later he was engaged in business in Putnam. After all the years, at 83, Mr. Farley is actively engaged in conducting a successful real estate business in Pawtucket.

On his 60th wedding anniversary, Mr. Farley recalled that he started in life as a clerk in a village store at Sorel, P. Q., for two dollars a week. At that time he was 13 years of age, but already had made up his mind to do greater things some day. He remained in Sorel just long enough to learn business methods and to save money enough to bring him to the United States, his mind being made up on finding work and settling in the middle west. Leaving his native village of Berthierville he went to Minneapolis and St. Paul, thence to Memphis and after a time to New Orleans. He found delight in the romance of the south, but essentially an easterner, he came back and took a position as clerk in a store here in Danielson. Here he met Miss Matilde Reeves and they were married June 20, 1869. After remaining here for 15 years, Mr. Farley went to Putnam. He conducted a store in that city for a long time, and was the first to serve as tax collector after Putnam became a city. Later he served as assessor and registrar of voters in Putnam.

Mr. and Mrs. Farley have had five children, two of whom are living—Miss Louise Farley, who is a well known music teacher and who lives with her parents, and Dr. A. P. Farley, a physician practicing in Providence.

Despite his years Mr. Farley is as active as a man of 50, keen mentally and with perfect eyesight. He is sole owner of a real estate business in Pawtucket and at his office every business day.

Mr. Farley traces his descent from French and Scotch-Irish ancestry. On his mother's side he is of the Durand family, of whom his great-grandfather was first to come to America from France. The Farleys on the father's side, came originally from the north of Ireland and Scotland. The first of these to set foot on the soil of Canada was James Anthony Farley, who came over in 1777, settling on the Isle du Pads, which has been held by his descendants from then to this day.

Mr. and Mrs. Farley are well remembered both here and in Putnam by many of the older residents.

George Custy, a steam fitter employed in a local mill and whose home is in Fall River, was before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court this morning and was fined $5 for having been intoxicated, $10 for breach of the peace and $15 for resisting an officer. Custy, who is exceptionally strong got into difficulty late last night when he was in a lunch cart here. He resisted the efforts of Night Officer Laird Winchell to arrest him and still resisted when State Officer Theodore Strand happened along and took a hand in the process of subduing him and bringing him to the station. A civilian also lent his aid to the officers in getting Custy into a car and he was taken, handcuffed, to the police station. Custy's experience, with the costs, amounted to $48.92.

Perfect weather conditions—the traditional June day—favored those who assembled from various parts of the county for the annual convention of the Ashford Baptist Sunday School association at the Union Baptist church in East Killingly today. The morning session was opened at 10:30 by Rev. Chester J. Armstrong of Danielson, he conducting the devotional service. The addresses during the morning period were made by Rev. George F. Camp of Webster and Rev. Harding W. Gaylord of Danielson. The junior choir sang and there were vocal solos by Edward Pinkham. There was a basket lunch at the noon hour the church supplying coffee and lemonade. Rev. Henry E. Hodge of Putnam conducted the devotional service at the opening of the afternoon session. The principal address of the afternoon was by Rev. Walter B. Greene of Woodlawn, R. I., formerly pastor of the East Killingly church. Miss Eleather Sheldon of East Killingly sang.

There were many expressions of satisfaction today that the Central hotel at Central Village escaped destruction when it was set afire by lightning last night. This hotel is one of the oldest in eastern Connecticut, and through the years has housed many notable people and has been the scene of important political and social gatherings. It is closely linked up with a long period of the history of Central Village. It was said today that the hotel will be repaired. Danielson firemen made a fast run to Central Village in answer to the call for aid and were trailed by numbers of cars. The return trip here was made at more moderate speed.

Bar Harbor expresses are again in operation and these night trains are to be watched out for by motorists at numbers of grade crossings in this territory that are unprotected by gates, flagmen or signal bells. This refers particularly to little used grade crossings on roads not having much travel until automobiles came to be so numerous.

Today J. C. Witter sold to Harold E. Cameron of Main street a two-apartment dwelling located on Connecticut Mills avenue near the Mt. Vernon house. This property formerly was owned by Amos Morin, now located in Alabama, and who has arranged to dispose of all of his holdings here.

Alton Eldridge received a cut over one eye and narrowly escaped a much more serious injury when a piece of a stick kicked back from a circular saw he was operating at the plant of the Larkin Reed company. He was given attention by a physician.

Rev. Joseph E. McCarthy, vice president of St. Thomas seminary at Hartford, formerly of Moosup and for the summer in charge of Holy Trinity church at Pomfret, was a visitor here today.

Postmaster and Mrs. E. H. Keach will open their cottage at Kelsey Point, Westport, for the summer season the coming week end. Mrs. Keach is to remain there during the season, Mr. Keach going down for week ends.

Despite protests from the chamber of commerce and notwithstanding public opinion generally here, locomotive whistles on the New Haven road create what Danielson insists is an unnecessary amount of ear-splitting disturbance. It is held here that due warning

PUTNAM

PUTNAM TO VOTE ON WATER SYSTEM APPROPRIATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 26.—There is much interest in the special meeting of the voters to be held Thursday, to determine whether or not the reconstruction of the water system and the erection of a storage tank, as recommended by the board of water commissioners and the common council, will be approved by the people. While a great deal of interest is centered in the matter, the excitement and fervor that existed among the voters over a year ago, when a vote was taken on concrete reservoir vs steel tanks, is absent. It was predicted that an unusually large number of voters would respond to the call to vote on the matter. Whether the result would indicate the voters' approval of floating the $65,000 bond issue, an amount required to finance the reconstruction of the city water system, was shaded with a cloud of doubt on the eve of voting day.

A general alarm from Box 36 at 5:45 a. m. Tuesday was for a fire in the kitchen of a tenement in the Farley block on the corner of Church and Battey streets. The blaze was caused when a gasoline stove exploded while being lighted. Fire spread quickly to a wall in the rear of the heater and did considerable damage to paint and woodwork. Apparatus from the Smith street and central fire stations responded to the alarm, extinguishing the blaze with chemicals and water.

Acting under the instructions of their departing coach, Lauriston F. Noyes, who hopes to see them re-establish their claims to the football championship of eastern Connecticut next fall, the Putnam high school gridiron eleven, all veterans, have taken vacation employment where excavation is being made in Putnam building work.

Fire Chief Ralph E. Thurston of the local fire department is in New Haven this week where he is attending the annual convention of the New England Fire Chiefs' association of which he is a member.

Railroad officials of this city left for Central Village late last evening to maintain a vigilance over railroad property there which was in danger of catching fire, from the Central hotel in the village which ignited and burned when a bolt of lightning struck it. No damage to surrounding buildings was caused.

Prosperity in Putnam is evidenced by the declaration of a five per cent dividend on all savings accounts by the Cargill Trust company yesterday at a meeting of the directors of the bank. Payment of the new rate of dividend will begin on all accounts of June 1, according to an announcement this afternoon from J. Dyer Potter, treasurer of the institution.

The Cargill Trust company is the city's newest banking institution having been organized but five years. During the past half decade it has forged ahead and has become one of the strongest. At a meeting of the directors held this week the subject of "Keeping Putnam money in Putnam" was brought out and widely discussed and a feeling among the staff members of the bank is that their increased dividend rate will be a primary factor in combating the out of town competition.

At high noon today hundreds in the city observed a rare phenomenon about the sun known as the sun dog. According to many of the older residents interested in astronomy a sun dog is an extremely rare occurrence in this section of the country. The phenomenon was plainly visible and in the circle about the sun one could easily distinguish the many colors. According to one a sun dog has not been seen in Putnam in nearly twenty years.

Twenty-three members of the Putnam Rotary club motored to Whitinsville, Mass., Tuesday evening and attended a joint meeting of the Putnam, Webster, and Uxbridge clubs held at the Whitinsville Country club. A chicken pie supper was served. Following the luncheon the club members retired to the club veranda and were entertained with a concert by the Northbridge high school of Whitinsville.

The regular weekly luncheon and meeting of the organization was held at noon today at the Putnam inn. A business meeting took the place of the regular speaking programme. Visitors at today's luncheon were Albert E. Owler of Stamford, formerly of this city, Joseph G. E. Page and Arthur A. Blanchard of Southbridge and Charles E. Ross of St. Louis, Mo., who is vacationing in Putnam.

Miss Mary E. Piechuta of Brooklyn, N. Y., an operator in a metropolitan telephone exchange, paid a visit to the local exchange today familiarizing herself with Connecticut telephone message transmission methods.

Mrs. Iver Nelson of Main street made a business trip to Boston today.

Many in this city are anticipating a view of the Los Angeles, the giant U. S. navy dirigible which will fly from Lakehurst, N. JEWETT CITY

HOW ONE MAN HAS SOLVED FARM PROBLEM

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, June 26.—A few facts and figures secured at an auction last week, held in the south part of the town, served to prove how completely a local man has solved the farm problem. While the federal government is appropriating a half billion dollars to arrive at a solution of this job, Simon Brewster in a smaller yet no less conclusive way, is answering the question every day. Mr. Brewster, right on the job in the fields today, is one of Griswold's oldest farmers in point of years as well as in time spent in keeping abreast of the many questions and demands of local agricultural interests.

When this writer was a boy, (and that wasn't yesterday), this man was then solving the problem, and every year carrying the balances over to the right side of the ledger. The methods he adopted and the policies he put into operation 50 years ago proved good then. They do so now.

Last week, he put an advertisement in The Bulletin, three days, stating that he had cows for sale at auction.

There were cattle buyers there from near and far. About 20 head were sold to the highest bidders. Some cows brought over $100. Mr. Brewster put close to $2,000 in his pocket. This fall 20 head of young stock will be doing their part of the farm solving problem. One man said today, in commenting on Mr. Brewster's long record of success in the soil. "I don't see how he does it."

Tuesday evening a miscellaneous shower was given Miss Angeline Zovestoski in honor of her approaching marriage, for on Monday, June 1st, she will become the bride of Stanley Petskowski. All sorts of games were played, and sandwiches, cookies, cakes and fruit-punch were served. The many presents were as diversified as they were beautiful.

Friends and relatives present included Julia and Alice Dombroski, Elizabeth Dudkowski, Helen Pojak, Mary Zavestoski, Effie and Josephine Kargol, Helen Baldiga, Jennie Skaradowski, Betty Pendsick, Rena Gaumond, Mary Petskowski, Gertrude Casper, Viola and Anna Miciorek, Frances Kolbusz, Grace Kimon, Helen and Anna Osga, Irene Nadeau, Yvonne Brisson, Sophie Arabic, Mary Hlastawa, Stella Dombrowski, Emma Bernard, Angeline Pariseau, Grace Mecteau, Helen Zelinski, Anna Russenas, Mary Zajac, Celia and Angeline Zavestoski, Josephine Pizzo, Francis Zakrzewski, Mrs. Effie Kolbusz, Mrs. Brisson, Mrs. Zavestoski, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Casper and Mrs. Szewaykako.

Small Oil Stove Blaze

A small oil stove blaze called the department to one of the streets off Brown avenue at 8:30 Tuesday evening. No damage was reported. Both pieces of apparatus responded, as did everybody else. Over 100 automobiles crowded the nearby thoroughfares. A regular blockade in Brown avenue held up the chemical truck a considerable time. Fortunately the blaze was easily handled by the men on the engine.

The matter of the crowding machines was reported to Warden E. J. Jodoin and to Burgess John McDermott. They have promised to take the matter up for official action at the July meeting of the board of borough government.

Rain Fall Welcome

It was estimated today by those who viewed the matter conservatively, that the rain fall Tuesday evening was within excess of $10,000 to the truck gardens and outlying farming districts.

Following a torrential downpour lasting 20 minutes, there was a slow drizzle until after midnight.

Considerable damage was done to the local lighting system by the sharp electric discharges. A dozen fuses and transformer plugs were blown, resulting in work for the borough electricians until early Wednesday morning. Many noticed the entirely unusual character of the lightning. Sharp and snappy, the flashes were followed by a single explosion, resembling the sudden discharge of a piece of artillery, with no reverberation.

In Brief

Miss Rosa Bumstead, of Boston, a one time Jewett City girl, is the guest of Miss Alice A. Brown, at her home on the East Main street highlands.

Mrs. Floyd Ray, superintendent of the week day Bible school, reports 45 in attendance Wednesday.

As usual, the kids and many that should refrain from such infractions of the law, are firing explosives away ahead of time. The borough officials are issuing orders to the police department that the nuisance and law breaking be stopped.

It is planned that the parade Thursday evening will move from Palmer avenue and East Main street at 7:45 The demonstrations and adresses at the Finn theatre will be well worth-while. The slogan is, Let's give Father McCabe a rousing testimonial of good will.

In the Griswold town court Wednesday morning Judge John T. Barry fined Walter Girard $50 and costs for keeping liquor with intent to sell, and for reputation, $50 fine. A jail sentence of 20 days was suspended on the first count. Girard being shy of funds, was taken to the Norwich jail. Officer Henry Viegras made the arrest and seized a supply of wet evidence. R. J. Dudkowski prosecuted for the state.

Old Sores and Ulcers Can Be Healed!

"This sincere letter," says Peterson "gave me another happy day and as nearly every mail brings praise for Peterson's Ointment, is it any wonder that I keep cheerful all the time?"

"Dear Sirs: I had a bad leg for 20 years, tried everything but no benefit. I tried Peterson's Ointment and five 35 cent boxes healed my leg. I can never praise it enough My leg was so painful at first that I had to put fresh ointment on every two hours night and day. It stopped the pain at once." Mrs. Mark Richards, Lake Linden Mich."

Besides running and old sores and ulcers, Peterson's Ointment is just as good for piles, eczema, itching skin, sore feet, prickly heat, sunburn, chafing, cuts, burns, bruises, scalds and scores of other ailments as any druggist anywhere will tell you. A generous box 35 cents.

REFUSING PROF. MACINTOSH.

Professor Douglas C. MacIntosh of Yale Divinity school desired to become a citizen of the United States. He wanted to change allegiance from Canada to this country, but he wanted to do it under his own rules and regulations. He was unwilling to comply with the requirements set up by this government and as the result his application was denied. What other course could Judge Burrows take?

There was no question as to his eligibility on all points except one. When it came to promising to defend this country in case of war, even to the extent of rendering military service, he balked. He wanted to qualify the situation so that he could balk in case, according to his judgment, he didn't consider it a justifiable war. There is no such loophole in the requirements established for aliens to approve. It is not permitted for some to subscribe to one view and others to something else. It is not allowed judges to permit certain applicants to take one oath and to require another one of others.

It is recognized that as a clergyman that Professor MacIntosh would not be required to shoulder arms. It is shown that because of his age that he would not be included in any draft for service, so that there would probably be no occasion when he would be obliged to render service contrary to his views. But when it comes to making new citizens it is a case of treating all alike, placing the same obligations before them and exacting the same pledge. There is no other way out of it if the nation is to stand.

This country hopes for peace. It does not want war. It has lent its backing to repeated efforts in behalf of international peace and yet it understands that it cannot ignore the matter of national defense. Even that is admitted in connection with the Kellogg peace pact but when it comes to accepting aliens as citizens it is important that we know that they are going to be backers of the government in whatever course it is considered necessary for defense. It isn't a case for making flesh of one and fish of another, but of treating all alike. That is the requirement of the law and that is what Judge Burrows insists upon.

RIGHTING AN INJUSTICE.

Having a government job is supposed to imply that a person has an easy time at his employment and gets good pay and short hours. Such isn't always the case. There are those instances in large number but there are others where almost the opposite prevails.

This is called to attention at the present time by the situation which prevails in England where Ramsay MacDonald has been made prime minister. Premier MacDonald is holding an office that pays $15,000 a year. There are many who could manage to get along on such a salary and put a few dollars away for a rainy day, but not so with that job. It isn't that the new premier is a spendthrift but he has a job that involves much in the way of expense. Estimates indicate that a person holding the premiership is obliged to spend in the neighborhood of $60,000 a year. That being the case $15,000 doesn't go very far even though he practices thrift.

It is frequently the case that men of wealth are made premier. In that case there is no financial embarrassment. The salary is taken but personal funds are dipped into to maintain the office. They are willing to pay for the honor of the office, a fact which governs in the case of many in our own diplomatic corps. If they depended upon the salary attached to the office to make ends meet they would quickly resign or make a very weak showing as a diplomat.

The injustice of the situation in England is recognized to such an extent, with MacDonald in the premiership, that leaders of the other parties are supporting a move for the increasing of the salary of the present and future prime ministers. It is recognition of a big handicap faced by the new premier and it is a move for the righting of an injustice that has prevailed too long. The time has come, even though it might not have been anticipated, when other than a rich man is prime minister, and $15,000 for such an important office is altogether too meager.

OFFENSIVE RIVERS.

When pleas are made for the purification of streams, they are in behalf of those who use the water, the fish and shellfish and the elimination of what is looked upon as approaching an open sewer with all its offensiveness and menace to health.

If we can judge by what the Waterbury American says the Naugatuck has reached that condition. It calls attention to the fact that "Motorists journeying along the Naugatuck have a special reason for deploring the sparsity of rainfall lately in that the odors of sewage given off from the almost dry river bed are extremely offensive. Undoubtedly, and we all hope that copious rains will soon replenish the waters of the stream for general reasons as well as the special one cited. But if the communities bordering the Naugatuck were now to resolve that no more sewage should be emptied into the channel, the drought would have served an extremely useful end, independently of the special factor now complained of."

If anything were needed to bring out the condition of the Naugatuck it was apparently the dry spell. That has demonstrated to what degree the stream is polluted and according to the American, made it evident that there are times when the Naugatuck is little more than an open sewer. That shows what is being poured into it at all times and how dependent the communities along it are for high water to keep down the odors. This is a condition which cannot be regarded as desirable, and where it exists there can be no surprise that there is a demand for improvements.

Probably there are other communities which are contributing just as much pollution to the streams on which they are located as Naugatuck, but they apparently have the good fortune to be favored with larger rivers or a greater volume of water. The need for the checking of such pollution is quite generally recognized. In some instances it has been undertaken as the best way out of a bad situation. In others it will gradually result, but with development of cities to the point where their method of pouring untreated sewage into the rivers results in such offensive conditions it is inevitable that action of a corrective character cannot be long delayed.

AUTO HORNS.

Many would like to lend a helping hand in the movement which has been started in Washington for the reduction of horn blowing by motorists. That isn't the only city where it is believed there is a needless amount of tooting just because the horn is handy, but the superintendent of police in the national capital has been moved to action and issued an order against the practice of blowing the horn because the traffic light doesn't change or keeping it tooting until the "girl friend" appears.

As for the last named, the girl friend can quickly put a stop to it by giving a cold shoulder to the fellow who drives up in front and blows his horn much the same as he might whistle for a dog.

Those who manifest their impatience too often have no idea what they are doing. They may have no idea of what is causing the traffic holdup and they are unwilling to believe that the situation is being cleared as rapidly as possible. They are often as inconsiderate as the horn blowers in the line of cars that reached below the Groton ferry landing from the Thames river bridge on the night of the boat race while the draw was open to allow the boats to come down the river. Blowing the horns accomplished nothing but annoyance to the residents of that vicinity. It didn't hasten the closing of the bridge and it didn't speed up the traffic. It was simply a nuisance, and such is invariably the case where it is practiced.

There is need for the automobile horn, but it should be used judiciously. There are intersections where it is not safe to neglect to sound it and yet there are those drivers who employ it chiefly to avoid reducing their speed and to claim a right of way which does not belong to them.

It is because the horn blowing is overdone and because it is a source of irritation to the sick and those who hear it from morning until way into the night that there is justification for the efforts to place a check upon it. Failure to give consideration to the comfort and peace of mind of others is nothing new but it is a natural opposition that is displayed over the excessive use of the auto horn.

AN ANNOYING HANDICAP.

What amounts to an annoying handicap was encountered one day last week when an attempt was made at New London to collect a bill against a yacht. It is realized that certain procedure governs the action in undertaking such collection, for being in federal waters it assumes a federal character and a federal marshal or deputy marshal is needed under the circumstances. The result was that those New London authorities who undertook to put an attachment upon the yacht were unsuccessful. They had no jurisdiction.

In the instance in question the obligation was said to have been contracted some time ago, but it has never been possible to obtain satisfaction because there is no federal marshal nearer than Hartford or New Haven, although it is claimed that there are duties sufficient for such an official to be located in this end of the state, as the attempt to collect the bill from the yacht owner demonstrated.

Because of the business in New London harbor, it would appear that there is sufficient need for the deputizing of an official to render such service and to take care of other duties incident to such office. If it is necessary to have others act in place of a deputy marshal or to require a marshal to travel that distance every time his services are required, it would appear to be time to simplify the situation by appointing a deputy who will be on the ground and ready for such service as is required of him when he is needed. It is an annoying situation which prevails at the present time.

KNOWLEDGE IS POWER.

Natalie started off for high school in something of a pet. In the first place, it was dreadfully hard on one's disposition to have to get up in time for 8 o'clock classes. In the second place, that father of hers—in other moods known as darling daddums—positively had refused to increase her allowance, saying it was quite enough for any schoolgirl, which, of course, was ridiculous.

But the brisk, bright atmosphere of early October soon raised her spirits, and by the time she reached the school steps she was her own gay self. Her heart quickened the more as an exceedingly handsome boy she had observed previously in one of her classes called "Hello!" to her as she approached the entrance.

"Nice day," he ventured.

"Beautiful," she said—and the bell rang.

Her first class was ancient history. She sat next to Sally Hopkins. Sally knew everything and everybody. Natalie scribbled a note to Sally. In it she described the boy she had met on the steps. She even drew a little sketch of him so that there could be no mistake.

"His name," wrote back Sally, "is Arthur Cox. Isn't he beautiful, though? Everybody calls him Apollo. He has a reputation for being very high-hat with girls. He went with Nanette Spitz for about two weeks and then gave her the gate."

Natalie pondered over this information so absorbedly that she failed to notice that she was being called upon to recite, and her account of the Persian wars would have astonished Xenophon.

At 9 o'clock came Natalie's class in English composition. Here she made a few eyes across the aisle at Horace Titlebottom. But this usually enticing sport seemed to have lost some of its flavor. She fell back upon her book, assumed to be following the verses of Spenser which the teacher was scanning. Soon she had a pencil between her lips. Inspiration burned.

"A is for Apollo, a Greek god of old," she wrote. "He's been resurrected, so I have been told. His hair is like amber, his lips are like flame."

"Are you paying attention, Miss Watts?" Natalie stammered something. What rimed with flame, anyway?

The next hour was a study hour, but Natalie decided to put off her lessons until evening, although she knew she would want to go to the movies when evening arrived. After all, one couldn't give one's attention to dull lessons when one was so occupied with delicious dreams. Who shall know except Natalie what gossamer threads of romance were broken when the bell rang for her lunch period?

When one is 15 even romance waits on lunch. Natalie consumed two portions of fruit and olive salad with mayonnaise, a double chocolate fudge sundae and three pieces of Lady Baltimore cake. She heard Sally gush further on the subject of "Apollo." In fact, she hung so attentively on Sally's fulsome description that she did not notice until too late the escape from her plate of a large blob of chocolate sauce. This blob descended, as ill luck would have it, directly into Natalie's lap and made an ugly stain on her almost new blue fall frock.

"Oh!" said Natalie, and dabbed hastily with a napkin. But before she had made the stain very much worse the bell rang and she had to dash off to her chemistry class.

The chemistry teacher was a young man of whom Natalie and her companions could not quite think as faculty. With tears in her eyes she begged him to tell her what would take the stain out of her dress. He not only told, he provided. While the rest of the class labored ponderously over the periodic law, Natalie bent over her dress in the supply room, rubbing, rubbing, rubbing. For at her next hour she would meet—Apollo.

It was geometry, a subject for the existence of which Natalie could not see the slightest excuse. But she hurried to that classroom today with the speed of a commuter trying to catch the last train.

"I have such a bad cold," she told Miss Vivien, the teacher, with just the right nasal impediment, "may I change my seat from next the window over to the other side?"

"Of course you may, Miss Watts," said Miss Vivien. "Don't you think you'd better go home?"

"No, indeed," said Natalie, and withdrawing hastily, she marched over to the coveted seat next to that occupied by Apollo.

That hour Natalie labored hard, used her eyes assiduously, but not on Euclid. It was within ten minutes to the hour when she finally found assurance that the day had not been spent in vain. A tiny wad of paper was tossed over to her from the seat opposite.

"Will you go with me to the game Saturday?" said the note.

"Charmed," wrote Natalie.

Father thought it necessary to ask such stupid questions; it was a sort of ritual with him.

"What did you learn in school today?" was a favorite. But she was ready for him tonight.

"In history I learned all about Apollo," she said. "And in English I wrote a poem. In chemistry I was taught how to take out stains, and in math I had demonstrated that a straight line is the shortest distance between two points." Father's conscience gave a twinge.

"About that allowance—" he began, and Natalie kissed him on his funny bald head.—Chicago News.

Medical Examination to Prevent Devastating Disease

By Frank W. Porterfield, M. D., Waterloo, Iowa.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute.)

Among the picturesque Santo de Christa mountains in Colorado, the Canejos river plunges merrily through deep ravines over boulders, and past a mighty forest, on its way to the sea. Fifty miles up the river from a little town, nestled in the heart of the forest, is a cabin in a clearing which is also occupied by a hangar for an aeroplane and housing facilities for two motorcycles. Here is the home of a quartet of United States forest rangers, where they live the year round, seeing no human faces but their own or the face of an occasional tourist attracted by the mountain air and the speckled beauties with which the river abounds.

One day, as the sun was hidding behind the range, the drone of the plane might have been heard on its way to the hangar, after hours of monotonous observation. The pilot was scanning every point in his constantly changing field of vision—when suddenly he stiffened, and turned his powerful field glasses on a distant point. His hand touched the wireless of his plane. A clanging bell in the distant cabin brought the occupants to their feet, as over the air flashed the dramatic message of "Fire!" Two men tumbled into the auto, the other followed on the motorcycle, while the pilot directed his plane to the threatened area to make certain his warning had been heeded. The rangers quickly reached the fire, which had originated in some embers left by a careless tourist. The flames were eagerly devouring the resinous pine cones and crawling snake-like to a pile of fallen timber and to the dense underbrush.

In another hour a forest fire of uncontrollable magnitude would have been under full headway, and millions of dollars' worth of timber would have been destroyed, besides the homes of many settlers and perhaps precious lives destroyed.

The vigilance of that quartet of rangers prevented a great calamity. In other words, that forest reserve area had a "health examination" which forestalled a great disaster.

Our human bodies are in some respects comparable to conditions that prevail in our national forests. There may be an unnoticed defective basal metabolism, which is nature's warning against an impending thyroid trouble—the exophthalmic goiter with its attending danger and discomforts; or an infection may have found lodgment in a kidney which uncared for may lead to fatal Bright's disease; or a lung infection, which may encourage tuberculosis; or hyperacidity of the gastro-intestinal region that terminates in a gastric ulcer which in turn necessitates a major operation. More important still, there may be a latent syphilic infection in the blood, for which nature, who always collects in full, may demand payment, if not from you, from one of your own precious children in later years.

Your own physician, if given opportunity to make a periodic health examination, should discover any of these conditions if present, and be able to prevent disaster and direct you to the attainment and preservation of health.

A Washington Bystander

By GIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 26 — It is questionable just what part hot weather played in forcing the farm relief special session of congress to its recent agreement.

Certainly both houses were sweltering under the first real hot spell of the year when the recess resolution went through.

And despite a battery of huge ceiling fans whirling away over their heads like nose-diving airplanes, the senators were getting the worst of it. The senate's new ventilation and refrigerated air system is far from complete.

Workers have been compelled to knock off before daily sessions of the senate began. It will take five or six weeks of full time to get the installation ready in time for the latter part of August, when the senators come back to duty. The fans are a temporary expedient.

Annoying Draft

For an assemblage of legislative talent not without its bald heads, the fans seemed far from satisfactory. To a man lacking a top thatch, a downward fan draft on his dome is an annoyance at times.

Wherefore, even on the hottest of the few days the fans were churning up the heavy air in the senate chamber before recess, you frequently saw a number of them idle, presumably at the request of senators just underneath who were sensitive to such drafts.

And right beside such a senator would be seated another with a considerable crop of hair who was forced to fan himself vigorously with folded newspaper or the like. Clearly, only courtesy prevented his counter demand that the overhead fan be turned on again.

As a matter of fact, considering that the senators on the average are much older men than house members, it is remarkable that the house seems to contain more shiny bald pates in proportion.

The Bystander checked up once or twice with from 200 to 300 members on the house floor to find 50 or 60 in the extreme bald class.

There is very little top hair visible among that great house triumvirate of party leadership, Longworth, Tilson and Snell. Longworth has none, frankly. The other two grow locks at one side which they drape neatly across barren ground as a camouflage. Only one combs from right to left, the other from left to right.

They'll Get Some

The senate's recess to Aug. 19 will not let it escape by any means the ordinary course of summer heat in Washington. The house, getting back on the job well along in September, ought to know cool and comfortable days for the final scenes of the tariff row.

But the senators will find themselves in a wholly new atmosphere of cleaned and refrigerated air when they do come back. So that will help. The new ventilation system will be hurried to completion ad interim.

And regardless of political or other considerations, it was clear that after only three or four days that could be classed as hot, both senate and house were eager to get a let-up. If Mr. Hoover was pleased, he should thank the weather man.

Arm Chair Journeys To Other Lands

Albanians Not Keen for Baths

ELBASSAN, Albania, (AP)—In Albania the women do all the work. The men's sole occupation is to talk politics and defend the home from invasion.

The man is the gentleman of leisure, the woman the slave of toil. He is the warrior, she the worker. He invariably carries a small arsenal of firearms in his huge leather belt, so that at a moment's notice he may defend his home or avenge a personal wrong. The vendetta in its worst forms still persists in Albania.

The men live an outdoor life, generally free and even wild, and therefore, as a class, as unaccustomed to the restraints of business affairs. They are mentally undisciplined, untutored, and act as instinctively as children. They know no law except that of violence. They do not take their most serious quarrels to court, but settle them with rifles.

The Albanians live for the most part in tribal organizations and pay little heed to the edicts of government issued at Tirana, the capital. There is no village authority in Albania as in other countries—only family of tribal law. Each tribe is held steadfastly together by tribal loyalty to a common chief.

The Albanians are frugal, hearty and hospitable. Through centuries of foreign oppression they have preserved their mountain strongholds, their race traditions and their unconquerable spirit and pride.

Their houses are solidly built with heavy walls of rock or sun-dried brick, sometimes covered with plaster. The rooms generally are small, with few or no windows. In the mountain districts several families, often comprising as many as 30 persons, live under one roof. Sanitary and housing conditions throughout the country are extremely bad. Indian corn forms the main staple of food of the population. Sheep-breeding and cattle-raising are the chief occupations of the peasants, who form 95 per cent of the population.

The entire family of Albania eats out of one common dish, each member dipping in at his turn.

To the average Albanian cleanliness is an unknown and therefore an unnecessary virtue. Children 15 years old frequently are seen who have never been bathed. Indeed, the native doctors warn mothers of the "danger" of bathing their children, who from birth to death seldom receive any sort of ablution.

IN DAY'S NEWS

Wuchow.

Wuchow, whence American citizens were recently urged to flee before the city should be bombed by Cantonese airplanes, is one of the chief commercial distributing points west of Canton, according to a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic society. Wuchow lies on the north bank of the Si-kiang or West river which is connected with the Canton port by a canal.

"There are no railroads within 200 miles of the city," says the bulletin. "Roads radiating into the surrounding region are almost impassable for vehicles, so Wuchow really lives by its river-front traffic.

"Junks, sampans and many other types of native craft fill the harbor. Ocean-going vessels can navigate the West river to this point and frequently a huge, funnelled craft noses its way toward the city. The U. S. S. Guam now is anchored at Wuchow to protect American citizens.

"Another touch of modern commerce penetrating the depths of China's waterways, is the increasing number of motor boats that skim over the river, passing through lanes of anchored native boats and dodging others that lazily float here and there under the muscle power of one or two half-naked, yellow-skinned coolies.

"Laden with lumber, indigo, rice and tea, many of the boats come from distant provinces. Here is an old junk with gaping holes only a few inches above the water line. If it ever had a coat of paint, there is no evidence of it.

"The smaller boats clustered together near the shore, also are dingy in appearance, but now and then a red and yellow painted craft adds a gay touch to the riverside panorama. When a large boat arrives at Wuchow to transport cargoes of the smaller ones downstream to Hong Kong and Canton, there is a rush of small boats which soon entirely surround it.

"To the average traveler, the sing song chatter of the families aboard the native boats is all alike. One familiar with Chinese dialects, however, finds that Wuchow harbor is a jumble of natives from many regions. The dialects of Kwangsi province, of which Wuchow is an important gateway, dominate but there is also the chatter of the Kwelchow natives and even that of the natives of Yunnan, indicating that some of the boats in the harbor have been drifting downstream for weeks.

"Wuchow itself begins before the river bank is reached. Now and then in the summer the West river goes on a rampage and rises 40 to 50 feet. So the business houses that were inundated during these annual floods built offices and warehouses on pontoons which are tied to the shore.

"Beyond the pontoons, Wuchow presents a picture of a typical Chinese city that the outside world has not yet marked. There is no wide quay or bund but from the river bank the narrow, tortuous, ill-smelling streets begin, offering no breathing spaces until one emerges from the other side of the city. Fifty thousand natives and a handful of foreigners live in these mere passageways.

"Wuchow's history is one of chronic rebellion which has retarded its growth."

Stories That Recall Others

Rather Expurgated.

Richard, age four, has a good appetite for fairy tales, but doesn't like them too grim.

"Let's hear the one about Red Riding Hood, mother," he asked recently.

"The one about Red Riding Hood, but without the wolf."

Hasty Reply.

Mr. X., a genial host, was entertaining his old friend with a few camera pictures, reminiscent of their happy school days.

"Do you know I won't have my picture made any more," said the guest.

"I don't blame you," was the irremediable reply.

No More Piles

Pile sufferers can only get quick, safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—bad blood circulation in the lower bowel. Cutting and salves can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, succeeds because it relieves this blood congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has a wonderful record for quick, safe, and lasting relief to Pile sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. Lee & Osgood Co. and druggists anywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarantee.

Aching, Swollen Feet

Money Back, Says Any Druggist, If Emerald Oil Doesn't Do Away With All Soreness, Swelling and Distress in 24 Hours.

No sensible person will continue to suffer from those intense agonizing throbbing foot pains when every well stocked drug store has Moone's Emerald Oil and sells it with an absolute guarantee of satisfaction or money back.

Your feet may be so swollen and inflamed that you think you can't go another step. Your shoes may feel as if they are cutting right into the flesh. You feel sick all over with the pain and torture—You'd give anything to get relief, wouldn't you? Then do this:

Two or three applications of Moone's Emerald Oil and in fifteen minutes the pain and soreness disappears. A few more applications at regular intervals and the swelling reduces.

And best of all any offensive odor is gone for good—it's a wonderful formula—this combination of essential oils with camphor and other antiseptics so marvelous that every good druggist guarantees Moone's Emerald Oil to end your foot troubles or money back.

ENJOY FRUITS WITH SUGAR

Improve the Flavor of These Healthful Foods

Everyone knows the importance of fruits in diet. Fruits give needed roughage, vitamins and beneficial mineral salts. It is important for children and adults to eat one raw and one cooked fruit each day.

The addition of sugar to either raw or cooked fruits brings out their finest flavors. Fruits should be made palatable, or otherwise we are not likely to eat enough of them. Prepared as we like them, they will become a regular and beneficial part of our diet.

"Fruit acids are softened by sugar," a famous food scientist recently said. "Fruit flavors are developed by sugar. Sugar promotes and facilitates the ingestion of fruits."

Remember this the next time you eat grapefruit, oranges or any of the fruits which appear on your table. You will enjoy them more with sugar. Varied foods benefit you more and you will eat them with this finest of nature's flavors.

All fruits can be made delicious with the addition of sugar. Fruit pies and puddings are most appetizing. Applesauce and jelly add delightfully to lunch or dinner. For weariness eat sugar. The Sugar Institute.

HEARS GUEST RIDER SUIT FOR DAMAGES

The $5,000 damage suit of Mrs. Rose Lusignan of Dunham street against her brother-in-law, Joseph A. Lede, also of this city, went on trial Wednesday morning in the superior court before Judge Allyn L. Brown who reserved decision when trial of the case had been concluded.

Mrs. Lusignan was riding in Mr. Lede's automobile, which was operated by Mrs. Lede, when it was in collision at Milford, on Oct. 11, 1924, with the machine of James I. Hayes of 168 Union street, New Haven. Mrs. Lusignan is suing for the personal injuries she received in the accident. The Lede machine ran into the Hayes car which was parked near a signal light at the intersection of Naugatuck and Bridgeport avenue on the Boston Post road in the town of Milford.

Mrs. Lusignan's testimony was that she had gone to New York with her sister to help her find a tenement, for which was to be remunerated by her sister, and that on the way back the accident occurred. Just before the crash, Mrs. Lusignan testified that she told her sister to keep her eyes on the road and forget the signs as she would look after them. The next thing she could remember was when she came to in the hospital. She remained in the Milford hospital for several days and was in bed at her mother's house for five weeks. After getting out of bed, she had to stay in a chair for some time. Her principal injuries were the loss of a tooth, injury to her knee and a cut on the upper lip.

Officer Charles Worrell, who operates the signal light in Milford, testified that he thought Mrs. Lede was looking at the signs instead of the red signal light when her machine hit the other one. At this intersection, he said, there were about 1,300 cars an hour passing on the average, but the traffic on Oct. 11 was about 500 cars less than that.

Attorneys V. P. A. Quinn and Thomas M. Shields appeared as counsel for Mrs. Lusignan while Attorney Charles V. James was counsel for Mr. Lede. The defense contends that there was contributory negligence on the part of Mrs. Lusignan and that she is also not entitled to recover from her injuries because she was a guest rider.

STANKEWICH SLASHES THROAT WITH PIECE OF GLASS

Steve Stankewich, 55, of Hallville, who is in the county jail in this city awaiting trial on an arson charge, gashed his throat in a suicide attempt last Sunday, it was learned Thursday night.

Stankewich broke one of his eyeglasses and used the jagged piece of glass to inflict a gash of considerable length in his throat which required a number of stitches when it was sewed up by a doctor. The injury that he had done to himself was discovered when he was taken out of his cell at meal time and a doctor was summoned at once in order to give the wound the requisite attention. Since Sunday, according to what Jailer Oscar H. Main said Thursday night, Stankewich has been a quiet enough prisoner.

Stankewich was taken to jail Saturday after he had been found guilty of M[illegible] by the superior court by Justice of the Peace Walter Tarbox of Preston. He is charged with arson for setting fire last Thursday to the barn and house on the farm in Preston where his divorced wife lives. The barn was burned with a cow and heifer which were in it, but the house was saved, although Stankewich is charged with setting fire to it four times.

JUDGE WALLER ENTERS JUDGMENT IN EIGHT COMMON PLEAS CASES

When the get-together meeting of the playgrounds instructors and members of the recreation commission was held Tuesday evening at the town hall, talks were given by William J. Fitzgerald, chairman of the commission; Earle E. Brigham, superintendent of playgrounds, and Mrs. Elizabeth Drew, a member of the commission. Final instructions were given the recently appointed instructors, relative to their duties and what is expected of them in their work. The programme, as mapped out by the commission for the coming year, was explained.

The instructors, who are soon to receive their assignments to the various playgrounds in the city under the commission's supervision, are as follows: John P. Marks, Arthur McGowan, William Tirrell, F. H. Tombari, Bruno Pedace, Jr., John Delaney, Frederick Murphy, Hyman Sadinsky, Matthew Sheridan and the Misses Ida Grabinsky, Katherine Madden, Charlotte Geer, Anna Carroll, Helen Gallup, Mary Boardman, Cecelia Brock, Evelyn Witkin, Grace LeRochelle, Clarissa Duff, Teresa Fitzgerald, Eileen Kennedy and Anna Coleman, Earle B. Brigham, Academy baseball coach, was reappointed superintendent of playgrounds. The selections of instructors were made from a list of some 70 applicants.

The playgrounds are located in the following places: Lake street, Greeneville, Hobart avenue, East Side, Laurel Hill, Jail Hill, Thamesville, Elizabeth street, Hollyhock island, Falls and the Academy.

SUMMER HEALTH HINTS FROM STATE DEPARTMENT

Notwithstanding the rapid increase in the number of automobile travelers, their rate of growth seems no faster than that of the roadside "hot dog" stands and roadside restaurants, says the state department of health. Many of these establishments are operated in a sanitary manner. Others are run by novices with vague ideas as to sanitation or by careless or indifferent individuals who are "out to make money" and neglect to take proper sanitary measures.

The state health department attempts, so far as personnel permits, to cooperate with local health officers in inspections of such establishments. Due to their great number, however, it is impossible in most places to keep as close continuous supervision over them as might be desired.

Numerous signs appear posted at roadside eating places in Connecticut to the effect that the establishments are "Approved". This "approval" simply records that an association or private corporation has issued the sign after an inspection of the establishment. It does not mean that "approval" has been granted by the state department of health which does not issue any such signs, nor does the local health department unless specifically noted. It is undesirable for the health authorities to post any "approval" signs unless frequent follow-up inspections are practicable.

Do not drink water from a well or spring at any eating establishment that is located close to a privy or cesspool or one that is open to pollution through the top or from a bucket and chain arrangement that will admit pollution from unclean hands. A common drinking cup is forbidden by law; pasteurized milk is the safest milk because pasteurization destroys disease germs. A state law requires that milk must be served from the original bottle opened before the customer.

A sanitary establishment should serve food in good condition, properly protected from flies and dust. Covers should be placed over drinking straws, mustard jars, sugar bowls, etc. Proper dish-washing facilities are required to insure clean dishes or these must be replaced by single-service cups, plates, etc. Ice cream storage and ice cream scoops are sometimes neglected.

The public can help (1) by refusing to patronize roadside eating places that are unsanitary; (2) by reporting to the local or state health authorities any unsanitary conditions found; (3) by doing their part in the proper maintenance of toilets and proper disposal of refuse material.

PLACES WINDHAM COUNTY IN MAJOR TRADE AREA

Windham county lies in a major trading area which leads New England in the per capita income from manufactures, the department of commerce announced Wednesday in an analysis of the figures contained in the New England handbook on markets recently issued by the department.

Windham county, along with Worcester county, Massachusetts, forms one of the 13 major marketing areas into which New England is divided in the handbook. And this Worcester marketing area, according to the department of commerce analysis, ranks first in per capita income produced by manufactures.

Although the area is primarily a manufacturing district, the handbook shows in proportion to population it produces a substantial part of New England's farm products. In 1924 approximately five per cent. of the value of the crops of this region and 6.8 per cent. of the value of its livestock products were produced in the area. Approximately 164,000 persons, according to the handbook, were gainfully employed in the area at the time of the last census. Of this number, nearly 40 per cent were engaged in manufacturing and the mechanical arts.

An analysis of the number of retail outlets of the area indicates that the degree of local competition is not as great as in several of the other major marketing areas of New England. New England as a whole, the handbook shows, has one retailer for every 69 persons, while in the Worcester area the proportion is one retailer for every 77 persons.

DESCRIBES VIENNA CAFES AS DISTINCTIVE INSTITUTION

Writing to The Bulletin from Vienna, where he is engaged in medical study, Dr. Boris J. Sohn of this city gives an informative description of the cafes, which he says are so much of an institution on that Austrian city.

Dr. Sohn writes as follows:

Vienna has, in addition to the greatest area of open parks and the finest array of public buildings, an institution which occupies a position in society, the equal of which is scarcely to be found in any part of the western world.

This is the well known cafe, which is the soul of the Viennese people and is to be found on every block and street corner. The real Viennese is always good natured, or to use the German term "gemuethlich" which carries a higher meaning than the ordinary "good natured". It would be nearer the truth if we say that the Viennese are agreeably and philosophically good-natured.

This sublime quality of the native people, their good nature and optimism, saved them to a large extent during the dark days of the war and the very trying period following the armistice.

When, immediately after the peace, the nation was confronted with the grewsome spectacle of seeing its savings turn to waste paper by inflation and the value of its property totally obliterated, the Viennese lost no control over their temperament, they continued purely on the strength of their philosophy and inherent good nature, never for one moment despairing and brooding over the unsolvable problems of life. They went forth, found companions in the cafes and proceeded to forget the nightmare of the cruel war and turned to conversation upon more pleasant subjects and here the cafe played a very potent role.

What sort of an institution is the cafe? Here is served coffee, tea, beer, wine, cakes and light foods in general. But the Viennese do not go there primarily to eat or drink, this is incidental and of secondary importance, and visit, to see and be seen. Here, in The guest comes here to read, smoke the cafe, he or she spends most of their leisure hours, and here, despite the Americanization which is sweeping the whole of Europe, they as yet do not know, or care not, that "time is money"; the guest comes to the cafe to while away hours upon hours—incidentally ordering a cup of coffee or glass of beer. In the cafes are to be found all the magazines and newspapers of the day in really cosmopolitan fashion: English, French, German, Hungarian, Italian, Russia, Bulgarian, etc.

An American once tried to describe a cafe and he made the following statement: That if we had enlarged our saloons of days by-gone, substituted chairs and tables for the bar and brought in the ladies, we might have had a similar place of enjoyment. This is true in a sense, but the comparison is not quite fully descriptive, because the cafe of Vienna has only a small and extremely remote resemblance to our saloons of pre-prohibition days. Here the cafe embodies in itself a restaurant, ice cream parlor, tea and coffee room, club room, meeting hall and its functions are legion. The traveling man brings his customers there to take orders, the business man writes his letters and the students find in the cafe a convenient corner to do their home work. The young sweet thing meets here her best friend and here little parties gather in the afternoon or evening to play cards, chess, read magazines and incidentally drink coffee or beer, occasionally also ordering a light meal. Very often the women do their sewing, embroidering or other fancy work.

As a rule, every Viennese has his favorite cafe where he comes regularly every day, frequently occupying the same seat, and there he enjoys a few hours of repose and hospitality.

If you are looking for any particular individual in Vienna, just find out which is his cafe and invariably in nine cases out of ten you will surely locate him there.

There are cafes in Vienna, where the guests bring their own lunches with them, which they wash down with a glass of beer bought there. In no other city in the world is the cafe so important and interesting an institution as in Vienna, and such cafes here reach the number of about 1200 not a few having capacities of many hundred seats each. One frequently finds in the cafe, behind the bar, women bartenders. These are generally big, fat and handsome, and usually blond.

When spring arrives, chairs and tables of the cafe migrate from the hot interiors and dispose themselves on the airy sidewalks in front. During this season of the year I have counted hundreds such sidewalk cafes.

In addition to these cafes, Vienna boasts also of numerous beer gardens, which is really a conspicuous summer institution of all German countries. In reality, the beer garden is an outdoor cafe, which generally has an orchestra during the afternoon and evening. In some of these beer gardens I have heard for a very small charge, orchestras that would make any other city famous. These beer gardens are widely distributed throughout the city, some being connected with the cafe houses during the summer months.

All cafes and beer gardens are open throughout the week, including Sundays and holidays, many of them, of course, doing business throughout the 24 hours of the day and night.

SHOT FIRED AT AUTO ON WILLIMANTIC ROAD

A shot fired from the roadside on the Willimantic road, with the bullet whizzing through the top of the Ford touring car driven by Joseph Cisco of this city just after dark on Wednesday evening, gave Cisco and Frank Harty and Harry Cheneau, who were with him, a thrill that they were not expecting.

Harty, sitting on the back seat, let out a yell, "I'm shot," as the bullet whistled past him and near Cheneau, who was on the front seat with the driver. Cisco didn't stop to investigate, but stepped on the gas and didn't even lift his foot from the gas Moosup, about a mile from the point where the shot was fired. When they looked the car over they found a bullet hole through the back of the car near the left rear corner and a pierced spot in the side of the top over the front seat that seemed to indicate the course which the bullet followed.

Upon reaching the city, Cisco reported the incident at police headquarters and was advised to notify the state police barracks at Groton.

ROTARY HAD ASHLAND BOYS BAND AT MEETING

The Ashland boys' band of Jewett City were the guests of the Norwich Rotary club at the noonday meeting on Wednesday and provided a very enjoyable programme of luncheon music. Preceding the luncheon the band gave a brief concert in front of the hotel. The band was under the leadership of Fred Bourque, a bandman for the past 40 years.

The band is a real boys' organization in which every boy, large or small, takes a very vital interest. The youngest boy in the band is 10 years old while the oldest is just under 18 years. When a boy becomes 18 he turns his instrument over to a younger lad so that the organization is always a boys band. The band was organized the last week in November, 1928 and in a little over six months Jewett City has a musical organization in which it may take pride. At the time of organization only one of the 30 boys could play a note or knew anything at all about a musical instrument.

The Ashland Cotton Co. bought the instruments for the youngsters as well as their uniforms. The band makes a very neat appearance in their uniforms which consist of blue overseas hats, blue caps with red facings, white blouse and white trousers. Much credit is due to Leader Bourque, an old bandman of 40 years experience, and to W. Prentice [illegible], director of welfare work [illegible] and Co. L. M. Carpenter [illegible] was with the Ashland Co. [illegible] mental in getting the organization together and starting them off.

President Edward W. Jewett presided at the short business session and James L. Case was the song leader with Nicholas J. Spellman at the piano. As it was Mr. Jewett's last meeting as president he thanked the members of the club for their cooperation during his term in office.

J. Henry Shannon, in charge of the July programme, announced his programme as follows:

July 2—Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, speaker, on Patriotism.

July 10—Meeting at the Norwich Golf club with team match with New London club.

July 17—Speaker, E. L. Bowman, on Educational Problems.

July 24—Meeting at the Chelsea Boat club at Kitemaug, with sail on the river and sound following the meeting.

The meeting closed with the singing of The Star Spangled Banner.

NEW RATE SCHEDULE FOR TOWN CLERK'S FEES

A new scale of fees for town clerk's offices in the state is to go into effect on the first of July, according to an act passed by the last general assembly. Town Clerk Harold S. Burt has received the new schedule from the Town Clerks' association of Connecticut, which in general is an increase over the present rates charged.

The rates established by the legislature are the minimum charge for a deed in which the description does not exceed 250 words. When the description of the property in the deed runs over 250 words, it is the practice in the Norwich town clerk's office to charge 25 cents for each 70 words over the minimum.

According to the new minimum rates, the recording of warranty deeds will cost $1 as compared with 75 cents at present; mortgage deeds, $1 as compared with the present rate of 90 cents; quit claim deed, $1 present fee, 75 cents; release of mortgage judgment lien, 85 cents as compared with 60 cents at present.

Recording a certificate of attachment will be 75 cents while at present it is 50 cents; and a release of attachment will be 85 cents while at present the cost is 60 cents; notice of pendency effecting real estate will be $1 and it is now but 75 cents; notice of release of such pendency will be $1.10 and it is now 75 cents.

The filing and indexing service which constitutes maps or surveys, notice of intent to sell, bill of sale, conditional sale, chattel mortgage, and all other instruments relating to personal property will be $1, the same cost as is now listed.

The cost of recording and filing assumed trade name will be $1 and it is now 50 cents. All copies will be $1 for the first page and 50 cents for each additional page, while the present rate is 75 cents a page. Certifying to the first page will be 50 cents and certifying to additional pages will be 25 cents.

Recording quit claim releasing mortgages and noting same will be $1 and recording quit claim assignment mortgage and noting same will be $1.10.

HADLYME COUPLE QUIETLY CELEBRATE 50TH ANNIVERSARY

Former Representative and Mrs. Henry C. Parker of Hadlyme, who were married 50 years ago Wednesday, made no formal observance of the day, owing to the recent illness of Mr. Parker, but many friends called to extend congratulations. Mr. and Mrs. Parker were married in Hadlyme, June 26, 1879, by Rev. Isaac White, and with the exception of a few years spent in Colchester and Montville, they have always lived in that town.

Mr. Parker, who is the son of the late Orlas H. Parker represented East Haddam in the legislature of 1905. He has also served as selectman and held other town offices. In 1907, Mr. Parker was elected a deacon of the Hadlyme Congregational church, is a member of the church committee and has been clerk of the church society for several years. Mrs. Parker, before marriage, was Miss Ellen R. Chester, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Chester, who lived in the house now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Parker.

CONTINUANCE TO AUGUST IN WILFRED PARR CASE

The case of Wilfred Parr of Taftville, charged with sale of liquor in violation of law, which has been before the city court under continuances for a number of times was again continued when it came up on Tuesday morning after being continued from the day before. It was continued this time until the first of August.

It is understood that the state is in difficulties over prosecuting the case through the disappearance of the "stool pigeon" through whom it is alleged evidence of a sale was secured.

SECOND PORTELANCE TWIN DIES WITH WHOOPING COUGH

Whooping cough proved fatal Tuesday to the second of twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Portelance of 14 Avery court, New London. The twins were born April 27 and the first died June 7. Their father is employed in a drug store in New London and their mother, whose maiden name was Yvonne Pigeon, formerly resided in Taftville and was a graduate of the Backus hospital training school for nurses several years ago.

ATTACHMENT ON PROPERTY IN SUIT FOR $30,000

Suit for $30,000 damages has been brought in the superior court against Abraham A. and Harry Watchinsky of New London by Mrs. Phebe A. Benham of that city who is now in the hospital suffering from injuries in an automobile accident. Harry Watchinsky is in business as the Thames Iron and Metal Co. and an attachment has been placed on property in Summer and Howard streets, according to papers filed with the New London town clerk.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mrs. William E. Palmer and Mrs. Gardiner Greene gave an exceedingly pretty tea Wednesday from 4 to 6 at Elm hill, the residence of Mrs. Palmer. The decorations of the room were garden flowers. On the table were tall vases holding lilies. From 4 to 5 Mrs. Leonard O. Smith poured coffee and Mrs. Charles Coit served ices. Mrs. Charles L. White and Miss Hannah M. Crowell were at the table from 5 to 6. An additional pleasure was the time spent by the guests in the beautiful rose garden, during the perfect June day.

Among those from Norwich who attended the garden party at the residence of Mrs. A. C. Tyler at the Pequot Wednesday for the benefit of the League of Women Voters were Mrs. Edward D. Fuller, Mrs. Edwin W. Higgins, Miss Audrey Gerson, Mrs. Albert M. Van Wagenen, Miss Marion Lee Bishop, Mrs. Elijah S. Burdsall, Miss Fanning and Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard. Tables were taken by Mrs. Leonard O. Smith, Mrs. Charles Henry Osgood and Mrs. C. Royce Ross.

Mrs. Richard B. Graham, of Providence, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Reynolds, of Greenwich, Mrs. Anthony Peck, of Charlotte, N. C., Mrs. B. W. Pierson, of New York, and Mrs. Lewis H. Hyde of Virginia, Mrs. E. F. Potter of Philadelphia, attended the tea at Mrs. William H. Palmer's Wednesday.

Miss Rosa A. Grosvenor, of Newport, and her guest, Miss Anna Lloyd Ely, of this city, have returned to Miss Grosvenor's home in Providence from a visit in Boston, where Miss Grosvenor joined her niece, Mrs. George Peabody Gardiner, Jr.

COUNTRY'S BEST GOLFERS START QUEST FOR NATIONAL OPEN CROWN TODAY

MAMARONECK, N. Y., June 26.—(AP) — The country's best professional and amateur golfers are ready for the 1928 open championship, the long 72-hole grind starting at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow.

Many of the stars remained away from the course today, resting for the later ordeal, others spent their time in last minute practice sessions and the rest feverishly galloped over the course, playing 18 and even 36 holes. Leo Diegel had a snappy 70 on his last practice round.

Fred Baroni, Pittsburgh, and Al Aircroft, Youngstown, slipped a stroke each from par by scoring 71. Tommy Armour equalled par today.

Gene Sarazen scored 72, as did Jimmy Johnston, St. Paul amateur, and Jack Forrester.

Harry Cooper, Buffalo pro, scored 76 with a seven at the 13th hole; Horton Smith said he was "around 80," MacDonald Smith had 77, Joe Turnesa and Ed Dudley scored 75, and Al Watrous 74. Roland Hancock had 73. Bobby Jones contented himself with a brief session only on the putting green.

There were five withdrawals, including Maurice J. McCarthy, Jr., intercollegiate champion who is defending his title at Deal, N. J. The list of starters was expected to number 148.

Jack White, Scotch pro, is Great Britain's only representative. He played today with his 20-year old nephew, Jimmie Thompson, Knoxville, Tenn. pro, who finished in a tie for tenth in the last British open.

The former British open champion thinks his nephew will do well in this championship.

The first pair off at 8:30 o'clock will be Couch, Lake Forest, Ill., who scored 77 in practice today and Kean Donnelly, Philmont, Pa.

George Von Elm, the Detroit amateur, will start out with John Bernadi, Newton Center, Mass., at 9:25. George Voigt, another crack amateur, plays with Ernest G. Jacob, Pittsburgh, at 9:50. Leo Diegel and Emmett Spicer, Nashville, Tenn. former southern amateur champion, are off at 10:05.

Johnny Farrell, the champion, and Willie Kidd of Minneapolis get away at 10:25.

Bobby Jones and Emmett French, Southern Pines, N. C., pro start at 10:45.

Walter Hagen and Louis Chiappetta, Hartford, Conn., leave the first tee at 11:45.

FACTS ON U. S. OPEN GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

(By The Associated Press.)

Time and place—June 27, 28 and 29 on west course of Winged Foot Golf club at Mamaroneck, N. Y., 45 minutes from Broadway.

Conditions—72 holes of medal play with 18 on Thursday, 18 on Friday and 36 Saturday for the low 60 players and those tied for 60th place after 36 holes.

Field—153 contestants entered, most of whom qualified in sectional tournaments.

Present champion—Johnny Farrell, professional at the Quaker Ridge club of Mamaroneck won title at Olympia field, Chicago, in 1928 after playoff with Bobby Jones of Atlanta.

Betting favorites—Bobby Jones, two time champion and several times runnerup; Johnny Farrell, Walter Hagen, twice former champion and now British open champion; Horton Smith, of Joplin, sensation of winter season and holder of French open championship; Leo Diegel, holder of Canadian open title.

Prizes—Total $5,000 to first 20 professionals; $1,000 to winner, with gold medal and custody of championship cup for one year.

DOW AHEARN PLAYS NICE GOLF IN STATE TOURNEY

NEW HAVEN, June 26—(AP)—A field of 170 golfers marched through two qualifying rounds in the 30th annual state championship over the New Haven and Race Brook courses today with Paul Haviland, Brooklawn star leading the pack home with a brilliant 145 to capture the medal honors. His two were 72-73—145.

Haviland, two years out of Yale college and winner of the tournament last year, unloosened an assortment of shots which were always straight and true but counted his best work on the greens where his putter was most deadly. Like a guiding light which seemed to lead the others on, Haviland's play spurred the players to shoot better than an ordinary game and those who scored over 160 were left out of the qualifying flight.

Most of the favorites finished in the first 32 with James Geoghegan, Middletown, being runner-up with two rounds of 74, for a total of 148. W. K. Reid, Farmington, with 148 and Dow Ahearn, Willimantic youth with 149, were the others to break the century and a half mark.

Two of those who qualified were youths whom much is expected of in future tournaments even if they fail to come through in match play. They were Dow Ahearn, of Willimantic and Fred Jarvis, Jr., Goodwin Park. Ahearn lived up to all the nice things that have been said about him by scoring rounds of 76 and 73. Jarvis, a schoolboy last year, was fifth today with 151.

TAFTVILLE A. L. BLANKS ROTARY IN JUNIOR GAME

The Taftville American Legion team won another one-sided game in the Junior twilight league Wednesday evening, applying a coat of white-wash to the Rotary club, 10 to 0.

The Taftville boys clearly outclassed their rivals and from the opening frame on the result was never in doubt.

Taftville scored once in the first, twice in the second and in the third counted seven times bringing their total to 10, where it remained for the rest of the game.

The Rotary could do little with Liberty's offerings and threw away what little chance they did have to score, by erratic playing on the bases. The score:

Tonight's Game

Tonight's game in the Junior Twilight league is between the Duwells and the Y. M. C. A.

These two teams seem fairly evenly matched and a good contest should result. Although the Duwells have not yet won a game, they are out to break into the win column tonight, while the "Y" are equally desirous of putting a game on the right side of the ledger.

Game will be called at 6:30 p. m. sharp.

REDS RALLY IN SIXTH TO BEAT PIRATES

PITTSBURGH, June 26—(AP)—Pounding out five of their eight hits in the sixth inning, the Reds today defeated Pittsburgh 6 to 4, in the first game of the series here. The attack on Kremer netted Cincinnati five runs.

Luque pitched good ball in the pinches. All of the Pirates' counters were accounted for by extra base blows. Paul Waner hit a home run in the first inning and Grantham had two triples and a double. Score:

TAFTVILLE PLAYS AGAINST LOOMFIXERS THIS EVENING

The Taftville A. C. will meet one of the hardest oppositions of the season when they clash with the local Loomfixers tonight. This game should be a star attraction and draw the biggest crowd of the season. Last week the manager of the Taftville team received a challenge from the Loomfixers for a game for this week. This team is composed of old time ball players and feel sure that they can outplay the younger players representing the A. C. team. They will present a strong lineup in T. Prive, catch; E. Mercier, formerly of the strong Bearcats, short stop or pitch; P. Dugas, brother of the famous Lefty Dugas, either short stop or pitch, H. Lamoureux will play at first, he formerly played with the old Taftville team; W. Peltier, one of the fastest men on the team, at second; D. Morsy, of the old Occum team, at third; F. Fytmont will play left field with Fred Caplet in center while that well-known loomfixer, J. Dercoster, will be seen in right field. A. Tetreault and R. Robert will be held in reserve. This team should give the younger players a tussle for they are out to do what no other team has done this season.

Against this team the Taftville A. C. will put out their fastest lineup so as to keep their record. Charlie Lamoureux will do the receiving with Dee Gaudette or P. Finn doing the hurling; Lloyd Jarvis, first base; Hal Cummings will play at second with Steffy Cimikowsky at the dizzy corner, Tombari at short, S. Finn left field, Gaudette or P. Finn center, Buck LaCroix right field. Pepin will be held in reserve. It is expected that the loomfixers will wear their new uniforms for this game. Game called at 6:30.

BROWNS NOW NEAR YANKS BY BEATING INDIANS

ST. LOUIS, June 26—(AP)—The Browns were but a half game behind the runner-up New York Yankees as a result of their 6 to 2 victory over Cleveland here today, evening up the series count at two games each.

Manush, Schulte and Melillo were the big guns of the 11 hit St. Louis attack on Pitcher Hudlin, each with two safeties. The Indians collected seven off Collins. Score:

Susie Says

Do girls blush now? Or is it that we just can't see it under lacquer finish?

Remember when you and I were young girls (I won't mention how long ago) how we used to blush upon the slightest provocation? Believe me, it takes more than a provocation to make 'em show red today.

My goodness, remember how fussed up we were if we caught Johnny looking at an ankle peeping from under those long skirts? And today the girls get sore if he don't look.

Remember when Johnny was courting you how embarrassed you were when he asked if he might kiss your hand? And now Miss 1929 puts Johnny down as a flat tire if he don't try to put within five minutes after he's been introduced.

And on Sundays, remember what a thrill you got when Johnny drove up in the buggy he hired from the livery stable to take you for a ride. Johnny had paid $2 for the rig and spent another two bits for a bag of old-fashioned chocolates.

Today, Johnny slides up to the curb in his roadster with the brakes squealing and toots his horn in front of the house. He's bought a dollar's worth of gas and three dollars worth of anti-prohibition fluid or a five pound box of candy, depending on her taste.

And remember in the good old days how Johnny (after you were engaged, of course) would look up and down the road and then lean over and just give you a peck on the cheek. Gosh, didn't he think he'd done a bold bad thing.

And today, you see Johnny and his girl snuggled up close together as they ride through the streets and if Johnny feels like it he just says "Give me a kiss" and before she can answer he's taken it—whether it's on Franklin square or Main street.

And Mary's heart doesn't miss a beat and she don't blush—not that we can see, anyway. What's a kiss more or less to Miss 1929. And what's more she's just as good as Miss 1899, the only thing is she don't mind a gallery.

And people are so used to seeing this today they never give it a thought while years ago if Johnny was seen to even be holding Mary's hand the news went around the sewing circle that they were engaged.

Today, you have to see 'em going up the church aisle before you're certain they are engaged.

ATHLETICS NOSE OUT RED SOX IN ELEVENTH

PHILADELPHIA, June 26—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics won their fifth straight game and swept the series with the Boston Red Sox today by taking the final from the tail-enders, 6 to 5. A Red Sox rally in the last inning came within a run of tying the score.

Bing Miller, Mack right-fielder, ran his hitting streak to 27 consecutive games by hitting Milt Gaston for a single and a two-bagger. Ken Williams hit a home run in the first inning and in the second Jimmy Foxx started a Mack rally by whacking his fourteenth home run of the season.

The Athletics' wrecking crew only made eight hits off Gaston, who "coilared" Haas, Cochrane and Simmons. Haas had hit in 20 straight games previous to today's. Score:

GIANTS BEAT VANCE RED SOX BY 6 TO 5 SCORE

NEW YORK, June 26—(AP)—The Giants conquered their Brooklyn jinx here this afternoon when they shaded Dazzy Vance by 3 to 2 in eleven innings for their only victory in the series of four games. Carl Mays and Jack Scott divided the pitching, holding Brooklyn to five hits, and Scott drove home the winning run when he followed O'Farrell's double with a single after two men had been retired.

The big break for New York came in the fourth when, with the bases filled and none out, Bob Hart, the umpire, put Mays out of the game for protesting a decision which cost the Giants a run. Scott pulled out of that hole, and had no trouble over the rest of the route. He gave the Robins just two hits in eighth innings. Score:

Ideal Service Club Wins

Tony Bernard's Ideal Service baseball team defeated the Jewett City All Stars Monday evening at the J. B. Martin's baseball diamond by the score of 6 to 2. The features of the game were the heavy hitting of William Gley, star first baseman of the service team and the fine one hand running catch of Liberty's line drive by Bill Shugrue. The lineup for the service team was: Albert Delworth, c; Robert Shaw, p; William Gley, 1b; Riordan, 2b; Keller, 3b; Decelles, ss; Joey, lf; Tourcotte, cf; and "Bill" Shugrue, rf.

This game makes two victories for the gasoline crowd out of three games played with one defeat being administered by the Ashland A. C. of Jewett City by the score of 6 to 2. Bob Shaw, who pitched Monday's game, twirled a very nice game and had the All Stars eating off his hand.

Polish A. C. at Ashland Sunday

The Polish Citizens of the Norwich Industrial league are to play Sunday at Ashland park against Ashland A. C., whom they have once defeated. Ashland won from the Willetts A. C. of New London, Sunday, 5 to 3, this being their fourth straight victory. The Polish A. C. have a strong club and are coming to Jewett City Sunday to break the winning streak of the Ashland club.

JARVIS' HOMER IN SEVENTH GIVES RICHMOND'S A WIN OVER SMOKE SHOP

A ball game with more thrills than Dick Merriwell or any of the dime novel artists ever crowded into an exhibition of the national pastime was won by the Richmond Radiators from the Smoke Shop club at the Academy campus last night by a score of 5 to 4. A sense of description bordering close to imagination would be necessary to properly cover the many sensational plays that kept the 400 or more fans in a state of excitement for seven full innings.

The outstanding thriller, which came in the wake of no less than a score of others was provided in the very last inning by none other than Lloyd Jarvis, Richmond outfielder. With the score favoring the Smoke Shop 4 to 1 in the early seventh, Lloyd came to bat with one away and men on second and third. Just as it appeared as if Lucier would strike him out for the third consecutive time, the hero of two N. F. A. state championship teams, caught hold of a fast one and bounced it off the manual training building roof, in right. While the ball was bouncing merrily around the top of the building Lloyd completed the circuit, following in Cimikowski and Lamory with the tying run.

Before the crowd had hardly time to digest Jarvis feat, Gaudette hit one of Lucier's offerings into right for a single and scored the winning run when Blinderman lifted a herculean swipe over the left field fence for three bases. Burke ended the inning by fanning.

Both Leo Jarvis and Lucier pitched nice ball and both deserved to win, especially the latter who until the final and fatal seventh had allowed but three scattered hits and fanned nine. Jarvis gave six hits, struck out one and walked one. His two errors, however, figured in the Smokers' big inning, the sixth, when they scored four runs. As was previously mentioned it would be almost impossible to credit every one for the brilliant plays that were made. Special mention however, is due Gaudette, Moulder centerfielder, Cimikowski of the same outfit and Chubby Gibbs, Smoker shortfielder.

Gaudette pulled down six nice catches in center, Cimmy had a putout and five assists at third and Gibbs turned in a putout and three assists, all nice plays. Gaudette and Cimmy led the hitters with two safeties each, while Gibbs, with a two bagger accounted for one of his team's six tallies. Fitzgerald, Smoke Shop outfielder also had two hits, scratch ones.

The first Radiator run came in the third on Gaudette's single, his stolen base and Kampf's hit through short. The Smokers made their runs in the sixth on three hits, three errors and at least two good breaks. Prior to Jarvis' homer in the seventh Cimikowski had doubled and went to third on Lamory's single. The score:

Tonight's Game.

The strategy of Tommy Simcox, veteran of several hundred ball games will figure prominently in the Dusty league game at the Academy campus tonight, Simmy, now a member of the Thermos Bottle nine will be called upon to check the onrush of Y. M. C. A. sluggers.

In the two games that they have played to date the Yers have won both, scoring 28 runs on 31 hits. Of the 31 hits, 14 have been extra base smashes. Although Tommy has seen a good number of baseball years and probably is not as active as some of the more modern hurlers, it is almost safe to say that the members of the Y team will not figure in a third picnic this evening. Cimmy knows his batters and is very careful what he serves them, especially the members of the Eccleston-Dugas trio.

PENN COMMISSION ISSUES ULTIMATUM TO SONNENBERG

PHILADEDPHIA, June 26—(AP)—The Pennsylvania state athletic commission today requested Gus Sonnenberg and Ed "Strangler" Lewis, to give other worthy contenders a chance at the title or suffer official banishment from the grappling field in this state.

Sonnenberg is the present holder of the world's heavyweight title. Lewis, from whom he won it last January, will try to recover the crown in a match at Boston July 9.

The Pennsylvania commission decided that the winner of the July 9 bout meet either Hans Steinke, Richard Shikat, or Jim Londos not later than September 8 and sign for the match not later than July 23.

Chairman Frank Weiner announced that the Pennsylvania commission's action will be backed by the National Boxing association.

WESTERLY

SMMMER BAND CONCERTS WILL START HIS EVENING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, June 26—The summer series of band concerts in Wilcox park will be inaugurated on Thursday evening, when the Westerly band, Charles O. Gavitt, director, will render its first concert from the band stand near the knoll. This will be Director Gavitt's 25th season as leader and the 25th annual series of Wilcox park concerts by the Westerly band.

A drive is being made at the present time by circular letter and subscriptions from firms, societies and individuals to secure $400 or $500 to be added to the $100 annual appropriation made by the town council through the budget appropriated at the annual town financial meeting. The money obtained is used by the band to purchase music.

The program will be as follows: March, Salutation, (Seitz); overture, Sunshine and Shade, (Packer); cornet solo, Premier Polka, (Casey), Master Aubrey Steadman; popular air, Sweethearts on Parade, (Newman); Gems From The Burgomaster, (Mackie); march, University of Penn., (Seitz); popular air, Honey, (Feist); selection, Sullivan Operatic Gems, (Seredy); waltz, Tesoro Mio, (Becucci); Patrol American, (Meacham); popular air, My Castle From Spain, (Deist); Neapolitan song, O Sole Mio, (Di-Capua); march, Washington Post, (Sousa); finale, Star Spangled Banner, (Key).

Much credit has been given by Westerly polite and other witnesses to Foreman James Hamilton of the Westerly highway department in his securing the body of 14-year-old Sylvester Algiere, who was drowned in the old abandoned Catto quarry hole on Tuesday afternoon. The outline of the body appeared as but a blurred white patch in over twelve feet of water and could not be dislodged by those working from the shore. But one dive was taken by Hamilton to secure the body and bring it to shore where he was assisted by Donald Fraser, who resides at 5 Joshua street, not far from the scene of the drowning.

WESTERLY HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES CLASS OF 69

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Jupne 26—Sixty-nine seniors, members of the class of 1929, Westerly high school, received diplomas at the Westerly town hall Wednesday afternoon in the 55th annual commencement exercises of the high school. The auditorium was taxed to its seating capacity by the many relatives and friends of the graduating class who marched in cap and gown from the high school across Broad street and return.

The Dartmouth scholarship was awarded to Byron O. McCoy, son of O. R. McCoy, superintendent of schools of the townships of Hopkinton, Charlestown and Richmond. The Grace Paula Scanlon Memorial prize was awarded to Miss Mildred Eisquit and the Italian scholarship prizes went to Fred Dotolo, winner of the first place, and Anthony Antionetti, who won second honors.

The College club prize was awarded for the second consecutive year to Mary Sheppard Kenyon, student at Radcliffe college for excellency in scholarship.

The program opened with the invocation by Rev. Lewis A. Walker, followed by a selection, "With Glory Glad," by the high school chorus. The salutatory address was delivered by Miss Edna Sophia Latondress and the valedictory by Gordon Michie, Jr.

The class of graduates was presented to the school committee by the principal, Charles E. Mason, and the diplomas were awarded by Mrs. Walter S. Price. The Martha C. Babcock Memorial prizes were awarded by Percy Kingsley, member of the faculty of the South Kingstown high school. The other judges who served with Mr. Kingsley were Miss Mary C. Wilcox and Charles Starr Barker.

SEASIDE SUPERINTENDENT DESCRIBES WORK DONE AT SANATORIUM

Dr. John F. O'Brien, superintendent of The Seaside, Connecticut's sanatorium for children crippled by bone tuberculosis, which is located at Crescent beach, gave an instructive talk on the work that is done at the sanatorium, when he spoke Tuesday night over the radio from WTIC in the series given under the auspices of the Hartford Medical society.

Under the title of "A Voice from the Seaside" Dr. O'Brien spoke as follows:

In your mind's eye, picture a beautiful stretch of white sandy beach on a sunny day. Look out over the vast expanse of water. Each little ripple gleaming in the sun makes you conscious of the dazzling brightness of the day. Feel the stimulation of the stiff ocean breeze. As you are dreamily gazing out over the water, the sound of children's voices compels you to turn around. You find yourself facing a school room; a school room such as you have never seen before—a real open air school. Its ceiling is the blue sky, its floor the sand of the beach. On the north side is a concrete wall about six feet high which projects forward on each side as a pair of wings, affording some protection from the wind on three sides; but there is nothing on the south to shut off the breeze from the water or the sunshine reflected from the waves.

Sitting or reclining on the sand, are the pupils and their teacher, all interested in their work. Never have you seen such bright eyes, such happy faces. Except for a very short pair of bloomers, each child is naked. They seem so healthy and so brown! Yet as you look more closely, you perceive that some of them are lying fastened on frames. Others have various parts of their bodies supported by plaster-of-paris bandages, while still others have swelling or scars on their necks.

A Chance for Health.

Although their general appearance does not suggest it, all these children are suffering from tuberculosis. Not tuberculosis of the lungs, but tuberculosis of the bone, of the skin, of other parts of the body. And in this ideal spot, with her whitest sand, with her cleanest waters, with her brightest sunlight, with her bluest sky, and her purest air, Connecticut is offering to these unfortunate children the opportunity of fighting their way back to health. Children of the poor, children of the moderately comfortable, and children of the well-to-do all receive here the same treatment and care. To this end, the purse strings of the state have been loosened and liberal appropriations have been made for expansion. Even in opposition to the private interests of influential individuals, the state has insisted that these children have their little stretch of beach where the healing rays of the sun, intensified by the white sand and the salt water, may come in contact with their naked bodies; where the ocean breeze may temper for them the heat of the summer, and the chill of the winter, where the maximum amount of time may be spent in their open air school.

If you were actually at The Seaside in person, instead of in fancy, and if your ears were attuned to the thoughts of these children, you would hear a plaintive little prayer going up to heaven for additional beach front in order that a modern fire proof building might be erected to replace their present unsuitable quarters. And with the optimism of youth, in spite of disappointments and postponements, they have confidence that their prayer will be granted.

Play as Well as School.

But there is time here for play as well as for school. And after they have had a swim in the ocean you may see The Seaside Brownies lining up for baseball practice. With some of their best players discharged as cured, the series of games with the summer visitors threatens to be a more formidable affair than heretofore. As the pitcher winds up, you notice that he has a curved back as well as a curved ball. This deformity, he will tell you, developed long before he ever thought or heard of sunlight and fresh air treatment; but that it began to improve after he entered The Seaside where he spent his first two years reclining on his back, and the next year, up and about, supported by a plaster-of-paris jacket; and that he thinks his back would now be straight if he had come earlier for treatment. As the catcher stoops over for the ball you notice he holds his knee out straight, showing that the joint is stiff. However, he is proud of that straight limb, although it has no motion. For seven years of his life it has been bent almost to a right angle. Then it was necessary for him to support it with his hand at every step.

As little Joe stands on first base, he reminds one of a knight of old in armour, being encased in plaster-of-paris from his head to his hips. However uncomfortable he appears in this unyielding splint, he claims it is all worth while, because with it he has so improved! If you question him, he will tell you how he was carried into the sanatorium three years ago totally paralysed from his hips down. But as you see him now running about and admire his sturdy legs, you will find it difficult to believe that he could have been so helpless.

The other bases and the field positions, you observe, are occupied by children whose limbs denote impairment of function of some of the other joints. At bat is Babe Ruth. For here, also we have a Bambino. Surely, you think there can be nothing wrong with a boy who can swing a bat like that, and who can run bases so fast. But when you question him, you learn that he spent three years on a frame, one year with a plaster jacket, and that he is now about ready to go home. His back is now perfectly straight. And as he bends, you notice there is no impairment of motion.

Sun Treatment for Bed Patients.

Leaving the Brownies at their game let us go into the sanatorium where about half the patients are confined to bed. These also receive sun treatment. They are wheeled onto an open air porch where their bed covering is removed. You notice, that they too, are as brown as berries, in marked contrast to the pallor you are accustomed to see in sick children confined for any length of time in a hospital. Perhaps your curiosity may be sufficiently aroused to ask, those in charge of the patients how the sun can effect a cure. You learn that the exact action is not clearly understood, but that it is believed some of the energy of the sun is absorbed by the blood in the skin and carried to all the organs of the body, enabling them to function to better advantage, and permitting the defensive forces of the body to overcome infections that might otherwise end disastrously. If you remark that this treatment might be taken in a sun parlor, in warmth and comfort, or with some form of artificial light, you very promptly learn that under the condition suggested not all the essential radiant energy would be present. And, moreover, there would be lacking the very valuable adjunct to sunlight treatment; namely, the exposure of the body to the action of fresh air. And you would be referred to the numerous investigators who have studied the benefits of fresh air. The consensus of opinion on this subject is that fresh, cool air exerts its beneficial effects through its contact with the skin and not through any action on the lungs.

No doubt, as you watch these happy children at their play, you realize what an ideal place the shore is for them at this time of the year. However, some doubt enters your mind. How about the winter, you ask yourself. You wonder how these children, who wear no clothing at any time of the year, spend their time then. If your imagination can be further taxed try to picture these same children out sliding on the hills after the rather infrequent snow storms, or skating on the pond when it is frozen over, and you marvel how they can be so comfortable and how they can seem to enjoy themselves at winter sports just as much as children who are fully clad.

Compensations.

And then, too, there are other compensations. You must remember that Christmas time comes in the winter, a thing of no small importance to these children. If you could spend a Christmas at The Seaside, if you could assist in trimming the Christmas tree with its assortment of gifts, and after having gone to bed tired with your labors, if you could then half awaken from slumber to hear a Christmas carol sung with the sweetness only to be found in happy children's voices; if you could in that half dreamy state, feel the uncertainty of its origin, whether earthly or heavenly; if you would then fully awaken to look out over the snow and see their little naked brown bodies silhouetted on the white snow as they give their early morning serenade to the nurses and the doctor; if later in the day you could see with me the eager light in their eyes while receiving their packages and hear their shouts of joy at having a real Santa Claus distribute them then only could you form an appreciation of what this day of days means to them.

Without Clothing in Winter.

Perhaps by now, although you must admit the value of sunlight and fresh air as applied to the uncovered skin in the treatment of disease, some doubt enters your mind as to whether the risk involved in going without clothing in the winter, might be so great as to contra-indicate such heroic treatment.

A woman from Boston who had seen the children on the beach during a cold November day wrote a letter expressing this same idea. She was willing to concede that the treatment must be beneficial because of the general appearance of well being of the children she had seen, but she also felt certain that while they were being hardened to the rigors of the winter, a large percentage of them must die from exposure, and she asked just what percentage suffered that fate. We wrote back saying that there was no mortality at all from the exposure to cold; that the incidence of diseases which in the minds of most people are ordinarily associated with a chilling of the body was practically nil, and that in a period of over nine years, during which this type of treatment had been applied, there had not been a single instance where any malady had seemed to be caused in this way.

No Pneumonia Cases.

Never have we had a child with pneumonia, although the institution was visited by two epidemics of whooping cough and one of measles, in both of which diseases, pneumonia under ordinary circumstances so frequently complicate the problem.

Croup, so commonly seen by the physician in civil practice, is almost unheard of at The Seaside, having occurred in only two instances. Tonsillitis is regarded, and justly so, as a serious disease because it so frequently induces heart disease. St. Vitus dance, rheumatic fever or kidney trouble. In order to prevent the occurrence of these terrible diseases, many physicians advise their patients to keep warm, often insisting on woolen underclothing. And yet, among our children who play naked in the snow, we have yet to see heart trouble, St. Vitus dance, rheumatic fever, or kidney trouble. In our experience, exposure of the naked body to the cold, not only does not predispose to the diseases above mentioned and to other infectious which we ordinarily describe as common colds, but on the contrary is a more effective method of preventing them.

Mammoth Sweet Potatoes

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Sweet potatoes weighing 10 pounds each were produced without supervision of a gardener in a plot of ground at the home of Mrs. Frank Jefferies.

Suffered With Eczema in Large Patches. Healed by Cuticura.

"Eczema broke out in large, red patches on my hands and feet. I suffered with it during one winter. It was of a dry nature and itched and burned causing me to scratch and rub until I broke the skin. I could not sleep on account of the irritation. I had to wear rubber gloves when I put my hands in water.

"Cuticura Soap and Ointment were recommended so I purchased some and got relief right away. I continued using them and in three weeks' time the trouble entirely disappeared. I was healed." (Signed) Miss Flora E. Stevens, Box 5, Chaplin, Conn.

FARM WEEK AT C. A. C.

A chance to study the latest developments in farming methods and farm business practices, to discuss with their fellows and with specialists in the field the puzzling problems of rural life in this rapidly changing period, to swim and play and sing and read and talk together for four days is offered to the farmers in Connecticut in the Young Farmers' conference which is to be one of the features of Farm and Home week at the Connecticut Agricultural college this coming August.

At the same time inspiring courses for women will be open for the wives, and children will be cared for each day from 8 to 5, so that the whole family may come to college for what might well make up the ideal vacation—if one can call so busy and profitable a period a vacation—for the whole farm family.

To say that children will be "cared for" is putting it mildly. The "care" will include kindergarten work, group singing, directed play, story hours, etc., for the younger ones, and nature observation hikes, handicraft work, together with play, stories singing and other activities for the older ones.

The courses that will be open for election by the farmers themselves will include dairying, poultry raising, vegetable gardening, fruit growing, potato raising, soil fertility and farm management. The farm management course will be given by Dr. Carl E. Ladd of Cornell university and should constitute an important feature of the week's work.

The other agricultural courses will be given by members of the faculty of the college and will present the most recent and most significant findings in the respective fields. They will be thoroughly practical at the same time that they portray the newer scientific developments in the subjects covered.

The faculty giving the local courses will incude Prof. White, Dr. McAlpine, Mr. Owens, Dr. Dorsey, Mr. Brown, Mr. Wilkinson, Prof. Hollister, Mr. Jones and Prof. Warner.

A course in Rural Problems will be given by Dr. Robert Foster of the United States department of agriculture. Organized recreation will be under the leadership of Mr. Bradford of the Playgrounds association of America, and group singing will be led by Mr. Burwell of Waterbury.

All three of these men are outstanding in their respective fields and have been at Storrs before, so that the quality of their leadership is known to many in the state.

A feature of the week for those who care for it will be an evening reading hour, when one of the leading interpreters of literature of the country will read the things he enjoys and that he knows his audience will appreciate, and will comment on them briefly.—A. W. Manchester at Connecticut Agricultural college.

THE OKRA MOVES NORTH

Vegetables nowadays do not enjoy any sectional exclusiveness. A vegetable that has become a popular favorite in one part of the country in years past no longer remains the peculiar possession of that region but finds its way all over the country either commercially or horticulturally or both. The okra or gumbo is an excellent example. The gumbo originally was a dish characteristic and peculiar to the southern states, a thick soup owing its consistency to the mucilaginous quality and flavor of the gumbo pod or seed pod of the okra.

The okra is botanically a hibiscus and therefore a full sister to the hollyhock, cotton plant and to the handsome greenhouse shrubs which retain the botanical name as their special and exclusive prerogative. The okra or gumbo is now eaten as a vegetable by itself as well as being the essential of the famous soups known as gumbos. It is a hot weather plant and it is now just about the time to start the seed. Under most favorable conditions it will grow six feet high but this is not likely in northern gardens. Three or four feet will be an excellent stature. It does best on rich warm soil and benefits by constant cultivation.

A well grown plant is ornamental, having single hollyhock-like creamy blossoms. The seed should be soaked over night in lukewarm water before planting as it is rather slow and uncertain of germination otherwise. The plants should be thinned or transplanted to at least a foot and a half apart.

The pods are ready for use when half grown. They are sliced and cooked in soup or the entire pod is stewed and eaten as a vegetable. Another method of cooking them is frying them in butter. They have a distinct and delicate flavor which is much liked by some while it does not appeal to others except in soups. The pods are ready to be harvested about ten days after the flower drops so the produce of the plant is speedy. They should be kept pickled. The old and woody pods are useless for food and if allowed to form will discourage the continued production of the young and edible pods.

HINTS FOR THE FARMER

A short-cut method of testing cows for production can be used in districts where the herds are too small to warrant the expense of regular monthly testing. This method, whereby testing is done one day every two months, enables dairymen to have them tested at reasonable cost and with a fair degree of accuracy.

It is unprofitable to cut Sudan grass for hay before it has begun to head. The hay is not quite so good but there is little loss if the grass is allowed to grow until the seed even has reached the soft-dough stage. Only one cutting then is needed to harvest the crop and get a maximum yield of forage.

During the breeding season the boar should be given all the feed he will clean up twice a day. It is desirable to feed corn in addition to a thick slop of middlings or shorts, to which may be added a small quantity of tankage, fish meal or old-process linseed oil. When pasture is not available good quality alfalfa hay should be supplied in a rack. Salt and mineral mixture also should be provided.

If cows are fed grain while suckling their calves, the calves will learn readily to eat it; but if the cows are grazed it is more difficult to get calves started on feed which should be liberally supplied through the season of short pasture.

Control of tulip "breaking," a condition in which the color of the petals is not uniform but appears in irregular stripes and bands, depends on how well the mosaic disease causing it is thwarted. Infested stock should be separated from healthy tulips in planting, rigid rouging practiced during the growing season, and sprays or dust used when aphids infest the plants.

The production of many good dairy cows is lessened because they do not get plenty of pure, fresh water. High-producing cows sometimes will drink 100 pounds or more water a day.

Treatment with caustic soda will improve the strength of glued joints of certain woods that often have weak or inferior joints when glued into doors, furniture and other articles. A 10 per cent solution gives the best result on sugar maple, yellow birch, white and red oak, red gum, black cherry basswood and osage orange. The solution is brushed on the surface of wood to be joined, wiped with cloth after 10 minutes, and allowed to dry before being glued.

LONG STAPLE COTTON GIVEN PRICE BOOST

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. —(AP)— J. L. Greer, first to breed long staple cotton in this country, is to reap a reward for his labors. New standards of cotton classification, effective August 1, place a premium on long staple. Rates are to be governed by staple length.

It was Greer's abiding faith that such a plan eventually would be adopted when he started breeding long staple varieties nearly 30 years ago. From his farm in suburban Iowa Park he has introduced seed into every section of the cotton belt as well as many states o. Mexico.

Chance discovery of an extra large plant on his farm near Nacosdoches, Tex., led to Greer's life work. From it he has developed a variety which bears his name and which he believes will compete with Egyptian cotton in the manufacture of automobile tires. Outstanding in its habits of fruiting, the variety created such a demand that five years ago Greer established extra breeding farms in south Texas and Louisiana.

NEBRASKA PARADES "TEN-IN-ONE" COW

LINCOLN, Neb. —(AP)— Nebraska has a "ten-in-one" cow. She is not a freak, but the University of Nebraska, which owns her, says she is the greatest cow in the world.

For the last three milking periods, 1,175 days, she has averaged 10 gallons of milk a day, or as much as 10 cows ordinarily produce. Her name is Beauty Girl Gerben Rebecky, and she is a pure-bred Holstein.

She could be the foster mother of an entire village. Ten gallons of milk would fill 175 bottles, enough for the baby population of quite a village. It would fill the milk bottles on 40 doorsteps, or it would serve a glass of milk to 160 customers in a restaurant.

If the milk were separated, the cream would be enough for the coffee cups of more than 160 patrons and the surplus could be churned into butter for two slices of toast to go with each cup of coffee. Then the skim milk would feed either 12 calves, 20 pigs or 300 hens.

POTATO GROWER'S NAME GOING INTO HOUSEHOLD

CADILLAC, Mich. —(AP)— The Michigan Potato Growers exchange has conceived a scheme to develop a household preference for its product.

It is going to sell fine potatoes in 15-pound cloth sacks on which its name and trademark will be stamped. Consumers will take the one-peck bags home with them, learn the name of the exchange, and buy that particular brand of potatoes the next time. It is hoped. Heretofore the exchange has shipped 100 and 150-pound sacks that never left the retailer's store room.

A car of 2,400 peck-sacks recently was shipped to Buffalo. Simultaneously, the exchange placed a display advertisement in Buffalo newspapers. Within a few hours the entire carload was sold and many repeat orders were received. The exchange is the central sales agency for 50 local potato cooperatives.

Maryland Egg Contest

COLLEGE PARK, Md. —(AP)— One thousand hens are under competition in the fourth annual state egg-laying contest being conducted by the University of Maryland xperiment station. In the thirtieth week the Leghorn entry of Dr. L. E. Heasley, Grand Rapids, Mich., holds first place with a score of 1,513 eggs.

RAILROADS AND UTILITIES AT RECORD HIGH LEVELS IN ACTIVE STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, June 26—(AP)—Strong rallying tendencies again developed in today's stock market, with the railroad and public utility averages mounting to record high levels and the industrial average lifted to within 5 points of the peak established just prior to the May reaction. Trading showed a marked expansion in volume, the day's sales aggregating 4,029,740 shares, as against a recent average turnover of around 3,000,000 shares.

Credit conditions were unchanged, the call money rate holding steady at 10 per cent. Withdrawal of funds by New York banks and large corporations in preparation for mid-year settlements were offset by the increased volume of offerings from foreign and out-of-town banks. While bankers are reluctant to predict the course of the money market this week because of the many conflicting factors involved, no Wrepetition of the 20 per cent call rate reached in March is anticipated although a flurry to 12 per cent would not be surprising.

Wall street looks for another large increase in federal reserve brokers' loans tomorrow, due not only to the revival of bullish activity this week but to the increase in borrowings made necessary by the expiration of stock purchase "rights". Buying operations today again centered in the high grade industrials, rails and public utilities, but opinion was divided as to whether this represented an enlarged investment demand or merely a maneuver on the part of large operators to center their operations in those issues in order to revive speculative confidence in the general market.

Except for the publication of another series of favorable earnings statements, particularly by the Class 1 carriers, there were few developments in the day's news to influence the price movement. Merger and stock split-up rumors, however, played an important part in the day's operations. Wall street heard that U. S. steel common would be split up 2 for 1 before the end of the year, that a similar split-up would take place in United Corporation, that the executive committee of the Baldwin Locomotive Co., would recommend a 4 for 1 split-up in the common stock tomorrow and enlarge the capitalization further to permit the acquisition of new companies and that Wright and Curtiss would enter into a huge aviation consolidation.

The market started off at a fairly brisk pace, several blocks of 5,000 to 15,000 shares changing hands in the early trading, but heavy profit-taking developed in the late afternoon and cut down, or wiped out, many of the early gains. Final quotations were irregularly higher, with a number of recent favorites such as American Can, Chrysler, General Motors, Packard Motors and Radio closing a point or more lower. Columbia Carbon and Brooklyn Union Gas each dropped about 5 points.

General Electric advanced to a new high at 217 5-8 and then dropped back to 213 1-4, up 4 1-4. U. S. Steel common crokaed 190 to the highest price recorded on the increased capitalization and then eased to 188 7-8, up 4 points net. New high prices also were established by such widely assorted issues as Allied Chemical, Allis Chalmers, International Telephone, Public Service of New Jersey, Westinghouse Electric, Auburn Motors, Kinney Co., National Dairy Products and Timken Roller Bearing.

On of the interesting features of the session was the brisk demand for Pirelli Co. sponsored by the Morgan and National City interests. Coppers and oils were among the few important groups to show no outstanding points of strength.

In the rail group, new highs were recorded by Atchison, Pennsylvania, "Big Four," Chesapeake & Ohio, Union Pacific and Norfolk & Western, but the gains were not fully maintained. Missouri-Kansas-Texas changed hands in large volume, approaching to within a small fraction of the year's high of 55 and then easing to 53.

Commodity markets drifted lower. Wheat dropped about 3 1-2 cents a bushel in the early trading but made up most of its gain on buying influenced by bullish Argentine crop reports. Corn showed little change on the day. Cotton closed 50 cents a bale higher to 50 cents a bale lower after a firm opening.

Foreign exchange trading was quiet, with no important changes in rates.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, June 26—(AP)—After many rapid changes, down and up, wheat prices today closed under extreme tension for at almost the exact level of 24 hours before. Rains regarded as of much benefit to the spring wheat crop in Canada tended to pull values down, but on the other hand domestic wheat crop advices southwest and northwest alike were decidedly pessimistic, and at times hoisted the market fast. Lowest estimates yet received were current as to the result of 1929 wheat production both in Kansas and Oklahoma.

Wheat finished nervous, unchanged to 1-8c lower, with corn 1-8 to 1 1-8c up, oats unchanged to 3-8c off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 12c.

The sharpest bulge in wheat prices today came shortly before the close, and accompanied estimates from a Kansas milling concern that wheat yields in Kansas and Oklahoma this season would not exceed 115,000,000 bushel and 55,000,000 bushel respectively for the two states referred to. Moreover, it was stated that on account of excessive rains southwest, cold is being found in wheat shocks. Meanwhile, dry weather complaints came from No. Dakota. The quick ensuing upturn in prices, though, led to a big selling rush, and the market tumbled back in a hurry.

Forecasts of rain tonight in Canada and in domestic wheat territory south of the Canadian boundary had much to do with late pressure to sell on advances in price. Earlier, too, special significance was attached to the fact that rains furnishing relief from drought were reported in Saskatchewan province, Canada, as well as in the province of Alberta. The former province is the heaviest wheat-producing section of Canada, and until now appears to have had hardly half the average rainfall for this time of the season.

Western Nebraska wheat crop conditions attracted considerable notice today, dispatches from there telling of high winds and dearth of moisture. Messages from South Dakota said another week without rain would make that large areas of that state would barely make seed.

Commission houses were persistent buyers today of December delivery of corn. As a consequence, that delivery rose to a new high-price record for the season. The buying of December was based a good deal on numerous reports indicating that growth of the new corn crop is seriously behind schedule. Near-by deliveries of corn were offered more freely than December. Oats values were eased by favorable oats crop advices.

Provisions inclined downward, sympathizing with hog values.

CAT MOTHERS THREE SILVER FOX PUPPIES

McGREGOR, Iowa (AP)—Expensive fur neck-pieces can be raised by hand very nicely if one has the help of a kind-hearted cat.

When Mrs. W. A. Stevens, who has a silver fox farm here, found a mother fox taking her maternal responsibilities too lightly, she sat up nights with the three puppies until she located a cat with newborn kittens.

The cat was rushed by train from another town, and, somewhat bashful at first, was persuaded to accept the additions to her family. She nursed them to sturdy fox-hood and now her foster children have far outgrown her.

In a few months they'll be full grown and worth from $300 to $1,000.

GOVERNMENT SEEKS WAY TO AID FINDING CURE FOR CANCER

WASHINGTON (AP)—First scientists will sit in judgment to find what the federal government can do to aid in ridding the world of cancer.

From the testimony of research experts, plans will be placed before congress for a scientific attack on the disease.

The senators forming a sub-committee of the commerce committee, are Wesley L. Jones, Washington, chairman; Charles L. McNary, Oregon; Arthur H. Vandenburg, Michigan; William J. Harris, Georgia, and Royal S. Copeland, New York.

Hearings will be called as soon as practicable. From the public health service, the National Academy of Sciences, and all executive departments and independent establishments of the government, suggestions will be sought.

The resolution for the investigation was introduced by Senator Harris. "Cancer deaths," he said, "are increasing. One-fourth of the women and one-fifth of the men who die after reaching the age of 40, succumb to cancer."

The findings are expected to be laid before the senate at the beginning of the next session at the latest.

SUPERIOR BRAIN WORK BEGINS VERY YOUNG

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Evidence that superior mental ability develops very young is presented to the American Association for the Advancement of Science in a report by Prof. Edward A. Lincoln of Harvard university.

He cites experiments in permitting underaged children to enter school. They are admitted if they can pass the entrance tests of the older children. Observation of their subsequent work for several years showed that not only had their mental talents developed early, but that they were brighter on the average, than the children of regular school age.

URGE FARMERS TO SELL WHEAT ON PROTEIN BASIS

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—Kansas, the "sickle" on the winter wheat belt, this summer will attempt to cheapen more farmers to sell wheat on a basis of protein content.

To this end two grain laboratories have been built to supplement the three now owned by the state. State representatives will be stationed at several strategic points to receive and forward grain samples to the laboratories. Wheat tests then will be available to [illegible]

Kansas [illegible] Fully comparable premiums [illegible] cents a bushel for each quarter per cent above the 1.5 [illegible]

Governor Clyde M. Reed announced the plan as the state prepared to harvest a crop estimated at 148,000,000 bushels.

A $250,000 libel suit brought against Otto Kahn, banker and art patron, by Rosalina Morlat, youthful singer, was dismissed by Supreme Court Justice Peters in New York.

POETRY.

To the Man who Fails.

Let others sing to the hero who wins
In the battle of life the prize,
Who, after the conflict, with laurels pure
Is crowned in such big style.

For him let them weave the laurel, to him be their paean sung, Whom the kindly fates have chosen, who are happy their loved among;
But mine be a different message, some soul in its stress to reach,
To bind o'er the wound of failure, the balm of cheering speech;
To whisper "Be up and doing, for courage at least prevails"—
I sing—who have supped with Failure
—I sing to the man who fails.

I know how the gray cloud darkens and mantles the soul in gloom;
I know how the mirk harkens so volcanic of doubt or of doom;
I know how the tempter mutters his terrible word, "Despair!"
But the heart has its secret chamber, and I know that our God is there.
Our years are as moments only; our failures He counts as naught;
The stone that the builders rejected, perchance is the one that He sought.
Mayhap, in the ultimate judgment, the effort alone avails,
And the laurel of great achievement shall be for the man who fails.

We sow in the darkness only, but the Reaper shall reap in light;
And the day of His perfect glory shall tell of the deeds of the night.
We gather our gold, and store it, and the whisper is heard, "Success!"
But, tell me, ye cold, white sleepers, what were an achievement less?
We struggle for fame and win it, and,
lo, like a fleeting breath,
It is lost in the realm of silence, whose ruler and king is Death.
Where are the Norseland heroes, the ghosts of a hoboic life's tales?
I sing—for the Father heeds him— I
sing to the man who fails.

Oh, men, who are labeled "failures," up, rise up! again and do!
Somewhere in the world of action is room; there is room for you.
No failure was e'er recorded, in the annals of truthful men,
Except of the craven-hearted who fails
nor attempts again.
The glory is in the doing, and not in the trophy won;
The walls that are laid in darkness may laugh to the kiss of the sun.
Oh, weary and worn and stricken, oh child of fate's cruel gates!
I sing—that it haply may cheer him—I
sing to the man who fails.

—Alfred J. Waterhouse.

Tettix

Clear and sweet, harmonious and winning,—
Bar intermingling with melodious bar,—
The tireless tettix with his violining
Filled all the sundown silence near and far.

And we, who loved the blithe note of the cricket
Beside the hearth when autumn days were bleak,
Hearing this home-like sound from mead and thicket,
Felt in our hearts a kinship for the Greek.

—Clinton Scollard, in "Songs of Sunrise Land."

HUMOR OF THE DAY

The little boy was in church for the first time. When the choir, all in white surplices, entered, he whispered hoarsely, "Oh, see, daddy. They're all going to get their hair cut!"—Exchange.

Mrs. Newlywed—Oh, you did splendidly with the wallpapering, darling! But what are those funny lumps?

Mr. Newlywed—Good heavens! I forgot to take down the pictures.—R. R. Magazine.

Teacher was trying to explain the use of adverbs as applied to speed. Walking across the room very rapidly, she turned and asked: "Now, how would you say I walked then, children?"

With one accord, and without a smile, they all shouted: "Bowlegged!"—Exchange.

George (from next door) — Mrs. Jones, may I use your telephone?

Mrs. Jones—Certainly, George. Is yours out of order?

George—Well, not exactly, but Sis is using it to hold up the window, Ma's cutting biscuit with the mouthpiece and baby's teething on the cord.—Border Cities Star, Ontario.

A young woman, who professed a vast acquaintance with bridge got into a game when the others were desperate for a fourth. Part way through she startled them by asking "By the way, what are trumps?"

"No trumps," grunted her partner.

"Well, that's lucky for me. Because if there had been any, I wouldn't have known what they were, would I?"—Sporting and Dramatic.

KALEIDOSCOPE

In a bowling match at Salem, Mass., says the Boston Globe, Bill Russell of the Salem postoffice rolled a ball that performed remarkaby. He had cut down three pins on his first try. The next ball went down the alley, carried along the head pin and knocked it against the bumper in the pit. The next pin hit the bumper standing up and was thrown back on the alley, landing almost on the spot where it belonged. And it stod there.

Carboloy, a new machine tool material composed of tungsten, carbide and cobalt, has been put through a series of official tests at the Philadelphia naavy yard. It is said to be the hardest metal ever developed. At the demonstration the new material cut a 16-inch battleship armor plate, cut a screw thread on blocks of plate glass and tolo bakelite, porcelain and manganese steel, all regarded as extremely difficult operations. Carboloy is a product of the General Electric company's laboratories.

An incandescent light, with a bulb the size of a watermelon and a water-cooled radiator, is under development in the General Electric company laboratories at Schenectady, N. Y. The big bulb uses about three times the power of the largest commercial incandescent lamp and yields 60,0000 candle power. The object of the experiment is to build bigger lamps by discovering how to prevent the hot gases inside the bulb from warping or melting the lighting elements. In the watermelon light these gases rise in a chamber where the pass over water-cooled metal fins and then filter back into the bulb.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Chemists and Automotive Engineers Agree

Automotive engineers agree that a blended oil is the best for the modern motor—high compression motors with their smaller combustion chamber do not function well if coated with carbon—many oils that give excellent lubrication are loaded with carbon and soon fill the chamber and collect under valve seating and greatly reduce the efficiency of a perfectly good engine.

Gulf refining chemists have succeeded in combining the best properties of the paraffine and naphthene base crude oils into a perfect blend—this new oil possesses the goodness of both the crudes—resisting heat to a high degree and at the same time leaving considerable less carbon in the combustion chamber.

Broadway Theatre

"The Awakening," Samuel Goldwyn's latest production, which comes to the Broadway theatre today, presents Vilma Banky as a star in her own right for the first time in a role which gives her new and greater opportunities for highly strung emotional acting as Marie Ducrot, the belle of the simple little Alsatian village of Pré d'Or. Heretofore, Miss Banky has been a feature player appearing in the main with Ronald Colman in such pictures as "Two Lovers", "The Night of Love", and "The Magic Flame."

The picture is a notable example of straightforward plot unmarred by side developments. Laid in only two settings but achieving contrast through the depiction, side by side, of peaceful peasant life just before the World War and the horrors of the first few days of the conflict. The story of this United Artists picture was written by Frances Marion, one of the very first flight of screen writers, and, in addition to Miss Banky as star, offers Louis Wolheim, the famous character actor, and Walter Byron, Mr. Goldwyn's new English "discovery" in the featured roles.

Victor Fleming, one of Paramount-Famous Players - Lasky's crack directors, was borrowed by Samuel Goldwyn to direct "The Awakening."

Bread Theatre

For many years western photoplays have been regarded as the most thrilling type of movies. Second to these, the railroad stories have probably brought more actual thrills to the screen than any other pictures.

James Cruze is one of the first directors to perceive the possibilities of combining the two. In "The Night Flyer," a Cruze production starring William Boyd, and which comes to the Breed theatre on Friday, a small frontier railway center of half a century ago is the setting.

Pistol fights, holdups and a great railroad wreck vie with each other for thrill precedence. Mr. Boyd and Jobyna Ralston, hero and leading lady of "The Night Flyer," are the central figures of a charming love romance, and participate in a number of highly exciting sequences of real western and railroad drama.

Philo McCullough, Ann Schaeffer and De Witt Jennings are in the supporting cast.

INTEREST AGAIN FOCUSED ON ANIMAL LIFE OF ASIA

BALTIMORE (AP)—The animal life of Asia is drawing increased interest of naturalists, according to A. Brazier Howell, on the staff of Johns Hopkins medical school and collaborator of the National museum.

"That era in the history of Asiatic zoology when the majority of species obtained by an expedition proved to be new to science has largely passed," he said.

"Novelties have by no means been exhausted, however, and the great variation in climate and topography has contributed in making this part of the earth's surface a region of extreme interest."

More and more evidence appears of the bending popularity of brown and orange. A tweed suit in an invisible brown and tannish check has an orange flat crepe blouse that has a detachable collar of the tweed which lifts outside over the collarless neck line of the three-quarters coat when the whole ensemble is worn.

MAN GIVEN JAIL SENTENCE ESCAPED FROM POLICE STATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 26—Joseph Kelley, Fishers Island laborer; Fred Schultz, 45 Lower Boulevard, a gardener and George Hapley, 47 John street, laborer, were presented in the police court this morning charged with theft. Kelley and Schultz were found guilty and sentenced to 60 days in jail, but Hapley was adjudged not guilty. Schultz will not serve his sentence for a while, for he made his escape from police headquarters and has since remained in hiding, although his apprehension is expected shortly.

At the adjournment of court Schultz with other prisoners waiting to be taken to jail, was in the squad room and while an officer in charge of the men absented himself a few minutes Schultz descended the stairs leading to the cell room, and passed through the garage to Potter street and made his escape. Officers throughout the day endeavored to rearrest Schultz, but he could not be found.

Kelley, Schultz and Hapley went to the rooming house at 187 North Bank street late last night and entering the room occupied by James Malinoro, while Malinoro slumbered, Kelley and Schultz removed $30 from the pocket of Malinoro's trousers pocket. The three men were arrested an hour later by Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman Louis Tooker.

James Lakas, one of the proprietors of the Coney Island Coffee Pot, State street restaurant, was charged with breach of the peace, but he was discharged as James Frans, Lakas' partner, who caused his arrest, withdrew the charge. Lakas and Frans engaged in a heated quarrel last night over the disbursement of funds of the partnership and during the brawl, Lakas struck Frans blows on the face and head. Lakas also attempted to destroy a check book. The book was thrown into a range, but Frans rescued it.

Louis Cerretti, 22 Tenth street, was charged with reckless driving and Louis Margolis, Bank street plumber, was charged with evasion of responsibility. Both drivers were discharged as the complainants withdrew the charges. Cerretti was arrested by Patrolman Ernest Opperman Monday night as the result of a collision of the car he was driving and an automobile driven by John Mansfield, Eastern Point, Groton. Margolis was arrested by Sergeant Frank Howard last night upon complaint of Councilor James A. May following a collision of their machines. Margolis attempted to drive away. Cerretti was also charged with parking overtime and paid the usual fee of $2.

Basil Karasowicz, 118 Shaw street, was charged with breach of the peace and upon complaint of Alex Chipilusky, of the same address, Karasowicz was discharged. He was arrested last night by Patrolmen William Riordan and Harry Waterson following a trivial quarrel at the home of the two men.

FUNERALS.

Miss Marian Noon.

The funeral of Miss Marian Noon, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Noon, late of 171 Broad street, who died at Uncas-on-the-Thames, Norwich, earlier in the week, was held this morning at 10 o'clock at St. Joseph's church where a mass of requiem was celebrated. The bearers were William Riordan, Walter O'Neil, Dennis Cavanaugh and Frank Linehan, members of the New London police department. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

John Page.

The funeral of John Page was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his former residence, 579 Ocean avenue and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. Chester H. Howe pastor of the First Baptist church. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

F. W. Winthrop.

The funeral of Frederick W. Winthrop, former New York police officer, was held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at his late home, 268 Bank street and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. Relatives of Mr. Winthrop acted as bearers. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Discharged from Hospital.

Miss Lee White, 18 Church street, Mystic; Miss Marjorie Clay, Stonington; Mrs. Anna Harvey, 48 Slocum terrace, Groton; Morris Friedman, 32 Blue Hill avenue, Hartford; Harry Vincent, Jr., 128 Bayonet street; Edward Slavfeth, Pequot avenue; Grant MacLaren Poquonoc Bridge and Mrs. Joseph Rogowski, 285 Huntington street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

The Schwartz Furniture company has sold a building lot on Howard street to Jules Armossini.

Sidney A. Brown has sold a building lot on Williams street to Alfred and Katherine Hallett.

Tampering With Auto.

Jesse Maynard, 22 Viets street, was arrested this afternoon by Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray charged with tampering with an automobile. It is claimed that Maynard went to the home of Special Officer Samuel Hyde, 128 Shaw street, late Monday night and mutilated the wiring of the officer's automobile besides releasing the air from all of the tires. Maynard will be presented in the police court tomorrow.

WEDDING

Hendry-Walsh

Miss Bessie V. Walsh, daughter of Mrs. Anna Walsh of 24 Grand street, today became the bride of Thomas M. Hendry, son of Mr. and Mrs. William I. Hendry of Waterford. The ceremony was performed at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church with the Rev. Timothy M. Crowley officiating. Mrs. T. J. OBITUARY

S. M. Gildersleeve

Smith M. Gildersleeve, 75, died early this afternoon at his home in Noank, following an illness of three weeks. The deceased was born in Middle Island, L. I., but at the age of 38 made his home in Noank. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Nina Gildersleeve, a son C. W. Gildersleeve of Mystic and a sister, Mrs. David C. Vail of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Patients dismissed today from the Home Memorial hospital were Miss Ruth Wickstrom of 50 Williams street; Mrs. Christopher Cassety and son of 72 Willetts avenue and Mrs. John Montesan of 162 Green street.

Attachment on the property of Charles J. Ducy and Walter T. Murphy in favor of Charles D. and Clifford L. Douglas has been released according to papers filed in the city clerk's office.

At the annual meeting of voters of the First School district of the town of Groton, held last night, Mrs. Betsy B. Larrabee of Broad street was elected a member of the committee. At the meeting the tax rate for the coming year was reduced one half mill and the total amount of the budget for the year 1929-30 was set at $24,155.

In the police court this morning Kenneth Wrinn, Waterford, was charged with failing to reduce speed at intersecting streets, as was Stanley Radgowsky, Montville and Jack Simon, 31 Warren street. Wrinn was arrested last night by Patrolman Dennis Murphy and Radgowsky and Simon were arrested by Automobile Patrol Officer Thomas Cavanaugh. All three drivers were fined $5 and costs.

John Donigan, New York, was charged with violation of the traffic laws and was fined $5 and costs. He was arrested last night by Patrolmen John Clifford when he passed on the left hand side of the traffic beacon, corner of Main street and Crystal avenue.

Leo T. Trudell, 45 Union street, New Haven, was charged with speeding, he having been arrested last night by Sergeant Samuel Hick. The case was continued until tomorrow.

Paul Herlihy, 125 Trumbull street, Hartford, charged with parking overtime, failed to present himself in court and his bond of $2 was declared forfeited. He was arrested last night.

Two cases of intoxication were presented. In one case a fine of $10 and costs was imposed and in the other a fine of $5 and costs was meted out.

Fred Spuhn, coach of Yale's victorious Yale freshman crew on the Thames river last Friday, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor and James Heffernan, Grand Rapids, Mich., a friend of the coach, charged with reckless driving, failed to present themselves in court and their respective bonds of $100 and $50 were declared forfeited. The two men were arrested boat race night by Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman Dennis Murphy.

Nasanori Nakamura and Naoto L. Teiro, both of 17 Washington street, were arrested tonight, charged with parking in violation of the city ordinance on Meridian street. Both posted bonds for their appearance in the police court tomorrow.

George A. Mindick, 85 Margin street, Westerly, Katherine F. Hyne, Tenafly, N. J., and John H. Hanfeldt, 857 Garfield place, Brooklyn, parked their automobiles in violation of the city ordinances this afternoon and have been ordered to appear in police court tomorrow.

Louis Fisher, formerly employed in New London and who has been employed several months in Detroit, Mich., has returned to New London.

There is no change tonight at Lawrence Memorial hospital in the condition of P. Oswald Soum, Shaw street man, who was struck by an automobile in Groton several days ago, sustaining a fractured skull. He continues to remain in an unconscious condition and his recovery is considered doubtful.

Arthur Drumm, employed by the Babcock Printing Press Manufacturing company, is confined to his home on Alger street, by illness.

The continued case of George H. Sherburne, proprietor of a grocery store at 37 Howard street, charged with assault upon Louis Sokol, 21, of 10½ Squire street, was continued until next Saturday because of Sokol being unable to be in court and testify against Sherburne. Sherburne was arrested June 21 when, it is charged, he threw a knife at Sokol during an altercation at the store, the blade of the weapon entering Sokol's leg. Sherburne claims that he did not throw the knife, but that it slipped through his hands.

Two slick crooks operated in New London today and relieved Mrs. George O. Pratt, proprietress of the rooming house, 91 Union street, of money and jewelry of the aggregate amount of $200. About 11 o'clock one of the crooks went to the rooming house, ostensibly to rent a room. He was shown a room on the second floor and deposited $2 with Mrs. Pratt, but requested the privilege of his cousin inspecting the room, inasmuch as the latter was to share it. Shortly afterwards the two men went to the rooming house and while the "cousin," claimed Mrs. Pratt's attention by being shown the room the original caller hastily searched the lower floor for loot. An Elgin watch, gold brooch, set with pearls and rubies; a diamond ring, white gold ring, set with black stone, gold star and three links in the center and a gold ring, set with rubies and pearls were stolen. During Mrs. Pratt's showing of the room to the cousin, the man stole a purse containing $12 out of the woman's apron. Mrs. Pratt discovered the theft a short time after the crooks departed and reported her loss at police headquarters. Motorcycle Officer William Corcoran was assigned to the case, but no trace of the crooks was found, although two men were arrested on suspicion, but they were released when Mrs. Pratt failed to identify them as the thieves.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Beauty Specialist at Porteous & Mitchell

Representative of Mme. Rubinstein's beauty specialist, to visit local store.

During Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, Miss Aileen, special representative of Mme. Helena Rubinstein, international famous beauty scientist, and writer of syndicated beauty articles, many of which have appeared in the local newspapers, will be in attendance at the Porteous & Mitchell Co.'s toilet goods department. You no doubt have asked yourself these questions: "Which of Helena Rubinstein's preparations shall I use?" "How should they be applied?" "How often" and many questions similar.

Miss Aileen will be pleased to make practical answers to these oft repeated queries.

A personal interview with Miss Aileen will result in you knowing the shortest and simplest route to beauty.

Scientific self-treatments—the art of make-up—these are but only a part of the extensive knowledge to be acquired by consulting with our visitor from the New York Salon-de-Beaute Valaze. But we advise an early visit as she will be besieged for advice and her stay is limited to three days only.

Palace Theatre

Mary Duncan scored a tremendous personal triumph by her outstanding performance in "Thru Different Eyes," Fox Movietone murder trial mystery play, which closes tonight at the Palace theatre.

"Thru Different Eyes," an all-dialog production, is by far the greatest achievement to date in Fox movietone, and sets a mark that will press future productions to approach.

Warner Baxter and Edmund Lowe, well remembered for their marvelous performances in "In Old Arizona," first outdoor Fox movietone production, are co-featured with Miss Duncan and again prove that they stand among the leaders of male actors in talking pictures.

One of the finest short comedies in dialogue yet made is now holding sway at the Palace theatre. It is "Ask Dad," a Coronet talking comedy, in which Edward Everett Horton essays the starring role. As amusingly clever a bit of screen farce as seen in many a moon in Norwich.

The featurette, which is generously punctuated with witty lines, boasts subtle story construction, by virtue of which suspense builds rapidly. Horton is cast as Dad, whose rival for the hand of his secretary is his own son, played by Winston Miller. The latter gives a brilliant account of himself in the role of a victim of puppy love, and you'll howl at his poetic pleadings which, alas, are in vain since the girl has already lost her heart to his father.

Other good features included in this program is a Pathe Sound News and a Topic of the Day.

There is a fascination for the average person in the revelation of sights and sounds from which, under ordinary circumstances, he is excluded, and this psychological truism accounts in no slight measure for the success of "The Valiant," Fox movietone all-dialog production coming to the Palace theatre tomorrow.

Many of the most gripping scenes in this powerful drama, directed by William K. Howard, depict incidents occurring behind the guarded walls of a penitentiary on the eve of the electrocution of a confessed murderer, who is "The Valiant" of the story, despite his felon's doom.

Paul Muni and Marguerite Churchill are seen in the featured roles and others in the notable cast are Jack Mack Brown, De Witt Jennings, Richard Carlyle, Henry Kolker, Edith Yorke, Clif Dempsey.

This much more in every bottle

See this generous surplus! Thrifty buyers get this much more in every bottle of Clicquot Club Pale Dry

THIS announcement will come as a great surprise to many women. Women who have been buying 12 ounce bottles thinking they were getting full pints. If you, too, have been getting little 12 oz. "pints," this advertisement should be of great interest to you. It tells you how to get ¼ more for your money.

Clicquot Club Pale Dry always comes in full 16 ounce pints. There is as much ginger ale in three bottles of Clicquot Club Pale Dry as you'd get in four bottles of any other nationally advertised "dry" ginger ale.

And think of the quality! Only the finest and purest ingredients are used in making Clicquot Club. Mellow syrups made from pure fruit juices, genuine Jamaica ginger, finest table sugar, and pure water.

The flavor comes from ageing

And now just a word about flavor. Long ago, the Clicquot Club people discovered that ageing gives a ginger ale an utterly different flavor. That is why Clicquot Club Pale Dry is aged.

This patient ageing process is so important that you cannot afford to overlook it. It is the secret of that subtle, delicious flavor found in Clicquot Club alone. The secret, too, of its greater health value.

Be sure to get Clicquot Club

When you want a drink of sparkling zest and interest, always get Clicquot Club Pale Dry. It is good alone. And so good in any recipe drink that calls for ginger ale!

This famous ginger ale reaches you in clean full pint bottles, so much more convenient and economical than wasteful "near-quarts" of ordinary ginger ale because the contents of the bottle never "goes flat" before you can use it.

Do try Clicquot Club Pale Dry—today. Buy in pairs, half dozens, or the 12-bottle Party Package. At all dealers.

The Clicquot Club Eskimos—every Tuesday evening at 10 p. m., New York Time, from WEAF, New York, and 40 associated radio stations.

Rev. Patrick McCormick D. D., of Washington, D. C., is spending his summer vacation at the home of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth McCormick of Prospect street.

"BEER FARM" RAIDED ON PAUTIPAUG HILL

In a raid on the so-called "Beer Farm" at Pautipaug hill near Baltic about midnight Saturday evening State Police Officer Arthur Whitmarsh of the Groton barracks seized two bottles of alleged liquor and eight cases of beer. James Taggart, alleged proprietor of the place, was arrested and placed on a charge of keeping liquor with intent to sell.

Presented in justice court in Baltic before Henry A. Adams Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock Taggart received a fine of $200 and costs. The case was prosecuted by Albert Taylor.

LICENSES SUSPENDED FOR OPERATING UNDER INFLUENCE

Forty-eight names are on the list announced this week by the state motor vehicle department of motor vehicle operators whose licenses have been suspended for a year for driving while under the influence of liquor.

The list contains the following eastern Connecticut names: William L. Sadlier, Norwich; C. E. Hughes, New London; Frederick C. Brassord, Pomfret; August Bingley, East Putnam; J. M. Delamar, Groton.

Examined 41 For Operator's Licenses

State Policeman Dygert had a busy day here Wednesday in conducting the examinations of those applying for motor vehicle drivers' licenses. He had 41 applicants to examine, which was three more than a week ago.

GENTLEMEN'S AGREEMENT ON G. & S. SETTLEMENT TERMS

The situation on the sale of appliances by the municipal gas and electric department which has been debated and discussed for months in public meetings and in the press passed into the twilight land of secrecy after the common council and the gas and electric commissioners held a meeting Tuesday night. The five members of the commission with the mayor and the twelve members of the common council entered into a gentlemen's agreement not to reveal the settlement that was reached and the veil will not be officially lifted until the common council meeting next Monday evening.

Enough has been learned, however, to state in advance of that meeting that the sale of appliances by the gas and electric department is to be continued, but under such oversight and modified methods as will tend to correct what Norwich merchants have complained of as unfair competition.

SCHMELING-UZCUDUN FIGHT TO COME OVER RADIO

Radio fans who are interested in the Schmeling-Uscudun fight scheduled for this (Thursday) evening may get the round by round result by tuning in on the short wave radio station of WGY, Schenectady, N. Y., whose wave length is 41 meters. The announcement was made by officials of the station Wednesday evening during a test programme and was heard by Terrence Buckley of Taftville, who is a keen radio fan and has several times heard broadcasts from foreign stations. Mr. Buckley, incidentally, was tuned in on a station in Germany Wednesday evening. The broadcast of the fight is done for the benefit of the Schmeling fans in Germany.

ENTERTAINED AT BRIDGE IN HONOR OF SISTER

Mrs. Abraham Levine of Julian street entertained Tuesday afternoon at three tables of bridge in honor of her sister, Miss Augusta Shereshevsky of this city, who sails Saturday from New York on the Steamer Mauretania for Europe. Miss Shereshevsky, who is to spend the summer abroad, received many pretty gifts and all those present extended best wishes for bon voyage. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess. At bridge three prizes were awarded.

SETTLEMENT OUT OF COURT OVER PAWCATUCK ESTATE

The suit of state of Connecticut against William Linger of Pawcatuck, administration of the estate of Mary Linger of that place, was partly heard in the superior court here Tuesday before Judge Allyn L. Brown and was then settled out of court. The state sued for Harry Linger, a legal heir. A bond of $500 had been posted and the settlement was made for $200 more than the amount of the bond, it was understood.

SUCCESS ATTENDS COMPANY WITH LEEDS COIT SECRETARY

The Bulletin has received from Leeds W. Coit at Greensboro, N. C., a copy of the current issue of "Builder," the publication of the Business Men's Insurance company of which Mr. Coit, a former Norwich boy, is secretary-treasurer.

A statistical report published in the booklet shows that the company in which Mr. Coit is an officer led the state of North Carolina in industrial insurance increase for 1928. This gain was $2,122,049, and in ordinary business the increase was $305,341, which was among the six leaders in the state.

TWO NORWICH BENEFICIARIES IN MIDDLETOWN MAN'S WILL

Wilbur S. Williams, of 276 Washington street, a brother-in-law of the late Frederick L. Caulkins of Middletown, and Mrs. Marion Williams Crowell, wife of Frank L. Crowell of 57 Lincoln avenue, and a niece of Mr. Caulkins' wife, are each bequeathed $10,000 in the will of Mr. Caulkins who was a pioneer automobile dealer in Middletown.

The entire estate is left to the widow, Electa W. Caulkins, for her life use, but a large number of bequests, all to be paid after her death, are made in the will. These are 44 in number and total $182,500 in amount.

The estate upon the death of Mrs. Caulkins is disposed of as follows: To the Indian Hill cemetery association, $1,000; for the care and upkeep of the decedent's lot there; to a sister, Emma A. C. Searle of New London, $10,000; to his nieces, Hazel Searle and Mildred Searle Ames, of New London, $20,000 each; to his nephews, Leroy Searle, Herbert Searle, Norman Searle, Alvin Searle and Frank Searle, all of New London, $10,000 each; to a brother, Eugene David Caulkins, of Old Lyme, $10,000; to a brother, Frank L. Caulkins, $10,000; to his brother-in-law, Wilbur S. Williams, of Norwich, $10,000; to his wife's niece, Marion Williams Crowell, of Norwich, $10,000; to Miss Daisy E. Marble, a housekeeper and friend, $5,000; to William Post and Lawrence Post of Ohio, $5,000 each; to the Methodist Episcopal church and Baptist church of Middletown, $2,500 each; to the Middlesex hospital, $5,000.

In addition to these there are 15 bequests of $1,000, three of $1,500 each and nine of $500.

The block owned by the decedent at 493 Main street is given to the F. L. Caulkins Auto company, which occupies the lower floor of the premises. A portion of the stock holding of the decedent, both in the F. L. Caulkins Auto company and Caulkins and Post, Inc., are apportioned among the employes of both companies, who have been oldest in point of service as an incentive to augment the prosperity of each company and in appreciation of faithful service.

After the use of the widow and when the above bequests have been complied with, whatever remains is given to the Middlesex hospital, the Middletown Y. M. C. A., and Middlesex council, Boy Scouts of America, in equal shares.

The Middletown Trust company is named as executor of the will.

NORWICH TOWN

More than 150 took advantage of the strawberry supper Wednesday evening in the chapel of the Norwich Town Congregational church. Before the appointed hour, 6:30, people from various localities began to file into the chapel auditorium where four very long tables had been set, besides another long table and several smaller ones in the ladies' parlor. There were many automobile parties in the gathering which included a family of tourists from Massachusetts. Preston City, Bozrah, and other nearby towns were also represented as well as a big delegation from Norwich, which, with the church members, and the townspeople proper, made up the big gathering. One of the long tables was filled twice as there were a number of late patrons.

The supper was held under the auspices of the woman's department of the League of Service, Mrs. John L. Browning, chairman. Others on the committee comprised Mrs. Walter G. Hitchon, Jr., Mrs. Charles Barber, Mrs. Ernest Washington, Mrs. Frederick Rose, Mrs. Harriet Barber and Misses Bernice Underwood and Margaret Chapin. The delicious menu consisted of potato salad, veal loaf, rolls, coffee, strawberry shortcake, ice cream and wafers. The tables were decorated with numerous bouquets of red rambles, Dorothy Perkins, and delicate pink roses, pansies, bachelor-buttons, etc. Walter G. Hitchon was cashier.

As the attendance began to increase more than a dozen volunteer helpers rendered service to the committee in serving the patrons, also remained to clear the tables and help with the dishes in the kitchen. For this, Mrs. Browning and others on the committee expressed their grateful appreciation. These bountiful suppers are served by the league of service supper committee, (woman's department) about once every three months.

Far View 4—H club held its last meeting at Scotland Road hall Saturday, the 22nd, with an attendance of eight. The members cut out eight pocketbooks to be made up at a future time. Bertha Jascot took first prize in making buttonholes, Ruth Avery, second, and Mary Wildowsky, third. When the 4—H clubs of New London county hold their annual field day programme at Amos Lee, Preston, June 29th, members of the Moosup Town club will be included in the attendance. Mary Wildowsky and Bertha Jascot were voted to attend for one week the junior short course at Connecticut Agricultural college, at Storrs. The leader, Mrs. Henry King, was in charge of the meeting. The next meeting of this club will be Saturday afternoon, July 20th.

PRESIDENT HOOVER BUSY SELECTING FARM BOARD

Has Offered a Place to Alexander H. Legge of Chicago, President of the International Harvester Co.—Appointment of Carl Williams, Editor of the Oklahoma Farmer-Stockman, is Considered Certain—A Number of Names Are Mentioned in Connection With Membership of the Board.

WASHINGTON, June 27—(AP)—President Hoover is making very substantial progress in the selection of the eight members of the federal farm board, having reduced the four hundred-odd nominations to a preferred list of around a score of names.

He offered a place today to Alexander H. Legge of Chicago, president of the International Harvester company, whom he invited to Washington. Legge returned later to his home to determine whether he could so arrange his affairs as to accept the post.

Mr. Legge would take the place set aside by the chief executive on advice of farm organizations and heads of agricultural colleges for an outstanding business man. He has been endorsed by a number of farm leaders and others. He has seen previous government service as a member of the war industries board in the Wilson administration.

Another whose appointment is regarded as certain is Carl Williams of Oklahoma City, editor of the Oklahoma Farmer-Stockman. He might be considered as the representative of the cotton industry as he long has been connected with the American Cotton Growers exchange.

Others on the preferred list are Arthur P. Knapp of Lake Charles, La., who as a banker has had wide experience in financing the exportation of rice, one of the basic commodities specifically mentioned during consideration of the farm relief act. He was recommended by Senators Ransdell and Broussard, democrats, Louisiana, as well as others.

C. B. Denman of Missouri, president of the National Live Stock Producers' association, is understood to have been offered a place as a representative of the livestock industry, another of the basic farm activities.

The president also is known to desire the services of James C. Stone of Lexington, Ky., president of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Cooperative Marketing association.

Reports here are that while willing to give up his present connection to become chairman of the board, Mr. Stone is unwilling to do so for appointment as a member for only a short period of time.

Another report was that Charles C. Teague of California, connected with the California Citrus league, had let it be known that he did not desire membership on the board.

While the name of F. B. Wells of Minneapolis, vice-president of F. H. Peavey & Company, grain dealers, has been repeatedly talked of for appointment, it was learned upon high authority that he is now under consideration.

There were suggestions that a man from Georgia would be among the eight selected and these immediately led to conjecture as to whether Charles S. Barrett, former president of the Farmers' union, was that man. Mr. Barrett frequently has been consulted on farm matters by both the Hoover and Coolidge administrations.

New recommendations presented to the president today included John Brandt, of Minneapolis, president of the Land of the Lakes Creamery association, and S. D. Sanders of Seattle, president of the Pacific Northwest Poultry association. Their names were presented by R. E. Sheppard, chairman of the Spokane federal land bank board.

FINAL COURT OF SEASON AT BUCKINGHAM PALACE.

LONDON, June 27—(AP)—The final royal court of the season was held tonight in a blaze of crimson and golden splendor at Buckingham Palace. Once again there were American young women to make the bow to Queen Mary and again the new American ambassador, General Charles G. Dawes, appeared in simple American evening dress in preference to the silk breeches of court etiquette.

It had been explained today at the office of the lord chamberlain that the ambassador had obtained special dispensation to wear trousers although his staff for the most part followed the regulation costume. At least one London paper argued that in doing this he appeared at court in the uniform of his rank as an American ambassador and in such dresses he would wear in coming before his own president.

There were eight American women received. They were the Misses Annie E. Nourse of Boston, Mary E. Riddle of Tennessee, Elizabeth Stuart of Cambridge, Mass., and Mistresses Ernest Dorbrite of Philadelphia, Walter Mangum of South Carolina, Francis Neilson of Chicago, John B. Seymour of Georgia and Andrew Wheeler of Philadelphia.

Her majesty wore a Russian-shaped coronet ablaze with diamonds while on her breast flashed the great Kohinoor the blue ribbon of the Order of the Garter was her only decoration.

HOOVER IS AGAINST DRY PROPAGANDA IN SCHOOLS

WASHINGTON, June 27— (AP) — President Hoover has placed his personal stamp of disapproval upon any program by which the federal government would foster a prohibition propaganda campaign in the public schools of the country.

This was disclosed today at the white house with the additional information that upon reading in the newspapers that a pamphlet outlining a course of prohibition study in the schools had been prepared in the prohibition bureau, Mr. Hoover conferred with a responsible official of the treasury.

This official disclaimed any intention on the part of the treasury to sanction such a program and the chief executive thereupon suggested that in the light of the newspaper publications on the subject the position of the treasury should be made clear to the country.

MORE SHOE WORKERS STRIKE IN HAVERHILL

HAVERHILL, Mass., June 27.—(AP)—Employes of two additional shoe factories, went on strike today, making a total of 6,000 workers now on strike in 26 factories here. The factories involved in the strike today, were the Gilbert Shoe company, employing 200 and the Gerber Shoe company, employing 100.

The workers have demanded a 10 per cent increase in wages and a five-day week of 44 hours, which the Haverhill Shoe Manufacturers' association has refused to grant. The number of workers now on strike is approximately 80 per cent of the total employed in the industry here.

LEVEE INJUNCTION AGAINST GOVT. DENIED

ST. LOUIS, June 27—(AP)—An application for an injunction to restrain the federal government from proceeding with the setback levee in connection with the Mississippi river flood way between Bird's Point and New Madrid, Mo., until the government deposited $15,000,000 to assure land owners full compensation for damages, was denied today by Federal Judge Charles B. Faris.

COL. AND MRS. LINDBERGH HAVE ARRIVED AT ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, June 27—(AP)—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived at Lambert-St. Louis field here tonight at 8.20 p. m. It was their first visit to the famous pilot's legal residence since their marriage. They planned to stay in a hotel tonight. They made the trip by plane from Indianapolis.

CRASHING OF AIRPLANE KILLED THREE PERSONS

BEACH HAVEN, N. J., June 27.—(AP)—Three persons were killed and two others injured, here late this afternoon, when a Sikorsky amphibian plane owned by the Curtiss Flying Service, of North Beach, L. I., crashed into Barnegat bay.

The dead:

Frank Conklin, member of the Beach Haven police force; Harold Potts, 30, Beach Haven plumber, and Leslie Broome, 28, a yacht captain and member of the Beach Haven Yacht club. The bodies of Potts and Conklin were recovered, but that of Broome has not been found.

The injured:

Alison Prince, 19, of Beach Haven, and Paul Mashelle, pilot of the plane, of New York city.

The plane had come to Beach Haven this morning from North Beach, at the request of the Long Beach chamber of commerce to study the feasibility of the Curtiss company's New York-Atlantic City line, making Beach Haven a scheduled stop.

After making a survey of Beach Haven and the harbor, the plane made thirty trips over the bay and town, carrying from two to four passengers a trip. When the plane crashed, it was returning to the landing point. When about 20 feet above the water it nosed suddenly and dived into the bay, turning over twice. When it came to the surface, the pilot and Price, who were in the forward seat of the open cockpit, freed themselves. The three occupants of the back seat, however, were killed instantly, Conklin's body being severed and Broome's badly mutilated.

Prince and Mashelle suffered bruises and lacerations of the body and face. Neither could give any reason for the accident.

A boat from the life guard station at Bonds towed the plane to the flats alone the shore.

SPANISH AVIATORS ARE GIVEN UP FOR LOST

MADRID, June 27.—(AP)—The Spanish government considers that it has done everything in its power to trace the missing airplane of Major Ramon Franco and his three companions who disappeared last Friday after taking off on a round trip flight from Spain to New York, and has given them up for lost.

Minister of Marine Garcia De Los Reyes announced to the press this afternoon that further search had been virtually abandoned as useless. There was no news from the destroyers combing the seas between the coast of Portugal and the Azores islands, first stop of the Spanish aviators.

DAWES TO HAVE WEEKLY PRESS CONFERENCES

LONDON, June 27—(AP)—Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, inaugurating weekly press conferences at the American embassy, talked to American newspapermen today about developments this week in negotiations for naval disarmament, but declined to disclose anything of the intentions of the American or British governments as to the next movement toward solution of this paramount international question.

Wine Making From Grape Juice Illegal

Violation of the Prohibition Law in the Opinion of Commissioner Doran.

WASHINGTON, June 27—(AP)—The manufacture of wine from grape juice is a violation of the prohibition law and is subject to the same penalty as any other illegal manufacture of intoxicating liquor, in the opinion of Prohibition Commissioner Doran, expressed after he had been informed today of the letter of Senator Gould of Maine to a St. Louis grape juice company.

Commissioner Doran would not comment on the letter of Senator Gould, but explained the provision of the prohibition law in connection with the manufacture of wine.

Assistant Secretary Lowman of the treasury in charge of prohibition enforcement also declined to comment in connection with the senators letter.

"The only thing that is permitted under the law is the manufacture of none intoxicating fruit juices for exclusive use in the home," Commissioner Doran said. "Wine, in our law, is included under intoxicating liquor and its manufacture in any form except under permit for beverages use is a violation of the law just the same as is the manufacture of any other liquor."

While the making of wine is prohibited by the national prohibition law, it has never been the policy of the prohibition bureau to investigate private homes to see whether fruit juices were fermenting. Agents of the bureau have interfered with such practices only when it was established that the product was being placed on sale.

SENATOR GOULD FAVORS LIGHT WINES AND BEER

PRESQUE ISLE, Me., June 27—(AP)—Arthur R. Gould, junior U. S. senator from Maine, the first state to adopt a prohibitory law and which has been "dry" for 75 years, today defended his "right to have, make and drink" light wines and beer and declared the licensing of such beverages "would be a great improvement over the present prohibition law, which seems impossible to enforce."

Mr. Gould set forth his views after an attorney for a St. Louis grape juice company, announced that he had a letter to submit in a damage action in which the senator had obtained "some very fair results" with the company's product.

"Everybody who knows me, knows that the sentiments relating to prohibition as expressed in that letter are my sentiments," he said.

In the letter he said:

"While I am from a prohibition state x x I find it is not policy to be too outspoken as to my statements. I don't mind telling you and the world that I believe a license for light wines and beer would be a great improvement over the present prohibition laws."

The senator voted against the Jones bill, recently enacted which increases the penalties for violators of the national prohibition act. He asserted that he "had always stood that way."

Regarding his right to "have, make and drink" wine and beer, Mr. Gould said, people in this section of northern Maine made it with elderberry flowers and grapes.

"God Almighty put those flowers and vines on the earth," he declared, "and he intended them to be used."

Senator Gould, who in the past has been interested in the development of hydroelectric power in Aroostook county, where he lives, was elected in 1926 to fill the unexpired term of the late Bert M. Fernald. He has not declared himself a candidate for reelection in 1931, when the term expires.

Representative Wallace H. White, Jr., of Lewiston, chairman of the house committee on merchant marine and fisheries, has announced that he will be a candidate in the primaries. Political observers look for several others to enter the contest.

"MICKEY, THE WISE GUY," RELEASED BY POLICE

BOSTON, June 27—(AP)—Michael Rocco, alias "Mickey, the Wise Guy," Boston gangster, was released by the police tonight, after they had checked upon his alibi, given when taken into custody earlier in the day for questioning in connection with the murder of Frank Marlow, New York boxing manager.

REICHSTAG SUSTAINS MINISTER STRESEMANN

BERLIN, June 27.—(AP)—The reichstag late today rejected a vote of no confidence in foreign minister Stresemann. The German nationals, fascisti and communists voted against the government bloc but lost.

NON-STOP FLIGHT NEW YORK TO LOS ANGELES 19 HOURS, 28 MINUTES

METROPOLITAN AIRPORT, Los Angeles, June 27—(AP)—Captain Frank Hawks landed here at 8:23:23 p. m. Pacific standard time, establishing a new transcontinental non-stop flight record of 19 hours, 10 minutes and 28 seconds from Roosevelt field, New York. He left New York at 5:12:51 a. m. today. The time was checked officially.

The previous record, established by the late Captain C. B. D. Collyer and Harry Tucker, was 24 hours, 51 minutes.

Captain Hawks planned to take off as soon as his plane was serviced here, in a double attempt to better his own Los Angeles-New York record of 18 hours 21 minutes 59 seconds and to make a round trip flight from New York to Los Angeles and return in total elapsed time of 36 hours or less.

Hawks was received by airport officials and given facilities for a hot bath, a hot meal, and about an hour's sleep.

It was expected that barring unforeseen developments, the plane and pilot would be ready to take off again in approximately an hour and a half.

More About Bishop Cannon's Stock Deals

Never Bought Stock Outright, Except 200 Shares on a Part Payment Plan.

NEW YORK, June 27—(AP)—Testimony that Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church south, never bought a share of stock outright and, except for the purchase of 200 shares of Hudson motors on a part payment plan, "speculated exclusively," in his dealings with the firm of Kable and company was given today at the bankruptcy hearing on the firm's affairs.

Harry L. Goldhurst, actual head of the collapsed firm, testified that the bishop's lone, non-speculative purchase had not been completed when the company went to the wall.

C. Edward Benoit, attorney for Miss Anna Frians, trustee in bankruptcy, questioned Goldhurst about the ledger account of Bishop Cannon's extensive tradings. Pointing to one item, the attorney said:

"You have here the sale of 200 shares of Lehigh on October 16, 1927. That was on a Sunday. You didn't do business, did you, Mr. Goldhurst, on Sundays and surely the bishop didn't do business on Sundays?"

A roar of laughter from the spectators in the hearing room drowned out Goldhurst's faint "no" in reply.

Prior to calling Goldhurst to the stand, Ernest A. Brown, an accountant, testified that an examination of the company's books showed that friends and relatives were heavy creditors of the firm and that the assets were $24,010 and the liabilities, $226,804. The bishop was a creditor for $2500.

When Goldhurst concluded his testimony, and adjournment was taken until July 9, at the request of Mr. Benoit.

WOMAN ON REFUELING ENDURANCE FLIGHT

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., June 27—(AP)—Miss Viola Gentry took off at 8:49:26 o'clock tonight (eastern daylight time) in her second attempt to set a refuelling endurance flight record. She was flying "The Answer," a light cabin biplane.

In the plane with Miss Gentry was Jack Ascraft, who placed sixth in the Spokane, Wash., to New York air race last September. The plane carried 116 gallons of gasoline and plans called for the first refuelling some time tomorrow morning.

"The Answer" will refuel from a biplane piloted by Carl Dixon, Clyde Kincaid will accompany him to feed the fuel to The Answer.

Miss Gentry and her companion carried two ham sandwiches, two lettuce and tomato sandwiches, a few oranges and some coffee and water. More food will be given them when the first refuelling takes place.

As "The Answer" took off, another plane, the Three Musketeers, also on an endurance flight circled overhead with its occupants Mr. and Mrs. Martin Jensen and William Ulbrich, watching the start with interest. They went aloft at 7:32 last night.

ORDER OF ARREST ISSUED IN VARE ELECTION CASE

WASHINGTON, June 27—(AP)—The mandate of the supreme court ordering the arrest of Sheriff Thomas W. Cunningham of Philadelphia by the sergeant at arms of the senate in connection wit hths senate investigation of the election of William S. Vare of Pennsylvania was mailed today to the clerk of the federal district court at Philadelphia.

Sergeant-at-Arms David S. Barry is preparing to place the sheriff under arrest early next week. Under a senate resolution, introduced by Senator King, democrat, Utah, the sergeant at arms will be authorized to release Cunningham under bond of $1,000 for his appearance before the senate when wanted.

During the investigation of the election of Vare as United States senator, Cunningham twice appeared as a witness before the senate committee and testified he had contributed $50,000 to the state republican organization for campaign purposes. He refused to answer when questioned as to the source of his income. He was being paid a salary of $8,000 a year as clerk of the quarter sessions court.

PROBABLE AVERSION OF ONE WAR IN CHINA

SHANGHAI, China, June 28—(AP)—What appeared a month ago to be certain war between the nationalist government and Feng Yu Hsiang and a group comprising the last large faction of militarists in the opposition now appears dissipated through the reported decision of Feng to go abroad to "investigate foreign conditions."

While this reported development on its face value gives the nationalist government a tremendous forward step in its campaign of unification of the country, the situation of entire China north of the Yangtse is considered still in a state of extreme flux with the next few days likely to reveal uthentic reactions.

It is understood that $100,000 gold was set aside "for traveling expenses while abroad" for Feng and $3,000,000 given to Yen Hsi-Shan for the payment of back wages to Feng's soldiers.

In some quarters, inclined to question Feng's decision to leave, there is a tendency to wonder whether Feng will not reappear later in northwest China in an effort to retain the influence which he apparently has lost.

MAY INVITE MACDONALD TO THE UNITED STATES

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(AP)— An invitation by Prime Minister MacDonald to the United States for the latter's participation in a preliminary naval disarmament conference in London was regarded in American government circles tonight as a possible outcome of the conversations now underway among the diplomatic representatives of the five principal naval powers in the British capital.

GEORGIA HOUSE PASSED RACIAL RESOLUTION

ATLANTA, Ga., June 27—(AP)—Disapproval of the entertainment of the wife of Representative De Priest, Negro, of Illinois, at the white house was voiced today in a resolution adopted by the Georgia house of representatives, after an extended debate.

After refusing by a vote of 69 to 112 to table the resolution, the house adopted it, 179 to 5.

FRANCE TO MAKE OVERTURE TO POSTPONE DEBT PAYMENT

Premier Poincare Will Request Ambassador Claudel to Seek Unconditional Postponement of Maturity of the War Stocks Debt Until December 31—Step Taken Because the French Chamber Appeared Unanimous in Asking Postponement of the $400,000,000 Payment—Members Desire to Have Longer Time to Decide Whether to Ratify the Debt Settlement With the U. S.

PARIS, June 27—(AP)—Premier Poincare tonight informed the chamber of deputies that he would request Ambassador Claudel at Washington to make overtures to the American government for the unconditional postponement of maturity of the war stocks debt until December 31. He would take this step because the chamber appeared unanimous in asking postponement of the $400,000,000 payment.

RESOLUTION PASSED BY FRENCH CHAMBER

PARIS, June 28—(AP)—The French government will open negotiations with Washington with a view to postponing beyond August 1 maturity of the bill for $400,000,000 for war stocks sold to France when the American expeditionary forces pulled up stakes and went home.

A resolution, framed with consent of the government, authorizing this action was adopted in the first hour of the morning by the chamber of deputies. The members of this body desired to have longer time in which to decide whether to ratify the French war debt settlement to the United States.

According to the Mellon-Berenger debt settlement France must ratify this agreement before August 1, if the war stocks bill is to be included in its terms. Otherwise this bill falls due on that date. Led by Franklin-Bouillon, who said this arrangement was a knife at the throat of France, parliament rebelled against the arrangement yesterday and in a late night sitting obliged the government to ask Washington for postponement.

Socialist deputies abstained from voting which was adopted on show of hands with only two votes opposing. One was from the communist deputy, Cachin, who said there was no hope of escaping payment and that to postpone it would simply be to be disillusioned once more, while the other contrary vote was cast by a radical.

When the chamber had expressed its will, Premier Raymond Poincare told the deputies he would apply himself with all my devotion and all my patriotism to carry out its wishes. That is to say, he will do his best to persuade Washington to postpone the maturity date of the war stocks bill and let parliament take its time about ratifying the agreement on war debts.

The motion adopted by the chamber read "before entering upon discussion of ratification of inter-allied debts and because of the limited time left before maturing of the war stocks debt, the chamber, desirous of proceeding to thorough examination of the text of the Washington and London debt accords and in view of the new experts plan (Young reparations plan), takes cognizance of declarations of the government which has decided to open new negotiations with the United States with a view to postponing the maturity date of the war stocks obligation."

AUTO ACCIDENTS CAUSED 5 DEATHS IN STATE LAST WEEK

HARTFORD, June 27.—(AP)— Five persons were killed in automobile accidents in this state during the week ended June 22, according to the report of the state department of motor vehicles, made public today. One less person was killed than in the corresponding period last year, but the report shows an increase of 49 in the total number of accidents reported to date over last year's figures.

Hartford led in the list of fatal accidents last week, two persons being killed here, while three cities, Bridgeport, Bristol and Manchester, each reported one fatality.

While the state-wide total of accidents has increased, the city total of accidents to date has decreased 16 from the total of last year to June 22. A total of 535 accidents, 315 of which were city accidents and 166 fatalities was reported to June 22 of this year, while last year in the corresponding period 486 accidents were reported of which 331 were city accidents and 176 fatalities.

Daily totals of accidents reported were: June 16, 113; June 17, 88; June 18, 80; June 19, 61; June 20, 62; June 21, 69; June 22, 62.

SCHOONER MERRY WIDOW WINNER OF CLASS B YACHTS

BALTIMORE, Md., June 27—(AP)—Merry Widow, Captain William MacMillan's Schooner, entered in Class B of the New London to Gibson Island yacht race, passed the coast guard cutter Apache, stationed at the finish, at 5:02 this morning, apparently winner for that class.

Dr. Walter R. Hughson, chairman of the race committee announced last night that Nina, staysail schooner, owned by Paul Hammond and Elihu Root, Jr., was winner of the Gibson Island trophy, awarded for the best corrected time for the race. Nina was also winner of Class A, but Dr. Hughson said winners of other prizes would not be announced until more of the 41 starters had finished. Seventeen anchored off Gibson Island today. Tradition, entered in Class A also having reached finish during the night.

FATALLY INJURED IN FALL FROM STAGING

MERIDEN, June 27.— (AP) — Otto Dahlberg, 39, of 115 Cedar Hill avenue, New Haven, died at 8:45 o'clock tonight at the Meriden hospital as the result of injuries received at 3 o'clock this afternoon when he fell from a 50-foot staging in the interior of the First Congregational church.

Dahlberg, an employe of the D. F. Chapman company, of New Haven, was one of a crew engaged in redecorating the church interior, but none of the other workers saw the accident or could explain how it occurred. A skull fracture resulted in his death.

MURDER OF MARLOW REMAINS A MYSTERY

NEW YORK, June 27.—(AP)—So far as was indicated by their announcements, the police achieved no definite results today in their effotrs to solve the mystery surrounding the murder of Frank Marlow, unlucky gambler and racketeer.

Specially organized squads of detectives continued their inquiries here, in Boston and in other cities in which they believed might be found "leads" to the killing last Monday night of the former Broadway night club proprietor but the results, if any, were withheld at headquarters.

SENT CRANKSHAFT TROUBLE WITH SWEDISH PLANE SVERIGE

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, June 27—(AP)—The trouble with the Swedish plane Sverige which forced it back here this afternoon a few hours after starting for Ivigtut, Greenland, was found to be a bent crankshaft. It was supposed that it had been strained when the plane was towed to the Westman islands after the airplane had been forced down on its flight from Bergen, Norway.

The Iceland Air company will provide a new shaft which will be installed tomorrow and Captain Albin Ahrenberg hopes to get away shortly thereafter.

TEMPORARY RECEIVER FOR PARKER-SMITH CO

NEW HAVEN, June 27.—(AP)— The Union and New Haven Trust company, was confirmed today to act as temporary receiver for the Parker-Smith company, mortgage investment brokers, against whom the state has brought charges of fraud, by Judge Arthur F. Ellis in superior court. The state has also charged the Parker-Smith company with manipulating its assets and operating with a state banking license.

John T. Sloan, New Haven real estate man and Charles W. Jaynes, of Hartford, were approved as appraisers. They will report their appraisal on August 5. Four months was allowed by for presentation of creditors claims against the Parker-Smith company on motion of J. Dwight Dana, attorney for the temporary receivers.

Property in which the Parker-Smith company are interested is so tied up with mortgages that Judge Ells instructed the appraisers to value only that which they own entirely. A piece of property in New Haven and two plots in Hartford, in addition to two automobiles constitute the property owned entirely by the company. The other property is also owned by equity.

Property owned by the Parker-Smith company is so tied up with mortgages that in the opinion of Dana, that if it were appraised without much study, it might be overvalued. A preliminary audit by a Hartford firm of accountants, is only partly completed.

DROWNED IN WATER ABOUT UP TO HIS NECK

MERIDEN, June 27—(AP)—James E. Wilcox, 25, son of Ernest C. Wilcox, local manufacturer, was drowned at Horseneck beach, near Fall River, Mass., late this afternoon. He was stricken with a sudden illness while standing in water about up to his neck and sank. His cousin, Stanley F. Crippen, of Hartford, who was bathing with him, hauled the body to the beach. Artificial respiration was attempted without success for two hours by James Sinclair, treasurer of the Charlton Mills, of Fall River, and Bernard L. Connors, manager of the Ocean house. Young Wilcox was a radio engineer, associated with his father in the Connecticut Telephone and Electric company here.

NOMINATED FOR PRESIDENT OF AUTOMOTIVE ENGINEERS

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., June 27.—(AP)—Edward P. Warner, former assistant secretary of the navy for aeronautics, was nominated for the presidency of the Society of automotive engineers at the summer technical meeting of the society here tonight. The nomination is equivalent to election.

Warner will be the first aeronautical man to become president of one of the major American engineering societies. He has been professor of aeronautical engineering at Massachusetts Institute of Technology since 1924; last week he became editor of "Aviation."

FOUR MEN, TWO WOMEN HELD IN MARLOW CASE

NEW YORK, June 28. (Friday)—(AP)—Four men, prominent as sports promoters, and two young women, were taken to police headquarters early this morning for questioning in connection with the slaying of Frank Marlow, Broadway racketeer, here last Monday.

The men are Dan Carroll, former Boston police sergeant; "Chick" Solomon and Charles Solomon, brothers, of New York, and Eddie Mack, of Boston. The identity of the women was not revealed.

STATE POLICE GATHER IN NO. COVENTRY LIQUOR VENDERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 27.—A general clean-up of North Coventry farms where illicit liquor has been proving a good solution to localized "farm relief" has been conducted this week by the state police with the result that the grand sum of $363.90 has been paid into the coffers of the town court by violators. Mr. and Mrs. Alasia Mitterholtzer, who operate a farm on Silver street, North Coventry, paid in $401.40 of this assessment after liquor had been purchased from them by Lieutenant Russell L. Harmon and Officer Frank A. Starkel of the Stafford Springs barracks. The liquor purchased was followed by a raid in which two stills of five and ten-gallon capacity were found along with two small kegs, four jugs of liquor and several bottles containing preparations for liquor making. The husband was arraigned before Justice of the Peace A. M. Gilman on four counts, manufacturing, sale, intent to sell, and reputation of selling liquor. His wife was charged with making a sale, and both pleaded guilty. Mr. Mitterholtzer was fined $100 for manufacturing, $50 for sale, $50 for intent to sell and $25 for reputation, plus the costs. The total in his case was $238.25. His wife was fined $50 and costs, amounting to $63.15.

The activities of the state police, with the co-operation of town officials, led to the arrest of Herman Schiff, also of North Coventry and neighbor of the Mitterholtzers who was fined $50 and costs, amounting to $62.30 in the Coventry town court Wednesday night. A raid on his place disclosed two stills of ten gallon capacity and a small quantity of "white mule."

The premises of Henry Brown in North Coventry were raided by the state police Wednesday night, this also leading to the uncovery of a still and a quantity of liquor. Brown was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Gilman this afternoon and the case was continued for one week.

Attorney John H. King, son of former Attorney General William A. King of this city, who is reported as slated for appointment as a special assistant attorney general to work with the state banking department in carrying out the provisions of the fraud law of 1929, is a native of Willimantic. He was born in 1900, attended the local grammar and high schools and was graduated from Yale in 1923, and from the Yale Law school in 1925. He served as law clerk for the judiciary committee in the legislative sessions of 1927 and 1929 and is secretary of the statute revision commission. He is a member of the state bar examining committee.

"Splendid Features of Electric Maid for Modern Mothers."

Dear Dot:

I just can't wait to tell you about the interesting tour I took last week attending the Electric Cooking Demonstrations of Hotpoint Ranges given by the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company at Stafford Springs, Ellington, Vernon, Tolland and Storrs.

I gathered loads of valuable information about Electric Cooking, but above all I learned Why Electric Cooking is Practical and Economical. This was a complete revision of opinion for me, 'cause I had always believed that cooking by electricity was a slow and expensive process.

It was demonstrated to me, Dot, that Electric Cooking is Practical because the Natural Values of Food are Retained in this cooking process, whereas in other forms of fuel much of it is "cooked away."

It is Economical due to the new low rate maintained by the Lighting Company and to the remarkable features of the Insulated Oven and Automatic Temperature Control of the new electric Ranges.

I experienced another happy surprise when it was shown me that cooking by Electricity is Not Slow. There is no question about it in my mind now—Electric Cooking Compares Very Favorably as to Speed with All Other Fuels!

It surely is interesting to see how we are all "from Missouri" when it comes to new methods, but it is not a bad trait and I am not sorry for all the doubts I once held about Electric Cooking because my very doubtfulness has led me to a new and quite thorough knowledge of this wonderful new way of cooking. And because this is a new feature in the modern home, it certainly would be a revelation to you to taste of a succulent steak broiled with That Clean, Even Heat that only an Electric Unit can Give.

And just think, You can stand over an electric stove the hottest day of the year and yet keep cool and comfortable. It does not "throw out" heat.

It is The Electric Maid for Modern Mothers in Every Sense of the Word. I assure you, dear friend, that you will make no mistake in studying the features of this Electric Maid for, like magic, she has changed the Preparation of Food from a hot, messy and tiring task to a new delight and pleasure that is a gift of modern science.

Devotedly yours, JANE.

NEW ENGLAND INDUSTRY.

Much has been said in behalf of New England industry and the encouragement that ought to be given to it by New Englanders especially. On the strength of that, or with a similar thought in mind, expression has been voiced to the effect that "It is a pity a New England road could not have favored New England manufacturing."

What was under discussion was the recent award of an order for 3,000 new freight cars, with steel ends and steel frame construction, by the Boston & Maine railroad to cost about $2,000,000 to a company outside of New England, and it would seem that the complaint was justified provided it were possible to get such an order filled in New England.

That is apparently where the whole trouble hinged. The railroad president makes that clear in the statement which he issued in response to such a complaint by declaring that the company at Laconia, N. H., which is going out of business cannot build such cars as have been ordered. This was known in advance so that it was not asked to bid upon them, but his willingness to give New England industry a chance is evidenced by his offer to place such an order with the company if it could build the cars wanted.

This would indicate that the Laconia factory is equipped to take care of the car construction that was demanded years ago and that it has not kept up with the times in producing such cars as the Boston & Maine uses. That may be one of the reasons of the closing of the factory. It certainly cannot be expected that railroads are going to make use of a type of rolling stock which is not considered economic just because it happens to be produced in New England.

The same situation apparently prevails with other lines of industry. When New England factories, machine shops or other industries cannot compete with those in other parts of the country for satisfactory products it must be expected that business will go elsewhere. Nevertheless it is well that there is kept to the front the desirability of supporting New England industry when it can supply the goods and through that supply the pressure that will cause it to produce the goods wanted. It would, indeed, have been a pity had those cars been ordered outside of New England if New England could have built them, and it is likewise a pity that New England cannot build them.

SPEEDING UP FOR SAFETY.

Speed is moving westward. Good roads and fast cars are encouraging more speed. It is not solely in the congested east but in the west that laws are being enacted to drive the slow drivers off the main highways.

When the state of Rhode Island required all cars to make at least 35 miles an hour on the main highways there was a hue and cry because speed was being required of motor vehicles when so much had been said against the speedsters, but now they are placing a minimum speed on the highways of Indiana where all cars must make at least 20 miles an hour and it is expected that in the near future this will be increased to 25 or 30 miles.

There was the time when "Go slow and see the scenery, go fast and see our jail," was freely displayed in some places. Those signs have disappeared. Much is still said about scenic conditions but it is now necessary to take them in on the fly. It is no longer possible to dawdle along the highway.

The slow driver does not directly contribute to highway dangers. He is a careful, law abiding person who understands that much of the trouble comes from fast driving and he is determined to keep away from it. On the other hand he is a serious bother to those who want to drive faster. No matter how slow or fast a person is driving there is always someone who wants to go faster. That means they must get around the slow driver and in doing that there is danger of accident because of the traffic going in the other direction. The slow driver indirectly causes many to take big chances in order to get ahead and maintain the speed they like. It is a case, therefore, where the slow fellow must speed up, take the side road or expect prosecution. He must join the procession and step on the gas in order to reduce the number waiting for him, but he and others know that he must be a racer to keep ahead of the speed bugs. Likewise he knows that highway accidents are not decreasing.

DAWES IN LONDON.

It has been customary to pay considerable attention to the manner in which the United States ambassador to England conforms to custom. There is always opportunity for making considerable of it whether he conforms to it or not.

Perhaps there is nothing that halts attention much more than the type of dress when appearing at court. It is clearly established when the English custom is knee breeches and long silk stockings. To this many Americans have conformed. They took the position that they should do the same at court as the English do, and yet there is the American custom and the question is confronted as to whether it is the English or the American that should be upheld.

Evidently it is a case of suiting one's own fancy. Ambassador Dawes was asked long in advance what his decision was going to be but he refused to give it. On his appearance at court it became known. He wore the conventional evening clothes of this country, the swallow tail coat and long trousers, and he wasn't denied admission. He was conspicuous because he was the only one so attired, but he was in keeping with American custom quite the same as military officers who make their appearance at court in dress uniform.

Ambassador Dawes has suited his own mind. Mrs. Dawes did likewise. It was the occasion for making much of the situation chiefly because he was different, but it is no more, perhaps less, than would have been said had he conformed to the English custom. It is not the first time it has been done and it will probably not be the last for it is a case where each one can act according to the dictates of their own conscience so long as they comply with custom either in London or at home.

No doubt it will be referred to as the ambassador's independence. That may be true, but there is no doubt but what it is his preference, quite the same as his decision not to serve liquor in the American embassy in London. When he declared that he never did such a thing in his home he had good reason for applying such a practice to the embassy. He cannot be criticized much if he fashions his public life after his private life.

GOOD ADVICE TO HEED.

At a time when drownings are causing alarm and when warnings are being issued about carelessness about lakes and ponds, Health Commissioner Wynne of New York city offers some good advice for those who do not swim, those who do swim and those who get into canoes. He speaks to those who may be going to the shore, to a lake or other swimming place and he says:

Do not stay in the water too long.

Don't attempt to get a coat of tan all in one or two days.

Don't swim until exhausted for exhaustion is dangerous.

Use the ropes, it is not safe to go beyond them.

Do not go into the water immediately after a heavy meal.

Do not swim if you are completely tired out, or feeling below par.

Do not go swimming alone.

Persons subject to attacks of fainting or epilepsy should never indulge in swimming.

Persons having kidney or heart disease or high blood pressure may possibly be permitted to bathe, but only upon the advice of their doctors.

Do not change seats in a small boat.

Do not go into a canoe unless you know how to swim.

If you do not know how to swim, learn how, not just some time, but right now!

When it is realized that there were 6,000 lives lost by drowning last year and that there is the possibility of as large, if not a larger, number losing their lives in the same way this year, it is evident that there is good and sufficient reason for giving heed to the various ways by which such a needless loss of life can be prevented. It calls for individual effort and it likewise calls for careful supervision on the part of those who are entrusted with the care of young people.

There is good reason for paying attention to facts, heeding the experience of others and following the advice of those who are endeavoring to have those of the present day profit by the shortcomings of those who have thrown their lives away. Some cases of drowning could not be prevented but there are many who could have been by the exercise of a little care.

AVIATION DEVELOPMENTS.

Even though this was the country in which it was first demonstrated that a heavier than air machine could be flown, we were backward in its development. European countries got the jump on the United States and there was ground for the criticism that was indulged in. We had neglected our opportunities, failed to appreciate what the flying machine meant and were apparently satisfied to tag along in the rear of others who had sensed the value of air transportation.

Evidently that criticism registered for by the report of Secretary Lamont of the department of commerce conditions have experienced a decided change in the last three years. Today there are air transport companies in all directions where it was confined chiefly to short mail routes a few years ago. Last year over 10,000,000 miles were flown by air transport companies and this year the figures show that this will be greatly exceeded and possibly doubled. It is one way of noting the increased attention given to aviation.

Further the report shows that there are today 1950 companies concerned in the aircraft industry where there were 900 three years ago. These are steadily growing and expanding, more and more cities are establishing landing fields and airports and more and more business is being done by airplanes. The network of airways now totals 30,000 miles or nearly twice as much as a year ago, while 40,000 persons have been carried during the first half of the department's year while in 1926 there was less than 6,000.

Another development is disclosed by the statement that there are today 165 approved types of aircraft in contrast to 21 when 1927 closed.

The United States has changed its attitude toward the flying machine. It has its practical use and that use is steadily increasing and every progressive community throughout the country is recognizing it.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Rain and sunshine are powerful aids to the ever struggling weeds.

The man on the corner says: Isn't it about time for those cherry pies?

What has become of those persons who used to have so much fun getting stuck in the fly paper?

If the iceman is happiest when busiest these rare and hot June days ought to find him in his best mood.

THE TOASTER

"Bob, for goodness' sake, don't forget to stop and get the toaster today." Dot had reminded her husband every morning at breakfast for the last five days.

Furthermore, she had embellished her theme with tones and words which hinted of distinct annoyance and impatience, but all to no effect. The evenings brought Bob's return minus the toaster. And so on this, the sixth morning of its absence from the dining room, scorn fitted inelegantly through Dot's mind as she tried to spread obstinate lumps of butter on a piece of cold toast prepared in the kitchen.

Hot words stung her tongue, but she sealed her lips and looked across the table at Bob. He, too, was laboring with butter and cold bread. She wanted to shout at him, "Are you having a good time?" "Do you enjoy bread in auc ha stage?" and "What's the matter with your memory? It would take only five minutes for you to stop in and get the toaster. Why didn't you take it to a first-class repair shop that maintains a delivery route, instead of leaving it at that frowzy old Newcome's? I should think you'd know by this time that when people try to scrimp they usually get stung."

She considered saying all these things and many more, but somehow the words congealed on her tongue. For five mornings she had blurted her thoughts ineffectively, had actually nagged him. For five mornings Bob had accepted her reproaches with a grunt and a promise.

But she knew that she had angered him. She could always tell when Bob was provoked. He did not need to say a word. His lips tightened, the ridge on his nose grew menacingly thin, his brows bushed and his eyes prickled. But the ire, thus aroused, did not move him to action. And here they were again suffering the inconvenience of cold toast!

Dot eyed him furtively, noted that his lips were tightening, the ridge on his nose was growing menacingly thin, his brows were bushing and his eyes were prickling. Evidently he expected the customary reprimand. Her own intentions, balked, took inward instead of outward flight.

"I've talked myself into a regular shrew over that toaster," she thought, "and it's plain to see that that is the wrong way. But where is the right way? It's a psychological problem to know how to make a husband behave properly. I wonder—I wonder." And while she was still wondering Bob pushed back his chair.

"Well, Twinkles," he said, "I'm through with my breakfast. Got to beat it now. Good-by."

Dot opened her mouth to make an outlet for words, but none came, and so instead of saying what she did not know how to say she did not say anything. She merely kissed her husband good-by.

"Well, I didn't say a thing about the toaster," she said to herself the minute after Bob had gone. "Now I know he won't get it. There's no use in trying to reform a man. I'm going down and get that toaster myself."

She dressed and set out for Newcome's. But on the street she met Mabel Hall and Mabel insisted that Dot accompany her to her furrier's to see a new fur wrap and when they had finished there they decided to have lunch together, and when they finished their lunch Dot noticed that it was 1 o'clock. Then she remembered her original errand and scurried off to the repair shop.

"I'm Mrs. Robert Perkins," she announced to the frowzy-looking man who greeted her across the counter. "I came to get a toaster that my husband left here over a week ago." Newcome grinned good naturedly.

"Sorry, madam," he said, "but Mr. Perkins called and got it himself this morning."—Exchange.

What Women Should Know About the Prevention of Serious Surgical Conditions

By Carl Henry Davis, M. D., Milwaukee, Wis.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Thousands of women require serious surgical operations each year for conditions that might have been prevented. Other thousands die from complications that were diagnosed too late after the possibility of surgical cure had passed.

A considerable number of women require operation for the late effects of childbirth injuries. Most of these conditions might have been prevented by more adequate obstetrical care and immediate repair, or by means of a minor operation or treatment within a few months after the birth of a baby. Other operations are for such surgical conditions as cysts or non-malignant tumors, which have been permitted to grow until complications occur and a serious emergency operation becomes necessary.

With few exceptions, pelvic surgery in women may be accomplished as an elective procedure at a time when the risk may be reduced to the minimum by adequate pre-operative preparation, providing the diagnosis is made early enough.

Early cancer of the womb can be cured by operation or radium therapy. There is also reason to believe that cancer of the cervix may be prevented by the early treatment and cure of minor lesions that result in chronic irritation. Leukorrhea is one of the most common symptoms of a chronic irritation of the cervix and every abnormal discharge calls for a careful examination. Such a discharge developing in women past 40 years of age is more apt to mean a serious condition. At the present time cancer of the womb is usually not diagnosed until so much tissue is involved that a surgical cure is impossible.

What can a woman do to prevent serious surgical conditions? Her greatest safety lies, first, in employing a competent physician when she believes there may be something that is not normal; and, secondly, in a periodic complete physical examination.

It is regrettable that so many women who believe there may be something wrong fail to consult a physician because of fear. They expect the worst possible findings and overlook the fact that anything abnormal is never helped through neglect. Fortunately gynecologists are able to relieve the fears of many women, and the safety of those who have surgical conditions is greatly increased through early diagnosis and treatment.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Time for Town Officials to Get Busy

Mr. Editor: Notwithstanding the constant efforts being made in certain quarters to confuse the public mind it is obvious that a misappropriation of a peculiarly sacred piece of town property, the first burying ground of Norwich, has taken place.

It is also obvious that the town officials have been very careless and dilatory.

It is also obvious that the location of the old cemetery has been clearly pointed out and indeed has never been lost to sight by certain groups of families and erudite persons.

It is therefore obvious that the town officials should wake up and resume possession of this cemetery which was abstracted while they dozed.

EDITH HUNTINGTON WILSON
Norwich Town, June 27, 1929.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 27—Imagine a man whose first war service under the flag was rendered so long ago that he has forgotten even the name of the ship on which he served.

Yet that is what Thomas Edgar, at 98 years, sole known survivor of the Mexican war, has to say of his recollections. He lives in Washington, surrounded by grandchildren and great-grandchildren, but he will not talk of that war.

In that reticence Edgar differs little from the bulk of the officers and men who served in the World war. With rare exceptions they do not talk of the harrowing part of their experiences "over there."

By way of illustration, take the group of officers who composed Pershing's original staff. The Bystander has known most of them personally since before 1917, yet he can recall very few times when they dipped into their crowding memories in conversation with him to revive the grim moments they knew in France.

A Quiet Crew

That group, which attempts to gather annually at the "Baltic dinner," named in honor of the ship on which they sailed for France, bore the brunt of responsibility in shaping the original American military program.

Some of them later won valor decorations. Yet the tales that mark their reunions invariably are the humorous, trivial incidents, not the grim tragedies of the war years.

There is a never ending fund of stories about settlements made with the French government after the war on claims against American troops by French citizens.

One of the new ones in circulation goes clear back to July 14, 1917, when the First division had landed in France and a battalion went to Paris to march in the Bastile day parade.

Americans who saw that will never forget it. The French capital went wild in honoring the new fighting force that arrived in the hour of allied need.

Expensive Cleanliness

Barracks near Paris were provided by the French government for the battalion, which was the guest of France for that occasion.

On inspection, however, American staff officers found bathing facilities not quite to their liking, and requested that two dozen shower heads be installed. And after the war, among the claims, popped up that of a Paris plumber for this installation.

The French war office had refused to pay it on the ground that even if the showers were put in, which it doubted, no such lavish provision of bathing facilities for a mere infantry battalion could be justified as a militry necessity.

If the United States was going to insist on such de luxe bathing equipment for its men, Uncle Sam would have to foot the bill himself. And Uncle Sam did.

It is tales like this that the Baltic diners revive when they gather in reunion. They, like most veterans of any war, would laugh, not weep, for fallen comrades.

Thus it is also with Edgar, last of the Mexican war old guard. He has no will to recall harrowing things that are now verging toward a century in the past.

Stories That Recall Others

Abraham Lincoln.

A few days ago when Tapper, age six, came home from Sunday school his daddy asked him:

"Well, Tapper, what did you learn today?"

"Oh, we learned about Abraham Lincoln."

"Abraham Lincoln?"

"Yes, daddy, you know when he crossed the desert with his many wives."

No Hope.

The oft discussed question of diet came up in a recent conversation. One member of the group wanted to lose ten pounds.

"Try hiking," suggested one of the number.

"Don't dare hike on country roads. Get run down," said the fat fellow.

"Try the fields," he was told.

"Get shot by an irate farmer for trespassing," was the reply.

"No hope for you," was the decision of the group.

Happy Jack Partly Redeems Himself

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

The error that may hopeless seem
Some day you may in part redeem.
—Happy Jack Squirrel.

For several days after the visit of Chatterer the Red Squirrel to the Old Orchard, his big cousin, Happy Jack the Gray Squirrel, kept out of sight as much as possible. He no longer bragged, he no longer boasted, he no longer went about puffed up with vanity. He had run from one much smaller than himself, and all the feathered folk in the Old Orchard had seen him.

So Happy Jack kept by himself as much as possible and brooded over his wrongs. He wasn't afraid of Chatterer, although to see him run you would have thought he was. It wasn't fear that had made him run. It was simply a feeling of his own helplessness to prevent the quicker moving Chatterer from tormenting him. Chatterer could run in and nip him and be away again before Happy Jack could get back at him. He had long ago found out that the easiest way of avoiding being tormented was to run. And so he had run. But he knew that his neighbors didn't know this and thought he had run because he was afraid. He had lost the reputation he had won when he had fought with Robber the Rat.

"Don't you care, my dear," said Mrs. Happy Jack.

"Don't you care, my dear," said Mrs. Happy Jack. I know all about it. I've run from Chatterer myself."

"But I do mind," replied Happy Jack. "Other folks don't know it, if you do. Even the children don't know it. They thought I was a hero and now they think I'm a coward. The worst of it is, there isn't anything I can do about it."

But there was something he could do about it. The opportunity came in a most unexpected way. Black Pussy the Cat surprised Happy Jack on the ground in the Old Orchard. Just in time he saw her stealing up behind him. He started for the nearest tree. Black Pussy started after him. Scrapper the Kingbird, who chanced to see it, began to jeer. That brought a lot of the other feathered folk and they all began to jeer. Once more Happy Jack the boaster was running away.

Happy Jack reached the tree and ran up just beyond the reach of Black Pussy. Then he turned and, clinging to the tree head down, he barked almost in Black Pussy's face. Black Pussy, standing on her hindfeet, reached up with her forefeet and tried to scratch Happy Jack. Happy Jack was smart enough to keep out of reach. Suddenly he darted down so quickly that Black Pussy did not have time to do a thing. Happy Jack hit Black Pussy right on the end of her nose. Black Pussy gave a yowl and turned and fled. This was more than she had bargained for. Happy Jack raced down the tree and after her. Across the Old Orchard they went, Happy Jack actually chasing Black Pussy.

When they reached Farmer Brown's dooryard, Black Pussy whirled with her back up and her tail swelled, spitting and snarling for all she was worth. At the foot of the old stone wall facing her, Happy Jack stopped. He, too, growled and barked. Gradually Black Pussy settled down. All the time her tail was twitching. Every moment or two there would be a low growl deep in her throat. Happy Jack remained right where he was and dared Black Pussy to come nearer.

Meanwhile there had been another change of opinion in the Old Orchard. The Old Orchard folk had seen Black Pussy running with Happy Jack at her heels. They promptly forgot having seen Happy Jack running with Chatterer the Red Squirrel at his heels.

"Hurrah for Happy Jack!" they cried.

As for Happy Jack's children, they were once more filled with great pride.

There's a big difference in tires, although they all look pretty much alike.

Some are made with skimpy, short staple cotton. Some have an overdose of "filler" in the rubber of the tread. Some are long on looks and short on quality.

But you won't need a microscope to be sure that the Goodyear Tire you get from us is a real buy. Goodyear mileages tell the story of "The World's Greatest Tire."

Goodyears are performing so satisfactorily for our customers that they invariably come back—not with a kick but with a boost, and for another Goodyear when they need tire equipment.

NORWICH LIONS CLUB ACCEPTS TWO INVITATIONS

The weekly luncheon meeting of the Norwich Lions club was held on Thursday noon at the Wauregan hotel with the president, Charles W. Cassidy, presiding. Louis Crandall, who offered the blessing, acted as song leader and Frederick Geer was at the piano. A report on the organization meeting of the Willimantic Lions club was given by President Cassidy, who, with Former President Dr. Kopland K. Markoff and Max Hanover attended it and heard an address by Commissioner King M. Gillette of the Lions International.

Lion Lee Dix, reporting for the Ladies night committee, announced that a shore diner will be enjoyed at the fifth annual Ladies night outing of the club to be held at the Pease house, Saybrook Point, Tuesday, July 11. Dr. Kopland K. Markoff, in charge of entertainment, reported that he had a surprise sketch in store for them.

The Lions received an invitation to attend the first meeting of the newly formed Willimantic club to be held at Windham Inn, Windham, Tuesday evening, July 2nd and all present signified their intentions of attending. The club's invitation came in a communication received from Commissioner King M. Gillett.

The Lions also accepted an invitation from Lion Joseph French to attend a clam chowder dinner at the Chelsea Boat club soon. Lion French was appointed a committee of one to make arrangements. The meeting closed with the singing of The Star Spangled Banner after the Lions roar.

POLICE SCHEDULE PROBLEM IS BEFORE COMMISSIONERS

The board of police commissioners of the common council, consisting of Alderman Frederick J. Ortman, Councilmen George Brenn and John H. Sherman, are still struggling, as far as can be learned, with the proposition put up to them by the city meeting of turning the Norwich police job into a six day a week job with seven days pay without it costing the city any more than at present.

At the present time the policemen work a seven day week with two days off each month and fourteen days off for vacation time during the summer, a total of 38 days off, and receiving their regular pay of $5.50 a day for this time off.

If the six day week can be put into effect, the time off for each man would be increased to a total of more than two months with pay. They would continue to have their 14 days vacation and the one day a week off would add 50 days more, a total of 64 days off in the year.

PRESENTED MAHOGANY TABLE TO MRS. EDWIN HILL

On Monday afternoon several of the members of the Y. M. C. A. auxiliary board of directors surprised Mrs. Edwin Hill at her new home on Harland road, and on behalf of the Woman's auxiliary board of the "Y" presented her a beautiful mahogany table for the living room.

The visit and presentation was made because of the fact that Mrs. Hill was about to celebrate the 34th anniversary of her wedding, and in recognition of her moving into her new home. The affair was a most pleasant one; refreshments were served by the visitors and a general good time was enjoyed.

CHIEF TAFT ATTENDED CONVENTION IN NEW HAVEN

Chief Henry R Taft of the local fire department, who attended the Tuesday and Wednesday sessions of the annual convention of the New England Fire Chiefs' association at New Haven has returned home. The convention, which closed Thursday with the election of officers, had a program of addresses, demonstrations and a shore dinner at Savin Rock.

JOLLY DOZEN CLUB CLOSED SEASON WITH BANQUET

The Jolly Dozen club closed a successful season with a delicious banquet at Chesanba lodge, Fort Hill, Thursday evening. Songs were sung and a toast given to each member. After the banquet cards were enjoyed until a late hour. Three autos conveyed the party to the lodge.

LYME ART ASSOCIATION HOLDS "CURTAIN RAISER"

For the fifth successive year the Lyme Art association has opened the doors of its beautiful little gallery in the quaint old New England village upon the exhibition of water colors, etchings, lithographs and pastels that some have called the "curtain raiser" for the "big show" that will make its appearance the latter part of July to remain throughout the summer.

This present exhibition will run through July 7.

To the prophetically inclined this assemblage of water colors and "black and whites" augurs well for the approaching "big show," for the 126 entries in general manifest a high degree of excellence. The water colors are fresh, clean, crisp and vital, and like the etchings and lithographs, show the Lyme artists to be not only sane and sound, but fundamentally fine draughtsmen. Outstanding among them is a group of landscapes by Henry Bill Selden who bathes a "Deserted" cottage, "The New London Light," and other scenes with radiant sunlight. Platt Hubbard portrays fine, vine-hung old houses with full recognition of their beauty and contributes an etching called simply a tree study, that is a joy, with the sunny road beneath it winding off into the distance.

Will Howe Foote and Harry L. Hoffman offer fruits of a recent sojourn in Bermuda in truthful and decorative glimpses of those colorful islands. Edward Volkert proves water color to be an excellent medium for painting the oxen, cows and sheep that he delights in, and he gets with it the same fine atmospheric effects, the same radiant sunlight that characterizes his oils. Carleton Wiggins, Wilson Irvine, Charles Ebert, Mary Roberts Ebert, Frank A. Bicknell, William Chadwick, Thomas Watson Ball, Paul Saling, and Eleanor Lathrop Sears are also represented.

Seven etchings by Eugene Higgins are outstanding features of the "black and white" wing of the gallery, noteworthy for their vigorous, beautifully-bitten lines, their fine modelling in light and dark, and their deep, human feeling. William S. Robinson, winner of the Altman first prize of $1000 at the spring show of the National Academy of Design, exhibits a trio of charming small etchings done "just for fun," his first for many years. Guy Wiggins' lithographs of the Rocky mountains are most pleasing. Caroline Weir Ely, daughter of the late Alden Weir, Henry Bill Selden, Wilson Irvine and Lawrence Peck are also represented by excellent work.

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE ON NORTH MAIN STREET

Mrs. George E. Swanton of No. 479 North Main street was severely injured about 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, when she was struck by a Maxwell touring car driven by Alfred C. Levitsky, 24, of 33 Margerie street on North Main street near her home. She was attended by Dr. E. J. Brophy for a severely lacerated left leg, and bruises on the face, right leg and back. Mrs. Swanton was taken to her home.

FUNERAL
William Kelley

Funeral services for William Kelley were held at 8:30 o'clock Thursday morning at his home, 223 Yantic street, followed by requiem mass in St. Patrick's church with Rev. John J. Reilly as celebrant. The music was in charge of Mrs. Bernard Coyle. Roderick F. Sullivan sang De Profundis, at the offertory and as a waiting hymn Mrs. Coyle rendered What Shall I Render. At the recessional Chopin's Funeral March was played.

Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, where the committal service was read by Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael H. May. The bearers were John Coleman, Charles McFadden, Patrick Murphy, Michael Donovan, Michael Murphy and Dennis Brennan.

Among the mourners were relatives and friends from Palmer, Ware, Mass., and other places. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertakers Hourigan Bros.

Alexander Wojciechowski, Jr.

At 7.15 o'clock Thursday morning the funeral of Alexander Wojciechowski, Jr., who was fatally burned Monday on the Jewett City river road, was held at his home, No. 23 Cove street, with many relatives and friends from Southbridge, New London and other places in attendance. At the requiem mass in St. Joseph's church at 8 o'clock Rev. S. A Iciek was celebrant and the music was in charge of M. Ancin, organist.

Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery and the committal service was read by Rev Fr. Iciek. The bearers were Alexander Wojciechowski, Walter Suplicki, John Olenkewicz, Anthony Wojciechowski, Stephen Kiecolt and Paul Lapuc. The floral forms were numerous and beautiful.

Miss Adeline A. Smith.

With a large gathering of mourners including people from New York, Baldwin, L. I., New London, Norwich and other places the funeral of Miss Adeline A. Smith was held at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon at her home in Hanover. The services were conducted by Rev. Dwight C. Stone, pastor of the Hanover Congregational church, assisted by Rev. Mr. Greene of New London. There was a profusion of beautiful floral remembrances. Burial was in the family lot in the Hanover cemetery, and the committal service was read by the two pastors. The bearers were William G. Park of Hanover, Norman Standish, Baldwin, L. I., Dr. Douglas, New London, and William Barrett. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker George G. Grant of Taftville.

WEDDING
Chiangi—Favola

The wedding of Frank Chiangi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Natali Chiangi of 141 Bromley street, and Miss Jennie Favola, daughter of Louis Favola of 163 Talman street, took place at 8 o'clock Thursday morning at St. Mary's Memorial church, Rev. William A. Keefe, performing the ceremony. Miss Mary Cosentino and Theodore Viardella were the attendants.

The bride was attractive in white satin and wore a veil of tulle caught up with orange blossoms. Her shower bouquet was of white roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid wore pink satin and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses.

Immediately after the ceremony a wedding breakfast and reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Chiangi left on a wedding trip to New York and upon their return are to reside in a newly furnished apartment on Bromley street.

WONDERFUL BOY SOPRANO SINGS AT RECEPTION TO MR. AND MRS. POTTER

Ernest Felix Potter, choirmaster at Christ Episcopal church for ten years up to 1899, when he resigned to go to a church in Philadelphia, revisited Norwich Thursday, accompanied by Mrs. Potter, and they were warmly greeted by many of their old friends at an informal reception which had been arranged for them at 4:30 in the afternoon at Slater hall annex. Accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Potter was Master Clawson Beswick Van Siclen, twelve year old boy who has been hailed by musical critics as the most wonderful boy soprano of the present day, and who has been a pupil of Mr. Poter for three years.

While the friends were greeting Mr. and Mrs. Potter, arrangements were made to use Slater hall for an informal musical programme and all were invited to take seats in the big hall to hear Mr. Potter and Master Van Siclen. The delightful entertainment they afforded began with a group of songs by the boy soprano, whose numbers included Jenny Lind's Echo song, Love's Garden Gate, and old French melody, and an aria from Rossini's Semiramide, the Bel Raggio. Mr. Potter followed with a piano selection, a Polish dance by Scharwenka and Master Van Siclen contributed another group of three numbers which opened with the Queen of Night aria from Mozart's Magic Flute, a vocal performance that is attempted by only a very few of the world's greatest prima donnas. He followed this with Polly Willis, an old English classic of Dr Arne, and the Adelina Patti version of the Last Rose of Summer.

Mr. Potter was heard again in another piano solo, Mendel's Moonlight Journey to the Island of Love, and Master Van Siclen closed the afternoon with two Franz Schubert songs, Faith in Spring and Hedge Roses.

The youthful singer won, most enthusiastic praise from his audience for the loveliness of his voice and the ease and fluency with which he rendered the operatic arias. He has a perfect trill up to B flat and C and his range is from A below the staff to A flat, which is the extreme range of the human voice.

CLAWSON B. VAN SICLEN

Announcement was made Thursday evening that the boy soprano is to sing this (Friday) evening at Christ church, rendering a programme of sacred arias. Mr. Potter will be his accompanist, and it is expected the programme will begin about 8.30.

MUST PAY FOR SUPPORT OF THREE MINOR CHILDREN

By a decision given Thursday by Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court, Frank Chapman of 49 Church street, who is employed as a weaver, is to pay $9.50 per week to his wife, Catherine Thompson Chapman, of 3 Fountain street, for the support of their three minor children.

Judge Brown heard the case tried before him on Tuesday in this city. The memorandum of decision is as follows:

The plaintiff who was married to the defendant in 1902 brings this action under section 1650 of the general statutes for support and maintenance for herself and the three youngest of her five minor children, Mabel, 16, Walter, 13, and Martha, 10.

The plaintiff and defendant have not lived together as husband and wife since May 30, 1928, since which time the said three children and the two oldest, Chauncey, 18, and Fred, 17, have made their home with the plaintiff. While the evidence discloses that occasionally during the last few years that the parties lived together, the defendant used intoxicating liquor, to which the plaintiff strenuously objected, it does not reveal that this resulted in any such conduct upon the defendant's part as warranted the plaintiff's separation from him because thereof. She did, however, by her complaints resulting in his arrest upon two occasions and by her repeated threats of further arrests, finally force the defendant to leave the home which he had apparently properly provided for up to that time. Such being the situation the plaintiff is not entitled to any order for support for herself in this action.

I am satisfied, however, upon the evidence, that the plaintiff, with the cooperation of the two oldest boys, is maintaining a proper home for the three youngest children, and that it is not feasible for the defendant to provide a proper home for them with him. The law imposes the duty of support of their minor children upon both parents and under the circumstances here the defendant should be ordered to contribute to the support and maintenance of the youngest three children.

The defendant's average earnings as a weaver are about $27 to $28 per week. It is conceded that the value of his equity in Norwich Building and Loan association shares is $477, and that he has some $380 on deposit in the Chelsea Savings bank, or total assets outside of earnings of about $854. His living expenses average from $15 to $18 per week. Under all of the circumstances I find that he should contribute $9.80 per week for the support of the three youngest children.

A decree may therefore be entered that the defendant pay to the plaintiff for the support and maintenance of said three youngest children the sum of $9.50 on Saturday, June 29, 1929, and a like amount upon each succeeding Saturday until, as said children become self-supporting or for other sufficient reason, this court shall otherwise order; and that further upon the release by the plaintiff of the attachments made herein, the defendant shall become bound with sufficient surety in the sum of $600 to the plaintiff to abide this judgment; and that further the defendant shall then pay to the plaintiff $35 toward her expenses in instituting this proceeding in addition to her taxable costs.

BOYS TO SHOW HOW THEY LEARNED TO SWIM

The boys who have been taught to swim this week at the Y. M. C. A. are to give a demonstration this (Friday) evening, which parents and friends of the boys have been invited to attend. The programme is to start at 7:30.

The boys were taught to swim in three different groups during learn-to-swim week. There were the boys who could not swim at all, and were sort of water shy. These youngsters are the hardest to teach. The first step is to build up the confidence, and to make them like the water. The second group are boys who like the water, but have not had the opportunity to try to swim. These lads usually learn in a short time that it is easy to float, and then to swim. The third group are boys who have an idea about swimming and can get a few yards with the dog paddle or some other underwater stroke. These boys with a little instruction readily change to a crawl stroke, which will make them stronger and better swimmers.

The local Red Cross corps will put on a demonstration of the various methods of rescuing drowning people and the means of bringing them to shore.

The junior swimming class will put on some races, and novelty races. This will be one of the outstanding events as the juniors have some fine swimmers and divers.

A member of the physical department will present each boy who was taught to swim the width of the pool with a button showing that he has been taught to swim during this campaign.

NOAH'S ARK PICTURE SUGGESTS SERMON THEME

Rev. A. N. Foster preached last Sunday morning at the Church of Good Shepherd—Universalist—a sermon drawn from the moving picture "Noah's Ark," his sermon theme being "The Need of a New Idea of God," which has led to others outside the church requesting publication of the sermon.

The text was Genesis 6:7; for it repenteth me that I have made them. Rev. Mr. Foster spoke in part as follows:

Two ideas persist in any group of persons or in the study of any civilization—first, dominance of sin and how to get rid of it and second, how to get from earth to heaven.

Stories of a great deluge and of a high tower of Babel came from the ancient Chaldeans and were elaborately retold by the Hebrews and were later included in their sacred writings. They were attempts in the childhood of the race to deal with those two great questions and the people of the early day would be amazed, could they know that educated people of the twentieth century believed such stories to be actual history. The deluge is an attempt to reassert moral government and leadership in the world and the tower of Babel story an attempt to explain the presence of different languages among the peoples of the earth. The known world at that time was hardly larger than the area of New York and New England combined; they knew nothing of western Europe or America or Australia nor of the distinctive floral or fauna, plant or animal life of those vast continental areas; there was no kangaroo in the ark. This great moving picture is to be welcomed as an attempt at educational uplift on the part of the film industry.

The picture commanded, we are told, the labors of 2,000 persons for two years time and the preparation cost some $2,000,000. It is indeed elaborate, costly, dazzling, spectacular and thrilling. It is portrayed as the calamity of the human race and in conception, it is paralleled by the story of the World war of 1914. The latter shows pictures of marching troops and trench warfare, execution of a girl spy and the joy of the armistice, etc. After the deluge, the world is supposed to be cleansed from sin and after the great war, international warfare is branded as an outlaw.

The basal assumption throughout is the power and authority of God. The conception of God which is assumed is in striking contrast to the idea of the modern liberal in theology. First; it is an "absentee God" —a workman, a mechanic who has put the world in motion and who from the outside watches it operate—with occasional interference or direction on his part to keep it going. God is outside of his creation and not a part of it. Second; it is a capricious God: he deals with a special, chosen people and he wishes to reward them and is open to the influence of coaxing and teasing and bribery; he even repents himself of his noblest work—creation of man—and so, as in a passion, he deliberately wrecks all the world, except the selected few to whom his secret purpose has been confined. Third; He is vengeful; the most brutal punishments are inflicted on those marked as his enemies because—"thus saith the Lord."

In contrast to these traits, we declare that our modern twentieth century thought insists on the universality of the Divine Presence—God is in heaven and in the earth and in the sea and the mountain; is everywhere present in nature; human duty is also of universal application—not partial—and natural law is universal; the Divine is "nearer than breathing and closer than hands and feet". Again, God's power is expressed, not by arbitrary acts of intervention—flood, fire and earthquake with their devastative sweep; such in fact reflect the action of inevitable law and are not the arbitrary injection of Divine will; as the area of human observation widens, from personal and domestic circles to community and natural and even international life, all is brought more and more under the operation of known law and less and less given over to chance and superstition. And yet again, God's purpose is not what of vengeance but is that of redeeming love; the will to destroy and begin over again is strong but the will to construct and to transform is yet stronger. The great challenge in life is to make the crooked straight and the rough places plain and to dispel the darkness with light.

We call these ideas new but they are taken directly from some of the beautiful passages in the prophecies of Isaiah. Jesus declared that he came not to destroy but to seek and to save the lost. Paul teaches of the God everywhere present, in whom we live and move and have our being. Humanitarian reform work asks not for power to destroy nor for secret means to escape to heaven but rather summons to duty to build a highway for our Lord here. The "Eternal not ourselves that makes for righteousness" is in contrast to the childish idea of climbing up into a physical heaven; the "far off Divine event toward which the whole creation moves" is in contrast to the toylike story of a great flood of waters let down from above.

DECISION IN FAIRGROUNDS CASE AGAINST GILMANS

By a decision handed down Thursday by Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court he denies the motion made by Attorney George H. Gilman and his brother Francis Gilman to reopen and vacate the superior court order confirming the sale of the East Great Plain property of the New London County Agricultural society which has been used for years for county fairs.

The Gilman brothers bought the property at public auction on a bid of $15,750, paying down $2,000 at the time of the sale. Later they brought the petition to have the confirmation of sale vacated on the ground that the directions of the court had not been complied with literally and there had been unintentional misrepresentations in regard to the sale.

Gilbert S. Raymond, receiver for the agricultural society, is now seeking to compel the Gilman brothers to pay the balance on their bid.

In his memorandum of decision Judge Brown says:

The first ground of the motion is that "no notice of sale was published as directed" by the court's order of March 8, 1929. This order directed the sale of the property by the receiver on May 1st, 1929, and further provided "he shall advertise such sale by publishing a notice thereof, containing a description of the real and personal property, in the Norwich Morning Bulletin, a daily newspaper printed in Norwich, not less than six times commencing on March 15, 1929."

The first insertion of this advertisement appearing March 15, 1929, read, "this sale will be held Monday, May 1st, 1929, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, standard time," when in fact May 1st fell on Wednesday. In each of the following five insertions of April 17, 20, 23, 25 and 27, 1929, respectively, the time of sale was correctly announced for "Wednesday, May 1, 1929". It was also so advertised by notices sent by mail to all known creditors, life members and to certain prospective buyers. The contention that the ambiguity as to date in the March 15th insertion voids the sale is without merit. Any interested party could easily have removed his doubt at that time by inquiry, and the five subsequent publications together with the mailed notices amply apprised the public of the time when the sale was to be held.

On April 12, 1929, after due hearing, the court modified the March 8 order, by authorizing the sale of the personal property in such lots and at such time as in the receiver's discretion seemed for the best interest of defendant and its creditors. Pursuant thereto the receiver decided to sell the personality at 11 a. m. on May 1, 1929, and accordingly advertised in the last five insertions above mentioned and in the mailed notices that it would be so sold. Of this alleged failure to give notice as directed, complaint is also made upon this motion of Mr. Gilman as a purchaser of the real estate. The contention is obviously without merit, as is the further claimed failure in that the receiver's advertisement stated that the purchaser would have to assume the first mortgage instead of buying the property subject to it as ordered by the court, though in fact the real estate was sold to the purchasers upon the latter terms.

The second ground of the motion is that "the sale was not conducted as directed" by the order of March 8th, 1929, in that the personal property was sold in separate lot before the real estate was sold. As above stated, the order of March 8th providing for the sale of the "real and personal property as a whole" was modified by the court's subsequent order of April 12th, providing for the sale of the personality separately. It was not only within the court's power to so modify the original order, but it was its duty so to do when it appeared as it did here that this was for the best interest of the defendant and its creditors. Neither reason nor authority supports the contention that the court's order of March 8th could only be modified by the individual judge who at a preceding term of court happened to have entered it.

The third ground of the motion is that the "sale was not conducted in accordance with the terms of the notice given thereof." In that as already stated the property was sold to the purchasers subject to the first mortgage instead of upon the assumption thereof by them, and in that the amount of this mortgage had been stated in the advertisements of sale to be $25,000, when it was in fact but $22,400. How these circumstances could prejudice the purchasers has not been explained and is difficult to discover. This ground likewise is without merit.

Whether or not the purchasers are "sick of their bargain," as was suggested by opposing counsel in argument is of no consequence and not a question for the determination of the court upon this motion, but it is to be borne in mind in passing upon it, that it is not as creditors or as life members of the defendant, but as purchasers that they seek to overturn the sale. In short they are saying that they have no right to take the property which they have bought. The burden of their complaint seems to be that if the claimed technical mistakes recited had not occurred there might have been more bidders for the real estate and so they would possibly have had to pay a higher price to obtain it. No one else complains, and no one has objected to the confirmation of the sale as made although the purchasers themselves had a printed notice of the court hearing thereon sent by mail to every known creditor and life member of the defendant.

The motion to reopen and vacate the court's order of May 27, 1929, confirming the sale of the real estate to these purchasers, is denied.

FIGHT FANS KEPT BULLETIN TELEPHONE BUSY

An avalanche of telephone calls were received at The Bulletin editorial rooms Thursday evening for results on the Paolino-Schmeling match at Madison square garden. Early in the evening, hours before the bout was scheduled to go on, numbers of interested fight fans inquired as to whether it was to be broadcast by radio. From 10 to 11 o'clock the phones were ringing continuously, indicating that there was considerable interest in the match. The increased number of inquiries also had to do with the failure of the radio stations to secure rights to broadcast the fight.

Upon request the fight, round by round, was given out to a fair sized audience in front of the Bulletin building on Franklin street as fast as it came over the Associated Press wires, special service being in vogue.

PARADIS APPEAL FROM PROBATE IS VACATED

An appeal from probate of the will of her husband, the late Joseph Paradis of Taftville, has been vacated by the widow, Mrs. Docima Paradis, according to papers filed with Clerk John H. Walker of the superior court.

John B. Paradis of Taftville, who is chief beneficiary under the will, is also executor and the appeal was brought on the ground that the testator was not of testamentary capacity and was subject to undue influence by John B. Paradis.

Are You Well and Strong?

"Before my third baby was born my husband advised me to take your medicine and he bought me three bottles of it. When I had taken the first one I began to feel better so I kept on during the whole period. We have a healthy baby boy and we are so proud of him and praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for the help it gave me. I feel lots stronger since I started to use it and would not be without it."—Mrs. Frank Luker, R. No. 1, Box 58, Larkin, N. Dakota.

JONES LEADS FIELD WITH CARD OF 69

WINGED FOOT CLUB, Mamaroneck, N. Y., June 27—(AP)—Bobby Jones strode out today, with the pack at his heels, and gave a masterful golfing lesson to the greatest field that ever started in quest of the open championship of the United States.

With his famous putter "Calamity Jane" supplying the finishing touches, Jones stroked over the last nine holes in an amazing 31, five under par, to finish with 69, three under perfect figures, and assume an undisputed lead at the end of the first 18 holes of the 72 hole championship battle over Winged Foot's bunkered battlements.

Farrell Eliminated

The great Georgian, shot the best round he has ever carded in the national championship, but it was otherwise rough on most of the other favorites and tragic for Johnny Farrell, the defending champion, who virtually eliminated himself from the running by taking an 84, twelve over par.

Al Espinosa, veteran Chicago professional was in second place with a 70 and Gene Sarazen, in third with 71, but other outstanding favorites were from five to eight strokes behind the amateur champion, Leo Diegel, national professional champion, and Tommy Armour, 1927 open king, each had 74. Bobby Cruickshank followed with 75, while Walter Hagen, the British open title holder was bracketed with Horton Smith, Missouri ace, among others at 76.

MacDonald Smith another favorite was in the group at 77.

Picturesque Jack White, 55-year-old Scotch professional who was British open champion 25 years ago, carded a par 72, tying for fourth place with a "darkhorse" from Michigan, Charles Hilgendorf, who led the field until Jones took command.

Two Ohio professionals Densmore Shute and Leonard Schmutte, had a pair of 73's to tie for sixth place and above the more conspicuous members of the field down a few more notches.

Jones started out on what for three holes looked likely to be a disastrous round. Going to the fourth, he was four over par, as a result of missing easy shots out of traps on the first and third holes and taking three putts on the first green, but he was not once over par for the remaining 15 holes.

Gets Two Eagles

Two eagles and three birdies helping him to clip seven strokes off perfect figures, figured in one of the greatest rounds of Bobby's career. Starting the homeward nine, he clicked off five successive threes and missed making it six in a row by a fraction of an inch as his putt curled off slightly at the seventeenth hole.

The greatest shots in the Jones repertoire were made at the 517 yard fifth, where a marvelous brassie reached the green on a beeline and a 45 foot putt gave him his first eagle three, and at the 213-yard thirteenth, where his recovery from the rough 35 yards below the green, was dead to the pin for a par three. A 22-foot putt accounted for the other eagle three at the 497 yard twelfth, after a fine iron to the green. His "Calamity Jane" putter clicked off putts of 8 to 45 feet on his five one-putt greens.

Farrell's Downfall

Farrell's downfall, the biggest upset of the day, came after a performance marked by bad golf as well as bad luck. He took 46 to the turn, ten strokes over par, and was unable to make up any lost ground over the last nine. The third hole was Johnny's jinx hole, the eighth was his waterloo. On the third, his drive came to rest near a bush and he pushed his second shot squarely behind a tree, 100 yards short of the green.

Forced to chip out backward, he reached the green in four and took two putts. Trapped on the third and fifth, he lost a stroke on each hole, then capped the climax with a disastrous eight, four over par, at the 438-yard eighth hole. Trapped on his tee shot, Johnny needed two to get out and then put his fourth into another sand trap on the left of the green.

He required three shots to reach the green, where he holed a six footer. Still upset, he took a six on the ninth but steadied sufficiently to negotiate the last nine in 38.

Of all the field of nearly 150 starters, Al Espinosa, always a treat, had the best chance to upset the lead of Jones. His round of 70 sparkled with brilliant putts and fine recoveries but he forfeited an opportunity to score 68 by getting into trouble on the last two holes, on each of which he went one over par.

Of the former champions besides Jones, Sarazen's steady play stamped him as possibly the foremost of the Atlantan's challengers. The 1922 title holder played par to a standstill on the first nine, and an eagle three, like Bobby's, on the twelfth hole, where he sank a 35-foot putt, helped Sarazen finish in 36, one under par, for his 71.

Smith and Hagen Erratic

Both Hagen and Horton Smith, whose spectacular play featured the winter and European campaigns, were alternately brilliant and erratic.

The amateur entry appeared well satisfied to let Jones dispute the honors with the professional talent. Jack Cummins, Cleveland simon-pure, scored a surprisingly good 74 while Johnny Goodman, Omaha amateur who led the country in the sectional qualifying tests, and George Dawson of Chicago, carded 75. Eddie Held of New York had 77 and Roland Mackenzie of Washington 78 but bracketed at 79 each were four of the foremost amateurs—George Von Elm of Detroit, who was tied for fourth last year; George Voight of New York, Harrison "Jimmy" Johnston of St. Paul, a pace-setter after 36 holes in the 1927 tournament; and Ross Somerville, the Canadian amateur ace.

"Y" TAKES POSSESSION OF FIRST PLACE

Despite the fact that its "murders row" failed to function the Y. M. C. A. team beat the Thermos 4 to 2 at the Academy campus last night, and as a result went into the undisputed lead of the Dusty league with thre wins and no defeats. The game was another of those kind that keep the fans gripping their seats, being hotly contested from beginning to end. For awhile it looked as if the "old master", Tommy Simcox, was going to measure the Y. going into the sixth with a 2 to 1 lead. In this session, however, he weakened to the extent of four hits and the league leaders tallied three times.

Nevins, who in the previous Y contests covered second base, made his debut as a pitcher and did a real good job of it. He allowed but four scattered hits and struck out four. Simmy gave seven hits, fanned 6, walked 2 and hit one. The score:

ATHLETICS POUND HOYT FOR AN 6 TO 2 WIN

PHILADELPHIA, June 27—(AP)—The Athletics clubbed Waite Hoyt hard in the pitches here today to take the first game of the series from the Yankees by a score of 6 to 2. The victory increased the lead of the Mackmen over the champions to eleven and one-half games, and dropped the Yankees into third place. The Browns, victorious over Chicago, moved into second place, and remained ten and one-half games behind the leaders. The current series calls for two more games.

Tony Lazzeri's eighth home run in the fourth with one on, and Lou Gehrig's twenty-first in the sixth accounted for all of the runs off George Walberg, who gave ten hits but scattered them. Gehrig's homer sent him into a tie with Melvin Ott of the Giants for the major league lead.

Lazzeri's homer tied the score for the Yanks, but Mule Haas regained an edge for the leaders in the fifth when his double past Ruth scored two runs. Foxx's single, a triple by Bing Miller and another single by Jimmy Dykes gave the Macks two decorative markers in the eighth.

Bing Miller hit two triples to run his streak to twenty-eight consecutive games, a new season's record. The victory was Walberg's tenth and his third straight over the champions.

The game was witnessed by a capacity crowd of 40,000. The score:

GIANTS TAKE EASY GAME FROM PHILLIES

NEW YORK, June 27—(AP)—The Giants defeated the Phillies by 9 to 3 here today in the opening game of a series of five engagements. This ran the New York string against the Phils to eleven out of twelve on the season. In only one of these games have the Giants scored fewer than eight times.

Terry, Giant first baseman made his 100th hit, a mark yet reached by no other big leaguer. All of the New York runs were scored after two were out. The score:

"I don't know what's in this thought-transference stuff and psychology but let's get together and pull for our local boy in the National open golf tourney today.

You'll see in another column how Massie B. Miller, golf professional at the Norwich Golf club, is tied for 15th place in the tournament and is only 6 strokes behind the famous Bobby Jones, acclaimed the world's greatest golfer.

Yesterday, Massie Miller by shooting a 75 over the Winged Foot club at Mamaroneck, N. Y. gave Norwich, Conn., more advertising in one day that the chamber of commerce has in the last ten years.

Let's hope his effort is appreciated by everybody in eastern Connecticut, to say nothing of Norwich itself. He's a nice kid and deserves every bit of credit the home folks can give him.

The boy has been dubbed the "Mighty Atom" by sports writers and he is deserving of the name. Wherever he has played he has been the wonder of golf experts. They marvel that a youth so small and slight can hit such terrific shots.

Massie stands an inch or two over five feet and weighs about 118 pounds soaking wet. Yet he hits a golf ball as far and as straight as the boys who stand six feet tall and tip the scales at 190.

Yesterday, he finished one stroke ahead of Hagen and the sensational Horton Smith, which in itself is a feat that marks him as a golfer of the first magnitude.

We don't expect him to be national champion but at the same time we're pulling for him to be up there among the leaders when the tourney ends on Saturday night.

No matter where he finishes he's brought a lot of credit to Norwich as well as honor to himself. Let's all pull for him today and when he gets back tell him we are proud of him.

Carry on, Massie boy, we're all with you.

THOMAS BLOWS UP IN 9TH AND BROWNS WIN

CHICAGO, June 27—(AP)—After allowing only four hits during the first eight innings today, Tommy Thomas blew up and the St. Louis Browns took the series opener, 4 to 1. Home runs by Manush and Melillo, and a triple by Schulte aided the Browns in scoring all their runs. Sammy Gray started for St. Louis but retired in the seventh for a pinch batsman. SCHMELING HAMMERS OUT BLOODY AND DECISIVE WIN OVER UZCUDUN

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, June 27—(AP)—The rising might of Max Schmeling swept tonight over the rock-ribbed figure of Paulino Uzcudun and left the sturdy basque a punch-battered wreck along his path to the world heavyweight championship.

For fifteen rounds, before a crowd of 45,000 that half filled the big American league ball park, the flashing young Teuton cut and slashed at Paulino's head and body, bulled and chased him about the ring, and left him at the end, a gory, shattered figure with nothing but courage. There were no knockdowns, but the lifting of Schmeling's hand in signal of victory at the close was just a gesture.

For the last six rounds, the only question in the minds of the faithful who gathered for the first heavyweight extravaganza of the open air season was Paulino's ability to weather the storm of leather that flew at him from all angles, slashed his features, closed his left eye, and left the wood chopper's face as bumpy and irregular as his own Pyrenees in Spain.

Only in the early rounds was there a semblance of a contest and it slow one at that, as the Teuton, sticking to a methodical battle plan, met Paulino's rushes with straight lefts to a head usually hidden behind a barrage of gloves and elbows. The stumpy Spaniard stalked forward, body bent, peering through his shaggy brows, and waited for the opening in Schmeling's defense that never came.

As Paulino, the apparently indestructible, came forward, Herr Max flicked at the bent arms and elbows with his long left hand. Lithe and limber, straining at the leash, he slowly prodded the Spaniard's guard, made his openings, and then flashed short, cutting smashes to the face, Paulino followed him doggedly, like a faithful collie, taking what came his way, without once turning away, trying always to swing his huge paws in cumbersome arcs to the German's body.

For a time it seemed Paulino was biding time, taking punishment with the ease for which he is famous, waiting until the German tired and gave him the opportunity he waited. But Max never tired, grew faster, eager and more deadly as the fight wore on, and in the end made a gory picture of misery of the proud Spaniard.

Paulino has never been knocked out in ring battle, never even knocked down. But as the full fury of Schmeling's attack broke about his sore and bloody head in the sixth round, it seemed that tonight the record was to be broken.

Max opened up in the ninth round, and set out to end the battle right then and there. He stopped leaning defensively into Paulino in the clinches, slugged with the big Spaniard in the open, and constantly ripped in those short, lacerating punches that almost tore the Spaniard's features apart.

Gamely, like a tired man bucking a gale of wind, Paulino leaned into a storm that increased in intensity with each passing round. Always the action was the same as the German, scenting the kill, lathered Paulino's torn features with punches, pouring in leather in the attempt to reach the vital spot.

Schmeling was so anxious to bring the matter to a decisive close that he kept his fists to work on the Spaniard's head after the bell sounded to end the 14th round. The worn basque lifted his battered head, brought his hands back to fighting position and tried to carry on too, but the effort was too great and he fell helpless in his chair while Ref. Arthur Donovan pulled Schmeling away.

The battling in the early rounds was so slow that there was no indication of the slaughter to come. Schmeling fought cautiously, choosing to meet Paulino at his own game, with ever-ready arms and gloves wrapped around his body for protection. As a result, they leaned together often, waiting for openings, while the crowd jeered and once even struck up a chorus of "Sweet Adeline."

But the steady jolting, the short stabs that slashed his features, coldly whittled Paulino, the strong man down. The basque reached Schmeling with ponderous hooks to the body in the third fourth and fifth rounds, pulling the battle there almost to even terms. In the eighth and ninth, the Spaniard made his bravest bid, surging in with waning strength to bull the splendidly conditioned German boy around the ring and hurt him now and then with wide sweeps to the head and body.

For Paulino, however, it was the last stand. He began to fade in the tenth and from that point on fought almost instinctly, blinded by Schmeling's knife-like punches, battered and on the edge of unconsciousness at the end of every round. A majority of the critics gave Schmeling ten or 12 of the 15 rounds with none even. Schmeling weighed 187; Paulino 192 1-2.

Schmeling's overwhelming victory paved the way for the second major heavyweight tournament of the summer, the joust of the German and Jack Sharkey, Boston sailor man, here in September, unless Jack Dempsey returns to the ring. The winner probably will be looked upon as the heavyweight champion to succeed Gene Tunney. The crowd of 45,000 paid close to $300,000 to see the festivities in the name of charity. About half of the proceeds will be turned over to Mrs. William Randolph Hearst's milk fund for needy children.

The Preliminaries

Roy Wallace, Indianapolis light heavyweight, scored an abrupt knockout over Primo Uvaldo of Italy, in a six round preliminary.

A short right to the chin knocked out Uvaldo after two minutes and 57 seconds of fighting in the third round. Up to that time the match had been fairly even. Wallace weighed 156 1-2 pounds, Uvaldo 171 1-2.

Jerry Pavalec, a 212 pound novice won the decision from Jackie Saunders almost as large and equally as skillful in the opening four rounder. The bout was featured by much wild punching and leaning. Saunders weighed 199.

Otto Von Porat, heavy-hitting Norwegian heavyweight from Chicago, disposed of K. O. Christner, Akron iron man, by a technical knockout in the ninth round of a ten round semi-final.

Although there were no knockdowns, it was a gory battle and Christner, never knocked out in his brief career, was in bad shape when the referee stopped the fight.

Christner made his bid in the sixth round when he cut Von Porat's left eye lid, ear and started his nose bleeding. From that point on the Norwegian's husky right hand made a bloody mark of Christner's face.

Through the last three rounds Christner bled profusely from his lips, left eye and ear. He was barely staying erect when Referee Lou Mangolla stopped the match. Von Porat weighed 196; Christner 187 1-2.

The Snyder-Grosso match followed the semi-final.

Angus Snyder, Dodge City, Kas., heavyweight, knocked out Johnny Grosso of Mount Vernon, N. Y., in the fifth round of a ten-round match tonight just before the main go. The bell saved Grosso from a knockout at the end of the fourth, after Snyder had been groggy himself earlier in the round.

Snyder exhibited smashing punch as well as courage, making a great comeback in the fourth. He hung Grosso on ropes near the end of this round with right hander but the latter was saved at count of five by the bell. The knockout came in 37 seconds of the fifth round. Snyder weighed 188 1-2; Grosso 196.

TAFTVILLE TAKES HECTIC GAME FROM LOOMPIXERS

Taftville A. C. opened its series with the Loomfixers Thursday evening at the Providence street grounds with a victory, 19 to 18, in one of the most exciting games the old village has seen in many a moon. However, Manager Lamourey of the vanquished has entered a protest and no doubt the game will have to be played over.

It was the hardest hitting affair of the season and 45 hits went in to make up the 37 runs. The Loomfixers outhit the undefeated Taftville team by one blow, 22 to 22. Each team made one error. Cimikoski and H. Lamoury featured with home runs.

Seven pitchers saw service during the fray, three for Taftville and four for the opposition but not a one of them seemed able to silence the steady fire coming off the bludgeons of the opposing forces. Mercier, Peltier and Sydlo were the hitting stars.

The playoff of this game is expected to be one of the features of the Taftville season. The score:

DUWELLS WIN FIRST GAME, BEATING Y. M. C. A.

The Duwells finally won a game in the Junior Twilight league, nosing out the Y. M. C. A. 10 to 9 Thursday evening at Hollyhock Island. The winners came from behind scoring two runs in each of the sixth and seventh, while the "Y" did all of their scoring in the first two frames, counting six runs in the first and three in the second.

Both teams played loose ball in the field, the "Y" making eight errors, while the Duwells were guilty of seven misplays.

The pitchers on both teams, Hamill for the Duwells and Russilo and Senteski for the Y. M. C. A. did not deserve any such scores as were piled up against them. The "Y" made only seven hits off Hamill, while the Duwells gathered but five off the combined offerings of the "Y" twirlers. Errors and walks at critical times, however, accounted for the large score. The score:

DANIELSON

DRAWING OFF POND TO IMPROVE FISHING

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 27—Representatives of the state fish and game commission are now engaged in a day and night vigil of the upper pond at the Snake Meadow club, five miles east of here, as the water is being drawn off and allowed to go down stream into the lower pond and over the dam there into the main brook again. The upper pond is being drawn off that fishing conditions, for one thing, may be improved for next year and that the trout, another essential reason, will have better feeding grounds from the vegetation that will grow up on the pond area during the summer season. Below the dam and just under the gate the fish and game commission men have a wire trap into which the fish that come down will be caught. Trout will be released, but pickerel taken out for distribution in other streams, as pickerel are trout eaters and killers and have no legitimate license to be in a state-leased stream. Up to this afternoon the pond had not lowered sufficiently to start the fish down into the trap, but they were expected to begin coming along early this evening or during the night. The pond should be at about its lowest level by Saturday.

The 19th quarterly meeting of the poultry division of the Windham County Farmers' association is to be held in Grange hall at Brooklyn Friday of this week, with the morning session opening at 10 o'clock, standard time. During the morning session Roy E. Jones, poultry specialist at the Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs, will give an address on the subject Summer Management of Poultry. Another speaker at this session will be Charles A. Brenn of Scotland, who will speak on What Coccidiosis Means. A basket lunch is to be enjoyed during the noon recess. Fred A. Fountain of Taunton will speak on Poultry Feeding at the afternoon session, discussing the county chicken pox program and giving a demonstration of inoculation. Crops of Green Food for Poultry will be a subject given attention by County Agent Raymond E. Wing. Following a caponizing demonstration by Mr. Jones there will be a question box period, led by Thomas Moore of Central Village, and then adjournment.

Through an official notice published today officials of the borough have made known that the borough, under a provision of the revised charter, is prepared to set forth on a sidewalk building program that should go far toward relieving the need of such walks in various sections of the borough, and under an arrangement wherein the borough will pay one-half the cost of construction and the abutting property owner the other half. As planned by the borough concrete walks are to cost 25 cents per square foot, of which the property owner will pay one-half, or 12 1-2 cents per square foot. Persons who desire to enter into a sidewalk building arrangement with the borough may notify the borough engineer.

Miss Helene Cohn of New York is coming here Saturday to spend the summer with her father, Martin Cohn, at Mrs. P. F. Murray's. Miss Cohn is a student at Richmond Hill high school and has attained prominence in inter-scholastic circles, having been elected a delegate to the Queens' Interscholastic Press association. Miss Cohn contemplates entering journalism for her career and already has done promising work for publications in the greater city as well as for school papers. During her third year Miss Cohn, who has spent the past two summers in Danielson, has been active in athletics at Richmond Hill high. She has specialized in basketball and tennis. She is secretary to the head of the music department of her school and also the faculty advisor of the Press club, in which she is very active. Miss Cohn will be graduated in January, 1930, will take a post-graduate course and then enter college to pursue a journalistic course.

Again during the present summer season the hospital committee of the Killingly Woman's club is to work in local territory in the interest of the Day Kimball hospital guild of Putnam. This work will consist of soliciting in the interest of the hospital's supply needs. The recently issued report of the treasury of the guild shows a balance on hand of $3.48, after disbursements of the past year made at an expense of $971.70.

Food sale, Congregational vestry, 3.00 p. m., today, (Friday).—adv.

Floyd Ennis is now at his home in Brooklyn after having been a patient at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam for 16 weeks, and ill at his home for several weeks prior to entering the hospital. He is making steady progress toward a full restoration of health.

Looms are being removed from the Whitestone plant of the American Woolen company at Elmville, and in some cases being broken up for junk, only valuable parts being retained. The plant has been idle for several years.

Killingly communities will be represented in the oldtime fiddlers' contest to be held Sunday in Putnam.

Clifford H. Starkweather, treasurer of the Danielson Trust company, said this morning that the first six months of 1929 have been the most successful for the institution of any similar period since it was organized in 1914.

Judge W. Fenner Woodward was confined to his home by illness today.

Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Judson are spending a few days at Crescent Beach.

Miss Olive Burns of Academy street is visiting with her grandfather, Michael Burns, in Willimantic, for a few days.

About 40 members of Franco-American organizations and their wives are to have an outing at Revere Beach on Sunday. They are to leave here in the early morning by special motor coach and expect to reach the beach some three and a half hours afterwards.

At Boston Sunday evening at 6.30 Miss Sylvia R. Weinberg of that city and Robert Fleishman of the Darbie Furniture company of Danielson are to be united in marriage. After their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Fleishman are to make their home in Danielson.

Mr. and Mrs. August Godreau are to leave the first of the coming week to visit with relatives in Montreal, Quebec, Cap St. Ignace and other Dominion points. They are to be absent about six weeks.

In Sterling today state officers from the Danielson barracks checking up on trucks to determine whether they were carrying loads in excess of weights required by law ordered three drivers into court and also apprehended one operator who will be charged with speeding, a form of reckless driving.

PUTNAM

PUTNAM VOTES DOWN WATER SYSTEM IMPROVEMENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 27—The citizens of this city, by a majority of four votes, defeated the reconstruction plan of the city water system as submitted by the board of water commissioners and endorsed by Mayor Charles A. Richards and members of the common council. The four-vote majority also defeated the city council's proposition to appropriate in bonds to the sum of $65,000 to finance the reconstruction work if the bill was favored by the people. Out of a total of 278 votes cast, 141 opposed the floating of the bond issue while 137 favored the project. The method of voting was by check list.

Until noon only forty votes had been cast but a strong turnout of citizens entered the polling rooms during the final two hours of balloting. The polls closed promptly at 5 o'clock when the counting of ballots began. Discrepancy occurred sometime during the day, it was learned by the authorities tonight, when the check list was compared with the number of ballot slips in the box. When the box was opened, 278 slips were found where the names of only 276 voters had been checked off the list. In official circles tonight it was said that the matter might be contested, which will result in another vote being taken to determine legality if the plan materializes.

The victory of the supposed supporters of the concrete reservoir plans of reconstruction of the water system, twice rejected by the common council and which resulted in the dismissal from office of the original board of water commissioners, is the third in history of the long debated Putnam water question. The steel tank proposition, voted upon today and defeated, met defeat at the hands of the people in a vote taken a year ago by an overwhelming majority.

Mayor Charles A. Richard was reached by telephone tonight and asked to comment on the outcome of today's vote but his only statement was, "I have nothing to say at the present time." Ralph E. Thurston, chairman of the board of water commissioners, and a strong advocate of the plan calling for a steel tank is in New Haven attending the annual convention of New England fire chiefs and it was impossible to reach him tonight. Since no official statement in detail could be obtained from the city's chief executive it is impossible at the present to tell what methods of reconstruction of the water system will be taken as the concrete reservoir plan, favored by the people, was rejected by the common council a year ago.

The staff of drivers of one of the city's independent taxi service organizations left this morning for Hartford to testify before the public utilities commission against a bill enacted at the last session of the legislature, which will, when signed, affect the revenue and operating districts of the concern. All drivers left for the capital this morning prepared to protest against the action of the bill.

A marriage of interest which took place Tuesday was that of Miss Elsie I. Burton, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Burton of Putnam to Frederick J. Shippee, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Shippee also of this city. The ceremony was solemnized by Rev. Henry E. Hodge, pastor of the First Baptist church.

Miss Viola Snyder for the past six years Putnam public school nurse has resigned her position to take effect August 21.

Continued improvement is being noted daily in the condition of Frederick Cournoyer of Franklin, Mass., railroad section hand who was injured when struck by a boom of a derrick last Friday morning. The laborer suffered the loss of his right leg, which was amputated Saturday morning. He has a broken jaw and is also suffering from internal injuries.

Miss Elizabeth E. Authier of Chapel street completes her business and secretarial course at Becker's Business college in Worcester, Mass., today and will be among the graduates tonight. Her brother Edward Authier, has received an appointment to the Naval Academy at Annapolis and has entered the famous government institution.

According to a report compiled by Superintendent of Schools Leon N. Farring, the number of pupils in the schools of Putnam promoted and retarded is as follows:

	promoted	retarded
Putnam High school	300	34
Israel Putnam school	324	44
Smith street school	65	14
Sawyer district	77	14
East Putnam	23	1
Total	789	167

The City hotel on South Main street is no longer on the list of the city's buildings, for literally late this afternoon the charred remains of Putnam's oldest hostelry became a thing of the past. Building razers levelled the old landmark to the ground, and tomorrow the site will be cleared—perhaps to receive a new and modern business block. The hotel was destroyed by fire last March.

Guy Zito of Mechanics street sailed Tuesday for Naples, Italy. Mr. Zito's trip abroad will be his first visit to his homeland since his coming to America 30 years ago. He expects to be gone about three months.

Joseph Michel of New York city, formerly of Putnam is a visitor at the home of Mrs. J. Harry Manion on Grove street.

BOLTON

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Sumner of Sharon, Pa., Mrs. Kate Sumner and daughter of Hartford spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Leslie S. Bolton.

Miss Margaret Kimberly of New Britain has returned home after spending a few days with Miss Ruth S. Jones.

Mr. Everett Keith of Manchester, Miss Ruth S. Jones and Mrs. Elsie M. Jones and son Jr., were in New Britain Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Ubart of Hartford is spending a week with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Sumner.

J. White Sumner, Mrs. Elsie M. Jones, Miss Lavinia C. Fries and John B. Hutchinson were at Andover Saturday night at the strawberry festival.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Griswold is spending sometime in Montreal and other places of interest.

The regular grange meeting will be held Friday night and the third and fourth degrees will be conferred.

Mr. Clement M. and Judge J. W. Sumner, John B. Hutchinson and Miss Lavinia C. Fries enjoyed a motor trip Sunday up through Winsted and other points of interest.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie S. Bolton spent Sunday calling on friends in Somers.

The school committee met at the Fanning tavern Tuesday afternoon. It was voted to accept the school calendar for the coming year and to make necessary repairs as recommended by the supervisor.

Judge J. White Sumner, Mr. Leslie S. Bolton, John B. Hutchinson and Lavinia C. Fries of Bolton and Miss Emily G. Champagnes of Rockville were visitors in Somers.

Mrs. Helena Clough Stirling of Belmap, widow of John Carolus Stirling died at the Manchester Memorial hospital Tuesday night from the effects of a paralytic shock, she had only been removed to the institution on Wednesday June 19. Mrs. Stirling was a resident of Bolton for many years and had a wide circle of friends in Bolton and Coventry. She was a member of Coventry Grange and of the Ladies' Fragment society. She spent much of her time at the home of her daughter, the wife of Dr. I. P. Fiske of Coventry, but still retained her farm at Belmap.

Mrs. Stirling had many estimable qualities of heart and mind. She had traveled extensively abroad, possessed a fine education and was much interested in church, library and civic work in both communities above mentioned.

EKONK

(Sterling)

In the absence of the pastor, Rev. Ralph DeWolf, who is spending two weeks at Camp Devens, his wife had charge of the service at Sterling Hill church Sunday and gave an interesting account of her experience as a missionary in Corea.

Fred Savles has returned home from the Day-Kimball hospital.

Mrs. Byron Young and sons attended the commencement exercises at the Boston university last week. Her sister, Miss Mary Richmond was one of the graduates.

Frank Fillmore and family of Hillsgrove, R. I. were Sunday visitors at Adelbert Gallup's.

William Jarvis is employed in Providence.

Mrs. George Tanner, Mrs. Warren Tanner, Mrs. Phebe Gallup and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tanner attended the graduation exercises of the Windham Street school in Willimantic last week. Mrs. George Tanner's granddaughter, Evelyn Holmes, was one of the graduates.

At a special town meeting last Saturday it was voted to continue the state road to the Voluntown line.

Miss Orra Dennison of Moosup and a friend from Boston attended church on Sterling Hill, Sunday.

The Ladies' Aid society met with the president, Mrs. Gertrude Gallup, on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Randall were in Providence Saturday.

Fitch; warden, Dewey Schram; conductor, Edward Wolverton; chaplain, John Bentley; trustee, Halstead Brown.

Bernard Davis, Alfred Ward, Merton Beebe and Albert Rathbun attended a rehearsal of Rollinson's band in Mystic Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Geo. W. Brown of Pearl street will entertain the Fidelis Missionary society at her home Friday evening.

John Loftus of New London was a business caller here Wednesday.

The summer season has opened at Groton Long Point and it is expected to be one of the busiest seasons as a number of cottages have been rented for the season. The post office has been moved in the new quarters at the Casino. The safety zones are being painted from Prospect street to Groton Long Point. The roads on the point also are being sanded and tarred under the supervision of William Wheeler.

The Silver Link Sewing society of the Methodist Episcopal church met in the vestry of the church Wednesday afternoon. The afternoon was spent in sewing patchwork after which refreshments were served.

Miss Florine Valois of Providence is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Park on Maine street.

The U. S. mine planter Lt. Col. Herman C. Schumn has arrived at the Noank shipyard for repairs which will include engine overhauling and other repairs. The U. S. A. L-50 is also on the ways for repairs and the installation of a new propellor and painting.

EASTERN VOLUNTOWN

Big Birthday Party For Mrs. Albert Dawley—Bitgoods' Wedding Anniversary.

There was a big birthday party to Mrs. Albert Dawley Sunday. It was for Mrs. Dawley and her sister, Mrs. Adams. The people that were there were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Adams, Mr. and Mrs Fred Dyer and son, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Adams and son from Pheonix, R. I., Henry Wallace and Fred Condie of Lisbon, Herbert and Arthur James and Samantha Miller and daughter Amy of Canterbury, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bitgood and daughter Lila of Pachaug, Misses Emma Roode and Marvis Gehelo of Voluntown, Mr. and Mrs. William Bitgood, Miss Lizzie Maynard and Thomas Lewis of Eastern Voluntown. Among the presents were a glass water set, vanity set, apron, pillow slips, table scarfs, silk stockings, linen towels, cream set, chairs, mats. June box from her little granddaughter, Lila Bitgood, in it were peanuts, candy and a nice little cake. Her mother let her make it. There were 28 who sat down to a table loaded with goodies. There was a nice big goose, string beans, quaz chowder with and without tomatoes, gravy, salads, potatoes, four or five kinds of cake, white bread, butter, strawberries and lemonade. Not only a nice dinner but she had a nice house. They have got it so it looks nice in the house and out doors. In the yard she has some beautiful roses and Mr. Dawley's fields he has planted look nice. If you don't think so go and look at his pole beans. He has 600 hills! It pays anyone to go and look at what he has planted. Look at his field of potatoes, beans and corn and other things too numerous to mention.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barber and granddaughter and Joel, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Barber of Jewett City and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Remington and family of Oneco went to Sandy Point Sunday to get quaze and they got some just the same. Don't you think they didn't.

William Bitgood had peas, beets and new onions from his garden Monday for dinner. Mr. Bitgood has a nice garden but what makes it so is because he and his man that works for him water it. He has potatoes in bloom but it is no use for a man in Eastern Voluntown to try to raise anything to sell for they can't get anywhere to sell it because there are no roads to go over. Mr. Bitgood says he pays the largest tax in Eastern Voluntown and can't have any roads to go over. Where does all that money go to? When a man has to pay nearly $200 tax why shouldn't he have a road decent to travel over? Don't like to break the auto every time we go anywhere.

Mr. and Mrs. James Congdon had for visitors Sunday their daughter, Ethel, and lady friend from New York, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Congdon and family of Plainfield, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Congdon and Tracy Lincoln of Moosup and Freddie Congdon from Eastford.

Henry Wallace of Lisbon and George Green of Eastern Voluntown were callers at William Bitgood's Monday.

It was Mr. and Mrs. William Bitgood's 58th wedding anniversary the 25th of June. Eight years ago they celebrated their 50th anniversary.

William Bitgood and Maurice Harrington went to Beach Pond trading recently.

A student from the University of Chicago recently sailed for Palestine to analyze the effect which immigrants have had on the life of older inhabitants there since the Jewish nationalist movement has been in progress.

JEWETT CITY

NEW ELECTRIC POWER LINE RAPIDLY NEARING COMPLETION

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, June 27.—July 1st, there will be put in actual operation one of the outstanding electrical accomplishments ever completed in this section. On that date the Eastern Connecticut Light and Power company will close the last gap in a 22,000 volt, high tension line, from Jewett City to Voluntown and Glasgo, via Hopeville, a distance of 9 miles. The main consumers for power in Glasgo will be the Glasgo Finishing company, and in Beachdale (Voluntown), the Beachdale Finishing company.

Between the big Ashland transforming station and Hopeville, 3 miles, new poles have been set over the right of way leased by the Ashland Cotton corporation. This line was established from an auxiliary power station in Hopeville, some years ago, by the Ashland company.

From Hopeville to the two villages to be served, a new line has been run through with wide clearance space and regular high tension equipment.

Mrs. Walter Marshall entertained the Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational church at her cottage at Groton Long Point Tuesday afternoon. A very enjoyable outing is reported. Twenty-two were present, most of whom availed themselves of the opportunity to take a dip in the brine. Those assisting were: Mrs. C. W. Wolf Mrs. F. L. Kauchan, Mrs. Andrew McNicol and Mrs. W. A. Richardson.

One of the curiosities of Connecticut has been recently discovered at Al. Rundell's chowder house and filling station at the upper end of the Tadpole big pond. People have been stopping in larger numbers than usual, all this week to find out the significance of the fine new sign which reads "Shovel in the Tree Inn." Twenty-nine years ago, one summer's night, a French-Canadian named Bassette was fishing for bull-heads near the north Tadpole railroad crossing. The south bound New York boat-train was then due at 10 p. m. As it rushed past, something fell from the engine cab, rattled across the road, and missing Bassette by a hair, landed in the black alder growth beside the hole where the fisherman sat with his lantern.

Investigating, the angler found that the fireman on the boat-train engine had lost his coal shovel. In those days a partly tumbled down stone wall extended along beside the little used old road. Bassette picked up the shovel, and noting that it was nearly new, placed it over back of the wall, until such time as he should carry it home.

A generation has come and passed on. Mr. Rundell, in clearing out a place for an addition to his wayside store, was almost frightened when he removed a growth of bushes that grew about a tall white oak, to discover what appeared to be two steel wings protruding from each side of the 12-inch tree butt.

When Bassette put the shovel over the wall, by a mere chance, it was placed in the small fork of a slender oak shrub that grew up double from the ground. The tree grew, the crotch, as the years passed, slowly came together and enclosed the shovel. One of the state forestry men, connected with the highway department, cut one part of the double growth, smoothed off the stump, counted the rings, and declared the oak to be 29 years old.

The wonder of the shovel in the tree has a close second, when it is learned that Bassette, driving by, saw the sign, recognized the place, remembered the night, rumbled putting the shovel over the wall and called to get it. His astonishment can only be imagined when he saw it, claimed by a 12-inch white oak.

Beginning Monday, when the closed season ends on black bass, local fishermen will be reaching for a night-crawler instead of a trout fly.

H. N. S. to play Elks at Ashland

Tonight, in a twilight game at Ashland park the Holy Name team will again meet the Norwich Elks. These two teams played to a 6-6 tie score last Friday and insist that this week there shall be no tie, but that one team must score a decisive victory. As the local fans know, the Elks are the leading team in the Norwich Junior Twilight league, and the H. N. S. are out to defeat this team. Fuller and Matthews will most likely be the battery for the Junior Bills, while Bernal and Pizzo will perform for the locals. The game will start promptly at 6:30.

Commencing today at Arremoney's story the new price on Gordon V hosiery, No. 723, in all leading shades will be $2.00 instead of $2.50.—adv.

After illness of about a week the death of Elizabeth Harrington, wife of George Clark of Elm street, Providence, occurred Wednesday in Providence. Besides her husband and two children she is survived by her father, Foster Harrington of Jewett City, and two brothers, Foster and Charles, also resident in the borough.

WARRENVILLE

In the sermon "Ships That Pass," delivered at the Baptist church on Sunday morning, Rev. Eliot B. Verney drew a parallel between the living of a life and the sailing of a ship. He gave a considerable description of the means used for finding a ship's position at sea and told how a captain who has been badly storm-tossed may find it difficult to know exactly what course he should steer. In those circumstances he said that the meeting of another ship might often greatly help in getting his bearings. From this he drew the parallel that all of us are at times tossed from our course of life by the storms of sin and that in such a case we should never despise the advice of others who have weathered the storms. He also pointed out that a great responsibility rests on successful Christians to help weaker ones to find their way into a safe port.

In the evening Mr. Verney used as his subject "The Voice That Once O'er Eden." In this sermon he dealt with marriage especially in its relation to the constantly increasing number of divorces and laid down some methods by which the divorce evil could be largely eliminated from among church members if not also from among other classes.

Miss Della Gifford died at the home of Mrs. Lena Durkee Monday night. She had been in bed 33 years and has resided in Warrenville all her life. She was a member of the Baptist church and tried all her life to minister to anyone whom she met. She leaves one brother, who resides in Providence, R. I.

WESTERLY

CASE AGAINST WUCIK CONTINUED TO JULY 5TH

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, June 27—John Wucik of Westminster street, was before Judge Oliver H. Williams in a special session of third district court at 11.30 Thursday morning on complaint of Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown. He was charged with quarreling and revelling on Franklin street, Wednesday.

The accused entered a plea of not guilty and declared that he had made every endeavor to keep his boy at home and that he had an argument with John Holliday after he claimed that he had been called a harsh name. Chief Brown moved that the case be set for trial on Friday, but the defendant claimed that he was working on a house at Misquamicut which it was desired to have finished and asked for a two weeks' continuance.

Judge Williams continued the case to Friday, July 5th, and took a bond of $100.

A force of painters in the employ of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad on Tuesday began the work of repainting the exterior woodwork of the Westerly waiting station.

FUNERALS.

Salvatore Algiera.

Funeral services for Salvatore Algiera, 14-year-old victim of Tuesday afternoon's drowning in the old Catto abandoned quarry hole, were largely attended on Thursday morning by relatives and friends. A solemn mass of requiem was celebrated at 10.30 o'clock Thursday morning at the Immaculate Conception church.

The funeral was held from his late home at 120 Tower street at 10 o'clock and at the solemn high mass, Rev. Joseph Huff, S. M., was celebrant, Rev. J. F. Vincent, S. M., was deacon, and Rev. Michael Sullivan, S. M., was sub deacon.

Interment was at St. Sebastian cemetery, where the committal service was conducted by Fr. Vincent. The bearers were Joseph Serra, Pasquale Serra, Jerry Serra and Joseph Garofolo, all cousins of the dead boy, and James Cappiazano and Samuel Azzinaro.

Frank P. Iacano.

On Thursday morning the funeral of Frank P. Iacano, was held at 8.30 o'clock from his late home, 17 Dayton street. A solemn mass of requiem was celebrated at 9 o'clock at the Church of the Immaculate Conception with Rev. J. F. Vincent, S. M., celebrant, Rev. Joseph Huff, S. M., deacon, and Rev. Michael Sullivan, S. M., subdeacon. During the service Martin H. Spellman sang "Face to Face".

There was a large attendance of relatives and friends and many beautiful floral pieces. Interment was at St. Sebastian cemetery, where the committal service was conducted by Fr. Vincent. The bearers were Angelo Cappuccio, James Flore, Joseph Migliaccio, Paul Uzzi, Demetrio Turano and Salvatore Barbone.

Wednesday evening Knights of Columbus held a meeting when the first degree of the order was exemplified on a class of 20 candidates at a special meeting of Narragansett council, No 21. The ritual was conducted by the grand knight, Theodore A. Cote and the officers of the council.

WESTMINSTER

TOM TURKEY HATCHED FAMILY OF TWELVE

The tom turkey sitting on eggs at the Leidwein farm reported in a recent issue of The Bulletin, hatched 12 turkeys, June 14th and is very proud of his achievement. No mother turkey was ever more attentive to her brood than he. Many people have called at the farm to see them.

The funeral of Mrs. Jerusa Williams, widow of the late Cyrus Henry Williams, was held Tuesday afternoon at the Methodist church, on the Plains. Rev. Edwin St. John, the pastor conducted the service. Mrs. Walter Sager sang several hymns. The closing selection was Some Day We Will Understand. The church was filled to capacity with relatives and friends and the many beautiful floral tributes bore evidence of the esteem in which Mrs. Williams, a life long resident of Canterbury, was held. She was a member and regular attendant of the Methodist church, a devoted mother and a good neighbor. Mrs. Williams leaves four daughters, Mrs. Raymond Bliven of Canterbury, Mrs. John Stanton of Rhode Island, Mrs. Harry Deane of Central Village and Mrs. Buel Porter of Hebron and several grandchildren. The bearers were Arthur Kinne, Allan Moritt, Buel Porter, Harry Deane, Cyrus Williams and George Metcoffe. Tillinghast and Sons were the funeral directors.

Frank Koch of New Rochelle, N. Y., and several members of the family spent the week end at their summer home here. The family expect to arrive next week for the summer.

Following graduation exercises at the Westminster school Friday the teacher, Mrs. Happy Tracy, gave a lawn party for her pupils. Cake, candy and ice cream were served.

Announcements are out of the marriage of Miss Selma Hoffman, formerly of Canterbury and Mr. Andrew Bishop of Jersey City, N. J. The wedding took place in Jersey City, June 23d.

POETRY

Rainy Song

Down the dripping pathway dancing through the rain,
Brown eyes of beauty, laugh to me again.

Eyes full of starlight, moist over fire,
Full of young wonder, touch my desire!

O like a brown bird, like a bird's flight, Run through the rain drops lithely and light.

Body like a gypsy, like a wild queen,
Slim brown dress to slip through the green—

The little leaves hold you as soft as a child,
The little path loves you, the path that runs wild,

Who would not love you, seeing you move,
Warm eyed and beautiful through the green grove?

Let the rain kiss you, trickle through your hair,
Laugh if my fingers mingle with it there.

Laugh if my cheek too is misty and drips—
Wetness is tended—laugh on my lips.

The happy sweet laughter of love without pain,
Young love, the strong love, burning in the rain.

—Max Eastman.

Of the Last Verses in the Book

When we for age could neither read nor write,
The subject made us able to indite;
The soul, with nobler resolutions deck-
ed,
The body stooping does herself erect.
No mortal parts are requisite to raise
Her that, unbodied, can her Maker praise.

The seas are quiet when the winds give o'er;
So calm are we when passions are no more.
For then we know how vain it was to boast
Of fleeting things, so certain to be lost.
Clouds of affection from our younger eyes
Conceal that emptiness which age de-spises.

The soul's dark cottage, battered and de-cayed,
Lets in new light through chinks that
Time has made;
Stronger by weakness, wiser men become
As they draw near to their eternal home.
Leaving the old, both worlds at once they view
That stand upon the ethreshold of the new.

—Edmund Waller.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Fair Young Agent—Could I interest you in Culver City?

Prospect—Lady, you could interest me anywhere!—Wampus.

"Paw," said big sister, "Junior's making pictures all over your bank book!"

"Junior, stop drawing on my account!"—Brooklyn Eagle.

Do you suppose that dock man will ever say to his grandchildren: "Yes, I was the first man to discover where Lindbergh was on his honeymoon." And they'll say "Where who was?"—Boston Transcript.

Young Reporter—Er, I said in my story that this man "fell on his head and hurt it," and you took out the last three words.

Editor (casually)—Yes, I know the man.—Pathfinder.

Dear Old Lady (to new Negro boy)—And what is your name, little fellow?

Boy—Well, mam, every place Ah go they calls me somep'n different, but meh maiden name was Lulcus.—Detroit News.

Nurse (going off duty) — Is there anything else you wish, sir?

Patient—Yes. Kiss me good night.

Nurse—I'll send in the orderly. He does all the disagreeable work for the nurses.—Washington Star.

Wife (sadly)—I am afraid, Oliver, that you do not love me any longer. At least, not as much as you used to.

Husband—Good Lord! Why not?

Wife—Because you always let me get up to light the fire and start the coffee.

Husband (resuming his book)—Nonsense, my dear. It makes me love you all the more.—Ottawa Citizen.

A Londoner, a strong swimmer, was spending a holiday at Le Touquet. He bathed each day at a part of the coast generally considered to be dangerous. He noticed that on every occasion a Frenchman on the shore watched him with gloomy interest. One day the Saxon broke silence.

"You like to see me swim?" he asked.

"Mais, non," the other shrugged. "But here they pay five francs for the recovery of a body."—Sporting and Dramatic.

KALEIDOSCOPE

There are 125,000 men in the United States prisons, more than are in the standing army.

A man requires about 2,830 calories of food for mere existence, and more for muscular energy.

A Russian district has imposed a stiff tax on bachelors. Persons not members of a cultural, charitable or patriotic society also are taxed.

The postmaster at Dodge City, Kas., agrees that this is a day of skimpy dress. A woman handed him a parcel to be weighed for mailing. It was about four and a half inches wide and eight inches long. "What does this parcel contain?" was his routine question. "My daughter's party dress," the woman replied. The postage was 4 cents.

Students of St. Olaf college, Northfield, Minn., voted to forego the customary ten days' Easter vacation to enable President L. W. Boe to keep an appointment in Europe. President Boe is to be in Copenhagen June 15 to help prepare a 1930 convention program for the Lutheran World council. Commencement exercises June 11 would have required abandonment of the trip. Now, without the Easter vacation, the exercises will be conducted June 4.

Sex equality plus has invaded the Zoo at New York. After eight weeks of sitting, without the slightest help from his hen, the emu cock has hatched six chicks from six eggs in his man-made nest. The emu, whose native habitat is Australia, is a bird similar to the ostrich, but only half as big. In her quest for emancipation the emu has gone a step further than sex equality. When she lays her eggs she has done her family duty, as she sees it. From then on the burden rests on her mate. Not only does he have to attend to the hatching of the eggs, but he must also look to the upbringing of the chicks.

MYSTIC

TENTH SCHOOL DISTRICT HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

MYSTIC, June 27—About 50 voters and taxpayers attended the annual business meeting and election of officers of the Tenth School district (Groton) held in West Mystic school house Tuesday evening. Mrs. Carl Cutler, chairman of the district committee, called the meeting to order and Harry Packer was elected moderator of the session. The report of the district committee was given by Mrs. Cutler. This showed among other items that there is a balance on hand June 24, 1929, of $146.07 and no outstanding bills. Reports were given by Theodore F. Anderson, tax collector, and Wilfred S. Lamb, treasurer. The same board of officers was elected with no opposition: district committee Mrs. Carl Cutler, Edgar H. Collington, Fred P. Viall; treasurer, Wilfred S. Lamb; clerk, Mrs. Marian Nivin; tax collector, Theodore F. Anderson; auditors, Robert D. Bradley, Harry C. Packer.

It was voted to purchase new desk and chair units for the primary department, the district paying one half and the Parent-Teacher association the other half. There was some discussion on grading the front yard of the school, removing two or three trees and laying new sidewalks to the street, but further action was left in the hands of the committee.

The regular meeting of the local W. C. T. U. was held with Mrs. Augusta Cutler, Wednesday afternoon with the president, Mrs. W. H. Lamb, presiding. Mrs. Charles Newbury was in charge of the devotional services. Roll call and reports followed. A letter was read inviting the Union to a picnic at the home of Miss Nellie Starr, Uncasville, July 11. This is one of the county institute picnics and is always very interesting. The union voted to accept the invitation. The following program was given during the afternoon: Our Work Around the World, read by several of the members; Temperance Work Holds Fast—Goes Forward, Mrs. Lamb; Hold the Fort, Mrs. Mary Brown; Memorial Sunday at Rose Hill (memorial for Miss Frances Willard), Mrs. Cutler; Loyalty Sunday, June 30, Mrs. Lamb. There was a good number present.

Hamilton Gallup of Norwich and Mrs. Henry Hawthorne of Groton were Tuesday guests of their sister Mrs. Charles B. Allyn.

Miss Margaret McCabe is having her residence repainted.

Mrs. Russell Tracy and son Russell have gone to Kentucky for a visit.

Several children were in bathing, as usual, at Turtle Rock, on the west side of the river, near the Mystic Camp for Girls Wednesday. During their play one of the children threw a stone which hit Florence Klein in the head, cutting it. She was taken to her home, the wound was dressed and she is getting along nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Allyn were in Hartford Wednesday to attend the funeral of a friend.

E. Newton Dickenson and family have moved from New London to the home of his father, Thomas N. Dickenson, on Pearl street.

Mrs. Ernest Howell, Mrs. Matthew Wilkinson and Miss Geneva Ricker were visitors in New London, Wednesday.

Mrs. Lee Wolfe was dismissed from the Lawrence Memorial hospitals, New London Wednesday and returned to her home here.

Many local residents were in New London Thursday afternoon or evening to attend the Selis-Floto circus. There were "all boys" as well as young ones.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Old Mystic Baptist church, met with Mrs. Maurice B. Caswell Wednesday afternoon. A social time was enjoyed. Those attending were Mrs. F. M. Mitchell, Mrs. O. F. Crumb, Mrs. J. H. Williams, Mrs. H. D. Williams, Mrs. F. E. Williams, Mrs. C. E. Holmes, Mrs. C. W. Beckwith, Mrs. W. D. Beckwith, Misses Esther Caswell, Dorothy Beckwith and Mrs. Caswell. It was decided to have no meeting next week.

Assistant Postmaster Harry F. Hill has returned to his duties after enjoying his vacation.

The regular meeting of Phoebe Packer Rathbun tent, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, was held Wednesday evening in G. A. R. hall. The covered dish supper which was to have been served at this time was postponed.

Dr. E. P. Fitch and family of Noank are at their summer camp at Lantern Hill.

Several students from Mystic attended the banquet of the graduating class of Stonington high school, class of 1929, held at the Ocean House at Watch Hill, Monday evening. Charles H. Brown of Mystic is the president.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist church will meet in the vestry Friday afternoon for the purpose of tying quilts.

Mrs. Halsey W. Kelley of New York and grand daughter, Jennie Kelley of Winthrop, Mass., are guests of the Misses Johnson, who are to give a card party in Mrs. Kelley's home Thursday afternoon.

There were a large number of automobiles going through town Sunday. Many of them going to the air meet on the plains road, which was held for three days. It was estimated that nearly 10,000 people visited the meet in the three days. There were various exhibitions of stunt flying, a parachute drop and many passengers were carried up.

Geoge Bass has moved his family to Branchville where he has a position on the Weir farm. Mr. and Mrs. Bass were given a farewell party by a number of their relatives. Guests were present from Newport, R. I., Willimantic, Danielson, Middletown, R. I., and Windham.

Miss Margaret Oehrig has accepted a position in the Willimantic telephone exchange.

Mr. and Mrs. Vantine Anderson and family motored to Troy, N. Y., and spent the week end with relatives.

A Children's day program was given in the Congregational church Sunday under the direction of Mrs. E. C. Cook and Mrs. E. F. Smiley. Charlotte Elderkin, the six months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eden C. Cook, was given the baptist rite by Rev. E. L. Smiley.

Arrangements are being made for the annual Fourth of July tea at the library.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Parsons of Boston are at the inn.

Services are to be held at 9 a. m. at St. Paul's during the summer. The communion service will be observed next Sunday.

Mrs. Joel Wheeler is visiting her nephew in White Plains, N. Y.

The D. A. R. prizes for the best essays on Alaska by students of the 8th grade in the grammar school were awarded to John Dean, first and Annie Wilcox, second.

This "no work" soap is easy on clothes, too

EVER since Rinso was discovered, scrubbing has been out of date! Now clothes can be soaked whiter than you ever scrubbed them. In Rinso's thick suds the dirt and all ordinary stains loosen, float right off.

Rinso is so safe, the makers of 36 leading washing machines recommend it. And it's economical. Cupful for cupful, it gives more suds than lightweight, puffed-up soaps. Rich, lasting suds!

Try Rinso next washday. Try it for dishes, too. Get the BIG household package today.

UNION

News comes from Squantum, Mass., of the wedding of Miss Dorothy Mabel Knowles, daughter of Mrs. Mabel Knowles to Kenneth Cain of St. nKowles, to Kenneth Cain of St. Johnsbury, Vermont. The bride resides in Squantum and the wedding was held on Monday evening, June 24th in the church. Both bride and groom are natives of Maine. The bride lived here in Union for several years when her father was superintendent of George H. Meyers' estate in the Kinney Hollow district and vicinity. With her mother, she was a recent guest of friends here. For the past four years she has been employed in the Second National bank of Boston, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Cain will reside in St. Johnsbury, Vt., where he has a responsible position with the New England Power company.

Secretary Butterick of the Connecticut Park and Forestry association gave a talk on "Forests of Europe" at a camp fire meeting held at the C. A. C. Forestry school in Bigelow Valley, Thursday evening, June 20. The secretary recently returned from a trip to Europe and his talk was founded on personal observations.

Prof. A. E. Moss of Connecticut Agricultural college was present at the camp fire also.

At the L. B. A. supper and social held at the town hall the evening of June 20, a delightful entertainment was given by a group of friends from Somersville. Mrs. Gowdy, Mrs. Homer, Rev. and Mrs. E. M. Bussey gave several readings and Mrs. Pinney rendered several beautiful solos, as well as leading the community songs. Miss Persival of Somers, was the accompanist on the piano.

SOMERS

The graduates of the various schools were invited to attend the morning service a the local church Sunday. School Supervisor A. L. Young participated in the service. Rev. Edwin Thomas Jones preached a sermon on the subject, "A New Life."

Misses Elisabeth Alden and Florence Galbraith are in Storrs, where they are delegates to the conference for Congregational young people. Miss Helen Percival is attending as councilor.

The Somers schools held their graduating exercises at Piedmont hall last week Wednesday evening with a very pleasing program. The graduates from the Somers schools were Edward Monroe Alden, Charlotte Kibbe Fuller, William Rudolph Hendrick, Sherman Arthur Hills, Saul Jacobson, Edward Isaac Levitz, Harriet Isabelle Lowett, Anthony Benedict Malinsky, Horace Fuller Pease, Janette Smith Pomeroy, Ethel Evelyn Stebbins, Annetta Anna Turrin, Milton Virshup, Andrew Waraga. The following were graduates from the Somersville school: Vernon Arthur Connell, Margaret Duprey, Stella Grikas, Greta Anna Hogan, Margaret Evelyn Holloran, Helen Teresa Murawski, Clement Joseph Sharon. Ethel Evelyn Stebbins was unable to attend the graduating exercises as she is ill with scarlet fever. Milton Virshup graduated at the age of eleven, having taken two grades each year.

The small school building at the Center is being moved to one side of the school ground that it may be used this fall before the new building which is being given by Judge and Mrs. E. S. Fuller is completed. The larger building now on the ground is soon to be torn down to make room for the large modern building to be erected this fall and thought to be completed November first. Some of the grades are to be taught in Mechanics' hall and some in the town hall until that is completed.

East Longmeadow and Somers played baseball on Hunt's field Wednesday afternoon, score 7 to 8 in favor of Somers.

Rev. Earl H. Thayer of Springfield, former pastor of Somers, has accepted a call to become pastor of First Congregational church at Cleveland, Ohio.

CANTERBURY PLAINS

Mrs. Edward Eastlund and daughters, Emma, Lucy and Ina, are spending their vacation at their home here. Charles Eastlund, who spent a week here, returned to New York Sunday.

Mrs. Alex Erickson, who has been working in Meriden, has returned home.

Ernest Hanson is spending a few days with his parents here.

The funeral of Mrs. Jerusha Williams, widow of the late Henry Williams, who died Saturday afternoon at her home in her 80th year, was held at the M. P. church Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, d. s. t., and was attended by a large number of relatives and friends. The services were conducted by Edwin St. John, pastor of the M. P. church. The bearers were Buel Porter, Allen Moffit, Harry Dean, William Metcalf, Cyrus Williams and Arthur Kinne. Mrs. Williams was one of the oldest members of the M. P. church and was a faithful worker until her health became failing. She leaves four daughters, Mrs. Fannie Stanton of Rhode Island, Mrs. Buel Porter of Hebron, Conn., Mrs. Harry Dean of Central Village, and Mrs. Bernice Bliven of this place; also several nieces and nephews.

Cards have been received from Harry Kinne, who is visiting his sister Ida, of Tarrytown, N. Y.

Canterbury grange is preparing to have its annual clambake on the Fourth. There will also be a parade under the direction of Mrs. William Wright.

Mrs. Ina Garland is spending a few days with Mrs. Happy Tracy. She expects to leave soon for New Haven, where she will attend summer school.

FARMING AND FARMING.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

There are at least three sorts of farmers—little farmers, big farmers, and big-mouth farmers. The two latter classes merge into each other, so that it isn't always easy to distinguish between them. But both look down on the little farmer with more or less supercilious toleration.

The latest to be exploited—or perhaps I should say, the latest whose exploitation has come under my eye—is Wheat-grower Campbell of Montana. He is understood to own a 100,000-acre ranch, 85,000 acres of which he works every year, securing an average yearly output of 500,000 bushels of wheat.

He employs from 80 to 100 men for eight months in the year, and 300 during the busiest season. There isn't a horse or a mule on the place. Tractors do the work and automobiles carry the men to and from it.

A regular day's work for a fleet of 15 tractors is to plow, harrow, seed and pack a 640-acre section. And, of course, the threshed wheat is sent away, not just in carloads, but in trainloads.

Every operation is carried out with mechanical power, using only as little man power as is required to tend the machinery. In other words, the farm has become a big out-doors factory, with factory hands tending harrows and reapers, instead of looms.

"We manufacture wheat, instead of raising it," Mr. Campbell is quoted as saying. "Wheat farming is 95 per cent a mechanical operation and only 5 per cent an agricultural one." And now note this further quotation: "We can produce wheat so cheaply with modern machinery that we do not fear European competition and cheap labor." Through experience he has learned enough about cultural methods to overcome most of the hazards of farming. "Wheat growing isn't a gamble with us any more," he is reported as saying.

As might be be expected, he is convinced that corporation big farming, involving heavy capitalization and large-scale production, "is the salvation of agriculture."

H'm 'm—But isn't it a rather queer sort of "salvation" which is to be effected by its transformation into a "95 per cent mechanical operation"? This seems practically equivalent to saying that it's only 5 per cent worth saving, the other 95 to be made over into something else.

I'm inclined to think that if a doctor saved only 5 per cent of his cases he would hardly be called a successful practitioner by patients desiring help against the flu or the jim-jams. They'd be apt to prefer one who saved 95 per cent and lost only 5.

On the same basis, some of us might feel that the "saving" of agriculture by changing it into a 95 per cent mechanical operation isn't so much a "salvation" as it is a destruction.

Of course we all like to read about hundred thousand acre farms and half-million bushel crops. Little pitchers have big ears, grandmothers used to say, warningly. Even the New England farmer on his 50-acre farm, who has to think twice before he buys a postage stamp, finds something more or less fascinating in the story of the western wheat wrangler who buys 15 tractors in one transaction and pays for them out of next day's sales of wheat. We all like to roll big figures, like sweet morsels, under our tongues.

But, when we are told that the "salvation" of farming depends upon de-agriculturizing it and factory-ising it—why, that's different. My neighbor Sherman is 100 per cent farmer. If he were made over into 95 per cent mechanic he might or might not be a better-looking man. But would he still be Farmer Sherman?

He might and doubtless would make more money. He might and doubtless would own a sweller car. He might and doubtless would wear better clothes on his more frequent holidays. But would he still be Farmer Sherman?

One can imagine the resources of science and mechanics combining to turn a Snow apple into something 95 per cent limestone, which would never wilt or rot. But—could the artificial fruit be called, intrinsically, or relatively, approximately? In other words, would its "salvation" from decay at the cost of its mellowness and flavor be in any sense a saving of the apple?

Now, farming is, basically, the working of such dirt as nature has furnished, under such weather as she supplies, and protecting, rearing crops from such enemies as she likewise spawns. We may influence, temporarily, and within narrow limits, the character of the dirt—by various tricks of fertilization, tillage, etc. We may, to some extent, defend our crops against their estiferous enemies. But we can't destroy all the bugs and maggots, nor can we completely make over the soil. And when it comes to weather, we are as helpless as so many turnip flea beetles in the rapids of Niagara.

To attempt the mechanization of such a calling is about as absurd as it would be to set out to compute the orbit of a fly.

In a factory the wheels continue to go round and the looms to function so long as the power keeps up and nothing breaks. If the power fails off there are immediate means for renewing it; if something breaks there are immediate means for repairing it.

But farming is every day a new adventure into the uncertain. Experience naturally helps somewhat. But all the experience of all the ages hasn't yet enabled the farmer to know at spring seeding time what the season is going to be, or even to tell an hour in advance whether the cumulus cloud heaving over the horizon is going to bring him just a helpful bit of irrigation or a crop-destroying hailstorm.

The mechanic knows what to do when his factory's machinery gets out of order. But the farmer hasn't and can't expect ever to have any similar understanding of the hidden machinery of nature.

It is possible that, in particular cases the rainfall can be accurately foretold, and the seasons correctly prognosticated, and the Hessian flies and grasshoppers be blessedly absent. In such freak areas, if the soil is also rich with the accumulated fertility of illimitable eons and the surface practically level and free from snags of all sorts, a sort of mechanical routine may very likely be developed which will permit the substitution of machines for brains and turn the growing of a few special crops into an almost factory-like orderliness of production.

But such regions are exceptional. The conditions which the average farmer must meet are vastly different. We do not need to question Mr. Campbell's assertion that his manufacturing methods have taken the gamble out of farming—on his particular ranch. But it remains the biggest single element in his year's work—the farmer of Connecticut valleys or Vermont hills.

A robot of steel and wire and electricity may do cheap and effective work in tending factory machines or even in growing Montana wheat. But I gravely doubt if any Hartford county tobacco-raiser would willingly put a robot in charge of his tobacco fields and his curing sheds. Or if any New London county dairyman would turn over his herds to robot supervision.

There is, undoubtedly, much room for improvement and advance in our use of farm machinery. But here in the east, anyway, there is a limit to machinery. There comes a time to all of us when we've simply got to substitute fingers for forks and brains for gasoline motors.

A rather unfortunate characteristic of human nature is its habit of generalizing from insufficient particulars. Farmers are no more given to it than other men. But they are far from exempt! Out in Iowa certain groups of farmers have one panacea for all farming troubles, because it happens to fit their cases. In California a quite different cure-all is demanded. Mr. Campbell thinks that the transformation of farming into out-door manufacturing, which has worked well with him, means the "salvation" of farming everywhere.

Each one sees to this limiting horizon just none of them see the almost infinite variety of conditions and chances which rule in localities beyond their vision.

Which brings us back to the oft repeated thesis that, instead of there being just one big universal farm problem, there are a'teen million little individual farm problems, practically one for every farm and every farmer between Quoddy Head and Puget Sound.

Mr. Campbell has solved his on his particular holding. We are glad to know it. But his assumption that the methods which he has adopted are, therefore, the best methods for every other farm and every other farmer is hardly warranted. What's sauce for the goose may, indeed, be sauce for the gander, but not necessarily sauce for strawberry shortcake.

It seems that it took Mr. Campbell several years of experimenting in rather hard luck before he struck the right idea for his prairie lands. But he stuck to it till he discovered the right medicine for his needs. Therein is the only lesson for other farmers I can read from his experience, i. e. the lesson that persistence and industry and a determination to win out in spite of the devil and all his works will help enable other farmers, under unlike conditions, also to win out.

But each case must stand by itself and be solved by itself. Because Mr. Campbell has succeeded by one method in Montana isn't by any means proof that his system is exactly the right one for Hank Higgins in Connecticut.

There are more ways than one to skin a cat, and the process most desirable with felis domestica might not work so well with felis tigris.

BERRY SPRING GINGER ALE

in Full Quarts (32 ozs) in Full Pints (16 ozs)

Tho His Majesty Command . . .

If by royal command of a Mighty King we were appointed beverage makers to His Highness . . . . if we were given free access to all of the resources of the world . . . . if we were ordered to make the finest ginger ales that can POSSIBLY be made —we could do no more than continue to make Berry Spring Ginger Ale exactly as we are making it today!

FIT . . . . for Any King . . . . Even an American One!

We consider that in making and bottling Berry Spring Ginger Ales for His Majesty, the American Public, we are serving the most discriminating and most deserving Power on earth. And so we offer what we sincerely believe to be the finest, the purest, the most health-giving ginger ales that can be made under any conditions!

"We Moderns" . . . in This Active Age . . .

Berry Spring Ginger Ales are made to please men, women and children of this MODERN DAY whose intense physical activity and nervous strain demand beverages of real tonic and health-giving properties, capable of keeping their systems pleasantly vigorous and energetic for work and play.

For years Berry Spring messages to the public have asserted that these ginger ales promote health, stimulate and aid digestion and gently assist elimination. We make these statements again today upon our own authority as experts in the science of food and nutrition applied to beverage making, backed by other impressive scientific confirmation.

It is a source of pride to us that many members of the medical profession recommend Berry Spring Ginger Ales for purity and health value, and that a number of fine hospitals constantly use these beverages.

There are two kinds of Berry Spring Ginger Ale—Pale Dry and Golden. Pale Dry has more acidity; Golden is of fuller body and slightly sweeter. Both kinds are supplied in full pint and full quart bottles. Several thousand retail stores of the better class in New England conveniently supply these finest and most economical ginger ales to their customers, by the bottle or case.

FINAL QUOTATIONS IRREGULAR AFTER A BRISK RALLY IN THE STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, June 27—(AP)—Extensive readjustment of speculative accounts, prior to the issuance of the weekly statement on brokers' loans, checked a brisk rally in today's stock market, leaving final quotations irregular but mainly higher. The commodity markets were reactionary, wheat and corn losing about 2 and 1 1-3 cents a bushel, respectively, on reports of better weather while cotton closed 40 cents a bale higher to 40 cents a bale lower.

Neither the Bank of England nor the New York federal reserve bank made any change in discount rates, although additional purchases of gold in London for British and American account were announced during the day. Call money held steady at 10 per cent, for the third successive day although the offerings were not as large as yesterday, time money, commercial and bankers acceptance markets were quiet with rates unchanged.

Total sales fell just short of the 4,000,000 share mark with both The Associated Press railroad and public utility indices in new high ground for the year. The industrial index showed a small fractional decline.

Brokers' loans increased $123,000,000 to $5,542,000,000, which is still well below the high record of $5,793,000,000 established on March 20. New York bankers increased their loans by about $155,000,000 while out of town banks withdrew $56,000,000, the balance of the gain being accounted for by loans of corporations and foreign banks.

The market opened with an outburst of strength and moved ahead rather steadily until the late afternoon when heavy profit-taking developed in anticipation of a large increase in brokers' loans. Some of the selling also was inspired by the belief that the market was entitled to a temporary setback after the rather sustained advance of the last week.

Publication of another series of favorable May railroad statements, declarations of extra dividends by the Barnsdall and Jersey Central railroad companies and unconfirmed reports that investment trusts were increasing their portfolios of common stock all helped to create bullish sentiment. The traditional "selling on the good news," followed the announcement of the Curtiss-Wright merger. Curtiss closing 3 1-4 points lower at 163 3-4 after having crossed 170 while Wright showed a net loss of 7 3-4 at 132 1-4 after having sold 1 1-2 points below that figure. Heaviness of these issues, combined with a sharp break in United Aircraft stocks, tended to unsettle the market in the late trading.

Oil shares showed signs of strength for the first time this week, with buying influenced by the extra dividends on Barnsdall and an increase of more than 80 per cent. in Sinclair's net income in the first five months of the year. Atlantic Refining touched a new high at 73. Houston Oil closed 3 points higher and Mexican Seaboard, which has been under steady accumulation yesterday on rumors of important developments in Kettlemen Hills, closed a point higher.

New high records were established during the session by Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, International Telephone, North American Co., Commercial Solvents, Mathieson Alkali, Allied Chemical, Newport Co., Underwood Elliott Fisher General Electric, Westinghouse, Sharon Steel Hoop, Morrell & Co., American Bank Note, Ludlum Steel, Atchison, New York Central and Chesapeake & Ohio.

Auburn Auto broke 17 points and rallied 6 1-2. Allis Chalmers, American Water Works, Timken Roller Bearings and Westvaco Chlorine lost 3 to nearly 6 points. U. S. Steel common, Anaconda, General Motors, Chrysler and some of the other recent favorites lost a point or so. The Chicago & Alton issues sank to new low levels for the year.

Establishment of a new high for the year by French francs was the only development of consequence in the quiet foreign exchange trading.

FINAL QUOTATIONS IRREGULAR AFTER A BRISK RALLY

fair buying orders. Central Railroad of New Jersey 5s, moving against the upward trend, sold off 3 points to a new 1929 low of 105.

Public Service of New Jersey 4 1-2s stood out in the convertible section with a net gain of 8 points, and at the closing price of 244 were at a new high. The active telephone issues, International and American 4 1-2s, gained a point each, although their respective final quotations of 136 1-2 and 143 were slightly below the best of the day. Atchison 4 1-2s managed to keep in high ground most of the day and closed at a new peak at 126 1-4 for a net gain of 3-4.

The attention paid to utility stocks overflowed to some extent into the bond list and brought nominal gains to Columbia Gas & Electric 5s, Kansas Gas & Electric 6s, Rochester Gas & Electric 7s, North American Edison 4 1-2s, Pacific Gas & Electric 5s and New Orleans Public Service 5s, most of which held their advances at the close.

Industrials moved sluggishly and new lows appeared in National Radiator 6 1-2s and Gotham Silk Hosiery 6s. Steel bonds held their recent firmness.

Oil company securities showed irregularity on an improved volume. Pierce Oil 8s, Sinclair Consolidated 7s and 6 1-2s and Standard of New York 5s overcame an early loss and finished slightly higher.

Chilean obligations met the most extensive selling in the foreign list as a new $20,000,000 issue of Chile Mortgage Bank 6s was publicly offered at 97. Declines in other issues of this series and in the government bonds ranged from 1-2 to 2 1-2 points. Pirelli of Italy 7s convertible, soared 5 3-8 as the strength of the stock was maintained.

United States government securities showed an almost complete lack of interest, except in the Fourth Liberty 4 1-4s. Price changes in all were minute.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

CHICAGO, June 27—(AP)—Pressure to sell increased and buying dwindled in the wheat market today, causing values to drop rather quickly toward the last. Rains tending to relieve the drought in the spring wheat region northwest, together with less pessimistic reports from the winter wheat harvest southwest, were largely responsible.

Wheat closed heavy, 1 7-8 to 2 3-8c a bushel below yesterday's finish, corn 7-8 to 2c down, oats 3-8 to 7-8c off, and provisions showing 2c to 30c decline.

Lowest prices of the day were current in the wheat pit at the close. Rallies at no time developed impetus enough to lift the market more than 1-4c above yesterday's final figures, and the fact was evident that aggressive support had given out, temporarily, at least. Best upturns in price today were associated with comprehensive reports indicating that despite varying degrees of rain which have intervened the bumper spring wheat crop prospects of two weeks ago have disappeared, and that the present outlook is fo ronly an average yield or below.

A special factor influencing today's wheat trading was notice taken that many of the heavier crop damage reports from the southwest are based on reductions from much higher estimates than are used in official comparisons. Nevertheless, a majority of the leading commission houses continued to advocate the buying side of the wheat market on downward swings in prices, the general idea being that rainfall in the spring wheat area so far this season has been relatively so light that a few days of hot dry weather will result in widespread complaint from both north and south of the Canadian line.

On the other hand, wheat harvesting was reported to be getting well under way again in the southwest, with weather conditions extremely favorable. Some yields there were reported as better than had been looked for a few days ago, and various predictions pointed to a liberal movement of new wheat next week.

Corn as well as wheat lurched heavily downgrade in the late dealings. Holders of corn future delivery contracts indulged in considerable selling, largely to collect profits and because of favorable weather prevalent throughout the corn belt. Oats were draggy, as a result of excellent conditions to mature the new oats crop.

Provisions sagged, responsive to action of hog values and grain.

NEW YORK, June 27.—(AP)—Structural steel awards during the past week amounted to 61,000 tons compared with 45,000 tons for the preceding week. The week's outstanding award was for 25,000 tons for the Great Lakes Steel Corp., plant at Ecorse, Mich., of the McClintock Marshall Co.

Stockholders of the Postum Company, Inc., at a special meeting today, approved the change in the name of the company to the General Foods Corporation.

The first 50 railroads to report May earnings show an aggregate net railway income of $82,700,000, compared with $70,792,000 in May, 1928.

Standard Brands, Inc., has been selected as the name for the new food products holding company to be formed by J. P. Morgan & Co. Royal Baking Powder company and the E. W. Gillett company.

Chile Copper company had first quarter net of $9,452,690, equal to $2.16 a share on the common. This compares with net of $3,172,766, or 73 cents a share, in the first 1928 quarter.

The Andes Copper Mining company, in its first quarterly statement reports net of $3,811,503, equal to $1.07 a share on the common.

New Mosquito Found.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Discovery of a new species of mosquito in Montana is reported as "an unexpected and noteworthy event" by Harrison G. Dyer, National Museum custodian of lepidoptera. Pests of the new type were caught by G. Allen Mail, acting for the Bozeman experiment station, near a railroad crossing. Larvae were found in water collected in cattle tracks.

At Manchester, the men's club of the Second Congregational church has elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Mrs. R. K. Anderson, president; Joseph Wright, vice president; John Wolcott, secretary and treasurer.

Farm Board Choice?

Julius H. Barnes, former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce and wheat director, is being mentioned for a place on the new federal farm board, composed of eight men and Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde.

Longing

Now the sun is shining brightly
And the sky's a brilliant blue,
And the whole wide world looks cheerful,
If you take a casual view;
But on this bright day of gladness
Now of sadness there's a germ—
There's a robin in the garden
And he cannot find a worm!

He is running yon and hither,
With observant gaze alert,
Hunting for a juicy morsel
Somewhere in the garden dirt.
For he's longing for his dinner
And he hopes to see it squirm—
But his hunger is increasing
And he cannot find a worm!

Isn't it a bit pathetic?
Don't you sympathize with him?
Longing, yearning for a dinner
With the dinner-chance so slim?
Now get this into your noodle—
Let your mental grasp be firm—
I'm looks d'smal to a robin
When he cannot find a worm?

MAN FINED $400 ON CHARGES OF LIQUOR LAW VIOLATIONS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 27—Max Markoff was presented in the police court this morning charged with violation of the liquor law on two counts, possession and keeping with intent to sell. He entered a demurrer on both counts and a fine of $200 on each was imposed by Deputy Judge John McGarry. Markoff is proprietor of the building, 97 North Bank street, two doors north of police headquarters. Last night when numerous men were seen entering and departing from the building a raiding force, consisting of Sergeant John Courtney, Motorcycle Officers George Cockell and Clarence Martin and Patrolman Henry Hick entered the house and found Markoff and patrons there, also a quantity of beer and liquor. Markoff was arrested, and was released on his bond of $1,000.

Jesse Maynard, 22 Vista street, was presented on a charge of tampering with an automobile and was fined $25 and costs. Maynard, who was arrested yesterday by Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray, went to the home of Special Officer Samuel Hyde, 126 Shaw street, Monday night and mutilated the wiring of Hyde's automobile, besides releasing the air from all tires and stealing the owner's registration.

William Barclay, Hotel Mohican, was charged with failing to reduce speed at intersecting streets and was given suspension of judgment.

Hyne, Tenafly, N. J., and George A. Middick, 85 Morgan street, Westerly, were charged with violation of the city's traffic ordinances and as none of the drivers appeared their bonds of $2 were declared forfeited.

The continued case of Abraham Kaufman, 49 Water street, Norwich, charged with speeding, was nolled upon Kaufman's paying the costs of the court, about $15.

Philip Sullivan, Williams street, was arrested this afternoon by Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray charged with driving with defective brakes and will be presented in the police court tomorrow.

Alonzo B. Nichols has sold a building lot on Spring street to Phoebe J Nichols.

Tax Collector Hibbard N. Alexander today issued a tax warrant calling for the sale of real estate on Jefferson avenue owned by Nellie B. Daniels because taxes remain unpaid. The property is ordered sold at public auction Aug. 29. Mrs. Daniels owes $605.53, which represents the assessment on the levies of 1926, 1926 and 1927.

Trumbull commandery, No. 468, United Order of the Golden Cross, will hold a picnic at Riverside park on July 4th.

At a meeting of Headquarters battery, 192nd Field Artillery, held at the armory last night, Lieutenant Edward Cruise, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Cruise of Vauxhall street, was presented with a sabre. Lieut. Cruise was recently graduated from West Point.

The local lodge of Elks today was host to the crippled children at the Seaside sanitorium. All who were able to attend the circus were taken by different members of the organization. Busses to take them to the circus ground were donated by Captain Edward R. Geer, of the Connecticut Motor Transportation company.

More than 150 persons were present at the annual garden party of the New London League of Women Voters, held yesterday afternoon at the Elms, residence of Mrs. Augustus C. Taylor in Gardner avenue. Tables for cards were placed under the trees of the lawn and prizes for high score were awarded at each. At the conclusion of play refreshments were served.

A party and picnic will be held tomorrow by members of the junior department of the Methodist Episcopal church from 7 until 9.30 a. m. After games are played refreshments will be served.

Mrs. Perry E. Stone and children, Barbara and Perry will sail for France next Saturday, where they will remain through next winter. Mr. Stone will accompany his family to New York.

The regular meeting of Goff temple, Pythian Sisters was held last night in Union lodge rooms. After a brief business meeting the lodge adjourned to attend the memorial services conducted by Trumbull lodge, No. 40, Knights of Pythias.

Mrs. George Maynard Minor of Watertford and Mrs. Herbert L. Crandall and Mrs. L. K. Shipman of this city attended the social meeting of the Connecticut chapter of the Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America, which was held Tuesday at Simsbury Manor, Simsbury. After luncheon was served a business meeting was held.

Mrs. Frances C. Pollard of Montauk avenue, who will leave next week to join her husband, Lieutenant Pollard of the U. S. C. G., at Staten Island, was the guest of honor at a party held last night by the Thursday Bridge club at the home of Mrs. James H. Sheedy of Montauk avenue. Mrs. Pollard was presented an electric toaster as a farewell gift.

Charles J. Lakocki, 61 Williams street, Meriden, was arrested last night in Groton by State Police Officer Joseph King charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. He will be presented in the Groton town court Monday.

POLICE ARRESTED FOURTEEN IN LIQUOR RAIDS YESTERDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 27.—The police staged a series of liquor raids late this afternoon and as a result 14 arrests were made. The police claimed to have positive evidence against the violation of the law by the various proprietors for it is claimed that specific sales have been obtained by stool pigeons of all those who were taken into custody.

For three weeks it had been known that the police had employed stool pigeons and the various liquor distributors, it is said, exercised more than usual caution in those to whom they sold drinks or bottles. Despite this caution the evidence necessary for search warrants was obtained and the warrants issued. All of the men arrested furnished bonds of $1,000 each and will be presented in the police court tomorrow.

Those arrested are Michael Costello, proprietor of the Garden of Italy, 114 Bentley avenue, Ocean Beach; Arthur May, proprietor of the Hotel Winthrop, State street; Harold Woods, 195 Main street; John Mororino, Stuart avenue, Ocean Beach and his alleged bartender, Jerry Northrup; Edward Bell, 97 Green street; Harry Schuman, 195 Main street; Ricardo Mowseth, 85 Smith street; Charles Benson, 33 Blinman street; Harry Scheinman, 79 Washington street; Victor Frederick, 33 Walbach street; Eugene Conway and Fred Bosworth, 107 Main street, and Joseph Verdi, 18 Brewer street.

The stool pigeons worked under instructions of the police heads and they apparently were well acquainted with the proprietors and their employers, who sold liquor, for the raids were successful, although in some cases no liquor was found.

Promptly at 3:30 o'clock, the forces were assembled and a simultaneous rush was made for the various liquor resorts. Motorcycle Officer George Cockell and Patrolmen William Graham and George Perkins went to the Garden of Italy, but a search did not result in liquor being obtained. Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Patrolmen Dennis Murphy, Braxton Hill and Cornelius Moriarty went to the Hotel Winthrop, where four quarts of liquor were found. Patrolmen Lawrence Feely and Henry Sylvia visited John Mororino's resort at Ocean Beach and he and his employee, Jerry Northrup, were arrested. The store of Edward Bell, 91 Green street, was raided by Patrolmen Clarence Wells, John Foley and Clyde Murphy. Harry Schuman and Harold Woods, employed at 195 Main street, were arrested by Sergeant John Courtney, and Patrolmen Edward Skoczylas, Henry Hick and Frank Corcoran. Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin and Patrolman Thomas Cavanaugh arrested Ricardo Mowseth, 85 Smith street. Officers John Sullivan, Carlos Stone and Walter Rehn raided the Benson house on Blinman street. Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray and Patrolman Michael Dorsey conducted the raid at Harry Scheinman's, 79 Washington street. Patrolman Dennis Cavanaugh, Lawrence Fafdy and Louis Tooker raided the residence of Victor Frederick, 33 Walbach street. Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith and Patrolman Ernest Opperman and Carlos Stone raided the lunch room of Eugene Conway and Fred Bosworth, 107 Main street, and Sergeant William Babcock and Patrolmen Walter Rehn and John Sullivan performed the raiding at the Verdi house, 18 Brewer street.

At the house, 195 Main street, a large quantity of home brew was found and the raiding force, after the arrests were made, started the task of destroying the beer, several hundreds of bottles being taken from cases and their contents deposited into the sewer.

No liquor was found at the store of Edward Bell, but a sale is alleged to have been obtained. Bell was convicted in the police court a week ago and was fined $200 and costs on each count. Neither was liquor found at the Garden of Italy or the Scheinman house, 79 Washington street. At the Frederick house, Walbach street, a quantity of beer and alcohol was found. At the Benson house, Blinman street, the popular "white mule" or "hootch" was found.

Breed Theatre

Residents of Thistle, Utah, never saw more exciting days than during the period when Walter Lang directed "The Night Flyer," a James Cruze production for Pathe-DeMille, starring William Boyd, in that and adjoining towns.

In addition to the thrill of seeing motion pictures in the making and of meeting such players as William Boyd, Jobyna Ralston and Philo McCollough in person, the townspeople were treated to the unusual sight of a train wreck that demolished an engine and four cars. Local fans may enjoy the same thrill when "The Night Flyer" is shown at the Breed theatre today and Saturday.

A hill located several hundred yards from the tracks served as a grandstand on which stood almost the entire population of the town during the filming of the wreck scenes.

When the mail train hurtled around the curve of this hill, struck the weak spot in the trestle rails and leaped into the air, to crash into the stream which the trestle spanned, there were shrill cries from the women on the hilltop.

So realastic was this sequence that most of those in the impromptu audience forgot that it was a motion picture and stood spellbound. Then, as they realized the spectacular magnitude of the scene they had just witnessed, the townspeople cheered lustily.

All the realism that held the crowd subdued the day the wreck was photographed was caught by the cameras, so that this thrill provides one of the big punches of the picture. Jobyna Ralston is featured as leading woman opposite Mr. Boyd.

Palace Theatre

Agitation which is under way in various states having for its object the abolition of capital punishment, and which in several instances has crystallized into the formation of active organizations that are behind repeal bills introduced into state legislatures is said to spring from various courses.

Seldom, if ever, does a sentimental regard for convicted murderers in individual instances play a part in shaping these opinions, but its is noteworthy that the sympathies of theatre audiences throughout the country have gone out to James Dyke, leading character in "The Valiant," Fox Movietone all-dialog production now showing at the Palace theatre.

Mack Sennett's famous bathing beauty squad, lost to the screen for a few years, is back again in full force, more beautiful, more shapely, and more lively than ever before. The bathing girl that Sennett glorified in his comedies and became known throughout the world has returned to the screen—and wearing modern surf bathing suits.

And now you can hear 'em as well as see 'em, for Sennett has put them in the talkies. They can be seen and heard in his latest talking comedy, "Whirls and Girls," now playing at the Palace theatre.

Other sound features on the program include a Pathe news, the world in scene and sound, Pathe sound revue, the wonder reel of the screen and Pathe sound Fable, those funny little animals can now be heard as well as seen.

Trafalgar and the battle of the Nile—who has not read and studied of these great battles?

Now they are on the screen in First National's "The Divine Lady," the big production starring Corinne Griffith, which opens its local engagement on Sunday at the Palace theatre. A fortune was spent on these expansive sea battle scenes, alone, and three huge sailing vessels were purchased and made over into boats of the type used in the latter part of the eighteenth century.

Broadway Theatre

"The Awakening," now at the Broadway theatre marks the first appearance of Vilma Banky, Samuel Goldwyn's "Hungarian Rhapsody" as a star in her own right. In this story of war and romance in Alsace, Miss Banky, previously famous as the co-starring partner of Ronald Colman, Colman, reaches the heights of screen recognition.

"Two Lovers," "The Night of Love," "The Winning of Barbara Worth," "The Magic Flame" and "The Dark Angeli" with Ronald Colman under Samuel Goldwyn's guiding hand, as well as "The Eagle" and "The Son of the Sheik," with Rudolph Valentino, have previously established Vilma Banky as one of the most popular picture actresses on the American screen.

Victor Fleming, one of the most promising of Hollywood's young directors, has made of "The Awakening" the high spot of his career as a moving picture director. In the joyous abandon of the village festivals, the quiet beauty of peasant life in the old world and in the horror and tragedy of sudden war, the story of "The Awakening" has given him ample opportunity for displaying his technical ability. "The Awakening" is being released by United Artists which, in addition to Samuel Goldwyn's productions, also distributes the films of such screen celebrities as Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford, Norma Talmadge and John Barrymore.

Irving Berlin's newest ballad, called "Marie" in honor of Miss Banky's role in "The Awakening," appears prominently in the musical accompaniment.

Mrs. Margaret Bray

On Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock the funeral of Mrs. Margaret Bray was held from her late residence, No. 88 Prospect street, followed with a solemn high mass at St. Mary's Memorial church at 9:30 o'clock. The celebrant of the mass was Rev. William A. Keefe, pastor, with Rev. John McLaughlin of St. Brandon's church, New Haven, as deacon and Rev. Fredrick M. Coholan as sub-deacon. The musical part of the mass was in charge of Mrs. Michael J. Farrell, the organist, who also was assisted with the singing by Edward Connelly. At the processional Chopin's Funeral March was played and at the offertory Mr. Connelly rendered Pie Jesu. Lead Kindly Light was sung by the church choir at the recessional. Burial was in a family plot at St. Joseph's cemetery where Rev. Father Mc Laughlin, assisted by Rev. Father Coholan conducted the committal service. The bearers were, Edward Leonard, Charles Ogden, Joseph Campion, Patrick Hinchey, Joseph Strafford of Hartford and Daniel Hinchey. Included in the large attendance present at the services were relatives and friends from Hartford, Paterson, N. J., New Haven and other places.

The floral tributes were both numerous and beautiful, speaking a mute testimony of the high esteme in which the deceased was held.

Undertakers Cummings and Ring had charge of the funeral arangements.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Robb and son Jackie, of South Manchester, have been visiting Mrs. Robbs' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Crowe of South A street.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Heap of South Second avenue have sent out announcements of the marriage of their daughter Elsie, to Harry Arnold Greene on Saturday, June 22nd.

The members of the Taftville Rod and Gun club have been advised by Hon. John W. Titcomb, superintendent of the state board of fisheries and game that it is the intention of that board to supply the local organization with 40 cans of adult trout to be used in stocking the Lisbon brook. Superintendent Titcomb, writes the secretary, that it is best to postpone the shipping of the fish until the water in the brook recovers its normal height, as it has been running rather low during this warm weather. The local members also claim that it is better to have the trout arrive after the fishing season has closed so that the fish will have a chance to propogate before next season. The trout will arrive in cans by motor truck, which will be met by a committee elected by the Rod and Gun club, under whose supervision the trout will be liberated.

With Miss Mary Nolan, the president, in the chair, the regular meeting of the members of St. Veronica's society was held Wednesday evening in their rooms on Providence street.

Mrs. Philip F. Linderson and her daughter, Miss Arline Linderson, of Gurleyville, have been visitors this week at the home of Mrs. Alfred Linderson of North Third avenue.

Mrs. Fred Ince, supervisor of the Home department of the Taftville Congregational church school has sent out notices of a special meeting and social to be held this (Friday) evening in the church vestry.

When Philip Adams, the popular assistant at the local postoffice, hotfooted it out of the office Thursday afternoon to reprimand some youngsters who he thought had touched off a fire-cracker in one of the boxes which unlock from the outside, he found that the noise had been caused by a blowout in one of the front tires of his automobile which had been parked for two hours outside the postoffice. Phil is still wondering how the tire blew out when the car was stationary.

Chief Ranger William Smith was the presiding officer at the meeting of the members of Court Wequonnoc, Foresters of America, held Thursday evening at the courtrooms on Merchants avenue. Patrick J. Fogarty, chairman of the committee on the revision of by-laws made the report for his committee, and various other business items were disposed of.

A visitor in the village Thursday afternoon was Claude Russell of New Haven, a former resident of North Second avenue, and at one time principal of the Wequonnoc school. Mr. Russell, who moved away 21 years ago, called on a number of old friends and acquaintances.

AWARDED $600 IN COMPROMISE SETTLEMENT FOR LEG AMPUTATION

Settlement for the lump sum of $600 has been made in the disputed workmen's compensation claim of Louis Rodensky, 168 Thames street, Groton, against the Corticelli Silk company of New London by which he was employed at the time he sustained injuries on Nov. 10, 1926, and Jan. 17, 1929. The compromise finding and award has been approved by Commissioner Albert J. Bailey.

Rodensky lost his left leg by amputation above the knee after the injury in January.

According to the stipulation made in the case Rodensky claimed that on Nov. 10, 1926 he bumped his left knee against a table in the spooling department of the Corticelli plant and on Jan. 17, 1929 while on an errand for his foreman slipped and fell on Masonic street, New London, injuring the same leg at the knee joint. As a result of these alleged traumas, the claimant contended that a sarcoma, or cancer, of the bone at the left knee developed, resulting in the amputation. On the claim that the injury arose out of and in the course of his employment, Rodensky sought compensation for his incapacity and payment of his medical bills.

The insurance company carrying the silk mill risk disputed the claim, denying that Rodensky sustained the alleged traumas, or if he did, that these traumas were insufficient from a medical standpoint to cause the injury complained of by the claimant. To support this contention, the insurance company offered the testimony of Dr. James J. Donahue and Dr. George M. Smith, who stated that there could be no possible casual connection between the alleged traumas and the sarcoma from which the claimant was suffering. The insurance company therefore denied that Rodensky had sustained an injury which arose out of and in the course of his employment.

In view of the number of technical, legal and medical questions that were involved as presented by counsel, and in view of the doubt existing as to whether the claimant's injuries arose out of and in the course of his employment, it was understood by all parties to the controversy that, while their respective claims are made in good faith, the claim is a disputed claim, and its results if fully prosecuted would be doubtful.

The payment of the $600 is stipulated to be in complete satisfaction of all claims due or to become due at any time in favor of anybody on account of any condition in any way resulting from the injury, or on account of the death of the claimant on account of the injuries or such a condition.

It is further stipulated that, although Rodensky has a mother and father living, neither of them are prospective dependents within the meaning of the compensation act and it is further stipulated that the claimant has no prospective dependents within the meaning of the compensation act.

INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE TO HAVE "INCENTIVES" THEME

An excellent program has been arranged for the fifth annual Connecticut Industrial conference, which is to be held next Saturday afternoon to Sunday afternoon, June 29-30, at Camp Hazen, Chester, and which will be attended by a large number of men from local industries. Professor H. B. Hastings, Sheffield Scientific school, chairman of the state industrial council of the Y. M. C. A., under whose auspices the conference is held, will preside at the opening session when Harry N. Clarke of Cleveland, Ohio, will speak on "Incentives," the dominant theme of the conference.

The conference will then break up into groups to discuss the address, the executive group being led by E. L. Simonds, Southern New England Telephone Co., New Haven; the supervisors by A. S. Boynton of Meriden and the craftsmen by J. B. Chalmers, Yale & Towne Mfg. Co., Stamford. Informal recreation will follow and at the evening session an open forum led by Mr. Clarke will bring together the results of the group discussions.

A. V. Bodine, Raybestos corporation, Bridgeport, will preside at the 9 o'clock session Sunday morning, when representatives from Norwalk, New Britain, Waterbury, Torrington and East Hampton will speak briefly on "Local Experiences in the Industrial Program of Service to Men and Boys."

Dr. Arnold E. Look of Springfield college will speak on "Goals" at the 11 o'clock inspirational service and at the final session Sunday afternoon U. J. Lupien, service manager, Cheney Brothers, South Manchester, will give an address on "How May We Secure the Greatest Cooperation from all Class of Employees?"

Special music at all sessions will be furnished by the Haven quartet of New Haven.

Sedgwick corps was represented on the program by Mrs. Grace H. Manning who gave three readings. Miss Charlotte Fowler sang a solo with Miss Thelma Bjurstrom as accompanist at the piano.

JENKINS PLANE IN CRASH AT BLUFF POINT, GROTON

C. Francis Jenkins, television expert, with three passengers in his cabin monoplane, escaped unhurt Wednesday afternoon when the plane ran out of gas and made a forced landing amid rocks on a side hill at Bluff Point, Groton. Both wheels were torn off the plane, the undercarriage ripped away, the propellor damaged beyond repair and the engine somewhat damaged.

Jenkins was on his way from New York to Boston when he ran out of gas when over Mystic and attempted to coast back to land on a beach at Bluff Point. But the plane fell so fast that he hit the rocky hillside.

Jenkins and his passengers, who kept their identity concealed, went on by train to Boston and the plane is to be shipped back to New York.

NORWICH TOWN

The meeting of the Dakonya group of Camp Fire girls connected with the Norwich Town M. E. church was held Thursday afternoon at the parsonage. Mrs. Helen Haviland Potter, their guardian, was in charge. Secretary Virginia Ward opened the meeting by the reading of the minutes and the group repeated the Creado and laws. The girls voted to discontinue the meetings for the summer months beginning July 12th.

The pastor of the Norwich Town M. E. church, Rev. George Warren Potter, spent part of the day Wednesday at the Willimantic camp ground. Rev. Mr. Potter is manager of the Young People's institute to be held there the first seven days of July. The houses obtained by Rev. Mr. Potter are being cleaned and put in order for the opening of the institute. The New London house is to be a young ladies dormitory and will be in charge of Miss Marjorie Stephens of Boston university who will act as a counsellor. The Willimantic house will be a young ladies dormitory and will be in charge of Mrs. Jean S. Sallis of Pawtucket, R. I., wife of the Rev. J. Garfield Sallis, pastor of the Thompson Methodist Episcopal church of that city. The South Manchester house is to be a young men's dormitory and will be in charge of the Rev. J. Manley Shaw as counsellor. Rev. Mr. Shaw is pastor of the Baltic M. E. church. The Manchester house will be a young ladies dormitory and will be in charge of Miss Ella Howard of New London as counsellor. The Norwich Town house will be a young men's dormitory and will be in charge of the pastor of the Norwich Town church. There will be delegates from all over the Norwich district and they will include young people from churches of all denominations.

Mrs. Helen Haviland Potter left town Wednesday to spend a few days at the home of her father, J. E. Haviland, Sunshine Villa, at Niantic.

Maurice D. Spottswood, a student of Columbia college, who is spending the summer months at his home at New London, was a recent visitor at the Methodist parsonage. Mr. Spottswood assisted Rev. Mr. Potter in Boy Scout work in Niantic.

Sunday morning at the Norwich Town M. E. church the last communion service of the summer will be held. The message of the morning and the sacrement of the Lord's supper will be administered by the Rev. Frederick C. Baker who was pastor of the church 45 years ago.

Sunday evening the pastor, Rev. George Warren, will preach on the theme "God's Voice." This will be the last Sunday evening service until the third week in September.

IMPOSING OBSERVANCE OF GERMANY'S DAY OF MOURNING

Public Demonstrations Were Conducted Against the Peace Treaty Framed at Versailles and the "War Guilt Lie"—Thousands of Torches Lit the Central Field of the Stadium in Berlin While a Resolution Demanding Revision of the Treaty and Protesting the Blame of War Guilt Was Read—The Vast Audience Was Reverent as Strains of National Airs Sounded Over the Field.

BERLIN, June 28—(AP)—Germany's "day of mourning" was observed throughout the republic today and culminated in imposing public demonstrations tonight in the stadium and the Reichstag hall against the peace treaty framed at Versailles and the "war guilt lie."

Thousands of thousands of torches lit up the great central field of the stadium while 50,000 persons stood in impression silence while a resolution demanding revision of the treaty and protesting the blame laid on the shoulders of Germany was read. Gray garbed members of the Steel Helmet organization and black and white uniformed corps of cadets formed a solid mass over which floated rows of black, white and red imperial banners and the black crossed white flags of Prussia. The vast audience was reverent as the strains of "Deutschland Uber Alles" and other national airs sounded over the field.

The public meeting in the Reichstag building adopted a long resolution charging the German nation still suffered moral ostracism as the result of the Versailles treaty which remains the greatest obstacle to international understanding. The resolution said in part, "hence the nation demands calling an international commission of experts to give an impartial verdict on responsibility for the World war."

One of the speakers at the Reichstag meeting, Dr. Albert Schnee, former governor of German East Africa, quoted Professor Sidney B. Fay of Smith college, Northampton, Mass., as saying that the Versailles verdict of war guilt ought to be quashed.

Resolutions along similar lines were adopted at meetings throughout the country on the tenth anniversary of the Versailles treaty. At Saar Brucken a mass meeting appealed to the world "justice" for the Saar population whose unanimous desire was said to be reunion with the German fatherland.

University students in Berlin clashed with police and 11 were arrested for obstructing traffic. Otherwise no violence was reported.

Former Kaiser Wilhelm was a spectator from afar of the national protest against responsibility for the war in which he was a principal figure. Failure of the Reichstag last night to prolong the defence of the republic act caused a slight flurry in Berlin today, for by its terms the former Kaiser was supposed to be definitely excluded from republican Germany at the pleasure of the government.

High officials of the Berlin police today made clear that the law itself "in no way contains a definite refusal of permission to return to Germany, but full freedom of decision is left to the German government."

President Von Hindenburg himself headed the signatories of a statement which described today as "a day of mourning" and denied that Germany was solely responsible for the war. The members of the cabinet also signed the statement. Neither the president nor the ministers, however, would appear at protest meetings.

PLANS FOR GOVERNORS' MEET IN NEW LONDON

HARTFORD, June 28—(AP)—The governors' conference to be held at Eastern Point, July 16, 17 and 18, began to take definite form today with the announcement by Col. Charles H. Allen, of Rockville, chairman of the arrangements committee the chairmen of the various sub-committees and details of the program which has been prepared for the entertainment of the visiting executives and their wives.

High spots in the entertainment program are visits to the submarine base, a few miles up the Thames river from the scene of the conference, the state military reservation at Niantic and the state airport at Groton, a dinner at the Fishers Island club as the guests of President Samuel Ferguson, of the Hartford Electric Light company and a dinner at the Brooklawn Country club at which the Bridgeport chamber of commerce will be the host. It is hoped to make arrangements to have the guests at the dinner return to New London by boat following the affair.

An 18-hole golf tournament has been arranged for the governors, play to be at their convenience, with two trophies, the Governor Trumbull cup for the winner and the governor's staff cup for the runner-up.

While the formal conference sessions will not begin until Tuesday, July 16, the majority of the governors have indicated that they will arrive in New London on Monday, July 15, and the program of the conference will really start that night with a reception at six o'clock, an informal dinner at 7 and a short cruise starting at 8:30.

$1,000,000 BOND ISSUE FOR STAMFORD VETOED

HARTFORD, June 28.—(AP)—Stamford loses the $1,000,000 bond issue for new streets and sewers, voted by the 1929 legislature just before adjournment by a pocket veto, it became known today, when Gov. Trumbull transmitted the bill to the secretary of the state announcing that he does not approve the measure.

One of the possible 1929 public acts cannot become effective as soon as the other 1929 laws, which are in force July 1, unless the governor changes his plans and takes action on the bill before Monday. The measure is house bill number 851, setting up standards of purity for lubricating oil sold in the state, on which the governor has taken no action as yet. He is not expected at the executive offices in the state capitol until Monday, some hours after other 1929 public acts are in effect.

BALANCE OF $3,000,000 IN GENERAL FUND OF STATE

HARTFORD, June 28.—(AP)—A balance in excess of $3,000,000 for the general funds of the state, is indicated at the end of business tomorrow at noon, which marks the conclusion of the two-year fiscal period of the state and the first complete biennium during which the board of finance and control, established by the 1927 legislature has been in control. The balance of all funds which will remain at the end of the fiscal year will exceed $5,000,000, according to indications today.

The estimates of the funds are based on the comptroller's balances for the close of business on Thursday, the last day for which totals are available, showing $3,458,640.65 in the general fund and $5,113,176.44 in all funds, general and special.

WILLIAMS READY FOR HIS FLIGHT TO ROME

PORTLAND, Me., June 28—(AP)—Roger Q. Williams took the monoplane, Pathfinder, aloft today in one of the numerous test flights while he expected to make before the craft was ready for a trans-Atlantic hop to Rome.

Williams and Lewis A. Yancey, his navigator, have mapped a 43 mile triangular course just off the coast where the tests will be made. The plane is kept at present at the airport here because of the pitted condition of the Old Orchard beach, starting point of the proposed flight.

Rain clouds prevented Williams from making more than a very short flight today.

MAN FOUND DEAD UNDER SUSPICIOUS CIRCUMSTANCES

NEW BOSTON, N. H., June 28—(AP)—Frank Daniels, 27, poultry farmer missing from this village since last Saturday, was found dead under suspicious circumstances in an isolated pond near the Weare line today. His body, floating near a raft and fishing pole, bore on its forehead a scar which led authorities to suspect violence.

Frank Daniels lived alone on a hillside a mile from the center, but villagers said today they knew he had $400 in his pocket when he left on what was apparently meant to be a few hours fishing trip. Daniels very frequently spoke of keeping his "roll" in his pockets, they said.

The searching party under Constable Page Wilson, who discovered the body today, noticed also that a bottle nearly filled with cider stood on the raft. The body was left untouched pending the arrival from Manchester of Medical Examiner Jules O. Gaznon, who would be able to determine whether violence or accidental drowning caused death.

SUB. TENDER FALCON HAS RETURNED TO NEW LONDON

NEW LONDON, June 28—(AP)—The submarine tender, Falcon, returned to its base here tonight, after having accompanied the Simon Lake submersible, Defender, on its 150 foot diving test off Block Island. The Defender was left anchored off Block Island, where the tests were completed Wednesday after a successful dive of 156 feet. Officers of the Falcon declined to say just what would be done about the Defender being taken over by the navy department.

It was understood before the tests of the Defender, that if the underseas boat was successful in making the dive to 150 feet, the navy would take it over for further tests with the refitted S-4.

Commander Dunbar of the Falcon, who watched the Defender make the dive, left the ship immediately after its return to the base tonight and refused to make any comment.

FOG FORCED MAIL PLANE DOWN AT WALLINGFORD

WALLINGFORD, June 28—(AP)—Due to a heavy fog and poor visibility, the Boston-New York air mail plane, piloted by Charles Wright, was forced to abandon its trip to New York tonight, and landed at the airport here. The mail was sent to New Haven by special truck. Wright left the Boston airport at six and refuelled at Hartford, resuming his flight. Due to the dense fog above Long Island sound, Wright decided to take no chances with his load and landed.

THREE PERSONS INJURED WHEN YAWL BLEW UP

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., June 28—(AP)—Three persons were injured, two of them seriously, when the fifty foot yawl, Nadringa, blew up and sank in Marblehead harbor late today. Philip Wadsworth, Boston architect, Mrs. Wadsworth and a sailor, were on board. All three are at Mary Alley hospital.

OBITUARY

William Whitman Farnam

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 28—(AP)—William Whitman Farnam, treasurer of Yale university under the late President Timothy Dwight, died today from heart affection in his 85th year.

Farnam was a descendant of an early New England family, an ancestor, Samuel Whitman, having been a fellow of Yale from 1724 to 1746. His father was a civil engineer and was superintendent of the New Haven-Northampton canal when it was being built and was interested in building the railroad which followed it. He, also, with Joseph E. Sheffield, built the Chicago and Rock Island road and was president of it for several years.

William Farnam was educated in Chicago schools, attended Phillips Andover academy and was graduated from Yale in 1866. He studied abroad, took a degree in law at Columbia and made his residence here. For 34 years he was on the city park commission. He was a fellow of Yale in 1885 and became treasurer in 1888 and continued for eleven years.

A surviving brother is Professor Henry W. Farnam of Yale's faculty.

Diplomats Violate Traffic Regulations

During the Past 13 Years 37 Have Been Halted by Police—Some Charged With Intoxication.

WASHINGTON, June 28—(AP)—Major Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of the Washington police force, reported to the senate today that diplomats of varying rank have been halted on 37 occasions for traffic violations during the past thirteen years.

Major Pratt declared some of those detained were charged with driving while intoxicated. His report, however, did not name the diplomats charged with this act, but merely grouped them in one list with the notation that they had been halted for violations of the traffic ordinances.

The report added that duly authorized members of the foreign legations are exempted from arrest.

The police superintendent's report was in response to a resolution of inquiry adopted by the senate and introduced by Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas.

The report carries the name "Von Prittswitz" of the German embassy as having been halted Nov. 26, 1928. Herr Friedrich W. Von Prittwitz Und Gaffron is the German ambassador.

Among the ministers halted were J. H. Van Royen, Netherlands, Eduardo De Medina, Bolivia, and Count Laszlo Szechenyi, Hungarian. The name "Count L. Szechenyi, unknown," also appears.

Ten of the persons entitled to diplomatic immunity were halted this year, thirteen in 1928, and the remainder in groups of three or four each year prior to that time. Only one diplomat was halted in 1917, the year with which the report begins.

Reference Book Never Out of Date.

There is a dictionary so large that it took more than 30 years to publish it complete. It gives the truth about all words and their uses. Today on the last volume, devoted to words beginning with Z, is strictly up to date.

Consider the advertising in The Bulletin. It describes commodities for your use, as a dictionary describes words. It tells how they will save you time, increase your comfort, give you the advantages of modern living. Yet none of it is out of date by as much as a week.

Advertising is news as much as the headlines on the front page. Very often indeed it is news of more significance to you, and has more bearing on your life today, tomorrow. Read these advertisements with confidence. They are the daily reference book on the things you need.

DISBARMENT OF ARTHUR K. READING ORDERED

BOSTON, June 28—(AP)—Disbarment of Arthur K. Reading, former attorney-general of Massachusetts, was ordered today by Judge George A. Sanderson, of the supreme court. Trial of Reading was the outcome of an "information" filed with the court by the Massachusetts Bar association.

Judge Sanderson declared in his decision, that he found Reading "guilty of gross misconduct," and that charges contained in 12 articles of impeachment, brought against him by a legislative committee before he resigned his office, June 6, 1928, "have been established by the evidence."

Exceptions, regarding evidence, were taken by Reading during his trial. He has the privilege of appealing from the decision of Judge Sanderson to the full bench. He was out of the city today and had not previously intimated what course he would follow under the conditions which the decision today imposed upon him.

Charges brought against Reading, in both the legislative and court proceedings, involved his actions as counsel for the Decimo Club, Inc., and subsidiaries of the L. A. W. corporation, of Worcester, while he was attorney general. Evidence that he had received large fees from both corporations and that he had used intimidation and duress in effecting financial settlements within the two organizations, was introduced. He denied that he had abused his authority as attorney general and upheld the right of the attorney general to engage in private practice.

During the court trial, Reading acted as his own counsel. Frederic W. Mansfield, president of the Massachusetts Bar association, conducted the prosecution on appointment by the court.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT AT ENDURANCE FLIGHT

CLEVELAND, June 28—(AP)—Pilots R. L. Mitchell and Byron K. Newcomb, attempting to set a new world record for an endurance refuelling airplane flight, took off at the municipal airport here tonight in the big monoplane "City of Cleveland" at 6:33:51.

It was the second attempt for a record flight by Mitchell and Newcomb. After remaining aloft slightly more than six hours last night, they were forced by a severe electrical storm to land. They expected better weather conditions tonight. Mitchell and Newcomb intend to keep their plane in the air 200 hours if possible.

ORDER RESTRAINING SHOE WORKERS' STRIKE

BOSTON, June 27—(AP)—Judge Elias B. Wells, in the equity session of superior court, today issued an order against the Boston Independent Lasters, Cutters and Stitchers unions, of Boston and Lynn, and the Boot and Shoe Workers' union, local number 229-0, restraining them from continuing a strike against 19 shoe manufacturing concerns in Boston and Lynn.

The order also prohibits the unions from picketing and interfering with employes and contracts between employers and employes.

The strike has been in progress for several months and a total of ten thousand workers were out at one time.

Young Woman Got $14,000 In Hold-Up

In Get-Away She Dropped a Revolver—Which Found It Was Unloaded—Changed Appearance.

TOPEKA, Kan., June 28—(AP)—A young woman assisted, and with a revolver believed to have been unloaded, coolly held up two employes of the Security Benefit association here today and escaped with approximately $14,000.

The holdup occurred in front of the headquarters of the association after the woman had forced A. J. Perlich of Kansas City to drive her six blocks to the scene of the robbery.

Escaping on foot, the woman fled to an apartment building a block away where she discarded a hat, smock and other articles of clothing. She then ran out the back door and disappeared.

Near the building, the woman dropped her revolver. It was unloaded when found. Police expressed the belief that there were no bullets in the weapon at the time of the robbery, although it was possible cartridges had been removed before the gun was thrown away.

The woman, described as being a brunette between 25 and 27 years old, thin-faced and of medium height, stopped W. L. Stalons, chief clerk of the association, and Louis Streit, as they were returning from a bank with payroll money. She held a handkerchief to her face.

"Drop that package, or I'll blow your insides out," she commanded, drawing her revolver.

The woman caught the money satchel as Stalons attempted to toss it to Streit, and turned to enter Perlich's car. The Kansas City man, however, had fled, driving to police headquarters to report the holdup. She then ran a block to the apartment building.

Perlich said the woman entered his car while he was parked in front of a hotel and placed the revolver against his body, compelling him to drive to the benefit association headquarters.

Arived there, he said, the woman ordered him to "keep quiet" and "not get nervous because they haven't come yet," referring apparently to Stalons and Streit.

QUIET FUNERAL OF FRANK MARLOW, SLAIN GAMBLER

NEW YORK, June 28—(AP)—Minus the glamour and with sentimental expressions confined to flowers, the funeral of Frank Marlow, slain gangster and gambler, took place today. Even the police did little or had little to do.

After the release of seven persons who were questioned in connection with the killing and a series of raids on Broadway resorts early this morning the police investigation appeared to peter out and attention was centered in the East Side, where from his estranged wife's home Marlow's body was taken to Calvary cemetery with only close relatives as mourners.

The $10,000 bronze casket in which Marlow's pals had said he would be buried had become a $200 coffin, and even to pay for this the widow was said to have scraped well a dwindling family purse. Charles Stefano, a brother-in-law, said the body would lie in a public vault until money was available for the purchase of a burial lot.

"PAWTUCKET JOHNNY" CONLEY AND PALS FOUND GUILTY

PROVIDENCE, June 28—(AP)—Verdicts of guilty were returned by a jury in federal court here tonight, against "Pawtucket Johnny" Conley, Rudolph E. Kraft and Elwood Banfield, the latter two from New York, who have been on trial since Monday, charged with conspiracy to receive and conceal with intent to convert to their own use stamps looted in the $256,000 Pawtucket postoffice robbery, January 31, 1926.

The trio will be sentenced Monday morning. The convictions carry maximum penalties of two years in prison or $10,000 fines or both.

TRAGEDY BEFELL ONE PLANE ANOTHER REMAINS ALOFT

The Ashcraft-Gentry Plane Ran Out of Fuel in a Fog and Crashed—Ashcraft Was Killed and Miss Gentry Was Critically Injured—Mr. and Mrs. Jensen Still Are Jolting Along in Storm in the Skies in Their Endeavor to Establish a Refuelling Endurance Flight Record.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., June 28—(AP)—Their plane wracked by the stress of a rising storm and their hearts torn by tragedy which befell their friendly rivals, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Jensen and William Ulbrich jolted along the skies tonight awaiting the third dawn since they began their assault on the refuelling endurance flight record.

The Jensens and Ulbrich went aloft Wednesday night and last night Jack Ashcraft and Viola Gentry went up in a rival craft. This morning the Ashcraft-Gentry plane ran out of fuel in a fog and crashed near Old Westbury, Ashcraft was killed and Miss Gentry critically injured.

The crash and subsequent events revealed an apparently romantic attachment between Miss Gentry in the plane that crashed and Ulbrich in the ship that stayed aloft. For some months Miss Gentry had been living with Ulbrich's mother in the Ulbrich home but it was not generally known that they were more than friends.

As Miss Gentry was lifted from the wreckage of the plane, however, she gave the first intimation of a romance. "I'm Viola Gentry," she murmured, "I just got a tough break, that's all. Tell Bill Ulbrich. Oh, Bill, Bill." And through the hours in the hospital as her life hung in the balance she called intermittently for the man who still rode heartbroken through the skies.

Not that Ulbrich knew the extent of the tragedy for the Jensens, close friends of both Ulbrich and Miss Gentry, say to that.

The two planes had been flying within sight of each other until fog swirled across the sky at dawn. The Jensens and Ulbrich saw Miss Gentry's plane disappear into the mist and fail to reappear. Jensen dropped a note asking for word of the other plane and telling of their worry. Later communication was established between the plane in the air and the operations office at the field by radio telephone.

"Don't your fellows hold out on me," Ulbrich implored. "Tell me just what has happened to Viola."

The radio man at the field heard Jensen call peremptorily to Ulbrich to take the controls and Mrs. Jensen took his place at the telephone.

"Don't tell him the details," she said in a low voice. "Marty saw the wreck of the ship and has been keeping away from there."

Ulbrich came back on the phone and pleaded and threatened and begged again for the "real dope." He was almost as hysterical as Miss Gentry had been and occasionally the radio man at the field could hear Jensen cautioning him: "Steady, Bill. Hold everything."

They told Ulbrich that Miss Gentry had broken an arm, which was true as far as it went. She had broken both arms in several places and was bleeding internally. And they told him they'd try to rig a microphone at her bedside so she could tell him not to worry herself.

And so Ulbrich and the Jensens, the top of their cabin loosened by a rising wind, scudded along the rain-filled skies with fear in their hearts. Had Ulbrich seen what Jensen had glimpsed through the clouds he would have known all too well that Miss Gentry's chance for life must be slim.

For the plane shot down through the branches of a tree and telescoped, nose first, into the ground. There it stuck, the engine in the earth, the cabin crumpled, the tail in the air, enough of the fuselage remained to leave in sharp relief above the scrambled wreckage the name of the plane—"The Answer."

Volunteers for blood transfusion were requested during the day and everyone at the field vied for the opportunity to try to save the woman flier's life.

During his career as a flier, Miss Gentry's pilot, Ashcraft, lost two passengers, and his brother was killed in an accident similar to today's. Funeral services will be held tomorrow and burial will be in his native town of Protection, Kansas.

Miss Gentry, known as the flying cashier because she sometimes worked in a restaurant to get money for her flying ventures, was the first of the women fliers to establish a woman's solo endurance flight record and early this year she crashed on the takeoff for an endurance flight.

The cause of the crash of the Ashcraft-Gentry plane was not definitely determined, but the picture could be fairly well reconstructed from two notes found after the fall and by the fact that the fuel tanks were dry.

The fliers went up last night with enough fuel to take them through the night and a refuellin xplane was due to arrive from Hartford, Conn., early this morning. After the crash two notes were found, one saying that only two hours gas remained and the other reporting that fuel was needed immediately.

There was dense fog and when the gasoline was gone Ashcraft must have dipped in an effort to pierce the mist and effect a landing. He narrowly missed two houses and a water tank before he struck the tree. Shortly after the crash the rfuelling plane, which had been delayed by the fog, arrived from Hartford.

Late today it was learned that Miss Gentry was married about a year and a half ago but was separated almost immediately and had retained her maiden name. The name of her husband, said to be an aviator now in Florida, was not learned, nor could anyone tell whether a divorce was pending.

ARMY OFFICER ESCAPED WHEN PLANE CAUGHT FIRE

MITCHELL FIELD, June 28.—(AP)—The luck of Lieutenant Maxwell Balfour held good today though others all around him were less fortunate.

He was 2,000 feet in the air teaching Corporal Elmer Berry how to fly when his all metal army observation plane caught fire. The plane crashed and Berry was critically injured and burned, but Lieut. Balfour escaped with burns that doctors characterized as superficial.

A few hours before an endurance plane had crashed nearby, killing Jack Ashcraft, a commercial flier, and critically injuring Viola Gentry, the co-pilot.

Lieut. Balfour won a name for himself as a lucky flier last year when a plane fell apart under him during a test flight at 6,000 feet and he and a companion floated safely to earth in parachutes.

RECORD NON-STOP FLIGHT FROM WEST TO EAST COAST; TIME, WAS 17 HOURS, 43 MIN.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., June 29, (Saturday)—(AP)—Captain Frank M. Hawks broke his own record for a non-stop transcontinental flight from west to east upon his arrival here from Los Angeles at 1:30 a. m. (E. D. T.) today.

As Captain Hawks brought his plane to earth it taxied across the field and struck a fence surrounding the Meadowbrook Polo club. Its landing gear was broken and its fuselage ripped but Hawks was unhurt.

The flyer's unofficial time for the west-east flight was 17 hours and 43 minutes. This would make the elapsed time for the round-trip flight approximately 36 hours and 58 minutes, since Hawks flew from New York to Los Angeles on Thursday in 19 hours, ten minutes and 32 seconds.

PLANE GOING STRONG AFTER MORE THAN 130 HOURS ALOFT

MINNEAPOLIS, June 28.— (AP) — Droning its monotonous song of a perfectly working motor the Cessna monoplane of Thorwald "Thunder" Johnson and Owen Haughland bore steadily toward the world's endurance flying record early tonight after more than 130 hours in the air.

Having ridden out two storms in the past two days and completed a refueling operation when only a five minute supply of gas remained in their tank the fliers successfully passed their 131st hour of continuous flying at 4 p. m. They must remain up 42 12 hours longer to surpass the record of 172 hours, 33 minutes one second.

All has gone well, the fliers said in notes dropped, since the take-off here at 5 a. m. last Sunday. If they attain their objective they will equal the record at 9:33 a. m. Sunday. They must exceed the record by one hour to obtain official recognition by the National Aeronautical association.

ARMY OFFICER KILLED IN AIRPLANE ACCIDENT

RIVERSIDE, Calif., June 28.—(AP)—Lieutenant William Q. Plummer and flying Cadet Cyrus J. Wallace were killed in an airplane accident at March field today. A second plane piloted by a cadet, scraped the wing of Lieut. Plummer's ship causing it to crash.

The name of the student-pilot whose plane was responsible for the crash was not given out. He was uninjured.

DEATH IN HARTFORD OF SAMUEL S. W. POMEROY

HARTFORD, June 28.—(AP)— Samuel S. Wyllys Pomeroy, a prominent member of the social set of Newport, R. I., and a direct descendant of George Wyllys, of Hartford, third governor of Connecticut, died today at the Hartford Retreat, where he had been ill since June 8. He was 43 years old.

Mr. Pomeroy was on an automobile trip from Newport, to Lenox, Mass., and was taken ill at a hotel here. His wife called a physician, who ordered his removal to the retreat for observation. Death was caused by a cerebral hemorrhage.

MORE APPOINTMENTS TO FEDERAL FARM BOARD

WASHINGTON, June 28.— (AP) — James C. Stone of Kentucky, C. B. Denham of Missouri, and Carl Williams of Oklahoma were appointed today by President Hoover as members of the federal farm board created by the new administration farm relief act.

The chief executive said he hoped to have the acceptances of three or four more members by the middle of next week and added that it was his belief that the full board of eight would be able to organize by August 1.

While Mr. Hoover made no designation of a chairman among the group of three announced today, the general expectation is that Mr. Stone, who is the founder and president of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Cooperative Association, will be designated as chairman.

ERIE BOND PAYS DIVIDEND AFTER LAPSE OF 22 YEARS

NEW YORK, June 28.—(AP)— The Erie railroad today ordered payment of two preferred dividends after a lapse of 22 years. This action paves the way for payment of dividends on the common stock on which nothing has been paid in the hundred years of the railroad's existence.

Both classes of preferred stock were placed on a $4 annual basis with the declaration of two semi-annual dividends of 2 per cent each. The first payment will be made on July 15 to stockholders of record June 15. The second will be made on Dec. 31 to holders of record Dec. 16.

PLANE FORCED DOWN NEAR GOV. TRUMBULL'S HOME

PLAINVILLE, June 28.—(AP) — A Stinson-Detroiter plane, carrying two men passengers from Kansas to Northampton, made a landing near the home of Gov. Trumbull here this afternoon just as the rainstorm was breaking. The governor greeted the flyers, who left the plane on the field for the night, to resume their flight in the morning.

YOUTHFUL BANDIT GETS LONG PRISON SENTENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 28—Faced with a long criminal record, Jerry Nelson, 18, of Claremont, N. H., was sentenced to a term of not less than six nor more than 10 years in the state's prison at Wethersfield at the brief criminal session of the Windham county superior court held here today. His pal, Wendell Hardey, 17, of Littleton, N. H., was committed to the state reformatory at Cheshire for an indefinite period. Both were taken to the respective institutions shortly after sentence had been imposed, in custody of Sheriff Charles A. Gates.

Nelson and Hardy, who with Frank Rokas, 18, had escaped from the state industrial school at Manchester, N. H., and later held up and robbed Donald Cockburn of Melrose, Mass., on the outskirts of Putnam, early this month, were arraigned before the court on bench warrants. They were charged with robbery with violence at the point of a gun and the theft of a motor vehicle. Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin of Hartford nolled the second charge, imposing the sentences on the first count.

Stanley Yeserski of Thompson was presented on a bench warrant charging him on four counts of assault upon his wife and daughter and two counts of intoxication. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to five months in the county jail. Henry D. Pond pleaded guilty to the forgery of checks and was sentenced to 30 days in jail. State's Attorney Bradford recommended leniency owing to the age of the mother of the accused who is in need of her son's assistance at home.

The court ordered indefinite suspensions of sentences and discharges of probationary periods in the cases of Theodore Laprade, Walter Lis and Theodore Durey of Danielson, who were found guilty of assault with intent to commit rape some time ago. Similar action was taken in the case of Wilfred Bellevance of this city, charged with theft.

At this point the short calendar session was opened and the following cases were ordered off the docket for the term: Chauncey E. Macfarlane of this city vs. John Meikle also of this city; James R. Walsh, tax collector vs. William Brown et als of Central Village; Joseph F. Coombs vs. Herbert L. Fortune et als; Amos O. Stone vs. Henry Dorous; City of Willimantic vs. U. S. Fidelity and Guaranty company; Louis Viesti vs. Israel F. Dash; E. E. Duguis vs. Albert C. DeForge; Margaret Bedford St. Peter vs. Edmund F. St. Peter; and Jean B. Paulhus vs. Emma Halm.

The divorce action of Mrs. Edna Shorter Rice of Canterbury against Trenor A. Rice of this city, was announced as ready for trial in the forenoon, but later in the day it was made known that the case was ordered continued until the next term. It is understood that Rice plans to fight the action in whole or in part.

In the case of Walter E. Shippee of Killingly vs. Charles A. Haggerty of Webster, Mass., judgment was given for the plaintiff to recover the sum of $394.36. A decision was made to allow for the hearing of the evidence in the case of Margaret Mott vs. Frederick C. Mott, both of this city, before a special committee on motion of Attorney Samuel B. Harvey. Attorney Harvey stated that the nature of the testimony would be such that it would not be best to present the case in open court.

Judgments were given in the following cases: Samuel Chesbre and P. J. Twomey of this city vs. Hutchings Organ company, $2,085; John Hambly of Providence vs. Quidnick-Windham Manufacturing company, petition of the ancillary receivers for authority to sell and convey certain properties; Brooklyn Savings bank vs. Albina Caouette, motion to make Noel Dupre, administrator, part defendant; the Danielson Trust company vs. James E. Smith of Danielson, $1,053.67; Danielson Trust company vs. Alfred J. Goulet, $4,181.74; Cargill Trust company vs. Alma St. Onge et al., deficiency of $467.50; Putnam Savings bank vs. William S. Bates et al, $2,-$69.67; Putnam Savings bank vs. George E. Dresser, $5,956.67. A stipulation for judgment was accepted by the court in the case of Margaret Tracy Christie vs. John E. Pritchard et al.

Three uncontested divorce cases were disposed during the session. Mrs. Mary J. Arpin of Putnam was granted a decree from Alderic Arpin, now of Canada, on the grounds of desertion and granted the custody of two minor children.

Lillian Ouelette of this city received a divorce from Edward Ouelette on the grounds of desertion and given the custody of two minor children. She testified that her husband left her to join the army.

Arsene Proulx was granted a divorce from Marian Proulx of Canada, on the grounds of desertion. Proulx said that his wife refused to come with him when he came to this country. They were married in 1917.

Court adjourned indefinitely at 3:45 o'clock.

CITY TAX RATE REMAINS THE SAME AS LAST YEAR

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 28—A tax of 13 mills which was in force last year was voted again on 1928 grand list at a special city meeting held in the town hall tonight with a half a hundred voters including several women present. This tax rate will net if collected in its entirety $366,882.37 this amount being less than the annual budget by $52,-407.11. Mayor Charles A. Gates, who presided at the meeting, indicated that it was hoped to make up the difference by means of sewer assessments and payments on sidewalk construction. There was but one vote taken on the resolution for 13 mills, which was introduced by Corporation Counsel William A. King. The warning was read by City Clerk Arthur L. Clark.

POTVIN GIVEN FEW HOURS TO TURN IN BOOKS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 28—George Potvin, prominent Putnam resident and ousted secretary of the L'Union St. Jean de Baptiste society of that place was given an extension of time until 8 o'clock this evening to turn over the secretarial books of the society to the president of the organization, pursuant to a mandatory injunction, at the superior court session held here today.

The case is one that has commanded considerable interest among French-speaking people in the eastern part of the state of— which reached a climax a few days ago when Potvin was ordered to appear in court on a charge of contempt of court for violation of the injunction ordered by Judge Edward M. Yeomans of Andover.

The trouble started last December when Potvin, as recording secretary of the society, a position which he has held for a quarter of a century, crossed the name of Alfred Bardier of Putnam from the roll call. Potvin claims to have done this in accordanbe with the society by-laws which set forth that any member convicted of a criminal violation of the constitution of the United States shall automatically be dropped from the roll. Bardier, in November of 1928, had been fined $400 and costs for violation of the liquor law in the lower court.

Despite the fact that a controversy was already simmering within the society, Potvin was re-elected recording secretary last February. The matter came to a head when the tribunal of the society met May 14. Potvin failed to appear before the tribunal as requested and the body, which acts as a society court, dismissed him from the secretaryship, appointing Adolphus Gregoire, then incumbent as treasurer, to the office. Gregoire to hold both offices.

Owing to its failure to secure the records from the ousted secretary, the society engaged the services of Attorney Louis Voisard who secured from Superior Court Yeomans a mandatory injunction to secure possession of the books from oPtvin. The injunction papers were served on Potvin by Deputy Sheriff Charles Ayers, June 18, but the order was not complied with and subsequently Judge Yeomans issued an order for the appearance of Potvin on a charge of contempt of court.

Today, State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford with Attorney Voisard and the accused met in conference in closed chambers and reported to Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin that an agreement had been reached whereby Potvin was to deliver the books to Origene Touchette, president of the society at Putnam before 8 o'clock in the evening, thereby securing an automatic nolle of the contempt of court charge.

It was intimated here today that while Potvin planned to comply with the order of the court he plans to institute action against the injunction and the vote of the society tribunal which dismisses him from the secretaryship.

A galaxy of events are being planned at Columbia to be staged the Fourth of July in observance of the 125th anniversary of the incorporation of the town which was once a part of the town of Lebanon and known as North society or "Lebanon Crank." Participating in the big celebration will be a representative of Dartmouth college in noting the fact that the New Hampshire institution developed from a school conducted in Lebanon Crank, now the town of Columbia. The school was then known as Moor's Indian Charity school for the education of Indian youth and was established by Rev. Eleazar Wheelock in 1754. It was named after Joshah Moor of Mansfield, who generally contributed to its support.

The celebration will feature an address on the college history by Robert C. Strong, executive assistant to the president of Dartmouth college. There will also be talks by George S. Godard, state librarian and Rabbi Samuel Price of Springfield. The affair will start in the forenoon with a band concert under leadership of Albert E. Lyman of Columbia. There will be exercises by the school children, followed by speaking. After lunch an historical pageant, The Road Beyond, written and coached by Miss Leila Church of Rockville will be staged. An historical exhibit will be held in the town hall from 11 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. The committee in charge of the day comprises Representative Hubert P. Collins, chairman; Mrs. Fannie Dixon Welch, secretary; Mrs. Cora L. Hutchins, Edward P. Lyman ad First Selectman Clair L. Robinson.

James J. Shea Post No. 119, American Lexion has received a beautiful set of colors presented by Francis S. Long Woman's Relief Corps, No. 28, through Mrs. Ellen Keith. The presentation was made at the meeting of the post held in the legion rooms on Jackson street Thursday night. The following delegates were elected to attend the eleventh annual state convention in Hartford, August 22, 23 and 24: Commander Dr. W. P. S. Keating; Adjutant Albert J. Piche; First Vice-Commander Lester H. Blish and Raymond F. Gates; alternates Roy W. Downer, T. Frank Cunningham, Jos. R. Morrison and Joseph Roux. The local post will lead the parade, this honor resulting in having obtained the largest number of new members during the past year.

Lucky Children Indeed, If Their Mothers Know and Serve

SHREDDED WHEAT

With all the bran of the whole wheat

Children don't have to be coaxed to eat it—they like the crisp, crunchy shreds of baked whole wheat. They have to chew it—and that means sound teeth and good digestion.

Paper inserts in each package offer a surprise for the children.

the Roosevelt

MARMON-BUILT

Nothing succeeds like

GIVING THE MOST FOR THE MONEY

THE Roosevelt is the biggest new success of 1929. The reason is the car itself—the simple, easily understood principle of giving the most for the money.

Compare the Roosevelt with any car at or near the $1000 figure on the basis of these important features:

Motor—Marmon-built straight-eight—70 H. P. Appearance—Wonderfully harmonious and correct. Easy riding—You can step from almost any car into the Roosevelt and get a thrill from the added comfort. Sturdiness—Built for the open spaces, the mountains and the deserts as well as the boulevards. Economy—In spite of its extra performance no car could be more "tight-fisted" in maintenance and operating costs.

Again we invite you—just compare. May we send a Roosevelt to you today?

A straight-eight for every purse—Roosevelt, $995; Marmon 68, $1465; Marmon 78, $1965. Prices at factory. Group equipment extra.

DANIELSON

MRS. ELIZ. WATERHOUSE DIES AT HOME IN ATTAWAUGAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 28—Mrs. Elizabeth Waterhouse, 71, a native of England, died today at the home in which she had lived in Attawaugan for the past 45 years. Mrs. Waterhouse was the widow of Edwin Waterhouse, who died a number of years ago. Mrs. Waterhouse came to this county from her home in England as a young woman. She leaves three daughters, Mrs. S. E. Watson of Putnam, Mrs. Howard Thyng of Chester, Pa., and Mrs. Clyde M. Hibbs of West Chester, Pa., and a son, Arthur E. Waterhouse of Attawaugan.

Frank A. Spaulding, veteran star route carrier between the Danielson and Brooklyn postoffices, will complete his work this week ending 38 years of service in that capacity and will be succeeded Monday morning by George Morna of Dayville, who now has the contract. In addition to his unfailingly faithful service Mr. Spaulding became noted for his courtesy and accommodation in doing errands for residents of Brooklyn while on his trips here, and likewise for doing similar favors for Danielson people in Brooklyn. Mr. Spaulding will be missed for many reasons. The public he has served in addition to serving the government directly appreciate what he has done through such a long term of years.

On Sunday John M. Dowe, Henry G. Gilbert and Earl G. Whipple will be at the Anawam club at Rehoboth, Mass., for the annual outing and clam bake of the Battery A Veterans' association.

The borough's plan to share with abutting property owners half the cost of building sidewalks where needed appears to have made a favorable impression on numbers of owners, for they regard the arrangement as a good bargain for themselves. Owners have two weeks in which to give notice that they would like to enter into an arrangement with the borough. It was said today that the actual building of walks could be undertaken in July and the work carried on so that many new walks would be completed before the cold weather season sets in.

Announcement is made of the marriage in Hartford Tuesday of Miss Mildred Elizabeth Ward of that city, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Ward, and Lawrence Francis Casey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Casey of the West Side. They are to make their home at 19 Vine street, Hartford, and are to be at home after July 5.

The senate of Pennsylvania state college has adopted the following minute relative to the death recently of Prof. Irving L. Foster, who attended school in this town prior to entering Brown university and who for upwards of thirty years was the head of the department of romance languages at Penn State college: "The senate of Pennsylvania State college view today in sorrow, yet with pride, the completed life of Dr. Irving Lysander Foster. Born of an ancestry whose roots run far back in our early colonial history, reared among the best of New England's traditions, he entered upon his work in this institution with all the enthusiasm of four-and-twenty, and after training in both American and German universities. Here for over a third of a century he has done his life's work, giving himself unstintingly and unselfishly to this college of his love. His life has been an open book, known and r— by all of us, while his home has been a synonym of hospitality to colleagues and students alike. Many-sided Christian gentleman, large hearted, generous citizen, scholarly, painstaking teacher, successful author and editor, sincere and loyal friend, he has passed; and in his passing we are poorer, everyone, but that he lived, the richer, richer far."

There were members and guests from Danielson this evening at a social affair at the Putnam Country club. Members of the committee in charge of the arrangements were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Ralph of Elmville, Mr. and Mrs. J. Dyer Potter of Putnam and Ray Greene of Plainfield.

Various young people from Danielson will be at Camp Adewanda in New Hampshire during the summer season. Miss Helen Atwood is one of the proprietors of this camp. Among those from Danielson already there are Sidney P. Mariand, Jr., and Francis Hammett. They are to be employed at the camp during the season.

A promotion to be a cadet sergeant has been won by Cadet Harry R. Boyd at the United States Military academy at West Point. Cadet Boyd is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Boyd of the West Side. Cadet Boyd is a graduate of Killingly high school. He will be graduated from West Point next June.

PUTNAM

LOCAL TAXI MEN ARE SATISFIED WITH NEW RULE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 28—All drivers of a local taxi organization returned to this city last evening after testifying before the public utilities commission in Hartford Thursday. The drivers reported that their testimony was favorably received by the commission and the passage of the new bill applying to this mode of transportation will not affect their business in any damaging manner. The passage of the new bill by the last session of the legislature brings all drivers operating public service vehicles under the jurisdiction of the public utilities commission, which was formerly managed and governed by the state department of motor vehicles.

The June number of the "Blue and White" banner Putnam high school periodical has been issued and distributed among the members of the Putnam high school student body. The final publication of the year 1929 is really a work of art and the members of the staff are to be commended for their efforts devoted to its interests. The volume is dedicated to the class of 1929 and contains a complete account of commencement, which closed last week. A large size photo of the staff and of the graduating class is contained in its pages. Leo J. Pominville, a member of the graduating class served as editor-in-chief of the banner this year.

In a cell for a day, was the fate of a rounder arrested Thursday for intoxication. The attentions of local court officials were demanded in Willimantic today at a session of superior court, necessitating that today's session of police court be carried over until Saturday.

In official circles today it was said that the last card of the common council in reconstructing the city water system has not been played. In a vote on the matter of floating a $65,000 bond issue to finance the water works, the council and water commission were defeated in their plans by a four vote majority of the people. The negative result of yesterday's vote leaves the water situation still a question and undoubtedly, if not settled before the close of the administration of the present city governing body, will become a platform issue in next fall's political campaign.

Mayor Charles A. Richard has made no statements concerning future plans of the council and Ralph E. Thurston, chairman of the board of water commissioners has made no statement concerning probable reconstruction plans of the next few months.

The defeat of the reconstruction plan, calling for the erection of the steel tank for storage supply today was credited to the supporters of the concrete reservoir plan of a year and a half ago. While the concrete plan of solution did not enter into yesterday's vote, the advocates of the former plan became a majority and refused to allow the plans of the water commission to be carried out.

Frederick Cournoyer, of Franklin, Mass., injured in a railroad mishap occurring last Friday morning in East Thompson was reported by the officials at the Day Kimball hospital as somewhat improved. Cournoyer is suffering from a fractured leg and jaw and internal injuries.

Captain of Police William J. Jarvis in company with Lieut. R. Urquhart and Officer Elton T. Nolan of Danielson state police barracks attended a special criminal session of superior court held today in Willimantic. The trio of officers were held in readiness to testify as to the character of the two youthful bandits Jerry Nelson and Wendell Hardy, who were arraigned on a bench warrant charged with theft and assault upon Donald Cockburn of Melrose, Mass. Nelson, whose record is extremely bad, was sentenced to the state prison to serve a term of six to ten years, while his confederate in crime was sentenced to the state reformatory at Cheshire. Captain Jarvis said tonight that James George, superintendent of the state industrial school in Manchester, N. H., armed with lengthy records of the two boys' character while at Manchester furnished the state with damaging evidence that resulted in the convictions.

Mrs. Irving H. Miron of Florence street made a business trip to Hartford Thursday.

Visitors at Henry Larkham's for the week end were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Silcox and children of Springfield, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. James Lathrop entertained their children and families on Sunday. Mrs. Lathrop returned as far as Meriden with their son, Parker of New Haven. She underwent an operation later in the week from which she is reported to be rallying satisfactorily. Her daughter, Miss Lydia Lathrop is with her.

Mrs. Dwight Bushnell is spending a week with her parents in Glastonbury.

A house party of young ladies at Mrs. Frank Nelson's breaks up this week after enjoying a two weeks outing. The guests were Miss Helen Nelson, Charlotte Fannis, Dorothy Stahr and Caroline Garrison, all of Lyndbrook, L. I.

Carlton Lovell of New York is spending part of his vacation at his home here. He plans to leave next week for Montreal to visit his sister, Mrs. Goddard who with her children will return with him to Canterbury. His mother, Mrs. Edward Lovell, will accompany him on the trip.

A Fourth of July celebration with a parade is being planned by Canterbury people, the gathering to be at Grange hall.

Alfred Smith of Washington, R. I., is visiting at the home of her niece, Mrs. Arthur Bennett.

A party and picnic were enjoyed at Henry Davis' home on Sunday in honor of the birthday of Mrs. Davis. The birthdays of three other people who were guests occurring near the same date made the celebration of unusual interest. These were Mrs. Ida Garland, Miss Nellie Corey and Mr. Charles Larkham an uncle of Mrs. Davis.

At the Carey cemetery on Sunday afternoon a committal service was conducted by Rev. Harry Small, when the remains of Asher P. Palmer were interred in the family lot. Mr. Palmer died last winter in Florida where the body was cremated. Attending the burial were a number of friends and relatives and the four surviving sisters, Mrs. Alida Weaver, Mrs. E. B. Latham, Mrs. Mary Chase and Miss Frances E. Palmer.

BE A HELPER.

At the convention of the New England fire chiefs at New Haven this week there was some valuable advice offered by James T. Delaney of Bridgeport, who urged the public to get in closer touch with fire department work, to know its own particular locality and to understand the value of knowing the location of the fire alarm box which serves it. He pointed out that the weakest link in the fight to reduce the fire losses of the nation is the average citizen, who will appropriate any amount of money necessary to maintain a high grade fire-fighting force, but will not pay enough personal attention to the situation to learn where the nearest fire alarm box is to his own home in order to summon the department in case of need.

The speaker declared that a department cannot function unless it is called and it is handicapped unless it knows where the fire is. He advocated educational courses in every community to teach the citizens how to assist the fire department.

This is all golden advice even though it has been set forth before. It is an old story that effective work by a fire department depends upon the early response, upon getting the proper location through telephone or alarm call, upon having the person who sends in an alarm do so correctly by pulling down the lever and then leaving it alone, and of course upon adequate equipment and an adequate force to meet the situation.

Further than that there is an equally valuable service which the public can render through preventive work. It is folly to insist upon a fire department working just because there is one. Most of the fires are needless and it behooves the average citizen to see that conditions do not exist which make them possible. It is a highly important service that the individual can render in preventing fires, but when fires do occur whatever contributes to the effectiveness of the fire fighters is equally important.

TAKING ANOTHER CHANCE.

Inasmuch as Premier MacDonald has served notice that the British government intends to recognize the soviet government of Russia it is to be expected that such a step will be taken. It is nothing new. The labor government when in power before considered it desirable to recognize Russia. It saw where it would be advantageous from the trade standpoint. Recognition followed and yet Great Britain failed to get the additional benefit that was anticipated. It proved to be the opening of the way for the soviet government to use its trade headquarters as the center for communistic intrigues and the spreading of bolshevist propaganda in the British isles, as the Baldwin government subsequently disclosed, and with the evidence in hand diplomatic relations were quickly broken and the soviets sent home.

Now the prime minister would start all over again. He is aware of the fact that Russia owes Great Britain a large sum of money but he is still thinking of the trade advantages which will come from a renewal of relations. Further than that he knows that the soviet government is the cause of much disturbance wherever there are British interests in the part of the world adjacent to Russia. With the step he proposes to take he is in hopes that this source of annoyance will cease.

If he stops to think he might realize that on his previous venture Russia used the resumption of diplomatic relations to spread communistic propaganda. That being so it might be expected that suspicion would rest upon the same government unless conditions have changed. Annoyance of British interests doesn't indicate that there has been a complete change from the past.

Thus it would appear that the MacDonald government was banking heavily on hopes without any definite assurances that the Russian market will be the means of ending the idleness in England or that it will mean an end to the menace which present relations are to British interest in countries to the south of Russia. It must enter the change with its eyes open and mindful of the experience which followed its previous venture in that direction.

A PREVENTABLE TOLL.

We may pause for a time over the automobile accidents which occur within our neighborhood and wonder when they are going to decrease, but how much serious thought do we give to the fact that there are 27,000 persons killed each year in this country?

That is a situation which may well cause us to stop and think. We are shocked by the killing of persons who fail to stop when commanded to halt by authorities, we are appalled by the taking of human life in conflict, we deplore the killings by gangsters and criminals and yet there are fatalities annually on our highways due to motor vehicle users equal to three quarters of the population of Norwich.

It should be our ambition to see a decrease in all of these but it would seem to be the easiest thing to bring about a reduction in the auto fatalities. This calls for the exercise of greater care, greater care on the part of both the drivers of automobiles and pedestrians, for a large proportion of the fatalities are preventable.

Through federal and state agencies efforts are made to ascertain to what extent mechanical deterioration is responsible for the fatalities. It is a good move for it is known that bad equipment is a menace. It is also known that many cars are operated with brakes which are useless, with lights that are defective, with other equipment which is not up to the requirements of the law or the standards of safety.

But even after all these precautions are taken there is still needed the all-important use of good judgment by the auto driver. Getting into a tight place from which it is impossible to escape without a collision with another car, a tree, or some obstruction is too often needless. It represents the lack of good judgment, the disposition to take changes, the failure to exercise due care which are to be found as the underlying cause of too many accidents and fatalities. It may involve only the driver but the chances are that it includes those with him and possibly others in the highway or another machine who are innocent participants but nevertheless subject to all the ill effects of the reckless driving. The yearly death rate from auto accidents is far too large. It is growing greater when it should be growing smaller.

ENTIRELY AVOIDABLE.

Whenever a locomotive crashes into an automobile, or an automobile plunges into a train, at a railroad crossing there are those who immediately set up a cry for the elimination of the crossing. Perhaps that is the ideal solution if it could be had for the asking and conditions justified the placing of the expense upon those who would have to bear it, but it is a plea which entirely ignores the facts.

Crossing conditions are dangerous. No one can deny that, but the great trouble lies in the way so many of the motorists ignore it. Crossings should be adequately protected, but the danger at such points should be respected. If that were done there would be fewer accidents and less fatalities.

It is a common sense view which the registrar of motor vehicles in Massachusetts takes in regard to the crossings. Following the tragedy at Sheffield, Mass., Registrar Parker considered it an occasion for giving a sharp warning to all motorists who drive carelessly and to point out that since December 1 there have been no less than seven of such entirely avoidable railroad crossing fatalities.

That indicates the opinion of the registrar concerning the Sheffield fatality. He would have motorists assume the responsibility which rests upon their shoulders. He points out that when the operator ends his own life, obviously no action can be taken, but when he survives, drastic measures will be taken by his office to drill it into his mind that if he is to continue to operate a car he must comply with that section of the motor vehicle law which requires slowing down at railroad crossings. He must remember no matter what the hour, no matter how familiar he may be with time tables, all times are "train time" at railroad crossings.

If motorists would bear that in mind and comply with it there would be a needed lessening of crossing fatalities. Those accidents are preventable and it rests with the motorists to provide the prevention by using that reasonable degree of care which draws a line between careful and careless driving and sticks to the right side of it.

WILL GERMANY RATIFY?

At the recent reparations conference at Paris there was the stiffest kind of opposition put up by the German delegates to the plans offered by the allied representatives. Germany sought and obtained important concessions. Its demands threatened to upset the conference at different times, but fortunately through compromises that was avoided and an agreement was reached which remains to be ratified.

Since the agreement, which takes the place of the Dawes agreement, there have been those in Germany who have voiced their opposition. They were not favorable to the plan before its acceptance in the conference and they have been keeping their opposition alive ever since in the apparent hope that they will be able to defeat it when it comes up for ratification.

Foreign Minister Stresemann has plainly told the reichstag that the Young plan wasn't a 100 per cent. victory for Germany. He did point out, however, that there are advantages in it for Germany over and above what exist at the present time. That benefit cannot be disregarded. It cannot be cast aside and he went so far as to say that if it was rejected it would cause a social and industrial crisis which would have a ruinous effect upon Germany's middle classes. Of course Germany wants the complete evacuation of the Rhineland. It expects to get it, and the foreign minister indicated that Germany would demand it in connection with its ratification of the Young plan. That will be an important point for adjustment by the allied nations with France occupying the leading position.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

As one approaches the long vacation period upon which our schools for the most part have now entered, he is surprised at the ever increasing number of vacation schools that have come into vogue in recent years. We believe that this is not a mere fad for the time being and will soon pass away. The reason for the existence of many of them is found in the exigencies of our modern life. Many of them are recreational, tending to reinvigorate the body while at the same time investigating some study that has only been introduced in the regular work. Many ideas are suggested during the term that cannot be fully treated because of lack of time, hence in some camp in the woods or at the seashore some of these phases of the school work can be taken up. These schools tend both to the health of the body and the mind.

The time is rapidly approaching when larger accommodation must be made in the Greeneville section of our city because the pupil attendance at present and for the increase that is expected at the beginning of the new school year will overcrowd the building. At the recent graduating exercises the audience was informed by the principal that the present building is crowded to capacity, and if there should be a very large increase in the fall they could not be accommodated. The large assembly room has already been made over into classrooms for the increased number of scholars. So that the full capacity has been reached. All thoughtful citizens will see that the only thing to do is to meet the situation. It may be hard to meet the situation, but let us remember that there is nothing that means more to any community than its boys and girls. Soon they, too, will become taxpayers and voters.

It goes without saying that even if our gardens have suffered from the drought, it is still an unpleasant fact that the weeds survived. Time and again crops have failed from lack of moisture, but has any dry weather continued so long in our northern latitude as to put a quietus upon the growth of weeds? As the writer is not a professional along agricultural lines, and therefore does not speak ex cathedra on the subject, still he is not stone blind, and has had some experience with the shovel and hoe. He also is aware that weeds have a diabolical way of making sport of his optimistic theology. They have an unpleasant way of making him feel that nature makes a great mistake in permitting weeds to grow, and not making our backs strong enough to fight them. This is somewhat offset in the pleasure of seeing weeds wilt and die as we whack them.

There is a passage in Scripture which says: "The wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad for them; and the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose." This quotation is not used in an attempt to say a good word for weeds, but to show that things apparently of little worth in themselves may become the basis of real value. It is a well-known fact that the section of Boston known as "The Back Bay," one of the most beautiful and valuable sections of the city, was years ago an unsightly old swale, a salt marsh over which the tides flowed and ebbed. We little think of this when we look at the Boston library, the Old South church and the splendid boulevards. There is no part of the American continent that gives such a vivid reality to Isaiah's words as this portion of the "Athens of America."

Is it not somewhat strange that uncertainty may create a condition of mind that gives us along some lines intense suffering, but along others great joy? Let me give an illustration of these two extremes: On one occasion, the writer of these notes was told that a certain party had been taken to the hospital for a serious operation. He visited that home as soon as he heard of it and learned that the outcome was a matter of grave doubt. He will never forget the face of that husband. He was not the type of man who blubbers and goes all to pieces when trouble comes. But his face! It could not have been more expressive of pain if he had undergone the operation himself. It was uncertainty that made him suffer. There are many parents of children whose whereabouts are unknown who would have greater peace of mind if they were assured of their death.

On the other hand, uncertainty gives a real zest to many of our pleasures. The recent Yale-Princeton baseball game in New Haven was nip and tuck until near the close of the fourth inning. If anything, the odds were in favor of the Yale team, but when a Princeton player made a home run the tide turned in favor of the visiting team. Then uncertainty began to intensify the interest. Suddenly Princeton made a bad error by means of which Yale forged ahead, and this increased the uncertainty and intensified the interest. And thus they swayed back and forth through ten innings until just a little fumble on the part of a Yale fielder was enough to throw the game by a single run in Princeton's favor.

Years ago the writer remembers to have heard Col. Thomas Wentworth Higginson, the Boston platform speaker, give a very thoughtful and spirited address before a college audience on the theme "After the High School—What?" The great speech was more appropriate to those days than to ours. Back in the 70's for most girls graduation from the high school spelt the word "finis" as far as school life was concerned. It was long before woman came to her own through the 19th amendment to our national constitution. It was a serious time for both boys and girls to whom a more liberal education was extremely attractive. There were colleges enough for the boys to go to, but in many cases the means were lacking. But the girls not only faced the same matter of financial means but that if general sentiment as to the feasibility of sending a girl to college. What use could she make of a liberal education?

There is one type of boy at this season of the year for whom I have the deepest sympathy, and that is the boy who would like to continue his education, but because of the family resources he feels that he must give aid to the family soppir. Were it not for this reason the means could be provided for his college course. In many of our leading colleges and universities there are funds from which deserving and capable students can draw, with the expectation that in after years they can refund the amount taken if they are financially able. But no pressure is put upon them. The amount lent is without interest, and the reason why the principal of the fund is not exhausted is because grateful and successful graduates in years after not only refund what they used but supplement the amount with generous interest.

Twice as many students are entering high school now as well enrolled ten years ago, the bureau of education finds. Virtually all children attend school until completion of the fifth grade, the bureau announces. Frank M. Phillips, chief of the division of statistics, directed the investigation into high school conditions. He says that of 1,000 pupils reaching the fifth grade in 1918, only 342 entered high school and 189 were graduated. In 1926 the latest year for which figures are available, 605 of every 1,000 pupils entered high school and 247 were graduated.

NEW SANITARY CODE IS SAVING THOUSANDS OF LIVES.

The miracle wand of modern medicine has performed one of its most amazing feats in Chile where, according to a compilation received in Washington today, application of the new sanitary code in Chile is saving each year the lives of 18,400 persons who, previous to 1925, would have died.

Few earthquakes or other calamities that command newspaper headlines take such toll of human life; and the rescue of a decimal fraction of that number of people from a shipwreck or a burning building would be first page news.

Quiet Work Brings Dramatic Results.

"The effective work which has wrought such changes in Chile, and in other South American countries, while spectacular in its results is carried on so quietly and modestly that it has attracted little attention," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Such a lessening of the death rate in a single country means a marked modification of the human geography and progress of that nation," the bulletin continues. "The way the medical scientist states it when he says that the death rate is reduced from 30.8 per 1000 people in 1925 to 23.7 in 1928, scarcely paints for the layman the picture of a fair-sized city being added to the country's population each year.

Dr. Long "Hero" of Rescue.

"The outstanding figure of this life-saving effort, the South Americans will tell you, is Dr. John D. Long, of the U. S. Public Health Service, in Washington, D. C. To that Dr. Long demurs, stating, 'It is the South American countries who are doing this work: we merely advise when we are called into consultation.'

"The instrumentality of the achievement is the Pan-American Sanitary bureau, an international agency formed at the Pan-American conference in Mexico in 1902, which is supported by quotas from all republics of the Pan-American union. Dr. Long, serving with that bureau, to which he is loaned by Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming of the U. S. Public Health Service, the bureau's executive head, has advised government after government about sanitary measures which are resulting in such rapid cuts in the death rates.

"The charters of the movement are the sanitary codes, such as that which Chile adopted in 1925. Bolivia is about to adopt a similar code making 18 republics which have signed the code. Twelve have ratified it. Bolivia has just created a ministry of health, and is taking other progressive steps to cut her death rate.

Uruguay Sets Record.

"Dr Long is leaving Washington this week for Panama. Later he will go to Colombia and Peru, at the invitation of those countries, where notable health conservation progress is being made. Before leaving Washington he reviewed some of the achievements of the South American countries in sanitation.

"Uruguay now has attained the lowest death rate of any country in South America, vieing with the United States in cutting its rate to approximately 12 deaths per 1,000 population. The country has pure drinking water, has installed sewage systems, and has excellent hospital facilities.

"These simple measures are the basis of the astounding saving of human lives. Chile, for example, achieved her dramatic results when 35 of her cities provided pure drinking water and installed modern sewage systems. A third factor in Chile's case was carrying the message of personal hygiene into homes by the 30 visiting nurses now working with the country's public health department.

These nurses are trained at a school connected with the University of Santiago—a pioneer in the training having been Miss Sara Adams of Winona, Minnesota.

"The work of the nurses has had its chief effect in lowering the infant mortality.

Coal City Atop Equator.

"Ecuador has a new health ministry. Quito already is a clean and healthful city, with a cool climate because of its altitude, despite the fact that it almost rides astride the equator. Guayaquil has attained a similar health status and the sanitary provisions that have made these cities healthful are spreading rapidly throughout the country.

"Peru has new pure water systems in its principal cities, sewage disposal is generally practiced, and President Leguia, by decree, has taken effective measures to combat the bubonic plague in even remote districts.

"Brazil showed its effective health organization when it took quick measures to stamp out the recent recrudescence of yellow fever and now has the epidemic under control.

Other Nations Also Benefit.

"The vigorous steps taken in South America rebound to the advantage of all other countries having communication with that continent, Dr. Long points out. The measures taken by the Pan-American Sanitary bureau eliminates disease at the source—the rational way to prevent their spread.

"The first attack on diseases has penetrated the strongholds of typhoid, the dysenteries, infant mortality and has been marked by a decrease in tuberculosis which so often follows from weakened resistance among those who have suffered from the other aforementioned causes.

"Though parts of it lie in the tropics, South America is peculiarly free from malignant or peculiar types of epidemics. In a few restricted areas occurs the eruptive disease, not found elsewhere, verruga, the cause of which is not yet known but which is being studied. Then there is the Chagos disease, transmitted by the insect 'il Barbero' so named by the natives because its striping suggests a miniature barber pole.

Honk of Auto Keeps Doctor Away

"One other major factor, aside from the simple sanitary measures mentioned, in the attack upon human disease, is good roads. Even the most ardent good roads enthusiast might not have thought that the honk of the motor horn helps keep the doctor away. But, Dr. Long explains, in backward areas many diseases follow in the wake of poor economic and social conditions. By enabling the native grower to get his goods to market the living standard rises and the death rate is lowered.

"In one South American country, Dr Long recalled, the government was criticized for heavy expenditure on new roads. The answer of the president quickly dissipated all opposition. He merely pointed out how many more bushels of potatoes had been hauled over the new highway to more profitable markets than ever crossed the old trails."

YOUR HEALTH

Day's "Maximum" Living Promotes Also Longevity.

By Theodore B. Appel, M. D., Secretary of Health Harrisburg, Penn.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

In this day and age more people are interested in how to live than they are in how to live longer. The fascination of every-day life tends to focus the general attention upon today's activities and pleasure rather than upon a consideration of the effect on the length of life that one's habits and customs are likely to develop.

While this attitude is a most natural one, it would nevertheless pay many thousands of people to stop and consider whether or not their present mode of daily existence is, as a matter of fact, offering them a maximum of pleasure and at the same time insuring them the abounding health and vitality that are really necessary to get the most out of each day for the greatest number of possible days.

Life is decidedly more than a daily proposition. It is an experience in which the individual usually has the say as to whether or not it is to be lived briefly or lengthy, healthy or otherwise, half-heartedly or with vigor.

Health department and other public health organizations can, and are, protecting the public against epidemics, bad water, impure milk and against many other factors that directly affect humanity in the mass. On the other hand, the individual is required to do his part intelligently and interestingly if the labors of the official organizations are to be of greatest benefit.

To live is a worthy ambition. However, to live zestfully and for a long time should be the aim of everyone. Therefore, do not permit the glamour of the day's activities so to distort the judgment that ill health or semi-invalidism results. Such a life is a failure, no matter what its achievements may be.

Any average twenty-four hour day's life that does not include eight hours sleep in a well ventilated room, exercise in the open air, a fair share of work and recreation, a proper amount of but not too much food, a sensible use, if used at all, of stimulants, and a consciousness of the necessity of attaining and maintaining health—such a day is a lost and personally a damaging one.

Live by all means but live daily at your best, for as long a time as you can. It is your job and your responsibility. Moreover, it is the real secret of a successful and happy life.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 28—In his Pilgrim dinner speech in London Ambassador Dawes uttered one statement that the Bystander believes never should be lost sight of on either side of the Atlantic.

Speaking of the failure thus far to reach an accord on methods for naval reductions, he said that British public opinion blamed the United States for that failure, while American opinion held British maneuvering for advantage responsible.

"The great overwhelming and soul satisfying fact about it," General Dawes added, "is that the British and American people are a unit in agreeing that whoever was responsible for it a mistake was made."

Augurs Well.

If that is the fact, and the Bystander has no doubt about it, eventual agreements that will permit all nations to reduce the heavy economic burden of naval armaments seem certain.

Just as the power of aroused public opinion compelled world acceptance of the Kellogg anti-war treaty, it can be relied upon to force ultimate scaling down of fighting fleets.

And there is one other things pressing toward such a result, so far as the United States and Great Britain are concerned, of which General Dawes did not speak.

That is the fact that the United States now is represented at the court of St. James by an ambassador specifically charged with the forwarding of the cause of naval limitations and reductions.

The only notable diplomatic achievement the former vice-president could hope to realize out of his new enlistment in the public service must be along that line. The Bystander never has doubted it was in realization of this, and because he confidently expected he could achieve success, that General Dawes took the London job.

Dawes Capable.

In the circumstances and also under the outline of negotiation procedure, patterned on the Dawes reparations settlement machinery plan, which the new ambassador discussed at the Pilgrim dinner, it is a little difficult to see where the projected personal visit of Prime Minister MacDonald to President Hoover would be a necessity to success of naval negotiations.

Some Washington observers already have made the cynical comment that General Dawes would not like to see any such development, as it might detract attention at home from his own efforts to solve the problem.

Who knows what a solution bearing the Dawes stamp might mean to the Dawes political future? He still will be below the three-score-and-ten mark in age when his party has to pick its next presidential nominee.

It was to be expected that Senator Borah would find the MacDonald-Dawes remarks on naval limitations disappointing. The Idahoan is historically on record as believing that only a treaty defining freedom of the seas could pave the way toward important reduction of fighting fleets.

That is just another of the points on which he is clear off the Hoover administration reservation.

Sunday Morning Talk

Conscience

It is a strange and solemn power which conscience wields. In your secret soul you commit a sin. It is a mere passing thought, perhaps. No human eye has seen it, no tongue will ever speak of it. Yet even in the dark you will blush at it. You are degraded in your own eyes. You feel guilty and wretched, and this guilty wretchedness does not pass away. It may at any time revive. Conscience comes to us in lonely hours. It awakens us in the night. It stands at the side of our bed and says: "Wake up and listen to me."

And here it holds us with its remorseless eye and buried sins rise out of the past. They march by in melancholy procession and we lie in terror looking at them. Nobody knows but God and ourselves. Next morning we go forth to business with a smiling face to cover the guilty conscience, knowing that true happiness has been sacrificed. O, that all would listen to this faithful friend. How much happier would be their lives as well as the lives of many others. How strange it is we take so long to heed this true guide, and how many never listen. And as what might be a noble life is destroyed.

Arm Chair Journeys To Other Lands

Superstitions in Portugal.

LISBON (AP)—The Portuguese always have been essentially superstitious, and among the peasants the belief in witchcraft in all its forms is as deep as it was in the middle ages.

One of the most widespread superstitions is that of the evil eye, against which one's clenched fist, with the thumb placed between the second and third fingers, is supposed to be the only defence.

Thus it is almost impossible to meet a child which has not a tiny clenched fist in gold or coral hung round its neck.

To spill ink or oil on the tablecloth, or should a glass crack without being touched, spells disaster; but to spill wine brings happiness, and everyone at the table should wet his finger in the spilled liquid and rub the back of his neck with it.

When visitors make too long a visit and the dinner threatens to spoil, cook seizes a broom and places it behind the door nearest the inopportune visitors. By this means she is convinced she will insure their speedy departure.

It is customary, especially in the country, for people to obtain a sheep's horn which must be placed inside the entry to their house so that those who enter may not see it, while "it" can see everyone who crosses the doorway.

The horn is supposed to have discerning powers, and should a false friend come there with evil intent, the horn knows of it immediately and frustrates that intention.

It is thought unlucky for a bride to lend her bridal veil, as the last one to wear it will take with it the happiness of the owner. At a wedding party, the girls who can place a pin in the bride's dress without the latter's knowledge, will marry within a year.

Certain animals are believed to bring bad luck, while others make for happiness. Among the former is the bluebottle, while the bull is a sure guarantee against the dread powers of witchcraft.

Swallows bring happiness; no one may catch or illtreat a swallow because a popular Portuguese legend says that when Jesus Christ was nailed to the Cross a swallow kept flying round him and little by little plucked away all the thorns that had entered his flesh from his crown. As a reward God promised that it should be beloved and protected by mankind.

IN DAY'S NEWS

Remote Chinese Plants Adorn American Park

Thousands of visitors who have marveled at the rainbow beauty of the rhododendrons in Golden Gate park, San Francisco, this spring may have been unaware that these graceful and colorful plants blossomed this year for the first time in the United States and that back of their introduction in this country is another epic story of heroic adventure of American plant hunters.

Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic society, has received from John McLaren, superintendent of the San Francisco park commissioners, a letter which, in part, tells the story of these flowers:

"Several years ago we received through your kindness a collection of rhododendron seeds, most of them having been gathered in western China by Dr. Joseph F. Rock under National Geographic society auspices.

"We were successful in germinating the majority of these seeds and for the past month or so many of them have been coming into blossom, for the first time in this country. These constitute both a striking color display and a very interesting botanical exhibit and will mark a new departure in the cult of the genus rhododendron locally.

"Many forms are yet too small to have borne flowers and it may be years before we are able to estimate fully the debt we owe to your society and to Dr. Rock."

The rest of the story—the chapter which embodies the adventures and dangers of plant hunting in remote world areas—is hinted by Dr. Rock in a letter received at the National Geographic society headquarters the same day. The letter was written in the "wild west" of China's Tibetan borderland, a region where Dr. Rock was the first explorer to enter many areas, and where he has discovered many new plants of economic value, revealed strange tribes, and studied ancient religious rites hitherto supposed of have been effaced from human rituals.

"During the summer while exploring we collected thousands of specimens of plants and earmarked such as would prove of value if introduced into the United States," Dr. Rock wrote. "When we returned to our base in the fall and requested the tribal king to exert his good influence with the outlaws of Mt. Koubo he was obliged to decline for various reasons. He did, however, grant us permission to go as far as the foot of one of the peaks.

"Half way to the region a runner overtook us with a letter from the king and one from a bandit addressed to the king. It happened that after our second tour of Mt. Kouka in August a severe hailstorm destroyed the barley fields of a tribe that lived to the southeast. This calamity they attributed to the displeasure of the residing deities in the snow peaks, caused by our collecting plants and birds and our climbing about those sacred peaks. They said they had planned to rob us on our second visit but now they would kill us. So the king exhorted me not to go near the mountains."

Apparently it was not the menace of the superstitious tribesmen that kept Dr. Rock from visiting the region again for he adds, in matter-of-fact fashion:

"We then found the bridge leading across the river into Kouka territory burned, so this prevented us from going even to the base of the mountain."

One of Dr. Rock's memorable contributions to science was the location of the chaulmoogra tree, the oil of which arrests the progress of leprosy, and which is so successfully used now that the number of patients in various leper colonies has been materially reduced. Later, while heading an expedition of the National Geographic society, Dr. Rock sent back to this country a blight-resisting chestnut tree which is being experimented with by the department of agriculture as a means of reforesting chestnut areas devastated by the blight.

A complete set of the Choni classic writings, hand-bound between pine board covers, deposited in the library of congress, in Washington, attests one of Dr. Rock's most important discoveries; his explorations among the people of an ancient Tibetan principality, ruled by an hereditary prince, the existence of which was unknown to the Chinese themselves. It was at a Choni lamasery that Dr. Rock located printing blocks of the Kandjur and Tandjur, chief Tibetan classics, and effected the preservation of a set of the two classics which are of priceless value in a study of world religions.

NEW RAILROAD TAPS RICH BORDER REGION

PRESIDIO, Tex., (AP)—Presidio is to become the United States terminus of a railway extension that will link the Mexican border directly with mid-western routes.

The construction of a 90-mile road by the Orient system, a subsidiary of the Santa Fe, will connect this border town with Alpine, Tex., thus allowing a direct haul of Rio Grande valley products to metropolitan markets.

Approval of the interstate commerce commission and directors of the Orient road has been granted. Nearly $8,000,000 will be spent for this extension.

The new line will give Presidio its first rail outlet and will make the town an American gateway for products of northern Mexico. It may be the preliminary step toward placing Presidio on what may become eventually the shortest rail route from the middle west to the Pacific coast.

The Orient line of Mexico already operates 178 miles to Chihuahua, Mexico, from Ojinaga, across the river from Presidio. Completion of a rail line from Chihuahua to Topolobampo on the Pacific would cout nearly 1,500 miles from present routes to the coast.

An outlet for numerous minerals produced in the Presidio area, likewise is seen in the new extension. The largest silver lead mine in Texas is located just north of the town.

An undersea well in the Persian gulf gives forth water. That water is the only source of supply for the city of Bahrein. Divers equipped with waterproof bags descend into the depths, swiftly fill their water bags from this gushing spring and come back with sweet drinking water for the inhabitants of the hottest spot on earth.

Amazing Discovery Relieves Aching, Swollen Feet Instantly!

Here's a marvelous new prescription which instantly takes the sting and ache out of tired feet. Relieves pain, cools and comforts the moment the balm is applied because it penetrates immediately, carrying the antiseptic, healing, germ-killing medication direct to the irritated, inflamed tissue.

Known as McCulloch's Foot Balm this wonderful preparation combines other valuable medication with organic iodine (odorless and stainless)—a recent and amazing scientific discovery.

Don't suffer swollen, aching feet any longer. McCulloch's Foot Balm gives just the relief you have long sought but never found before. It is entirely different from and far superior to any before on the market. It is SURE to help you. Sold on money-back basis, by all good druggists.

THE BULLETIN COMPANY

MAKES CHANGES FOR HOLDING COURT SESSIONS

Changes recently made for holding superior court sessions in New London county as well as other counties throughout the state as well as changes in the procedure of criminal and civil business in the superior court here and noted with the new allotments of the judges of that court. The changes go into effect with the fall session.

In connection with this county the session for the transaction of civil and criminal business for the years 1929-1930 is noted in orders received by Clerk John H. Walker as follows:

In the county of New London at New London (with sessions at Norwich as indicated below).

In each of the foregoing counties the fall session shall start with short calendar on September 18, 1929, and continue, with recess from December 20, 1929, to December 26, 1929, to and including January 2, 1930; the winter session shall start with short calendar January 3, 1930, and continue to and including March 27, 1930; the spring session shall start with short calendar March 29, 1930, and continue to and including June 27, 1930. In counties where more than one judge is officiating, the judge who is to hold the short calendar is designated. Judges will transact court or jury business as, in their discretion, the state of the trial lists require.

In each of said counties sessions for the transaction of criminal business shall be held as indicated below. At each such session, upon the conclusion of the criminal business before said court, or during a recess of the court in the disposition of such criminal business, civil jury business may be disposed of before the same or another jury duly summoned, or if the jury business shall not be ready, civil business to the court.

New London County

The schedule received by Clerk Walker shows the following sessions which are to be held in New London county as follows:

Fall session, 1929:

Simpson, J.—(short calendar), at Norwich, subject to criminal session at Norwich September 17th and adjourning to New London November 1st.

Winter session, 1930:

Avery, J.—At Norwich, subject to criminal session January 7th and adjourning to New London January 21st.

Spring session, 1930:

Brown, J.—At New London subject to criminal session May 6th, and also to criminal and civil sessions in Tolland June 3rd, returning to Norwich.

Criminal sessions:

Simpson, J.—Third Tuesday in September (Sept. 17), 1929.

Avery, J.—First Tuesday in January (Jan. 7), 1930, Norwich.

Brown, J.—First Tuesday in May (May 6), 1930, New London.

Judge Allyn L. Brown

Judge Allyn L. Brown of this city, a superior court judge, according to the allotments of the judges of that court will preside in the various counties as follows:

September 18, 1929, fall session at Hartford with short calendar subject to criminal session (Hartford) December 3, 1929.

January 3, 1930, winter session at Bridgeport subject to criminal session at Bridgeport February 18, 1930.

March 28, 1930, spring session at New London subject to criminal session at New London May 6, 1930 and also subject to criminal civil session in Tolland June 3, 1930, adjourning to Norwich when the state of business requires.

Judge C. L. Avery

Another New London county judge, Christopher L. Avery, is scheduled to preside as follows:

September 18, 1929, fall session at New Haven with short calendar.

ALABAMA HEN LAYS EGG WORTH CACKLING ABOUT

MONTGOMERY, Ala., (AP)—A White Wyandotte hen belonging to S. O. Armstrong, Montgomery poultry raiser, has a mark for contemporaries to shoot at.

Curious at a prolonged setting, Armstrong routed the hen from her nest to find an enormous egg—twice the weight and size of a normal hen egg.

Breaking it, he discovered another completely formed egg on the inside. The outer egg was perfect in every respect except that the yolk was missing. The inner egg had a shell of darker color but was none the less firm. It contained a yolk.

BOY SOPRANO RENDERS BEAUTIFUL ARIA PROGRAMME

An audience of good proportions at Christ Episcopal church on Friday evening heard with keenest enjoyment the programme of sacred arias presented by Master Clawson Beswick Van Siclen of Philadelphia, the twelve year old boy soprano pupil of Ernest Felix Potter, a former organist and choirmaster at the church.

His beautiful voice of bell-like clarity was heard in four numbers which included With Verdure Clad from The Creation by Haydn, Hear Ye Israel from Mendelssohn's Elijah, The Cantique de Noel, a Christmas song, by Adolphe Adam, and the aria, These Are They from Gaul's Holy City.

Mr. Potter, who was the accompanist for the young artist added to the pleasure of the evening with several organ selections. He first gave the Pilgrim's Chorus, followed this with Festival March of his own composition and Chopin's E flat Nocturne, and closed the programme with an improvisation.

Both the singer and the organist were warmly congratulated by a large number in the audience at the close of the programme.

STATE GIVES WARNING ON BOOTLEG INSURANCE

The problem of unauthorized or bootleg insurance has again come to the fore with the receipt of complaints by the Connecticut Insurance department that companies not licensed to do business in Connecticut are flooding the state with pamphlets soliciting the insurance business of Connecticut residents. This is especially so in the case of Conecticut physicians and surgeons who are flooded with all sort of literature of life, health and accident companies which offer insurance for small premiums.

These companies, it has been found on investigation, are very limited in resources, most of them being capitalized under $100,000. Insurance Commissioner Howard P. Dunham urges prospective buyers of insurance to check up on the companies which solicit business through the mail, the radio and advertisements. Under a new law passed by the legislature during its recent session it is unlawful for any corporation or individual to aid unlicensed companies to obtain business in this state by publishing their advertisements or by any other means.

"Our advise to the citizens of Connecticut," says Commissioner Dunham, "is not to transact any business with a company not authorized in this state. In the case of a claim against a company not authorized, it would be difficult to bring suit and there are other inconveniences aside from the fact that there must be some good reason why these companies have not been admitted to transact business in Connecticut. We of course require certain standards of solvency before we admit any insurance company to do business in this state.

"Companies not licensed to do business in Connecticut do not make annual reports to the insurance department. This office is therefore unable to furnish information on the financial standing of these companies.

"No responsible agent will represent a company which is not licensed in this state, knowing that the Connecticut law provides a heavy fine and term of imprisonment for any agent convicted of placing insurance in any company not authorized to do business in Connecticut.

"Unauthorized companies have no advantages to offer the public which the duly licensed companies do not extend. The admitted companies are held responsible for all legitimate claims in each state in which they are licensed to operate, whereas the unauthorized company is not subject to supervision or regulation, being beyond the law. To bring suit against an unauthorized company is a difficult matter. When a company is admitted to do business in Connecticut, it is required by law to first appoint in writing the insurance commissioner to be its attorney in this state, upon whom all lawful process, in any action or proceeding against it, may be served with the same effect as if the company, corporation or association existed in this state. Not being licensed in Connecticut the unauthorized company cannot be sued in this state. The action must be brought in the state in which it is incorporated, or in which it is licensed. This, it is plain, is an involved process and for the average person an almost insurmountable obstacle.

"With so many regularly licensed companies doing business in Connecticut, meeting all the requirements of the state, there is no need for any person buying bootleg insurance, which, like another brand of bootleg stuff, is dangerous and futile. The unauthorized company may offer lower rates which may appeal to some as getting insurance cheap, but it is very dear insurance, as many have found out to their disadvantage."

WEDDINGS

Keene-Curtis

Merton W. Keene of Groton, son of David B. Keene and Margaret Sears Kane, and a native of Sangerville, Me., and Mrs. Blanche N. Curtis of New London, daughter of Ralph Kane and Mrs. Annie Glidden Kane, a native of Montville, Me., were married Wednesday in New London at the parsonage of the Second Congregational church by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, D. D., minister of the church. The couple expect to make their home at 34 Spicer avenue, Groton.

Smith-Rogers

Miss Jessie L. Rogers, daughter of Mrs. Fannie Rogers of Quaker Hill, and Andrew W. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew F. Smith of Thames View, Quaker Hill, were married on Thursday at noon at the parsonage of the Quaker Hill Baptist church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Herbert L. Hutchins with the bride's mother and grandmother, Mrs. Minnie Wilkinson as the only witnesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith left immediately after the ceremony on an unannounced wedding trip.

The bride has been employed as instructor of domestic science at Chapman Technical high school during the past year. Mr. Smith is a building contractor.

News of the wedding came as a great surprise to the many friends of the young couple.

The 30th annual reception and business meeting of the Alumni association of the Hope Valley high school was held recently. A good attendance, a pleasing program, an excellent supper and a happy social hour were features of the gathering.

28 BOYS GET BUTTONS TO SHOW RESULTS OF LEARN-TO-SWIM WEEK

Learn-to-swim week at the Young Men's Christian association was brought to a close Friday night with 28 boys receiving buttons for learning to swim the width of the pool or farther. Some of the boys who learned faster than the others swam the length of the pool and did a little diving.

There were about 100 spectators present, most of whom were parents of the boys who were taking part in the demonstration. Each boy was given opportunity to display his skill in swimming and diving and when he did his stunt his chest came out several inches.

The local Red Cross life saving corps was on hand to help handle the boys when they got into trouble.

The races were interesting among the juniors and intermediates. The outstanding events were the boys swimming with lighted candles, and the spoon and egg race. There were several realy races which were very close and exciting.

Demonstrations of life saving were put on, and the beginners as well as the spectators were given an idea of what it really means to be able to swim well enough not only to save your own life, but to be able to save the lives of others.

Below are the names of the boys who received buttons from William Steuber who is captain of the Red Cross life saving corp of Norwich.

The buttons were presented to the following boys by Capt. William Steuber of the Red Cross life saving corps of Norwich:

An unscheduled event which furnished a closing climax for the evening came when a number of the life savers surprised Physical Director J. Howard Demarest by grabbing him and tossing him into the tank, clothes and all.

POLICE ONLY CITY EMPLOYES TO WORK 9-HOUR DAY

Members of the Norwich police force who are interested in having their working week shortened from seven to six days call attention to the fact that they are the only employes in any city department who work a 9 hour day, all others having an 8 hour day.

This gives them a total of 63 hours in the week in contrast to the 48 hours by employes in other departments and coupled with the overtime for attendance at court or in emergency cases, for which they receive no pay, is presented as a reason why their claim for a 6 day week deserves to be granted.

For St. Peter's Day

There will be celebration of holy communion at 10:30 a. m. on Saturday at Grace Episcopal church, Yantic, for St. Peter's day.

Robert Smith of South Manchester, who recently bought the James Rutherford place in Andover, is making extensive improvements on the house.

DECLARES TIME PLAYS HAVOC WITH GRAVESTONES

In the discussion concerning the restoration and preservation of the first burial ground in Norwich, located at Norwich Town, Mrs. Edna Miner Rogers contributes to The Bulletin some comment upon the gravestones in the old cemetery and the effect the passage of time would have upon them.

Mrs. Rogers writes as follows:

There has been some misapprehension, perhaps, in regard to gravestones in the First Burial Ground in Norwich, Conn.; the large majority of burials here was between the years 1661 and 1700.

The little settlement, then in its infancy, was struggling to establish itself in the wilderness and only absolutely necessary things could be obtained.

The early records of the town have not as yet, shown the name of any stone-cutter and the early graves were marked only by rough stones placed at head and foot.

Even if, towards 1700, an attempt was made to shape the stones, only crude lettering or dates could have been graven on them.

A visitation of many old cemeteries in the past twenty years and the examination of the oldest stones in the Second Burial Ground at Norwich Town, all prove this, and an old burial place in Montville showing the changes in gravestones with the march of time, illustrates the development from the earliest markers.

This burial lot is about one hundred feet square, enclosed now by a stone wall; there are many graves all through this lot, and some forty or fifty are marked only by rough stones, some of them four inches thick, placed at head and foot.

For over one hundred and fifty years this farm was in the possession of only two families but is now owned by a man who is no kin to any buried here, and is of a different nationality, but ever since he has owned the place, he has mowed the grass and cared for this burial lot. Instances of such care as this are very unusual and this owner deserves especial commendation for his respect for the resting place of those long since passed away.

A few of the graves are marked by roughly shaped stones, crudely inscribed, and these stones were evidently taken from an adjoining field. The letters, G D, E D, & I D, which appear on them, commemorate people who died between the years 1712 and 1715, as learned from the church records; the only one with a date is marked "D D 1732". Then of later years, there is a brown stone dated 1833, and later still a marble one erected 1887. Thus in one lot, is shown the changes from the earliest manner of marking graves, down to the time when white marble came into common use.

The earliest inscribed stone in the Second Burial Place of Norwich, or the Norwich Town Cemetery as it is called, is that of Deacon Simon Huntington one of the Founders of Norwich, who died in 1706; this is a rough stone crudely inscribed. Similar stones mark the graves of Deacon Thomas Adgate who died in 1707, Thomas Waterman who died in 1708, John Post who died in 1710 and Stephen Gifford who died in 1724, all among the founders of the town.

Some years ago, these stones were fast becoming undecipherable, and the Huntington family had the Huntington stones re-cut, while the Society of Founders of Norwich, Conn., had the others re-cut, thus preserving them for many years to come.

Not until 1721, is a stone found with better shape and better engraving; this is the gravestone of Mrs. Sarah, late wife of Deacon Simon Huntington, who died Jan. ye 4th and in ye 88th year of her age.

After this date, the stones appear of this type for some time, as that of Capt. Richard Bushnell, who died in 1727, Theophilus Abel who died in 1724, Caleb Abel who died in 1731, and many others. This was followed by the broad-winged face type, mentioned by Miss Caulkins, on page 131 of the 1874 edition of her History of Norwich, Conn.

Miss Caulkins lived part of her life in Norwich and for many years collected data for her history of the town. She says that in the Gager part of the First Burial Place, "Several rude head-stones, with initials and perhaps a date, were formerly to be seen here, but the only regular gravestone known to have been set in this burial-place was that of Mr. Samuel Gager, who died in 1740, "and in accordance with his special request was laid here by the side of his ancestors. His monumental slab, with a broad-winged face graven at the top, overshadowing the inscription, was standing, though in a broken and leaning condition, tottering to its fall, in the year 1825, when the following epitaph was taken from it." Miss Caulkins herself, undoubtedly copied this inscription; she copied many inscriptions from old cemeteries in New London county and this manuscript record is still extant; she adds, evidently at a later date, "A few fragments are all that now remain of this stone, and no other inscribed blocks, or the suggestive memorials of grassy hillocks, remain to indicate the treasures that have here been deposited."

This Gager stone is said to have been in existence as late as 1839.

So there never has been any intentional desecration or destruction of gravestones in the First Burial Place. The rough, mostly uninscribed stones, sank into the ground and the mounds were leveled by time and forces of nature. If a stone were ploughed up there occasionally, who would care to assert positively, that such a stone ever marked a grave?

To learn how quickly a fallen stone disappears, one has only to visit the City cemetery on Oak street, and see the fate of gravestones there.

This First Burial Place has been known to many and is still known to some, but like many other things, it has been taken for granted that it would always remain the peaceful, lovely spot that it was. It is hoped that now the subject has been brought up, the townspeople of Norwich will unite in preserving this spot, sacred to the founders of Norwich, and Captain John Mason.

HARLAND ROAD PROPERTY OWNER TAKES APPEAL

Another suit against State Highway Commissioner John A. MacDonald has resulted because of the re-establishment of boundary lines, this one being brought on an appeal to the superior court by Michael F. Campion of 27 Golden street. Campion is the owner of a tract of land on Harland road, leading from Norwich Town to Taftville, and complains that the state highway commissioner is proceeding illegally in the action that has been taken.

Campion's complaint further recites:

That Section 49, Chapter 263 of the Public Acts of 1925 provides in part: "and all title within such limits or boundaries shall pass to the state unless changed by the superior court on appeal taken within sixty days from the date of the filing of such map or maps, by any person or town affected thereby."

That your petitioner is aggrieved by such alleged or illegal doings of the state highway commissioner of the stateof Connecticut, beause

(a). Section 49, Chapter 263 of the Public Acts of 1925 is unconstitutional, there being no power given for the enactment of such a statute in either the provisions of the constitution of the state of Connecticut or the constitution of the United States.

(b) That said state highway commissioner in this proceeding is attempting to take the property of the petitioner without due process of law.

(c) That said state highway commissioner has by his illegal doings and proceedings, hereinbefore alleged, caused to be cast a cloud upon the title to the land of the petitioner to his great damage and loss.

(d) That said state highway commissioner has proceeded to illegally confiscate the property of the petitioner without showing the basis for his claim and title to the land in question.

(e) That if he said alleged acts and doings of the state highway commissioner be allowed to stand and prevail, the petitioner will suffer the loss of a large portion of his property and the part remaining and adjacent thereto will be greatly diminished in value.

(f) That the petitioner and his predecessors in title have been in possession of said land for many generations and that if the title to said land is to put in issue, it should be upon a complaint containing appropriate allegations setting forth the source and strength of the title of the state of Connecticut.

(g) That this illegal proceedings of the state highway commissioner has put upon the petitioner an unfair burden of preceeding to establish title to property, the record title of which stands in the name of the petitioner.

(h) That the accuracy of the pretended survey and the lines put upon said map are not verified by any person.

(i) That this proceeding is an abortive attempt to exercise the right of eminent domain.

(j) That the state is attempting to appropriate the petitioner's property for public use without paying just compensation therefor.

(k) That the provisions of Section 49, Chapter 263 of the Public Acts of 1925 make it mandatory for the state highway commissioner to proceed under Sections 35, 36 and 37 of the Public Acts of 1925, or enter an agreement with the petitioner concerning said highway lines.

6. That your petitioner, being so aggrieved, does hereby, within sixty days from the date of the filing of said maps, petition and appeal to this court for such relief from the aforesaid acts and doings of the state highway commissioner as shall do just and equitable in the premises.

NO CRIMINAL LIABILITY FOUND AGAINST DRIVER

No criminal liability attaches to Clifton H. Whitaker of New Bedford, according to a finding by Coroner Edward G. McKay, in the case of the death on June 14, of Constance Maine, 8, who was killed in front of her home in the town of Stonington when struck by an automobile driven by Whitaker and owned by George A. Emin of New Bedford.

The Maine house is on the Shore road, about midway between Stonington and Westerly, where there is something of a grade. Whitaker was driving towards Westerly at the time of the accident.

In his finding Coroner McKay says in part:

As Whitaker started down the aforementioned grade leading past the Maine house he was following at the end of a line of traffic going northeasterly. The car preceding him was at a distance of about 100 feet. He was then going at a speed estimated at between 30 and 35 miles per hour. His car was running near the right center of the concrete surface along the usual course. On the side opposite to that along which he was going there was a Ford touring car; this latter car was stopped near the mail boxes opposite the Maine house with the right hand wheels on the northwest shoulder. In the rear of the Ford and at a distance of about 150 feet another automobile driven by Dr. Atwood of Stonington was proceeding southwesterly coming toward the Ford and the car that Whitaker was driving.

As Whitaker came to a point abreast of the Ford car the deceased, Constance Maine, came from behind the Ford and started to cross the street to her home on the opposite side. She was struck by the left front wheel and mudguard of the Whitaker car carried along a short distance and then was thrown under the car. The car passed over her and stopped a short distance beyond. The occupants of the Atwood car which came to a stop went to the child's assistance and with the help of Whitaker took her to her home. Medical treatment was rendered to the injured girl, but her injuries were of a fatal nature and she expired shortly afterwards.

Previous to the accident Constance had attended school and had been brought from there by Mrs. Gavitt in her Ford touring car. When Mrs. Gavitt stopped in front of the Maine house Constance left the car and went to the rear of the car apparently for the reason that she might watch for vehicular traffic that might be over-taking the Ford car. When she reached the rear of the Ford there was then no car coming from the northeast close enough to endanger her safe passage across the street. However, the Atwood car was approaching at a distance of about 150 feet but as far as this car was concerned she had ample time to cross. In all probability her attention was centered on the progress of the Atwood car because this car would be in her vision while she was going along the side of the Ford to the rear of it. In order to pass before the Atwood car came up she went by the rear of the Ford and was about in the middle of the road when the Whitaker car was upon her. It appears from the evidence that she must have turned toward the Whitaker car just before the impact.

Measurements on the highway taken after the collision disclosed that the child was picked up about 87 feet from the probable point of contact; the car that struck her was then about twenty feet beyond. Tests made of the brakes of the car afterwards showed that the foot brakes did not operate so that full braking power was applied to the wheels. The emergency brake was in very good condition, but was not used. However, the condition of the brakes did not contribute materially to the collision because the injuries were sustained before the brakes could be applied.

This unfortunate fatality evokes profound sympathy for those concerned, both for the family of the deceased and for the young driver. However, the evidence in this case does not substantiate a finding of criminal negligence on the part of anyone. The rate of speed at which the Whitaker car was traveling was not excessive under the circumstances, and Whitaker was not operating the car in a reckless and wanton disregard for the rights of others. The section of the road was open with no intersecting roads nor any congested areas.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Thomas H. Beckley

Mrs. Mary Ann Sheridan, wife of Thomas H. Beckley, died Friday afternoon at her home, No. 35 Lincoln avenue. She had been in failing health for over a year, but was only critically ill for about three months.

Mrs. Beckley was born in Wareham, Mass., Feb. 9, 1861, the daughter of John and Bridget Sheridan, and came to Norwich as a very young child, residing here ever since. In St. Patrick's church on Feb. 20, 1883, she was united in marriage with Thomas H. Beckley by the Rev. P. P. Shahan.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Beckley is survived by one son, John H. Beckley of Buffalo, N. Y., and three daughters, the Misses Elizabeth G. and Mollie A. Beckley and Mrs. Charles W. Frink, all of Norwich. She also leaves three sisters, Mrs. William J. McKnight, and Mrs. Nellie S. McHale, of Norwich, and Mrs. Charles A. Driscoll of Hartford and two brothers, Philip H. Sheridan of Norwich and John Sheridan of New London.

Mrs. Beckley was a member of St. Patrick's church and a former president of the Catholic Woman's club.

FORD WOULD HAVE EMPLOYES BETWEEN 35 & 60 YEARS OF AGE

PHILADELPHIA, June 28—(AP)—Henry Ford, in the July issue of the Ladies' Home Journal, says that he should prefer, if he could make the choice, to have all his employes between 35 and 60 years of age.

"For then," the automobile manufacturer adds, "we should have a stable and experienced force. We would not care how much over 60 the men were so long as they could do their work."

"Under no circumstances would we have a working force made up of only young men," Ford says. "It is absolutely necessary, in order to get the work through, to have a solid framework of older and more experienced men who know exactly what they are doing.

"It is not to be expected that a man of 70 will have as much endurance as one of 25. It is not at all necessary that he should have, for by the time a man has reached 70 he ought to have some thing a great deal more valuable than physical strength.

"The records of the employment department show that the work which calls for endurance is best served as a rule by men who are forty and over. Younger men seem to tire of jobs of this kind rather quickly and want to be transferred to lighter work."

"Having lived a number of years," Ford says, "is a great advantage to anyone if those years have brought a background of experience. It is usual to associate age with years only because so many men and woman somewhere along in what is called middle age stop trying. They let themselves be old."

DIFFERENCE OF OPINION ON TARIFF ON LEATHER

WASHINGTON, June 28—(AP)—Martin Loewenberger, of New York, who represented the national council of American Importers and Traders, told a senate sub-committee today that the American shoe industry was prosperous and needed no tariff.

On the other hand, several others in the shoe industry spoke for a tariff and presented a different picture of conditions.

D. G. Ong, of New York, representing the United States Leather company, largest domestic tanners of sole and belting leather, declared that he favored a 15 per cent duty on leather if a duty of ten per cent is to be levied on hides. He said the duty on hides would be reflected in higher prices for shoes and other leather products.

J. F. McElwain, of Boston, representing the tariff commission of the National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' association, declared that the association agreed to the proposed duty on hides and leather as the "most acceptable compromise possible and not because it believes them ideal." The association opposed the hides duty before the house ways and means committee.

SENTENCED TO DEATH FOR SLAYING EMPLOYER

LOS ANGELES, June 28—(AP)—John L. Howard, was convicted of first degree murder by a jury in superior court here today. Howard attacked Victor A. Cooley, Pasadena, Calif., automobile man, and his employer, with a hammer on April 16. Cooley died four days later. Howard, on Monday, will be sentenced to death on the gallows.

J. B. MARTIN TEAM PLAYS CORBIN TEAM AND CROMPTON-KNOWLES OVER WEEKEND

The J. B. Martin club will play two hard games over the week end clashing with the Crompton-Knowles team of Worcester in the annual game this afternoon and with the Corbin Red Sox on Sunday.

The Loommakers are sending down their strongest and are out for revenge, as great rivalry exists between these two clubs every season.

Their lineup consists of Flynn or King to do the backstop work with Donnelly for mound duty, Tisdell will cover first, Campbell who needs no introduction to the fans in this territory having played with the Velvetmen last season will be seen at second, Savaria at third with Coyle at short. The outfield will be taken care of by Nawn, Dumas and Canavan. Little needs to be said in regards to the last mentioned as the fans in this vicinity are aware of his baseball ability, having performed for the fast K of C. club of Norwich in 1923.

After being defeated last season by a close score the Velvetmen will put their strongest lineup against the Loommakers and are confident that they will return to Worcester on the short end of the score. The J. B. Martin lineup for Saturday will be Murphy or Eccleston c, Brown p, Murphy 1b, Dembroski 2b, Liberty 3b, Krauss ss, outfield, Lemieux, Martin and Liberty.

DOW AHERN LOSES 27TH HOLE TO REID

NEW HAVEN, June 28—(AP)—The defending champion and a four-time contender moved into the finals of the 30th state golf championship, today, at the New Haven Country club with Paul Haviland, Brooklawn, holder of the crown, a favorite to repeat tomorrow in a 36 hole match against W. "Ken" Reid, Farmington.

On the face of past performances and added experience of tournament play in his favor, Haviland is conceded an edge over Reid who is considered to be at a disadvantage after having pulled victory out of the fire against Dow Ahern, Willimantic, in the penultimate round by holing a six foot putt on the 27th green, for a par three and the match.

Entering his first big tourney the Willimantic youth of 18 summers, matched his iron nerve against that of Reid over the last nine extra holes and failed like a true veteran at a crucial stage because he misjudged his distance against a strong head wind on the short ninth as his opponent's ball rested 15 feet from the pin. Needing a three for a half Ahern gallantly tried to square up the match with a 25 foot putt but fell inches short.

Championship Flight.

Quarter finals:

Paul Haviland, Brooklawn, defeated Fred Jarvis, Jr., Goodwin Park, 3 and 2.

J. J. Geoghegan, Middletown, defeated W. Parker Seeley, Brooklawn, 2 and 1.

W. K. Reid, Farmington, defeated C. C. Elwell, Jr., New Haven, 3 and 1.

Dow Ahern, Willimantic, defeated R. M. Grant, Wethersfield, 3 and 2.

Semi final round:

Haviland defeated Georghegan, 6 and 4.

Reid defeated Ahern, 1 up, 27 holes.

BOBBY MAYS SIGNED FOR BOUT IN NEW ORLEANS

Bobby Mays, state lightweight champion, who outpointed Manuel Quintero last week has been signed for a bout with Eddie (Kid) Wolfe at New Orleans on July 12th. Mays will start training for this bout immediately and will leave for New Orleans on Tuesday, July 9th.

All Stars Beat Devils.

Segal's All Stars handed the Red Devils a 7 to 1 trimming at the Lucas lot on Friday morning. Julius Segal featured with a home run while E. Robinson collected two doubles. The All Stars challenge the Young Hawks for a game Saturday afternoon.

BULOW MAY BRING COURT ACTION AGAINST MAX

NEW YORK, June 28—(AP)—Fear that Arthur Bulow, deposed manager, might tie up his ring future in a mess of legal entanglements dimmed the thrill of victory today for Max Schmeling, German youngster who belted Paulino Uscudun from the front ranks of the heavyweight contenders in the ring at the Yankee stadium last night.

A flood of theatrical offers poured in on the clouting Teuton who looks so much like the former champion, Jack Dempsey, and who battles in much the same fashion. Schmeling has about decided to accept one of the vaudeville offers for a month's tour.

After that, Maxie hopes to find the way paved for his meeting in September with Jack Sharkey here for the heavyweight throne Gene Tunney left vacant. Both battlers have agreed to the match but fears are felt that legal action by Bulow will complicate matters.

Figures published today showed gross receipts of $381,280 on last night's show, and net receipts after payment of state taxes of $362,216. The official paid attendance was 38,690. Both Paulino and Schmeling received approximately $72 500 apiece.

Fight critics, were almost unanimous in the opinion that Schmeling is headed for the heavyweight title. But even the most enthusiastic failed to award him such a wide margin of victory as was disclosed in the official reports of the two judges and referee of the match.

According to their tabulation, Paulino failed to win a single round. One judge and the referee, Arthur Donovan, gave Schmeling the edge in every round while the second judge gave the German fourteen rounds and called one, the third, even.

CROWDER HOLDS WHITE SOX AS BROWNS WIN EASILY

CHICAGO, June 28—(AP)—Alvin Crowder held the White Sox to five scattered hits here today as his mates pounded Chicago pitchers for thirteen, and the Browns won easily by 7 to 2. The victory increased the Browns' lead over the third-place Yankees to one and one-half games and reduced the Athletic margin over St. Louis to ten contests. Both the Macks and the champions were idle today.

Heinie Manush collected three of the St. Louis hits, running his string to 100. He is the first American league player to reach the century.

H. N. S. In Two Games

The Holy Name team of Jewett City are to play two week end games; Saturday at Norwich, they face the Greeneville A. C. This game most likely will be played at Hollyhock, and the Jewett City team will pick a hurler from its staff of Liberty, Wachon and Bernal. Sunday, at Slater park, Jewett City, the H. N. S. face the fast Sterling team. This club is composed of many former Plainfield high stars, and are a very capable ball team. However, as the H. N. S. hold a 6-5 victory over this team, they are very confident of making quick disposal of this short series. The H. N. S. line up will most likely be: Dion, c; Liberty, p; Perry, 1b; Bush, 2b; Kusek, ss; Solenski, 3b; Slonsky, Gaska, Vachon Wolkosky and Beaulieu outfield. This game will be at Slater park, Sunday at 3 p. m.

CUBS BEAT CARDS TO TAKE FIRST PLACE

ST. LOUIS, June 28—(AP)—The Cardinals lost to the Cubs, 9 to 5, today and slipped out of third place which they shared with the Giants, who had a postponement because of rain.

Jess Haines' first start this season against Chicago ended disastrously in the second inning after Hack Wilson, first up, slammed out his 19th home run and Hornsby got his 13th with English on bases, and Pitcher Malone brought in Grimm and Schulte on his circuit wallop. The second inning fiesta netted seven runs before Haines retired.

The victory returned the Cubs to the leadership of the league by a few percentage points. After losing to Cincinnati today, the Pirates had won one more game than the Bruins, but also had lost one more, which cost Donie Bush's men first place.

Miss Gladman Wins Tennis Title.

BROOKLINE, Mass., June 28—(AP)—Miss Marjorie Gladman, of the University of Southern California, today became the first woman intercollegiate tennis champion by defeating Miss Marjorie Sachs, of Radcliffe, 6-0, 6-3, in the title round at the Longwood Cricket club.

The east-west net clash of the Marjories was a one-sided affair as Miss Gladman completely outplayed the Radcliffe girl in both sets.

A Challenge.

The Hermes club are without a game for Sunday and would like a game for either in or out of town. Any team accepting this challenge call Mgr. Joseph Boldrighine 844-2 between 12 and 1 o'clock.

RAIN AND WIND MAKE SCORES IN NATIONAL OPEN TOURNEY RUN HIGH

WINGED FOOT CLUB, Mamaroneck, N. Y., June 28.—(AP)—A terrific storm struck the national open golf championship today, scattered title hopes all over the place and helped remove the famous Atlanta amateur, Bobby Jones, from the leadership, as the field wound up the first half of the spectacular 72-hole championship battle.

Early in the morning, before the stormy gale gathered full headway and broke over the hundred battle ground, stocky Gene Sarazen, of New York, champion in 1922, and equally sturdy Al Espinosa, Spanish star from Chicago, shot out in front, deadlocked with totals of 142 each for 36 holes that withstood attacks throughout the day.

Sarazen, duplicated his first day's score of 71. Espinosa added a par 72 to his 70 of the opening day to create a deadlock that Bobby Jones failed to break.

Jones started with the storm, fought the gale and rain with dramatic brilliance but finally finished his second round with 75, three over par.

A bad six on the 17th hole just when it appeared his rally would at least carry him into a tie with the pace-setters, forced Jones to forfeit the advantage gained by his remarkable 69 yesterday, and with a total of 144, drop back into a tie for third place with 24-year-old Densmore Shute of Columbus, Ohio, the "dark horse" for America's greatest golfing honors. Shute added a fine 71 today to his opening 73.

The net results of as hectic a day as the national open has ever known served to reduce the array of contenders to no more than about eight stars, remove the 1928 champion, Johnny Farrell from further competition altogether with a shocking total of 167 for 36 holes, and likewise disposed of the slight remaining title chances of Walter Hagen, the British open king and Horton Smith, the sensation of the winter season and holder of the open French crown.

Hagen, adding 81 to his 76 totalled 157 to be fifteen strokes back of the leaders while Smith attaching a 77 to his first round of 76, was at 153 and out of the running.

With the field reduced to a some 65 competitors out of the original entry of 152 for the final double barrelled chase of 36 holes tomorrow, the main fight centers among the twin leaders, Espinosa and Sarazen, along with the next pair, Shute and Jones. Should any of these four slip off the pace, Tommy Armour, who added a brilliant 71 late today to his 74 of yesterday for 145, may be ready to step into the breach.

Six strokes behind, but nevertheless threatening, are Leo Diegel, 74-74—148 and Leonard Schmutte of Lima, Ohio, with 73-75—148. In eighth place, another stroke away, loomed the blonde amateur ace, George Von Elm, of Detroit, who shot himself back into the picture with a sensational 70 two under par, and a 36-hole total of 149. Von Elm's round, the best of the entire day, was scored with the storm thrashing about him throughout the last nine holes.

The main drama of the day centered about the stalwart figure of Bobby Jones. The storm began as Jones drove off, gained its full fury on the fifth, where a costly six spotted his card and lasted until the twelfth hole.

After trouble in the traps on the first few holes, Jones hooked a tee shot from the fifth that struck a spectator and bounded back on the fairway. This was a favorable "break" in the midst of a torrential downpour but Bobby, in too much of a flurry to hit with his brassie before the handle of the club became too slippery, fluffed the shot completely. The ball came to rest 50 yards away in the rough, under the circumstances, two more shots to reach the flooded green and two putts represented a fine recovery and from there on, Jones settled down to fight all opposition to a standstill.

Streams of water, often several feet wide, coursed down the greens, big pools collected on the fairways to make the footing treacherous, yet under such extraordinary circumstances, Jones made the last four holes of the outward nine in par, reached the turn in 38, two over par, and had the "old man" licked on the homeward nine, until he struck the 17th.

After troubling a trap on the tenth, Jones played five straight holes as perfectly as he has ever done. He got birdies on the 497 yard twelfth and 376-yard fourteenth, barely missing putts for two others. Needing only two par fours on the last two holes for a 73 that would tie the leaders, Bobby hooked his tee shot on the 17th. It landed in deep rough and his next shot was far short of the green. He was just on the edge in three and then took three putts to lose the advantage he had gained by such brilliant work. On the home hole, he was forced to chip from a knoll bordering the green and sink a six footer to get his par four and tie Shute.

With 155, the limit for those remaining in tomorrow's finals, the casualties, headed by the old champion, Johnny Farrell, also included Roland Hancock of Wilmington, Del. Harrison (Jimmy) Johnston the St. Paul amateur, Ed Doudley of the Ryder cup team and Jock Hutchison, former British open champion. Hancock and Johnston each missed the select list by a stroke with 160. Dudley and Hutchison had 161 apiece. Joe Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y., runner-up to Jones in 1926, passed out with 162. Jack Cummings, Cleveland amateur, removed himself with an 89 and total of 163 after a fine starting 74.

REDS CHASE PIRATES OUT OF FIRST PLACE

The Sunshine team challenges the Yantic A. A. for a game next week.

MILLER TEES OFF TODAY AT 10.15 THIS MORNING

Maxie B. Miller, local professional, one of the select survivors of the first two rounds of the national open golf tournament at Mamaroneck, N. Y., will tee off for the morning round of the two remaining final rounds at 10.15 this morning.

Yesterday Miller bucked a driving rain and a terrific head wind to shoot an 82 which brought his two rounds score to 157, two strokes under the necessary 159 to remain in the tournament. Miller started strong with a birdie on the first hole and followed up with two pars. From then on Miller found difficulty with the sand traps and his drives skidded and refused to hold on the soaking fairways. However he negotiated the outward journey in 40 but took 42 on the more difficult inward nine. His 82 with a brilliant 75 the first day landed him in the select class. Two good rounds today should put him within the money. His card:

U. S. WOMEN STARS PERFORM WELL AT WIMBLEDON

WIMBLEDON, England, June 28—(AP)—America's women tennis invaders stepped into the breach today and saved the United States from an almost utter rout in the English championships on the Wimbledon courts.

In the elimination of John Hennessey and Wilmer Allison, United States Davis cup players, by Henri Cochet and Jean Borotra Uncle Sam's forces were given a taste of what might be expected if they hook up with France in the final Davis cup round. With the win of P. Landry the French are assured of three of the eight players in the quarter-final round.

But the two Helens from California, Wills and Jacobs, and Mrs. May Sutton Bundy did the same thing for America in the women's section. All three qualified for the quarter-final round. The California girls won with comparative ease with Mrs. Bundy turning in the sensational upset victory of the day in the downing of Miss Eileen Bennett, English Wightman cup player.

NICE CARD ARRANGED FOR TUESDAY NIGHT

At the New London arena Tuesday evening Promoter Ernest Fakourey is to present another fast card of bouts, featuring Al Gillette of New London and Vernon Cormier of Worcester in the main ten-round bout. This is a continuation of the bout between these two boys which started the night before the boat race and ended in Gillette getting a very unpopular decision.

For the semi-final Joe Russo of Westerly renews his feud with Ollie Koskie of Worcester. These two boys fought on the last card and proved to give the best bout of the evening.

Four Sub Base boys appear in the preliminaries, Benny Novak meeting Joe Sabatino of New Haven, Young Levine clashing with Johnny Bedell of New London, Steve Sauchuk swapping punches with Young Geno Pecheeni of Norwich and Young Daniels engaging Johnny Kop of Norwich in the latter's first professional bout. Johnny is a popular product of the local amateur ranks and will have a large following of Norwich fans.

WILD PEGS LOSE GAME FOR TIGERS

DETROIT, June 28.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers literally threw away a ball game today, two wild throws giving the Cleveland Indians a 5 to 4 victory. John Miljus was touched by the Tigers for 15 hits but kept them so distributed that 11 Detroit runners were left on base. George Uhle took his fourth defeat of the season.

Two of the Cleveland runs were scored in the fifth inning when Roy Johnson threw from center field into the grand stand in an attempt to catch Miljus at the plate. Jamieson scored from first on the same error. Mervyn Shea duplicated the misplay in the eighth on a peg to second. The resultant run broke up a four to four tie.

RED SOX DOWN SENATORS FOR THE SECOND TIME

BOSTON, June 28—(AP)—The Red Sox won their second straight game from the Washington Senators here today, 5-2, with Jack Russell holding the visitors to eight hits. Myles Thomas, in the box for Washington, was touched for nine hits totalling 15 bases.

Two Boston runs came in during the fifth inning when Goose Goslin dropped Bigelow's fly in left field.

DEMPSEY TO START TRAINING VERY SOON

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28—(AP)—Jack Dempsey arriving here today to begin a three weeks vaudeville tour, said he would "begin training immediately after his theatrical engagement."

The former heavyweight champion was uncommunicative about his future plans, but indicated he was open to offers.

The defeat of Paulino Uscudun by Max Schmeling last night was expected by Dempsey. He said he never expected a knockout as he says the Spaniard is too rugged for that.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY

If a Heart for Thee is Breaking.

If a heart for thee is beating,
Use it gently lest it break;
Warm and tender be thy greeting,
'Twill grow fonder for thy sake.
Oh! in sickness or in sorrow,
Let thy care its solace be,
Then 'twill all its gladness borrow
From its sun of hope on thee.

Oh! the heart it is a blessing.
In its freshness and its youth,
Be it thine 'mid thy caressing,
To preserve it in its truth.
'Tis no worldly gem, at pleasure
To be worn or cast aside.
But a firm and priceless treasure,
And more valued when it's tried.

Oh! the heart it is a treasure
That should not be lightly won,
To be thrown aside at pleasure,
When the festive hour is done.
'Tis a jewel that to cherish
Should be still thy constant boast.
For, when all beside it perish,
Will its worth be known the most.
—Song Echo.

Find Time to Laugh

We all find time for struggle
And we all find time for tears,
We all find time for heavy load
We all find time for fears;
But I sometimes have wondered
As I meet with furrowed brow
Are men forgetting how to laugh
As they push on life's great plow?

We all can talk of rocky road
We all think of roughened path,
We all can see yon hill ahead—
But, have we forgotten how to laugh?
Have we failed to see the joy of life
The wealth of friends and home,
Have we forgotten how a smile would go
Do we think life's song-birds flown?

Do we take time for all things else,
Time to scold and scowl and whine,
Losing sight of the joy of life
In its long and weary climb?
If this be true let's begin anew
Tho' we can scarcely count the half.
Just catch God's bounties as they fall
And laugh and laugh and laugh.

Annoyances

Annoyances are like mosquitoes! They buzz outside the window of the mind, buzz outside the stronghold of the soul; a tiny hole is what they hope to find thro' which to push toward the guarded goal. Once they have reached the heart's recess—how they will mar its peace and happiness. Annoyances are like mosquitoes! 'Tis well to put up screens against their coming, else will they anger, nag, and irritate by their incessant, aggravating humming, and make us rail against an unkind fate. Annoyances are like mosquitoes! And if allowed a little time and space, how they will sting and poison all the air, leaving their impress on the mind and face, the turning to ugliness what once was fair. O, mind and heart beware! Annoyances can sting—close doors and windows tight when they are on the wing.

—W. Stitch.

Gone

Little old town of Long Ago,
Back in the land of Used-to-be,
Little old town so dull and slow,
So kind and true in joy or woe—
I heard you call to the heart o' me!

But where have you gone, dear little old town?
I've been to the place where once you stood,
But the road that rambled up and down,
Past friendly houses, white and brown,
And lost itself in the mystic wood.

Has given way to a straight, pave street,
And prim, trim houses of brick and stone,
Now line the way, and motors fleet
Dart here and there, and the folks I meet
Are never the folks that I have known.

Ah, little old town of Long Ago,
Your honored bones in the graveyard lie;
Your heirs have "push" and "pep" and "go"
And the telephone and the picture show—
So, little old town—good-by!

A WORD SPOKEN IN DUE SEASON

To Editor and Readers of the Social Corner: So much is said about prohibition perhaps this true story will be interesting:

There is a quiet little village nestling among the hills and built beside a beautiful river. This river does nothing but ripple idly along.

It never turned the wheels of industry nor did anything useful because the residents of this village will not permit factories to locate there.

They hated factories and factory people. Factory people were gay and light-hearted, loved to dance and laugh. One man who had traveled through factory towns knew all about it. "We have a nice little town, let's keep it so," he said. So no factory nor any kind of business was located there. Next to factories and factory people, the residents of this village hated lawyers. No lawyer could live there. They would starve him out.

Lawyers were trouble makers in a town. If they wanted legal business done, they could go to another town and consult a lawyer there.

One bright sunny day a young lawyer with his wife and two small children arrived in this quiet village to make it their home. The report soon spread: "There's a new lawyer in town." "He won't stay long." "We'll soon starve him out." But the young lawyer had money to buy his home, rent an office, support a family and waited for business. As no one came to his office, he walked about town listening to the talk of groups of men. He soon heard that the village blacksmith John Clark, was the worst drunkard on earth, spent all his money carousing with bad companions and ought to be driven out of town. He was a disgrace. His home was two dark rooms in a basement, his wife was an invalid from lack of proper food and sunshine, his only child, little Nellie, was pale and neglected. It was a pitiful case. There was a Good Templars society in town and temperance lecturers often came there, but no one dared to speak to John Clark or try to help him to better habits. As the young lawyer listened to all the talk, something urged him to speak a word to John Clerk. "A word spoken in due season, how good it is." Perhaps John would throw his hammer at my head, thought the lawyer. Never mind, only speak. Nothing like trying. No one else will help him.

So one morning the lawyer went into the blacksmith's shop and said: "Good morning, John. Thought I would come in and see you work! I've nothing to do." "All right, Squire, come in and learn the trade." "John, you seem to be the only man in town who is busy." "Guess that's so, Squire. There's more money in blacksmithing than anything else." There was his chance, and the lawyer ventured: "What have you to show for your hard work, John?" John pounded away hard with his hammer, but as he did not throw it the lawyer continued: "Does little Nellie have all she needs to eat? Does your wife have the home she should have?" "I don't see why you should ask." "Just because I want little Nellie to have a good home. Her teacher said she is the brightest child in the class but she is neglected. Give Nellie a square deal, John." John laid down his hammer and said: "I see how foolish I've been. Now, Squire, you commenced this talk; go on and tell me what to do." This was so much better than the lawyer had expected, he was puzzled what to say.

"Well, John, I am strong for every man owning his home. No man puts forth his best efforts until he owns his home. Treat it as a business proposition. Instead of throwing away money, invest it in your own home. There is that vacant lot between Dr. King and Deacon Carr. Buy that lot and build your home there. Build a porch for your wife to sit on in the sunshine. There is a nice tree where Nellie can have a swing. Why, John, it will be almost paradise. You can easily pay for it, and have something to show for your work."

"All right, Squire, I'll do it. I'll show these people I am not so bad. I just did not realize how foolish I was and no one ever spoke to me as you have. I thank you and I give you my word I will do better." "Well, John, I've had a nice little visit with you so I better go along and let you work. Good luck to you, John."

John kept his word royally. He bought the lot between the doctor and the deacon. There was consternation on the block. The pretty house was soon finished; even the porch was just as the lawyer advised. How John's wife enjoyed sitting there in her rocking chair in the sunshine. It was a great change from the dark basement. Little Nellie had a swing on the tree and a playroom upstairs that was the envy of all other little girls. John went from his home to his shop and home again a changed man. He never went out with his former companions. He became so interested paying for his home he thought of nothing else. Perhaps it was inspiration on the part of the lawyerto place John between the doctor and the deacon. Not a word had been said about temperance. In paying for his home John found a better use for his money. No one but the two families ever knew of the advice which brought happiness to this family. A word spoken in due season, even if spoken by a lawyer, accomplished wonderful results.

CLUB 4 PICNIC AT THOMPSON

To the Social Corner: Columbia, Buffalo and Thirty-two will be hostesses to Club No. 4 and all others who wish to join us at the home of Mrs. Walter Jacques, Thompson, Conn., not far from the Congregational church and Vernon Stiles inn and post office, Saturday, July 6th. Mrs. Jacques entertained a goodly number of Social Cornerers last October. There was an abundance of eats and a program which we hope will be provided again by those attending. For those who wish a memorial meeting we would ask all who know of members who have passed on from our circle during the past year, prepare a sketch of their lives and interesting things we wish to remember about them. If any are not able to present them in person will you please mail them to Mrs. Jacques or Mrs. H. P. Amidon of Thompson to be read. Some of these might be published later in our Corner page if so desired. If any wish transportation from Putnam or West Thompson bus, Mrs. Nelson Stark or Mrs. Amidon will try to find a way if you will telephone to them in advance. We will try to secure a worthwhile speaker from the county extension service and please come prepared to furnish us some music or some fun. Also remember and keep the date, Saturday, July 6th, before noon.

Yours as always,

HOW TO MAKE A COLD FRAME

Dear Social Corner: There doesn't seem to be much time now for letter-writing, but one has to rest occasionally and the mending can go a while longer; it has had to go some time already, and a few weeks, more or less, won't make much difference.

These hot days make me wish I could afford to spend them where the cool sea breezes blow, as I was the second week in June. Martha's Vineyard is lovely this time of the year and I did enjoy the trip over and back on the boat so much. It was clear going over so that land was in sight all the time. When nearing the island I noticed what appeared to be four poles standing in the water, and learned later that it was a four-masted boat that was sunk there last April while at anchor in the channel one foggy night. On the return trip it was very foggy, and made one think what might happen. Fortunately nothing did.

Now I want to tell the sisters how I made a cold frame. No one else had any time for such fussing. I didn't either, but the family got crackers and milk for supper and I made the frame. First I hunted up four pieces of board. Two of them were ends from an old orange crate, the other two measured about three feet by ten inches. These I nailed together. Then I dug up the ground a bit in a sheltered spot and put the frame there. Into this box I put a pailful of stable manure, leveled it and packed it down a bit with the hoe. Then put a pail, each, of loam and sand, well mixed, leveled and packed this and waiting it. Made 13 short rows. One I planted to peppers, one to melons, two to tomatoes, the rest to flowers. Over the frame I laid a window sash. It wasn't quite large enough so used a wide shingle to finish covering the box.

After the seeds were up and the weather warm enough I took off the sash and put a window screen over the frame. This was needed to keep the chickens out. It was surprising to see how well the seedlings did. Now I have them all transplanted to the garden and flower beds except that when I look out the other plants I transplanted the celery right into the cold frame. It was sowed thickly and the plants were very small, but they have grown fast, so now I have over eighty nice plants nearly ready for the garden, besides piling away a few. Hereafter there will be no more bother with pans and boxes of seeds in the house for me. I hope to make one or two more for next spring. I plan to get pieces of hardware cloth and cologlass to use over them instead of window sash and screens. Also shall keep the one I have in use all summer for when the celery is taken out I am going to sow more seeds of hardy perennials and leave the plants in the cold frame until next spring.

Now to the sisters who raise turkeys. This is our first year at it so am only learning as yet. But I think I have an unusual turkey hen. She began laying March 27, being nine months old then. Up to date (June 25) she has laid 71 eggs without once wanting to set. She is still laying. Now can anyone beat that?

CARRIES FLOWERS TO SHUT-INS

Dear Editor and All the Friends: How do you like this fine cool weather? Isn't it just fine for the shore? Wish I was there. Well, how about the flower mission? I have carried out five bouquets. I was out yesterday. My, but wasn't it hot, I thought I would surely melt, but was fully repaid when I saw how pleased they were to get the flowers. They were given in behalf of Nonesopretty, Icavilla, Providence Rose and Velvie. I have started the wheel rolling, who will follow? If I had a car I surely would carry out more. Well, I have tried to do my best. Now, who will follow it up? It makes one's heart glad to see the glad surprise on their faces. I was well repaid if it was hot.

Azile: I do hope you are feeling better.

Icavilla: Don't you wish you was up under the shade of the old ash tree; it is fine today.

Butterfly: Say, let us take a trip to the White Mountains and get a cool breeze.

Keziah Doolittle: It rains but it won't rain enough so we can go out paddling yet, will it? How I do wish it would.

Velvie: I will send in the poem. Hope you are fine.

Rural Aunty: How is that road? Hope it is gaining fast for I want to ride over it.

Aries: How do you like this weather? I think poor Kocha is melted for sure now, don't you?

Kocha: I think these are just fine evenings for a fine dance, don't you? How we could dance.

L. T. H.: How are you and dear Violet this summer? Well, I hope.

I do hope the shut-ins and sick ones are comfortable these hot days. It is so hard to be shut in and sick when it is so hot. May God bless and be with them is my heart's best wish. May God be with that poor man who cannot even move or be moved and has not for several years. He cannot even feed himself. Now that he is deaf and nearly blind it would be a kind act to the poor sick wife to send her a few cards. Her address, Mrs. Ida Law, Killingly, Conn., R. D. 1. I carried her some flowers Monday and she was much surprised and oh, so thankful for them. It must be so hard for her. May God be with them is my best wishes. Ever the same old

NONESOPRETTY (Club 4).

QUOTATIONS

Dear Editor: I like to read quotations from poems that have food for thought in them.

The question was asked, "Where do we go from here?"

"One ship turns east and another west
With the self same winds that blow,
'Tis the set of the sails and not the gales
Which tell us the way to go.
Like the winds of the sea the waves of fate
As we voyage along through life,
'Tis the set of the soul which decides the goal,
And not the calm or the strife."

A Thought

"O Power to do! O baffled will!
O prayer and action, ye are one.
Who may not strive may yet fulfil
The harder task of standing still.
And good but wished with God is done."

Endeavor

Altho' my "cukes" be bitter things,
My cabbage full of worms, by jings,
And all my snap beans full of strings;
Still to my heart the brown earth calls
And all her summers, springs and falls
Shall find me spading loam and sand
With seven blisters on each hand.

"The subtlest temper has the smoothest style;
Sirens sing sweetest when they would betray."

"All wants beyond those which a moderate income will supply, are purely imaginary."

"The subtlest temper has the smoothest style; sirens sing sweetest when they would betray."

"All wants, beyond those which a moderate income will supply, are purely imaginary."

"To follow foolish precedents, and wink with both our eyes, is easier than to think."

"By agreement small things grow by discord the greatest go to pieces."

"A man who dedicates his life to knowledge becomes habituated to pleasure which carries with it no reproach."

"Tonight each star is but a smile from out the velvet deepest; the moon a promise; for a while all sorrow sleeps. Forgotten is the day just past, and thoughts of days to be have ebbed away before heaven's vast tranquility. Tonight the soul can thrust aside the vexing cares it knew, and taste the rapture, long denied, of dreams come true."

NICE TIME AT CLUB 6 OUTING

Dear Social Corner: This is station B-E-L-L, Windham Blue Bell speaking.

It's too bad that all of the C. ner couldn't have gone to the meeting of Club 6 at Stonington last Tuesday. Nelly Bly, Dumb-bell and myself sure had a good time. The shade trees and the beautiful surroundings made it an ideal spot for a meeting. The dinner was wonderful and could anyone have wished for a better hostess than E. L. M.? She certainly made us glad that we took the trip.

Nobody feels like working hard in this hot weather, and to think of more to write would be hard work, so I'll say good-bye until a cooler day.

LAST MESSAGE OF ELLEN TERRY, ENGLAND'S LOVED ACTRESS

Dear Social Corner: It was the actress's last wish which she penned on the flyleaf of one of her favorite volumes, The Imitation of Christ, by Thomas A. Kempis, at rest:

"No funeral atoms my ears, when I am bone. Corpse gazing tears, black raiment, graveyard grimness. Think of me as withdrawn into the dimness. Young silk, not mourning. Remember all the best of our last moments and forget the rest. And as to where I wait come gently on!"

BOAT RACES

Dear Corner Readers: Well, boat race is once more a thing of the past and all's serene along the Thames for another year.

What a pleasant institution the boat race is for New London and vicinity, occurring as it does at the season of our longest and loveliest days and taking place in a setting where nature has been most generous. And one of the pleasanest things about it are the happy memories stored away by those who make a habit of attending there each year.

Our first memory of the race was of a disappointment. After making all preparations to go, the men folk decided they must use the team for some necessary farm work, so we perforce were obliged to remain at home. We remember mother cooked us some especial dainty that afternoon, so our ruffled feelings were somewhat soothed.

But other race days rolled around.

We recall the coolness of broad granite doorsteps, grateful coolness, as we sat in the doorway hulling berries for dinner and listening to the clear, shrill pipe "Bob white, Bob white," from an invisible singer on the fence rail. We take deep breaths trying to capture all the spicy fragrance of the air laden with the odor of grapevine blossoms.

Strawberry shortcake, the whistle of the quail and scent of the wild grape in bloom are all inextricably mingled and connected with recollections of boat race day.

Many folks then used to make a day of it, and we always were hoping that the crews would row upstream, for some traffic would be diverted along our road, and we could have the fun of watching an occasional team or auto, the latter increasing in number each year. We liked those best that were well decorated in crimson or blue, the gayer the better. We always rooted ardently for Yale, feeling that it was the patriotic thing to do, the college being in our own state. Now we should be only too pleased to see a crew from our sister state break the monotony of defeat.

What silent crowds we have at the races nowadays! Is it because the competitors are not evenly matched enough? To us, the shouting and cheering were a considerable asset. But of course we didn't have the airplanes to furnish us excitement.

Each year has witnessed many changes, the vanishing of horse-drawn vehicles, more and larger craft in the river, more and more craft in the air—all assembled for a few minutes of excitement in the perpetuation of an old and classic custom. What changes will mark the future?

PLEADING FOR RAIN.

Dear Social Corner Friends and Editor: June 23rd—Terrible hot weather! I have been reading "Without Black Ants, No Coco". So reads a label posted at the entrance of a great plantation in central Java. It does not go unheeded for the natives send in some four million nests of these little creatures every year and receive payment in return. These black ants live only upon coco louse. I have had black ants on my kitchen table but see no more of them since I sprinkled black pepper (my own idea) every where they travel. They must have gone to Java I think where they can be protected and food furnished for them. I have used it in the pantry and around the kitchen sink with great success. Yesterday I worked hard and planted some of the garden over again for some unknown reason the rain doesn't seem to hit this part of the country at all, while in many of the adjoining towns there are showers and downpours of rain. Truly, it requires lots of patience.

Brick Top: Your jingles were good. Yes, we do need a little fun on the corner page. I selected the one next to the last one for the best one.

Hoping it will rain soon, I will sign off with all good wishes for the cornerites.

THE MONTH OF JUNE

Dear Social Corner Members: Well Father Time is leading up very swiftly through this year. It is now the month of June—the month of roses, weddings and graduations— and it seems as if everybody could be happy. But that is impossible, each of us must drink our full measure of the bitter cup. As I write I think of our bereaved sister and her family and she has our heartfelt and deep sympathy. To us it is a terrible thing to have a sweet life taken away while it is yet in its bud, but we do not know what it is for, but sister, remember the words "sometime we'll understand."

I will not dwell on this sad subject but write of something pleasant. We have had most beautiful weather for the closing of schools. I attended the graduation at Wheeler library and everything was lovely. Every one seemed so happy. The graduates I know were the happiest because they received their long-looked-for and hard-earned reward—the diploma.

Fortunate is the young student of today who receives that certificate. Years ago people seemed to think it was of no especial value, but today one cannot get far in the business world without the diploma and the parents of this generation are so proud of their children to think they preserved and gave their time and thought to an education. I would like to write more on the subject, would like to tell you about the very inspiring and interesting sermon that was given last Saturday, but my time is limited so must bring my letter to a close.

Best wishes to all for a happy Fourth of July.

SKETCHES BY THE WAYSIDE

Dear Editor and Social Corner Readers: Three miles south of Sharpsburg we cross the beautiful Potomac. Only a mile below is the old pack horse ford, where Lee crossed to the battle of Antietum and recrossed after having been sadly defeated.

How changed is all nature since war's alarms ceased; how peacefully the sun shines over the quiet farms and woodlands; herds of fat stock cattle graze in the meadows, contented people throng the village streets and prosperity is seen on every side. The violets grow where the cannon shots made furrows and green grass covers the fields where once was heard the song of the deadly Minie-ball, the swallows skim the placid waters. "All is quiet along the Potomac."

Through this section of the country we first noticed the impression of departed slavery. The planters houses, the tumbled down slave quarters, the old plantation bells that were once used to call the slaves to and from work, are suspended from the buildings or from posts in the ground. The ropes are rotted off the bells and their connections are covered with rust, the accumulation of more than twenty years, causes them to look as if they hadn't done duty since the immortal proclamation of our martyred Lincoln went forth striking the bonds and shackles from more than 3,000,000 slaves. Sheperdstown on the south bank of the Potomac, is romantically situated, the history of which dates back more than one hundred and fifty years.

Charlestown is another historical place, being named after Charles Washington, brother of the one of hatchet and cherry tree fame. Here we plainly saw the court house where John Brown was tried, condemned and hung, being ten miles south of Harpers Ferry, passing through a country noted for its historical connection and indescribable beauty of scenery. At Riverton we crossed the junction of the north and south fork of the Shenandoah river. Seldom does one see so lovely a picture as that which opens to view here. Looking back we saw the Shenandoah as it winds its way through the hills and mountains. In some places it is placid, deep and still, then again as if forgetting itself, it tumbles over a rocky step as if in a hurry to join the quiet and beautiful Potomac at Harpers Ferry. As we took upon either side we saw the thin clouds hanging over the valley touching like a silver veil the brow of the distant mountains. The valleys portrayed living green and the mountains were thickly studded with stately monarchs of the forest. As we left Riverton we skirted along the south fork of the Shenandoah through the valley where gracefully curves the limpid river, now nearing the train, now rushing away to come in contact with the rugged base of the distant mountains. The Massanuten, a spur of the Alleghanys, on the right and the Blue Ridge on the left. Sweetly the beautiful fertile valleys and glades nestled among the hills, comes in contact with the vision. All around is loveliness, all above is glorious, all within is peace. In fact, the whole length of this valley is one panorama of beauty.

From Riverton to Front Royal we saw many marshes of the ravages of war; partially destroyed earthworks, ruins of buildings, and many mounds where rests the dust of him who offered up his life for his country. At 5 p. m. we crossed the battle field of Front Royal, over the ravines and through the hills where General Lee was overtaken by too much Meade.

Here again the Shenandoah, as if disgusted with the dignified and commending attitude of the distant mountains, comes to our side with all its placid loveliness. How blue and clear today, where once it was stained by the blood of foe and friend.

At Bentonville a sharp engagement took place between the cavalry of Sheridan and Custer, and the rebel forces under Early. The old entrenchments are still visible. At Gurney Run and Overalls Station we were brought in close proximity to the Blue Ridge, and to the right at the distance of about eight miles is the battlefield of Cedar Creek, the terminus of Sheridan's wonderful ride "From Winchester twenty-miles away" which is familiar to every school boy.

At Overalls Station we parted company with Captain W. C. Overall of the Confederate army, who joined us at Bentonville. He was a very interesting old gentleman of English parentage; the last male descendant of the family. At the outbreak of the war, he and his brother were possessors of 8,000 acres of land, rich in mineral wealth and copper, iron and zinc, as well as grazing and tillable land.

Captain Overall joined the Confederates more from necessity than from sympathy with the cause. He gave us a very interesting history of the war in this section; pointing out to us many places of historical interest, and upon leaving us gave us a very cordial invitation to stop with him over night, showing a trait of character for which the southern people are noted.

In my next chapter of the sketch I will commence with a very interesting incident of the war, as told us by the captain. To be continued.

'TIS YOURS ALONE

Dear Corner Members: Remember this: There's no amount of sneering, no cynic's scoff, no bitterness or jeering, no hurtful word, no biting, lying tongue, nor digs and snubs, with brutal malice flung; nay, not a word that anyone can say—can really take your happiness away.

Remember this: There's nothing you possess that really makes for lasting happiness. Amusement pall, and new clothes soon grow old; the fires of pleasure die and leave us cold. No matter what the year, or month, or day—no one can steal true happiness away.

For happiness abides within the breast; you are the host and it the joyous guest. The world may sneer, the world may scowl and frown, but you and happiness are out of town! And you alone can bid joy go or stay—no one can steal true happiness away.

HEN PUZZLES OWNER WITH EMPTY SHELLS

SANFORD, Me., (AP)—For the third time one of Neal Murray's Rhode Island Red hens has produced an egg that was as empty as the hole in a doughnut.

He thinks maybe something ought to be done about it and has asked the York county farm bureau what it knows about hens that lay perfectly sound eggs with nothing inside. It is as mystified as Murray.

The hen is four years old and the only one of its breed in a flock of White Leghorns.

Burgess Bedtime Story

Chatterer Hears Complaints

Who doth much time devote to fishing
Is given over much to wishing.
—Old Mother Nature.

The home of Chatterer the Red Squirrel was over in the Green Forest and there's where he stays most of the time. He had built his nest in an oak tree over near the Laughing Brook, where it runs through the Green Forest. Now the Laughing Brook has many visitors. Many come to it to drink. Some use is as a sort of highway. One of these is Billy Mink. And many visit it to try to catch fish.

Of late, Chatterer had heard a good deal of complaint. He had heard Farmer Brown's Boy, one day over there muttering to himself. Farmer Brown's Boy was fishing, but he wasn't catching fish. It was this that he was muttering about.

Another day he discovered Billy Mink sitting on a rock in the Laughing Brook. Billy wore a look of disgust. "Hello, Billy Mink, what's the matter with you?" exclaimed Chatterer. "You look out of sorts."

"I am out of sorts," replied Billy. "Never have I known the fishing to be worse than it is now in the Laughing Brook. I don't know what has become of all the fish."

The very next day Chatterer saw Buster Bear coming down the Laughing Brook. He knew by Buster's action that Buster was watching for fish. He had seen Buster catch fish before. But Buster wasn't catching fish. In his deep rumbly-grumbly voice he was talking to himself.

"Such fishing! Such fishing!" grumbled Buster. "Where have all the fish gone to? I'd like to know if Billy Mink and his family and Little Joe Otter and his family have cleaned them all out."

"I don't know about Little Joe Otter, but I can answer for Billy Mink," replied Chatterer. "Only yesterday I heard Billy complaining that some one had fished this brook so that there are hardly any fish left. If it had been Billy and his family he wouldn't have been complaining of other people."

When Buster Bear passed on, Peter Rabbit came out from a hollow log, where he had been hiding. "Buster seems put out," said he.

"He isn't having good fishing," replied Chatterer. "He's been grumbling to himself all the way down the Laughing Brook."

"Such fishing! Such fishing!" grumbled Buster

"I hear the same complaint from other fishermen," replied Peter. "Rattles the Kingfisher is almost ready to give up the Smiling Pool as a fishing ground. Longlegs the Heron says that if not were not for pollywogs and small frogs he would starve to death. If he had to depend on the Smiling Pool and the Laughing Brook, I wonder where the fish have gone to. Little Joe Otter isn't to blame for he hasn't been around all spring."

"It's probably those two-legged creatures called men," said Chatterer. "When anything goes wrong in the Green Forest you can usually make up your mind that they are at the bottom of it."

"It may be so," replied Peter. "I don't believe it this time, however, for there have been fewer of those two-legged fishermen than usual. Perhaps the fish have died."

"Huh! They've died all right," replied Chatterer. "The question is, how and why did they die? I haven't seen so much as one sick minnow this spring. I haven't seen a single sick trout of any size. Somebody has been catching those fish."

"Well, I'd like to know who it is," said Peter.

WESTERLY

BRIEF SESSION OF THE THIRD DISTRICT COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, June 28—Only a four minute session of regular Third District court was held on Friday morning by Judge Oliver H. Williams and no cases were tried. Court business was disposed of as follows:

James Naccarata vs. Marie Uzzi. Motion to remove default entered several weeks ago and on which briefs were ordered filed, was denied by the court.

Criminal docket—State vs. John Sandin: continued two weeks: State vs. William E. Bennett, continued two weeks.

Civil docket—Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance company vs. James H. Lee, continued one week: Wilbert Clark vs. Bessie Card, continued two weeks; John J. Dunn vs. Antonio Flore, announced as ready for trial and later continued one week: William A. Prescott vs. Cornelius F. Riley and Cornelius L. Murphy, continued one week.

Present at the court session was the newly-appointed probation officer, Mr. Emerson, who succeeds Mrs. Bertha Van Buskirk, who has been the investigation officer in the consideration of all juvenile cases to come before Judge Oliver H. Williams in the juvenile side of Third District court sessions.

Kentucky Kyrook arrived in Westerly on Friday and immediately workmen in the employ of the Westerly highway department began the distribution of the surfacing material for re-built and widened Broad street. The work was begun where the old consignment ended at the junction of Union and Broad streets and with one half of the surface closed to traffic was spread and rolled by the small steam roller of the highway department.

On Thursday evening at the new central fire headquarters building on Union street was held the first social event since the building was completed when the Alert Hook and Ladder Co., acted as host to the members of Matilda C. Morgan council, Daughters of America and Amos P. Chapman auxiliary, Sons of Veterans, at a dance and informal reception.

There were over 150 in attendance at the dance, which was held in the main apparatus room on the ground floor, and a most enjoyable social evening was passed.

During the evening, a Bible was presented to the Alerts by the Daughters of America. A short time ago the Sons of Veterans auxiliary, presented a flag to the firemen.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the party was composed of William Hill, Arthur Kenyon and Fred R. Chappell.

The Westerly band will hold Saturday a tag day to secure funds in addition to public subscriptions for its annual series of open air band concerts in Wilcox park during the summer season when the band concert-loving people of Westerly and neighboring communities will be given an opportunity to contribute toward the expense of the weekly concerts in Wilcox park. The first concert of the season was given last evening and they will continue each Thursday so long as the public manifests an interest.

The annual piano recital was held on Thursday evening by pupils of Mrs. Thomas H. Murray, at the home of the teacher on Newton avenue.

Seventeen pupils took part in the evening's program, and about forty guests were present to enjoy the various numbers played by the pupils. The recital was followed by a social time, at which refreshments were served.

Those who took part in the recital folow: Mary and Elizabeth Fuscaldo, Emily C. King, Margaret Smith, Lillian Parkinson, Margaret Walsh, Nilla Sweet, Dorothy Bullock, Mary Lynch, Mary McGuinness, Agnes Collins, Mary Anna Porrcues, Kathryn Hughes, Margaret Parkinson, Josephine Azzinaro, Jeannette Keena.

State President Here

State President Ida May Clark of the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil war, was the guest of honor at a reception tendered her on Thursday evening in Mechanics' hall, Westerly. She was presented with a string of pearls, a purse of gold and a bouquet of American beauty roses. Following the presentation a buffet luncheon was served.

Among those present were: Department Commander Charles H. Lewis of the G. A. R., Past Department Commander William Dunham and Past Commander James Alger, all of Providence; Past Department Commander Frank Barrows, representing the Sons of Veterans of Providence; Mrs. Lila Lewis, senior vice president of the Sons of Veterans' auxiliary of Providence; Mrs. Helen A. Smith, junior vice president of the Sons of Veterans' auxiliary of Providence; Mrs. Sadie Chabot, department president of the Sons of Veterans' auxiliary, Providence; Mrs. Margaret Thompson, department president of the relief corp of Providence, Mrs. Reba Main, chief of staff of Daughters of the Union Veterans of the Civil war of Westerly was in charge of the program.

Westerly Quarry Workers International Union held its anual meeting on Thursday evening in Stonecutters hall on Main street when John DeFanti was elected president.

Other officers for the coming year were chosen as follows: James Gradilone, vice president; John Ahearn, financial secretary; Guy Page, corresponding secretary; Angelo Gradilone, treasurer.

The president and vice president were elected as delegates to attend the New England convention of the union, to be held next month in Boston, Mass. It was announced that International Secretary Fred W. Suter, who is also mayor of Barre, Vt., will be one of the feature speakers at the meeting.

Superintendent of Schools Willard H. Bacon the past week end announced that during the months of July and August, classes for women who wish to learn English will be held in the High street school on Tuesday and Friday afternoons.

The class will begin on Tuesday afternoon, July 2, and the hours each day will be from 1 to 3 o'clock. Mrs. Adelaide de Fanti has been appointed teacher, and an effort is now being made to get a large enrollment, especially among the Italian speaking people in the vicinity of the school.

Mrs. Arthur Mallett of Rutherford, N. J., formerly Miss Jennie Francis of Westerly, arrived in town Friday evening to attend the 25th annual anniversary observance of her graduating class of the Westerly high school, the class of 1904, which is to be held Saturday evening at the Tee-Tee on the Shore road.

HEBRON

St. Peter's day, June 29th, as observed by the Anglican commission, will again prove a Red Letter day for St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal church in this village. The occasion will be the ordination to the Diaconate, by the Rt. Rev. E. C. Acheson, bishop of Connecticut, of Benjamin Bissell, Ph. D. of the New York Theological seminary. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. Harry Fitzgerald, son of a former rector of the parish, and the music in charge of Prof. Austin Warren, Ph. D. of Cambridge, Mass., a talented organist. Mrs. Bissell is a descendant of one of the oldest families in town, born and brought up here and will have charge of the Sunday services in the church for the summer. The service is at 11 a. m. daylight time, and a collation will be afterward served under the trees on the rectory grounds.

But one ordination under the Anglican rite has been held here in the memory of the present generation, that of the Rev. Jared W. Ellsworth, who was advanced to the priesthood, by Bishop John Williams, June 25, 1880.

St. Peter's day has been the occasion of former interesting exercises in this old parish, one of the oldest in the diocese, dating from 1734. The 150th anniversary of the founding of the parish was celebrated in 1884 and signalized the wiping out of the debt which had hung over the church for many years. The 100th anniversary of the building of the present church edifice was celebrated in 1928.

Horses Use Reindeer Range

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—The first test of the feasibility of permitting livestock to winter on the reindeer range has been successful in Broad Pass, on the Alaska railroad, where a herd of horses was quartered this year. The animals appear strong.

As a test of innocence or guilt a man suspected of a crime in India is sometimes given rice to chew, on the theory that if he is guilty his mouth will dry from fear and he will be unable to swallow the dry rice.

GREAT VOLUME OF TRADING IN UTILITY AND ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT STOCKS

NEW YORK, June 28.—(AP)—Public utility and electrical equipment stocks monopolized speculative interest in today's stock market, forging to new high records under a tremendous volume of trading. Industrials also presented several points of strength, but the advance was unevenly distributed, and the rails were inclined to heaviness.

The increase of $122,000,000 in federal reserve brokers' loans was offset by a further relaxation in basic credit conditions as shown by the decline of 1-8 of 1 per cent in bankers' acceptances and the shading of time money rates. Call money held steady at 10 per cent for the fourth consecutive session although a slight upward flurry would not be surprising next week because of the heavy July 4 currency demands.

Resumption of dividends on both classes of Erie Railroad preferred after a lapse of 22 years was one of the most important developments of the day. The weekly mercantile reviews reported some irregularity in general business, due largely to seasonal influences, but emphasized that conditions are better than they were a year ago. Corn Products directors raised the regular dividend from 50 to 75 cents quarterly, and declared an extra of 50 cents.

One of the most significant developments of the day was the revival of market activity on the part of the Cutten, Fisher and other powerful interests, who had curtailed their operations during the recent credit stringency, and practically withdrawn from the market. Their return was attributed to the belief that the credit crisis had definitely passed, and that current prosperity was likely to carry well into the second half of the year.

Unconfirmed rumors that another huge public utility holding company was in the making provided the background for the heavy turn-over in the power and light stocks. Measured by the Associated Press index of 50 leading issues, the utilities showed a gain of nearly 8 points on the day, touching another new high record at 275.4, which contrasts with the year's low of 193.1. The index of 20 rails lost about a point while the index of 50 industrials advanced 2 points to within 3 points of the high mark established just prior to May reaction.

Peoples Gas was the spectacular feature of the public utility list, soaring 25 points to a new high at 304 1-2, and closing at the top. Commonwealth Power, after lying dormant for some time, closed 13 3-4 points higher at 239 but was still several points from the high. American Power & Light, Columbia Gas & Electric, Consolidated Gas, Electric Power & Light, Engineers Public Service and National Power & Light all broke into new high ground. Substantial gains also were recorded by American & Foreign Power, American Water Works, United Corporation and several others.

General Electric ran up more than 3 points to a new high at 224, or 105 points above the year's low, and Westinghouse Electric closed about 7 points higher at 185 after having attained a new peak at 186 3-4. Telephone stocks also were in brisk demand, International Telephone rising nearly 5 points to a new high at 99 7-8, while American Telephone closed 5 points higher at 226 1-2.

The rise in Trico Products to a new high level was in anticipation of the announcement of a large contract from one of the country's largest automobile manufacturers next week. International Business Machines, Sharon Steel Hoop, Commercial Solvents, Otis Elevator, Ritter Dental, Timken Roller Bearing, Newport Co. and R. H. Macy were among the score or so other issues to set new peak prices, the last-named soaring 16 points.

All three classes of Erie stock moved into new high ground on the announcement of the preferred dividends, but part of the gains were lost. Missouri-Kansas-Texas touched a new high at 57 3-4. Atchison and Lackawanna each lost about 2 points and New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio and several others yielded fractionally.

Commodity markets pointed upward. Wheat advanced 3 1-2 cents a bushel and corn 1 1-2 cents on forecasts of unfavorable weather. Cotton advanced on the average of about 50 cents a bale.

French francs moved to a new high level but the other leading currencies showed little change in quiet foreign exchange trading.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, June 28.—(AP) — Widely circulated estimates that 1929 Canadian wheat production will be away below last year's total put wheat values up today. According to one current forecast, the Canadian spring wheat crop on the prairie provinces this season will amount to only 315,000,000 bu., compared with 502,000,000 bu. harvested in 1928. Officials of the Canadian growers' pool, however, denied having made this estimate, and instead suggested that western Canada with ideal conditions from now on would raise 450,000 bu.

Wheat closed unsettled, 3 1-4 to 3c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 3-4 to 1 1-4c up, oats 1-4 to 1-2 a 5-8c advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 17c.

Wheat made an irregular start, but then scored an almost perpendicular upturn of more than 5c, in view of reports that owing to persistent shortage of moisture Canada would harvest nearly 200,000,000 bu. less than last year. Offerings grew scarce, and buying broadened out on a big scale. In the detailed estimates which meanwhile were going around, and which came from accredited trade sources, special emphasis was given to mention that the figures made allowance for 10 per cent increase of acreage, and that the present condition of the Canadian crop is only 85 per cent compared with 101 per cent a year ago.

Something of a reaction from the day's top prices for wheat followed denial that the Canadian growers' pool had issued the estimate of only 315,000,000 bu. yield for western Canada. Later, however, the market here developed fresh strength as a result of Minneapolis advices that some of the best-posted trade authorities are looking for a small crop of spring wheat not only in Canada but in domestic territory as well, reports showing clearly that wheat in all of upper South Dakota and lower North Dakota is very poor, a consequence of the driest June ever known in the Dakotas.

In some quarters, an advance of 3 1-4c to 3 7-8c on wheat at Buenos Aires today suggested that export competition from Argentina would be less in evidence hereafter. Notice was also taken of late messages that unless Australia soon receives rains the prospects at best are for but half a crop. On the other hand, weather conditions today in the domestic harvest region southwest were reported as very favorable, with indications pointing to liberal receipts of new wheat next week.

Corn and oats went higher as a result chiefly of wheat strength. There was also talk that monthly unofficial surveys next week will indicate a relatively low condition of corn growth.

Provisions tended upward on buying credited to packers.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, June 28.—(AP) — An avalanche of trading in convertibles swept the bond market to a new high volume for the year today. Eight of the stock feature issues, led by American Telephone 4 1-2s and International Telephone 4 1-2, which made net advances of 5 1-2 and 8 points, respectively, to record peaks, turned over to the extent of $10,000,000, par value. Sales in the entire list totaled slightly more than $16,000,000.

Once more the peak of activity was reached in the mid-afternoon period when the ticker tape was virtually monopolized by transactions in the two volatile telephone bonds. The American company's obligation changed hands in the par value total of $4,000,000, closing at 142, a point above its previous high established in May, while the International Bond reached nearly $1,500,000, finishing the session at 149.

Other convertibles sharing in the broad upward movement were the two issues of Allegheny Corporation 5s, up 2 1-2 to 2 1-3; American International 5 [illegible] to 2 1-4, Kelvinator 6 1-2s, up 1-4; Missouri Pacific 5 1-2s, up 1-2 to equal the high; Public Service of New Jersey 4 1-2s, up 3 to a new high at 253; and Southern Pacific 4 1-2s, with warrants, up 1-4.

Easier time money, which appeared at 7 1-2 per cent for the longer maturities for the first time since February 18, and a reduction of 1-2 of 1 per cent in bankers acceptances, proved a favorable influence for the rest of the list, which held firm to stronger, especially in the rail and utility groups. Rock Island Refunding 6s, Southern Railway General 4s, Missouri Kansas Texas prior lien 5s, Atchison Adjustment 4s, Western Pacific First 5s, Western Maryland 5 12s and Wisconsin Central general 4s showed gains of 1-2 to 2 1-2 points.

Utilities moving into higher ground included Consolidated Gas of New York 5 1-2s, Ohio Public Service 7s, Ohio River Edison 5s, Pacific Gas & Electric 5s, and New York Telephone 5s. Industrials lagged and moved irregularly. Hoe & Company 6s made a new 1929 high at 93 on a net gain of 7 points. United States Steel 5s, which have been called, were disposed of liberally, but made no net change.

Strength of the Chilean issues was the feature of the firm foreign list. Mortgage Bank of Chile 6s more than made up their loss of yesterday with an advance of 2 1-4 points on a large turnover, while the Republic 6s gained 3-4, also on good support. Selling forced German Republic 7s down more than half a point.

United States government obligations fluctuated narrowly and the gains and losses were evenly distributed.

JEWETT CITY

PUBLIC DEMONSTRATION FOR REV. JOHN McCABE

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, June 28.—Thursday evening, in response to a general good will spirit, the borough joined in giving Rev. John J. McCabe, pastor of St. Mary's church, a public demonstration, in honor of his silver jubilee. The parade of some 50 automobiles moved from East Main street, through Brown avenue to North Main, down North Main and Main to Sylvanside, and return to the Plan theater.

The formation order was: Officer Henry Vegiard in lead, marshal, William McGovern, and his aide, Edward Blake; the colors carried by Lucien Marcuville. The Ashland Boys' band were in the first section with the drill master, P. W. Chase, and leader, Fred Bourque.

The automobile division accounted for in the first car Rev. John J. McCabe, Rev. Nicholas Caron, Warden E. J. Jodoin, and Burgesses John McGuinness and Thomas McBroome. Second car, Burgesses Henry Olsen and Felix Gallipt with J. H. McCarthy and Joseph Bonvert. Town officials occupied the third car, with the fourth and fifth assigned to the Convent Sisters. Following these, there rode the speakers, visiting clergy, the committee, and interested citizens.

The official car in front was finely decorated with crimson ramblers and Dorothy Perkins roses, set on a background of pink rayon.

An audience of 400 people was seated in the Plan theatre where Rev. Fr. Carron was chairman. After the singing of America by the audience, the opening address was delivered by Rev. J. W. Carter, pastor of the Methodist church. He, with 17 years in the ministry, felt something in common with Father McCabe. He told of pleasant associations, calling attention to the achievements of a master mind as seen in the many benefits which have been planned and have now become realities.

The musical program included solos by Mrs. Noel Garand and by Mrs. George Barasin, with a selection by the jubilee chorus, James Olsen at the piano.

The leading addresses of the evening were delivered by Rev. S. A. Icick of Norwich, and Rev. U. O. Bellerose of Putnam. The former spoke both in English and Polish, and Father Bellerose in English and French. These able members of Connecticut's Catholic clergy had many pleasing statements to set forth which proved to the attentive listeners of much interest. They spoke of Father McCabe's long service, and of his consecration to the ideals of the ministry of Jesus Christ.

At this point, Father Carron, speaking for the hundreds of parish residents, whose friendship Father McCabe appreciates and enjoys, presented him a purse of $850.

There is no record that any sort of unusual demand ever made, has found the pastor of St. Mary's at loss for efficient action or with nothing to say. His acceptance, was characteristic of the man. What seemed to add most keenly to his pleasure, was the spirit of friendly cooperation that at all times has been heartily accorded. The speaker expressed hearty gratitude for friendships he had made, adjuring his hearers of the importance of standing as true Americans.

In this capacity, we can and must act and live on the common ground of country. Let our objectives be, love of our fellow men, spread sunshine, and measure up to the grandest of Christian standards. The speaker's tribute of praise to Fr. Carron evidenced a fine expression of esteem.

In closing, he said, "this gift tonight to me, no matter what the value shall be, it will be my pleasure to turn it back to you. If, in the common plans we have in process of completion, it may act to quicken and benefit the work going on, there is where I shall wish it to be applied." The singing of the Star Spangled Banner, by all, closed one of the most pleasant occasions in the borough's history.

Seated upon the platform besides the speakers, borough and town officials, and committee members, were: Dr. G. H. Jennings, Rev. G. F. Goodenough together with seven visiting members of the Catholic clergy. Acting with the borough officials the committee included: Alex McNicol, William McGovern, Edward Blake, Joseph H. McCarthy, Dr. G. H. Jennings, E. E. Gilbert, E. H. Hiscox, James Olsen.

All Stars Defeat Sisters

In a plenty of runs game Thursday, the Polish All Stars were the victors over the Sister Night Hawks. Score 15 to 14. The following baseball wonders appeared in the Polish lineup: C, Stanley Minski; p, Joseph Medeczski; 1b, Chester Willemczyki; ss, Stanley Zagoc; 2b, Bulletin Zadora; 3b, Henry Opponski; lf, John Zavestoski; cf, Bennie Salewyicz; rf, Frank Zagoc; mascot, Walter Danieluk; coach, Joseph Wellem.

The Harmony club, Friday, was entertained at the home of Mrs. Arba Browning, in Griswold.

Close to a half century ago, Raymond H. Willcox, a Jewett City boy, was employed in Norwich at the one time grocery store of Smith and Beckwith, then on Main street. When a mere lad, Raymond accepting the advice of Horace Greely, went West. In San Francisco, alive and well today, and 84 years of age, Mr. Willcox may be reckoned among those upon whom the fortunes of the Golden Gate have smiled. Following the great earthquake, letters to Jewett City relatives and to his brother the late E. R. Willcox in Norwich, then with N. S. Gilbert and Sons, told of his overwhelming property losses, and the narrow escape of his family.

Recently, his nephew, Byron C. Willcox, also a Jewett City boy now with the Grolier society of New York, has visited his uncle and cousins at their San Francisco homes. His recent letter to relatives in the east contains items of interest to many old-time friends in this locality.

While on a four weeks' business trip, which took me around the country, I spent a week end in San Francisco, and had a pleasant visit with Uncle Raymond and Aunt Helen, who are now located at 1399 California street, San Francisco. Alice Willcox (the youngest of the three daughters, who is a nurse) drove me out to Woodside on the south peninsula to "El Miradot," a large ranch which is Cousin Frances's home.

It is a wonderful place, a most beautiful estate of over 400 acres located on a mountain side, which is partly covered with the famous California redwoods. Cousin Stanley (Stanley W. Morshead) entertained me in royal style on the Sunday in question, and we all enjoyed a part of the day in climbing the mountains by automobile up the trails among the redwoods and through the canyons. I picked various kinds of fruit in the yards, including oranges, lemons, tangerines, grapefruit and figs. The afternoon was partially spent strolling through the gardens and orchards, and lounging in the big lodge. About four o'clock in the afternoon Alice drove me to Cousin Rena's (Mrs. Howard F. Trelease) in San Jose, where I had supper and then we drove back to San Francisco together in the evening.

I thought you would be interested in this, for California certainly is a wonderful state, and you can imagine how much I enjoyed seeing all of the cousins, including little Barbara Trelease, on this my latest trip to the west. This is the fourth time I have been out there. I think that Uncle Raymond may come east, and I have urged Alice to drive him across the country, so that there is a bare possibility that you may be able to see them some one of these days.

STONINGTON

Thomas Driscoll of Norwich was a caller here on Thursday.

A petition was circulated through the borough Thursday by some of the leading merchants asking the South County Public Service Co. of Westerly and its subsidiary the Mystic Power Co. to open an office in Stonington. As soon as sufficient time has been allowed for everyone to sign it, the petition will be presented to officials of the company at the Westerly office.

Mrs. Annie Gilmore Keane passed away at her home on Elm street on Thursday evening at 9 o'clock. She had been in poor health for a number of months. She is survived by one sister, Rose Gilmore, and one brother, Stiles Gilmore, of Stonington. She was a member of St. Mary's church.

Mrs. J. Irving and daughter of New York have taken the Burges home for the summer.

Capt. C. E. Peckham has returned from a two weeks' vacation spent in Bergens, Vt., with relatives.

Mrs. W. Averill Pendleton, of New York, is the guest of Mary P. Hyde on Elm street.

Mrs. Stanley Pierce is spending a vacation with relatives in Kennebunkport, Me.

The Misses Charlotte Tuit, Frances Pierce and Lois Bailey left for a camp near Cape Cod for the season, on Wednesday.

Mrs. Annie M. Fanning of Norwich was the guest of her son, Rev. Richard Fanning, on Wednesday.

BIG CHICKEN FARM STARTED ON $4.20

BROOKHAVEN, Miss., (AP)—Starting in 1927 with a total capital of six acres and $4.20, J. D. Merritt has developed a poultry farm of 31 acres, 1,200 White Leghorn hens and 6,000 baby chicks. He values his investment at $15,000. One day alone his sale of eggs totaled $90. He also owns 14 dairy cows.

When he started, Merritt invested his $4.20 in baby chicks, raising 21 hens from the lot. He got 4,196 eggs from the 21 hens in 11 months. He turned most of his income back into his farm. The business had grown until Merritt predicts that it will be the largest in Mississippi within three years.

The Rockville Fair Association, Inc., has voted to sell its 27-acre plot, Hyde Park, to the sole bidder, Rev. George T. Sinnott, representing St. Bernard's Church society, of Rockville, who announced that eventually the property will be used for a cemetery.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

In the rowing contest on the Thames river 50 years ago Harvard had an easy time with Yale in the fourth of the series and the second rowed on the Thames, outrowing Yale by one minute and 43 seconds. The same week Frederick Harris, an oiler on the steamer City of Lawrence, caught his hand in a blower on the ship and had it cut off instantly, also badly lacerating his arm, which was later amputated just below the elbow by a doctor in the city.

Other interesting bits of news taken from the files of The Norwich Morning Bulletin of the week beginning June 23, 1879, are in part as follows:

Monday, June 23, 1879—Frederick Harris, an oiler on the steamer City of Lawrence, Friday night heard a noise issuing from the blower on the steamer, opened the door and inserted his hand in the aperture, when a fan caught it, taking it off instantly, terribly lacerating the arm. On the arrival of the boat at Allyn's Point he was placed on board a switching engine and brought to this city, where his arm was amputated just below the elbow.

Telephone communication was established between this city and New London Saturday and conversation was carried on between the two points for over an hour.

It is reported that Timothy C. Murphy, the Norwich oarsman who made such a fine record at Silver lake last August, has entered for the regatta on the Charles river.

Tuesday, June 24, 1879—E. R. Church and John Carpenter caught a salmon in a seine in the Thames river yesterday which weighed probably about 15 pounds. It is the first one caught in the river for years.

The Modoc gang of fishermen went to waters about Fishers Island last night and seized 900 weight of flounders.

It is said that the Rev. William Harty, formerly of Fairfield, will be transferred from the Hartford cathedral to the pastorate of St. Mary's church, New London.

Timothy C. Murphy went out on the river in his shell last evening. He will make his mark on the Charles river.

Wednesday, June 25, 1879—Frederick Harris, who lost his right hand on the steamer City of Lawrence last Friday night, is stopping at the residence of his uncle, F. I. Champlin, on the West Side.

Mr. Alfred Elson, the walkist, made two trips from New London to this city and back yesterday.

A telephone has been put into the store of Hislop, Perteous & Mitchell.

The splendid facing stones of the offset wall of the old roadbed that once connected the Norwich and Worcester road with its Allyn's Point branch are being removed to do service in a bridge being built at Jewett City.

The steamer Favorite is now running on the river.

Thursday, June 26, 1879—Alfred Elson, the New London pedestrian, made his 60 miles on the public roads yesterday. Last night he closed 130 miles of travel since Monday morning.

The old Torrent engine, in its 99th year, was shipped to New Haven yesterday to enter the Fourth of July procession by Chief Engineer Carrier.

The Yale-Harvard boat race is to be held tomorrow.

Yesterday Mr. James Burnett of Scotland exhibited interesting fragments of antiquity in The Bulletin office. One was a commission signed by Gov. Gardon Saltonstall and countersigned by Secretary of State Hez. Wyllys in 1722, appointing Nathaniel Rudd of Windham (Scotland) an ensign in the train band of that town. The other was a deed of land in "New Plymouth," given by Sampson Mason to Nathaniel Waterman of "Road Island and Providence Plantation," and bore the date of 1684.

Friday, June 27, 1879—On Wednesday the Rev. John F. Gulliver, D. D., formerly of this city, was installed as "Stone Professor of the Relations of Christianity to Science" in the Andover (Mass.) Theological seminary.

The walks about St. Patrick's church on Broadway are being concreted and the workmen are rapidly finishing up the interior. It will not be ready for dedication for a month or two yet.

The Block Island waters are swarming with swordfish. Fifteen of them were caught one day this week, the aggregate of which was a little less than 3,000 pounds.

An engraver of this city has just completed a test in his art by placing the Lord's Prayer on a finger ring.

About 40 applicants for admission to the Free Academy were present at the examination yesterday.

Saturday, June 28, 1879—The June number of the St. Louis Railway Register contains an article on the resignation of Mr. William Bond, formerly of this city, of the management of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railway companies.

At the 50th commencement of Holy Cross college, Worcester, June 26th, Joseph T. Fanning of the class of '79 at the academy spoke on "The True Worth of Literature." Mr. Fanning, Thomas J. Kelly and J. J. Desmond, B. A., all of this city, received several prize awards.

Mrs. Ella R. Clark, the singing evangelist, was assisting in the services at the Congregational church at Mystic Sunday and at the Greeneville Congregational church in the evening.

The title of D. D. has been conferred on the Rev. L. W. Bacon of this city by Yale college.

Alfred Elson, the pedestrian, made his regular walk yesterday.

In the fourth race of the series, the second on the Thames river, Harvard won handily, beating Yale by one minute and 43 seconds.

LODGE NOTES

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS

The regular meeting of Sedgwick Woman's Relief Corps, No. 18, was held Friday afternoon at the Buckingham Memorial with the president, Mrs. Althea Brown in the chair. Announcement was made that the Grand Army day at Plainville takes place on July 19. An invitation was received from Mrs. Inez Hill for the corps to hold a card party at her home. The meeting closed with the salute to the flag.

ODD FELLOWS

Uncas lodge, No. 11, has elected the following officers who are to be installed at a meeting in July: Noble grand, William E. Danielson; vice grand, Henry Bode; recording secretary, John F. Amburn; treasurer, Frank M. Green.

Shetucket lodge, No. 27, elected the following: Noble grand, Charles Browning; vice grand, Alvin D. Lewis; recording secretary, S. Howard Bishop; treasurer, Edward F. Kinney.

The election by Palmyra encampment resulted as follows: Chief patriarch, James E. Wood; high priest, William Hopkins; senior warden, Lewis Aldrich; recording scribe, John F. Amburn; treasurer, Edward F. Kinney; junior warden, Alvin D. Lewis.

Appointive officers will be named at the time of installation.

DEGREE OF POCAHONTAS

Sebequanash council, No. 11, met in the Buckingham Memorial Wednesday evening. A large delegation was present from Mawshakeepenit council, No. 25, of New London. One candidate was taken in. Election of officers was in order for the past six months. At the next meeting which is the week of July installation will take place. The social committee gave in their report. A vote of thanks for the wonderful way everything was conducted during their term and the large sum of money they raised for the general fund was passed.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Norwich grange, No. 172, met in Slater hall Wednesday evening. Worthy Master Albert W. Lillibridge conducted the business meeting. The lecturer put on a very pleasing program as follows: Song, by the grange. Bud and Bloom; Talk on Bees, Telly E. Babcock illustrated with some of his honey; song by Mrs. Anne Niles accompanied by Mrs. Mabel Stebbins; reading, The Glory of the Roses, Elizabeth W. Murray; song by the grange. Prof. Stevens of Storrs agricultural college gave a talk on "What Breeding Can Do For the Garden," a very interesting talk and a most delightful speaker; piano solo, Dwight Richardson.

Miss Athol of the extension service department gave a very instructive talk on what they were doing in this department. Next was a roll call of our favorite bird which brought out many discussions. Albert Lillibridge gave a talk on birds which delighted the grange and showed him a great lover of the birds especially the swallow. A picnic is to be held at Atlantic beach some time in August, the committee comprising, the lecturer overseer, and chaplain. No date has been set as yet. The lecturer called special attention to the prize speaking contest to be held Aug. 14th and would like to have as many take part as can. The next meeting July 10 will be patriotic night. Refreshments consisting of honey sandwiches, cream puffs, milk and iced tea were served by Division A.

MAN WHO AIDED LIQUOR "STOOLS" THREATENED WITH JAIL SENTENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 29—The fourteen men arrested yesterday in a series of liquor raids conducted by the New London police, were presented in the police court this morning but only three cases were disposed of. Arthur May, 6 State street; Victor Frederick, 33 Walbach street, and Charles Benson, 53 Bliman street, when put to pleas, pleaded guilty. May and Frederick were each fined $400 and costs on charges of actual sale and keeping with intent to sell. Costs of $35 were also assessed. Benson pleaded guilty and was fined $25 and costs. The only charge against Benson was actual sale, although a very small quantity of diluted alcohol was found in his home. The cases of Michael Costello, proprietor of the Garden of Italy, 115 Bentley avenue, Ocean Beach; Harold Woods and Harry Schuman, 195 Main street; John Moroine and Jerry Northrup, Stuart avenue, Ocean Beach; Ricardo Mowzith, 85 Smith street; Harry Schuman, 79 Washington street; Joseph Verdi, 13 Brewer street and Eugene Conway and Fred Bosworth, 107 Main street, were continued until tomorrow. The case of Edward Bell, 97 Green street, was continued until July 26.

When the numerous cases were presented in court the three stool pigeons used by the police to obtain evidence against the proprietors and employes of stores, clubs and residences where liquor is sold, were on hand to testify if their testimony was necessary in order to obtain convictions. Two of the "stools" came here from Boston and the other from Springfield, Mass. Their testimony today, however, was not necessary. It developed that Daniel H. Troland, 147 Bank street, played an important part in the obtaining of the evidence for it was through Troland's efforts that the "stools" gained admission to the drinking places and made purchases by which evidence against the owners and employes could be obtained. Troland escorted the "stools" to the various drinking house and drank with the evidence gatherers. Troland was not in court, but Prosecuting Attorney Cronin summoned him and with the former entering the court he was characterized by the prosecutor as acting as though Troland was possessed of a license to purchase liquor. The prosecutor compelled Troland to take the stand, but he could extract but little testimony from him. Other than admitting that he guided the "stools" to the drinking resorts, Troland would not talk. The prosecutor charged Troland with being a runner for the places where liquor is distributed and being a patron of the places, used his friendship and acquaintance with the proprietors and employes to escort "stool pigeons" there and make purchases of liquor in order to permit the police to make arrests. The prosecutor also threatened to ask for a jail sentence for Troland, inasmuch as the latter had made a purchase of liquor for the "stools" when the three men started at their task of getting evidence.

Charles Tompkins, Syracuse, N. Y.; Charles Crocicchia, 75 Howard street; Floyd E. Rome, 516 Vauxhall street and Anthony Iriandi, 103 Squire street, were charged with violation of the city's parking laws. None of the drivers appeared in court and their bonds were called.

John Kran, charged with reckless driving, was not tried, the case being continued until tomorrow. Kran was arrested on Williams street last night by Patrolman Dennis Murphy.

Oscar P. Olson was charged with failing to grant right of way. His case was continued until tomorrow. Olson was arrested yesterday by State Police Officer John Smith.

Mrs. Arthur Kolesko and infant son, 4 Broad street, Groton; Mrs. William Tourjee and infant daughter, Noank; Mrs. Wilbur Meade and infant daughter, 228 Jefferson avenue; Mrs. Charles Huntley, East Lyme; Joseph Bugbee Old Lyme; Mrs. Carl Vieta, 15 Morse avenue, Groton; Mrs. Carl Friedman and infant son, York avenue, Waterford, and Mrs. Patrick Bannon, 188 Crystal avenue, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

George Watson, 33, late of 25 Mather court, died last Tuesday at a naval hospital at Staten Island, N. Y. The body was brought to New London today. Mr. Watson was a member of the United States Coast Guard and is survived by his wife and parents. The latter, who reside in Baltimore, accompanied the body to this city.

Stefan Podbielski, 18, died yesterday at his home, 18 Ashcraft road. He had been ill several weeks.

Barney Toretsky, proprietor of the Outlet Millinery Co., Hartford, has leased the cottage at 12 Bentley avenue, Ocean Beach, and with his family are already occupying the premises.

Gertrude Baratz and Sarah B. Lipton have sold to Rose and Joseph Sobilch, a house and lot on Huntington street.

Frank Kalka has sold to Joseph J. and Ruth Rose Payne, a house and lot on Cape Ann court.

Two additional actions were instituted today against the Ocean Beach Park Development company. Both are mechanic's liens. Luis F. Daw Co., of St. Paul, Minn., seeks to recover $50 for material furnished the realty company and the Nustone Products Co., a New Jersey corporation, brings suit to recover $175, also for materials furnished for improving the real estate of the defendants.

Leo J. Gardner, 43 West street, reported to the police today that a wheel and tire was stolen from his automobile last night while the car was parked in front of the owner's home.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the driver's license of Louis Allen, 18 Alger street.

Members of the Ladies Aid society of the Huntington street Baptist church were entertained last night by Mrs. William A. Ames at her home in Summit avenue. Following a short business meeting a social hour was enjoyed after which refreshments were served.

Miss Jessie L. Rogers, daughter of Mrs. Fannie Rogers of Quaker Hill, became the bride of Andrew W. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Smith of Thames View, Quaker Hill, yesterday at noon. The ceremony was performed in the parsonage of the Quaker Hill Baptist church with the Rev. Herbert L. Hutchins officiating. News of the wedding came as a surprise to the great number of friends of the popular young couple.

New London Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bisconti, whose marriage occurred Wednesday, left this city today for Cleveland, Ohio, where they will stay for two weeks. The couple will stop in Philadelphia and New York en route.

Members of the class of '19, of Williams Memorial Institute, enjoyed a reunion last night in the Dutch room of the Hotel Mohican. Sixteen members were present and a delightful social time was enjoyed. A feature of the banquet was a large white cake with a decoration of the class colors.

Members of New London branch of the ladies' auxiliary to the Master Plumbers association held a benefit card party Wednesday night in Eagles hall. Fifteen tables were in play and prizes were awarded at each. More than $35 was cleared at the affair.

Miss Gladys V. Pettigrew, daughter of Captain and Mrs. Charles C. Pettigrew of Quaker Hill will become the bride of Wilson Lee Highmore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Highmore, of 28 Blackhall street tomorrow afternoon at the First Church of Christ.

CHINAMEN FACE NARCOTIC CHARGE IN NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 29.—The police have in custody Lee Hem, Chinese, 13 Golden street, and they believe they also have the principal distributor of narcotics in New London. Hem was presented in the police court today, but his case was continued until next Wednesday.

Hem, for a long time has been suspected of going to New Haven and procuring opium and returning to New London and making his sales. He frequently boarded a late afternoon train and returned to New London at 3:30 o'clock the following morning. He never carried baggage and his numerous trips monthly to New Haven and return in 24 hours attracted the attention of the police. He had also been seen to go to the rear of the Robert H. Byles undertaking establishment, 13 Masonic street, and apparently deposit or remove articles from a hiding place.

For a week police watched the yard for Hem to put in an appearance, but if he did, Hem went there when the police were absent. Yesterday, Officers Carlos Stone and George Perkins were in hiding there throughout the day and part of the night. Patrolman Dennis Cavanaugh relieved Perkins at 11:30 o'clock and about 3:30 o'clock the officer observed Hem entering the premises.

Hem carried a bouquet and the officer surmised that the drug was secreted among the flowers. When Hem went to a section of the yard and then stooped as though to secret an article or remove one, the officer arrested the Chinese. A search of the Celestial did not result in the finding of narcotics, but a bottle that had contained opium and a "cooking" outfit were found. After Hem was arrested and taken to police headquarters he was questioned at length relative to his being a trafficker in narcotics, but he would reveal but little. He has, however, made certain admissions, which the investigators believe will warrant the Chinamen being turned over to the federal authorities when his trial comes up next week.

REFUSE TWO APPLICATIONS FOR FIREWORKS LICENSES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 28.—The city council, in special session this evening turned down the applications of two citizens for licenses to sell fireworks. Charles Glassenberg, a wholesaler, applied for such license at 93 Bank street, and an application was made for premises at Main street by one Belts. The city manager was antagonistic to granting the latter license and Harry Salomon, a clothing dealer, opposed the 93 Bank street application, alleging that the building was a wooden structure and that the business was dangerous. Salomon said he had a stock worth $4,000 to $5,000 and had but $1500 insurance. A license was granted for the premises at 139 Main street.

There are indications that the owners of bath houses at Ocean Beach will have to remove them to comply with the zoning ordinance, which provides that all bath houses shall be at the rear of premises. Bentley avenue is by the ordinance designated as the street, but the owners of lessees of the property appear to regard the board walk as the front, where as by ordinance it is the rear. The practice of placing signs for advertising purposes on buildings there is also found to be in violation of the ordinance, as the property where the signs are displayed, are in zone C, a residential section, and cannot remain there. The inspector of buildings has notified one property owner to remove a sign or be prosecuted. There is to be some business for the Ocean Beach property owners if the ordinances are to be enforced, and there is every indication that they are to be enforced.

Engineer William Steele of the trawler Tom, suffered a very severe accident late yesterday afternoon when the vessel was at sea off Nantucket lightship. His left hand became caught in machinery of the craft and was entirely severed from the arm. He was transferred to the coast guard destroyer Fanning and rushed to a hospital at Vineyard Haven.

Despite the search of the local police department no trace has been found of Fred Schultz, convicted thief who escaped from the police station Wednesday, while waiting to be taken to the county jail to serve a sentence of 60 days.

While pole vaulting with other boys, Donald Harris, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Colt Harris of 22 Truman street, broke his arm Wednesday afternoon. A physician was summoned and set the fracture.

Officers elected for the ensuing year by Mohegan lodge, No. 55, I. O. O. F., are as follows: Noble grand, D. E. Crouch; vice grand, George H. Babcock; recording secretary, Andrew Morris; treasurer, Edward Prince; paraphernalia keeper, Rufus Church.

Marriage licenses were issued to five couples today as follows: Henry E. B. Daniel and Alice M. Metzermacher; Robert J. Bailey and Genevieve Bieleki; Leto A. Camp and Angeline Pisapio; George E. Soutar, Jr., and Edith Sullivan.

Harry Wartosky, Hartford, was arrested tonight by State Police Officer John Smith charged with reckless driving. Loren E. White, 715 Ocean avenue, was arrested this afternoon by Traffic Officer Edward Skoczylas, charged with violation of the city's traffic regulations. Another violator was A. L. Gifford, 112 North Broadway, Tarrytown, N. Y. He was charged with a parking violation and was released with a warning to heed the traffic signs in the future.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Rev. Frank W. Pattison of East Northfield will again be the preacher at the Central Baptist church on Sunday. His topic for the morning service is Christ: Man of Prayer. In the evening he will speak on the subject Gossip. The South Manchester band will play at the evening service.

June Rainfall Light

The rainfall in Norwich for June has been but little more than an inch, according to the measurements recorded at the water department office. The thunderstorm of last Tuesday night produced .40 of an inch of rain and the total precipitation for the month was only 1.31 inches before the rain of Friday night.

Palace Theatre

Fidelity of a condemned murderer to high ideals even to the point of refusing to acknowledge his identity to his own sister that she and his mother might be saved from heartache and disgrace, is the absorbing theme of The Valiant, Fox Movietone all-dialogue production now at the Palace theatre.

With Paul Muni in the exacting role of the convict and Marguerite Churchill co-featured in the feminine lead the picture has been hailed as one of the dramatic achievements of the season in Fox Movietone. It is presented by a supporting cast of stellar rank, including John Mack Brown, De Witt Jennings, Richard Carlyle, Edith Yorke, Henry Kolker, Cliff Dempsey and George Pearce.

Other featurettes on the same program include a Fathe Sound News, the World in Scene and Sound, Aesop's Sound Fables whose funny little animals can now be heard as well as seen and a Pathe Sound Revue, the wonder reel of the screen.

Flattery continues to be woman's most powerful weapon in winning and keeping a man, Lady Emma Hamilton, heroine of First National's Corinne Griffith special, The Divine Lady, coming to the Palace theatre on Sunday knew how to use it subtly and effectively, according to Adela Rogers St. Johns, writing in the October issue of Smart Set.

"Emma Hamilton's most powerful weapon from beginning to end was flattery," says Mrs. St. Johns. "In her hands it became a fairy wand which she must have held when she posed for Romney's most famous portrait of her as Circe, a Circe changing beasts back into men."

The Divine Lady, based upon E. Barrington's biographical novel of that title, was directed by Frank Lloyd who made The Sea Hawk. In the cast supporting Miss Griffith are Victor Varconi as Lord Nelson, H. B. Warner as Lord Hamilton, Ian Hamilton, Matie Dressler, Dorothy Cummings, Montagu Love and others.

Broadway Theatre.

One of the best known police officials in the United States is authority for the statement that never before has such real police atmosphere been incorporated in a motion picture as in "Alibi," showing for four days starting Sunday at the cool Broadway theatre.

The official is Captain John McCaleb, commander of the Hollywood police department, who was so interested in the avowed ambition of Roland West, producer and director of Alibi, to make the production technically flawless from a police standpoint, that he spent considerable time at the studio, giving advice and watching the filming of the underworld thriller. "This picture shows crooks and police as they really are, not as fictionists most of the time depict them to the public," said the captain. Alibi has an all-star cast of screen and stage favorites, including Chester Morris, Pat O'Malley, Eleanor Griffith, Mae Busch and Purnell B. Pratt.

Selected Vitaphone specialties and the latest M-G-M News complete this interesting program.

The thrilling gun-fights between the gangsters and the police detectives, the nerve-wracking third degree scene, the beautiful cabaret scenes with their jazz orchestras and peppy singers are greatly enhanced by the excellence of the Broadway's Western Electric sound equipment which faithfully reproduces the effects painstakingly achieved by the film directors. The Broadway Vitaphone apparatus has been pronounced by Western Electric engineers as one of the finest yet installed, and the admirable acoustic properties of this popular playhouse make a sound combination unequalled for many miles around.

KNOWLEDGE OF SEA WILL AID FORECASTS

WORCESTER, Mass., (AP)—Meteorologists are looking forward to a time when more knowledge about certain conditions at sea will help in predicting the weather for coming seasons.

A report on these conditions is made to the American Association for the Advancement of Science by Dr. Charles Franklin Brooks of Clark university.

He forecasts a time when, by virtue of the progressive movements of ocean waters, and their tendency to retain heat longer than land surfaces, "some anticipation of the characters of coming seasons may be possible."

QUICK CURES CLAIMED FOR NEW FRENCH SERUM

PARIS (AP)—Great things are claimed for a new antistreptococcic serum found by Prof. Henri Vincent, discoverer of the famous vaccine against typhoid.

In a report to the French Academy of Sciences, Professor Vincent states that the new serum effected radical cures in the case of persons whose condition was desperate. Among others, he says, a patient suffering from erysipelas was cured in a few days.

The serum was also of great benefit to puerperal fever.

COW TESTING IS CHEAP FOR WEST TEXAS FARMER

LUBBOCK, Tex., (AP)—One of the country's cheapest cow-testing rates is claimed by the newly organized West Texas Cow Testing by Mail association. Its members pay $3.75 a year plus $1 for each head tested.

Testing is done by the dairy products department of Texas Technological college. Membership fees cover the cost of mailing containers, sample dippers, record slips and instructions.

Members will send records of tests to the laboratory once a month. At the end of the year a complete record of each cow's production will be sent to its owner.

Enjoy healthful fruits and vegetables . . .
Flavored with sugar they are delicious

"MY FIRST RULE for healthful eating," said one of the foremost food scientists in this country, "would be to insist on at least one dish of raw vegetable salad and at least one raw fruit every day.

"My second rule would be very similar—to eat at least one cooked vegetable and one cooked fruit every day. You can vary the fruits and vegetables according to the season, their price, and your taste."

His next remark emphasized the value of sugar in making fruits and vegetables so palatable that people would eat them, not simply for their beneficial results, but for general enjoyment of their flavors. "Sugar," he explained, "is the greatest of all condimental foods. It brings out the natural flavor of fruits and vegetables."

It is important that people enjoy the food they eat. Otherwise they will not eat a varied enough diet. Sugar, nature's most perfect flavor, plays a part in making almost all the foods we eat more inviting.

A pinch of sugar improves the flavor of nearly every vegetable. Remember a dash of sugar in cereal, in tea or coffee, in all milk drinks. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

GREENEVILLE

The Greeneville T. D. Sewing Circle held their regular weekly meeting at the home of Miss Grace Slattery on Boswell avenue, Wednesday evening with a large class attending. The first period of the evening was devoted to sewing of fancy articles, after which a social hour was enjoyed. Refreshments were served by the hostess, consisting of assorted sandwiches, cookies, cakes, fruits, candies, wafers, ice cream and hot chocolate.

George Swanton of Providence is spending a few days with his parents on North Main street.

John McClafferty of Southbridge, Mass., is spending a few days at his home on Hickory street.

The Bowen's Newsies defeated the Preston Highlanders Thursday afternoon on the Palmer Rogers lot by the score of 10 to 6. The fetures of the game were the heavy hitting of Billy Gauthier, getting three two-base hits out of four trips to the plate and the fine twirling of the Newsies' pitcher, Pino Quinn, he having ten strikeouts to his credit. The lineup for the Newsies was: Edward Quinn, c; Pino Quinn, p; Harry Mopsick, 1b; Jerry Gleason, 2b; Lawrence Whalen, 3b; Willy Gauthier, ss; John Gleason, lf; William Martniski, cf; Richard McNeill, rf. Edward Sullivan was the umpire.

..Mrs. Michael Shea has returned to her home on North Main street after spending a few days at the home of her sister at Taftville.

Edward Hourigan of New Jersey is spending a few weeks at the home of his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hourigan, on Central avenue.

TAFTVILLE

Miss Anna M. Beardow of Providence street is opening her summer home Pine Knoll at Pine Grove, Niantic, for the season this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Landry of North A street are moving to the house on North Third avenue recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. El Dorus Chase who moved to Norwich.

Mrs. Jane E. Rennard of Bushnell road is visiting her son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Samuel L. Armitage of Providence, R. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Holubesko and family have taken a house on Terrace avenue.

The giant catalpa tree at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lambert of North B street is covered by a myriad of white blossoms and attracts the attention of the passerby in that locality of the village.

Among the beauty spots of the town are the rose gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shuit of Terrace avenue, now filled with ramblers of various colors, blooming profusely.

Charles Adams, Jr., of Danielson has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Adams and family of North Third avenue this week.

GAVE KITCHEN SHOWER FOR MISS ANITA DUGAS

At the home of Mrs. Stanley Joyczak Versailles Wednesday evening a kitchen shower was given to Miss Anita Dugas by a number of friends in honor of her approaching marriage to William St. Marie Jr. of Taftville. The bride to be received many useful gifts. Dancing was enjoyed and dainty refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by the Misses Betty Newton and Albea Tetreault.

JUDGE LIBBY MAKES REAPPOINTMENTS OF OFFICIALS FOR NORWICH CITY COURT

Announcement was made Friday morning by Judge Arthur F. Libby, who was reappointed judge of the Norwich city court for a term of two years, effective July 1, at the 1929 session of the state legislature, that all the officials of the court have been reappointed, effective July 1. They are Former Representative Charles W. Cassidy, prosecuting attorney; Attorney John H. Barnes, clerk, and Attorney Josiah Greenstein, assistant prosecutor and assistant clerk.

Former Representative Cassidy has been prosecutor of the court since June, 1923, filling the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mayor Lee Roy Robbins. He has also served as clerk from April, 1927, up to the time of his appointment as prosecutor. Clerk John H. Barnes has been associated with the court since 1897, serving as city attorney for five years and for 19 years as deputy judge and judge. Assistant Prosecutor Greenstein has only been an official of the court for a year. Town Counsel H. H. Pettis is deputy judge, having been re-appointed to the office at the time of Judge Libby's re-appointment.

COAST GUARD PERSONNEL CHANGES ARE ORDERED

Three changes in the commissioned personnel and two changes in the warrant personnel of the coast guard units at New London are included in the record of changes in assignments received from coast guard headquarters at Washington for the week ending June 26.

The changes in commissioned personnel include the transfer of Lieut-Comdr. E. Reed-Hill from the Wilkes at New London to temporary duty aboard the cutter Tampa at Boston and thence to the Coast Guard academy for assignment. Lieutenant-Commander Reed-Hill is an engineering officer and came to the Wilkes May 3, 1928.

Lieut. P. E. Shaw, is detached from the patrol boat CG-203 at Curtis bay, Md., and assigned as engineering officer aboard the destroyer Wilkes at New London.

Passed Assistant Surgeon W. E. McLellan, now attached to Division No. 3 of the destroyer force at Boston is assigned to medical duty at Section Base No. 4 at the New London state pier effective July 3.

Pay Clerk Carlin L. Brinkley is detached from duty with the Coast Guard institute at the academy at New London and assigned to headquarters at Washington.

Radio Electrician Earle S. Burns is detached from duty at the academy and assigned to duty at headquarters at Washington, effective July 15.

TAFTVILLE SUIT OVER BUILDING BY NEIGHBOR

Suit against Clarinda Goyette of Taftville has been brought in the common pleas court by her neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Romaine Beauregard on the claim that a garage or building which the defendant is having erected is on a right of way and prevents the Beauregards from using it. Damages of $350 and an injunction are sought.

The Beauregards claim that they are the owners in fee of a certain tract of land with the buildings thereon, situated in the town of Norwich, near Taftville, and along the highway leading from Greeneville to Taftville. Along the northeasterly side of the Beauregard property is a common right of way 10 feet wide, extending from Norwich avenue to a proposed street along the northerly boundary of the tract of land and was used by the Beauregards until about April 20, 1928, when the defendant began the construction of the building.

Notice was given to the defendant to remove said obstruction on the right of way, and the complaint recites that Mrs. Goyette has refused to do so.

SALVATION ARMY BAND TO BE AT CHURCHES

The Salvation army band from South Manchester will be here Sunday to aid in opening the appeal of the army in Norwich for $5,000 maintenance fund for its annual budget.

Upon arrival here Sunday morning the band is to appear at a number of churches and a Salvation army officer will speak. These in order are: Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, First Baptist church, Norwich Town Congregational church and Central Baptist church.

At 1:30 p. m. the band will give a concert at the state hospital and then proceed to the Uncas-on-Thames hospital and play for the inmates of the institution. At 4 p. m. the band will arrive at Union square where it will be received by Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, after which the band will play a sacred concert on the city bandstand which will be erected for the occasion. At 7 p. m. the band will play at an open-air meeting to be held in front of the Chelsea bank, finishing with a united service at Central Baptist church in which the entire band will participate. After services the band will leave for South Manchester in a specially provided bus.

CIGARETTE SETS FIRE TO SEAT IN AUTOMOBILE

Shortly before 11 o'clock Friday evening the fire department made the fourth run of the day in response to a telephone alarm for a fire in a Whippet sedan parked in Rose Alley. The driver of the machine owned by the Blue Ribbon Cab Co. had only parked his machine in the alley a short time before the blaze was discovered, after returning from transporting a passenger. The blaze which was caused from a lighted cizarette burned a hole through the cushion in the front seat and started the backrest afire on the arrival of the firemen who quickly extinguished it. Squad A and Deputy Chief Dennis Brennan responded.

COLCHESTER APPEAL ON ROAD BOUNDARY LINES

Through his counsel, Attorney John H. Barnes, Salvatore Guarnaccia of Colchester, has appealed to the superior court from a decision of the state highway commissioner, John A. MacDonald, on the re-establishment of boundary lines or limits of the Hartford-New London turnpike, on which his property abuts. It is alleged in the petition that the change in the boundary lines is illegal and unconstitutional.

NEIGHBOR NIGHT WITH GRANGE AT FRANKLIN

Norwich and Colchester granges made a neighbor night visit to Franklin grange Friday evening, each of the visiting granges providing something for the lecturer's programme. About 30 members of Norwich grange made the trip and its contribution to the programme was a song and a recitation. Colchester grange gave a play and an orchestra played for dancing which closed the evening.

Vacation Schools to Begin.

The vacation schools under the auspices of the Norwich council of religious education are to begin next Monday at the First Baptist, United Congregational, Norwich Town Methodist, Greeneville Congregational churches. The sessions are held from Monday to Friday, from 9 o'clock to 11.30 in the morning.

If a man carries a mortgage it is usually because he can't lift it.

TWO FIRE ALARMS HERE WITHIN EIGHT MINUTES

The fire department responded to three calls on Friday, two of them being bell alarms.

At 11.14 a. m. Box 13, corner of Thames and High street, was rung in for a fire on the roof of the house at No. 16 High street owned by Jacob Tempchin and occupied by Constantine Trivensky and others. The cause of the blaze, which was extinguished with little damage resulting, was due to firecrackers. Engines 5 and 6, Squad A, Truck 1, Chief Henry R. Taft and Deputy Chief Dennis Brennan responded.

The second bell alarm came in at 11.22 a. m., from Box 116, Washington square, while the firemen were at the High street fire. This was for a supposed blaze in the three story brick store and warehouse owned by Adams P. Carroll and occupied by J. P. Barstow and Co., at No. 35 Washington street. Workmen were burning excelsior in the heater. Chief Taft and Deputy Chief Brennan with Engines 1, 2, 3 and 6, Squad A and Truck 1 responded.

A telephone alarm at 12.50 p. m. was received for a grass fire at 685 North Main street on property owned by William B. Somers. The blaze was put out by members of Squad A and Engine 2.

MERGER TAKES IN EASTERN CONN. POWER CO.

The public utilities commission through its chairman, Richard T. Higgins, gave its approval on Friday to the proposed merger of the Eastern Connecticut Power, Uncas Power, Gaylordsville Electric, and the Kent Electric Light and Gas companies with and into the Connecticut Light and Power company. The petition for permission for the merger was heard before the commission at the capitol Friday morning and the decision was rendered orally afterward.

The consolidation of these companies calls for no increases in capital stock and no changes in distinct management, but brings all the territory served under the service of one corporation. Stock of the Connecticut Light and Power will be exchanged for present outstanding stock of the four smaller companies.

C. L. Campbell of Hartford, treasurer of the Connecticut Light and Power, and Lawrence A. Howard, attorney for the company, appeared at the hearing. There was no opposition to the petition. The merger will become effective about August 1.

The Eastern Connecticut Power company, which has headquarters in this city, Robert W. Perkins being president, has 22 towns on its list in eastern Connecticut and 32 towns in its wholesale district, supplying electric power in all the eastern Connecticut towns except Norwich, New London and Bozrah.

The Norwich gas and electric department takes practically all of the product of the Uncas Power company, which has its power house at Scotland, and the surplus is used by the Eastern Connecticut Power company and a few residents of the town of Scotland.

The Gaylordsville and the Kent companies are in the western part of the state.

FARM BUREAU WOMEN PICNIC AT MOHEGAN PARK

The annual picnic and outing, an all day event, of the 10 groups in the county under the jurisdiction of the New London County farm bureau was enjoyed Friday at Mohegan park, more than 150 women attending. A well balanced programme including different demonstrations, games and community singing, the last named led by Mrs. Walter G. Buckingham, was carried out in the morning. A basket lunch was partaken of at 12:30, after which bathing was in order. Among the guests at the affair, which was in charge of Miss Ruth Russell, home demonstration agent, assisted by group members, was Miss Edith Mason of Storrs, state home demonstration agent.

Seeks Change of Name

Change of name from Moussaif to Grand is sought in a petition brought to the superior court by Bernard Moussaief of New London, who is attached to the naval service of the United States at the submarine base at Groton. He wants his name to be Bernard Albert Grand.

The petitioner sets out that it is difficult for people to understand, spell and pronounce the name of Moussaief and that he is put to frequent trouble and inconvenience thereby. The petition sets out that Moussaief was born in Paris, France, May 30, 1905, emigrated to this city in 1914 and is now a U. S. citizen. He married Maria Louise Bister in Paris on June 14, 1928, and they have no children.

Settlement by Compromise

A compromise settlement for workmen's compensation in the case of Alex Malenoppi, an employe of the Aspinook Co., Jewett City, has been approved by Compensation Commissioner Noonan in a finding filed with Clerk John H. Walker in superior court here Friday. By the settlement compensation in the lump sum of $12 is given to Malenoppi. On May 22, 1928, Malenoppi sustained a bruise and strained side. He had been receiving compensation since. The insurance company claimed that he has recovered, while the employe maintained otherwise, with the result that the settlement was effected.

Discharges from Backus Hospital

The following were the patients discharged from the W. W. Backus hospital on Friday: Mrs. Aaron Segal and infant son, 30 Pearl street; Mrs. George Ross, R. D. 4, Hattie Sevigny, R. D. 8, Mrs. Albert H. Chase, 1 Sachem Terrace and Mrs. John Nevin and infant daughter, 11 Kinney avenue.

LITIGATION STARTS OVER ISABEL BURHANS ESTATE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW YORK, June 23—The $1,010,754 estate of the late Isabel Holden Burhans, of New York, has been put into litigation by Walter A. Standish of Orange, New Jersey, it was learned here today. Several heirs of this estate reside in Norwich, Conn., and include Walter Holden, Henry E. Holden, Gustavus A. Holden, Maria M. Fuller, Mrs. Addie Wheeler, Mrs. Ida Magee, all half cousins of the deceased, and Charles H. Standish, Myles E. Standish, Nettie L. Standish, of Norwich, Ruth Standish Park of Hanover, Ralph D. Standish of Singapore, Norman S. Standish of Baldwin, L. I., and Walter A. Standish of Orange, N. J., all second cousins. Walter Holden of Norwich and Norman Standish of Baldwin are the administrators, and have been prevented from making distribution by the court action.

According to advices here no time has been set for the case to come before the court and it will possibly be a year or more before final distribution of the estate is made.

According to a report filed with the New York tax transfer department, distribution of the estate is understood to give $90,705 to each of the half-cousins. The real property is to be distributed per stipes which brings $701 to Charles H. Standish, Miss Nettie L. Standish and Myles E Standish, all of Norwich, and $1,052 to Belle Spalding, also of Norwich.

W. R. STEVENS APPOINTED WATER DEPT. INSPECTOR

At the regular meeting of the board of water commissioners held Friday night with President Charles A. Hagberg presiding and Edmund Hindle as clerk, appointment of an inspector was made by the choice of William R. Stevens. He succeeds Laurens I. Hamilton.

The new officials of the water department take charge on July 1, John R. Bowman, Jr., succeeding William H. Callahan as supervisor and Edmund Hindle becoming cashier, filling the post which was held by the late Thaddeus Leahy.

Goshen Church Anniversary

The Goshen Congregational church in the town of Lebanon, where Rev. Howard Bushnell is pastor, is to observe its 200th anniversary Sunday, with services in the morning and afternoon.

NORWICH TOWN

The article in Wednesday morning's Bulletin concerning the tightrope walking of Professor Sweet across the Shetucket river, in 1859, was of special interest to a Norwich Town resident, William H. Whitmarsh of 232 West Town street, in-as-much as Prof. Sweet and Mr. Whitmarsh were first cousins. Their fathers were half brothers. While in conversation with a friend Thursday afternoon, Mr. Wightman recalled many reminiscences of Prof. Sweet's specialty along these lines. One of special significance was in the year 1867, when he walked tightrope in different cities from Richmond, Va., to Providence, R. I. This required several months, the start being in the spring and his destination was reached in August of that year.

Mrs. James Ringland (Canterbury) was hostess Thursday at a Social Corner picnic, when several members and friends, also a number of children, assembled at her home on Plain Hill road. At noon, Mrs. Ringland assisted by Miss Lucy Wilcox, also Mrs. Albert G. Miner, served luncheon on the lawn which consisted of salads, rolls, pickles, cookies, cakes, pies and coffee. Many took advantage of the early afternoon, by visiting the hostess' flower gardens and shrubbery. The summer house in the center of the grounds was made attractive with comfortable chairs and center table while in numerous places were long benches and other chairs. By special request one of the guests present, Rev. George Warren Potter, pastor of Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church, gave an interesting little talk on the "Power of a Smile." This was followed by the entire company singing the Doxology. Mrs. Ringland was presented a gift of money, resulting from the collection taken, as appreciation for her hospitality.

Deacon Henry T. Frazier, was in charge of the mid-week prayer service of the Congregational church, on Thursday evening.

Beginning Sunday and continuing throughout the remainder of the summer, the services of the choir, also the sessions of the Sunday school, at Sacred Heart church, are to be discontinued.

Wolf Cubs Change Meeting Time

The Wolf Cub Pack of Scouts connected with the Methodist Episcopal church met at the parsonage Friday afternoon with an attendance of 16. The cubs voted to change the time of their meeting next week to Monday evening from 7 to 8 and the meeting will be in charge of the assistant cub master, Ralph Smith.

The meeting opened with the reading of the closing chapters of "The Thing in the Road," by Assistant Cub Master Smith.

The cub master, Rev. George Warren Potter was in charge of the usual opening ritual service. Following the business session the cubs enjoyed a new game until the close of the meeting. Walter Kelley passed another test and was advanced to the merit badge class receiving his first bar. Robert Barber was accepted in the pack. After next week the meetings will be held from 2 to 3 Monday afternoons instead of Friday.

To Have Overnight Hike

At the meeting of the Boy Scouts connected with the Methodist Episcopal church held at the parsonage Friday night there were a number of good times planned. The meeting was in charge of the scoutmaster, Rev. George Warren Potter. Assistant Scoutmaster Ralph Smith had charge of the troop inspection and Assistant Scoutmaster Lewis E. Aldrich had charge of the singing period.

The interpatrol contest consisted of a first aid quiz with lifts and carries.

The scouts voted to go on an overnight hike when many tests can be passed on Friday, July 14th.

POETRY

Beautiful Poem

Where are they now?
Where are the hands that steadied the plow,
That swung the scythe and milked the cow?
Where are the mothers who baked the bread,
Buckled the children and knelt by the bed?
Where are the horses that hauled the wood?
There's only a stick where the scarecrow stood.
The door is sealed with tangled vine,
The pasture holds no grazing kine;
Rank weeds are lords of the garden plot;
Already the apples fall and rot;
With never a hand to pick it up,
Hangs by the well a rusty cup.

Empty of heartaches, the old house stands
Pauper and host of forsaken lands,
Unfilled dreams in her hollow eyes,
Her gray head bowed to the solemn skies.

The songs and the laughter, where are they?
God in His pity bade them stay
In the throats of birds that stir the leaves
Of the twisted vine and nest in the eaves.

—By Marion Perham Gale, in Boston Transcript.

Hick Town

'Twas sadly changed. The dear old blacksmith shop
Was mending tires and selling gasoline;
Hot-dog stands cluttered up the village green,
And at the crossroads stood a traffic cop.

The Grand Hotel, where drummers used to stop,
Was now Ye Hickville Inn. With sorrow keen
I gazed upon the once familiar scene,
While tears obscured the picture, drop by drop.

The haughty mansion where the Widow Brown
Deigned to reside, now bore the sign "Antiques."
The very spirit of my native town
Was smothered under modern fads and freaks.

Where was the old town pump, ye gods, and where The hitching rack around the public square?

—Ted Robinson, in Cleveland Plain Dealer.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Second (excitedly)—Come on, come on! The bell has rung for the eighth round!

Boxer—Oh, let's sit this one out. —(Punch).

"Did he threaten you when he kissed you?"

"Indeed he did! He said he'd never kiss me again if I screamed!"

(Kasper, Stockholm)

Salesman—And to what address shall I send this bucket, sir?

Meek customer—Oh, 715 Hillside avenue. And, er, you'll send it soon, won't you? You see, we're having a fire.—Boston Transcript.

Wife (coyly)—A little bird told me you were going to buy me a new car for my birthday.

Husband (behind his paper)—Well, it must have been a little cuckoo.—R. R. Magazine.)

Lawyer—Was the man you found under the street car a total stranger?

"No sir, a partial stranger."

"What do you mean?"

"Well, one arm and one leg were gone."—Pathfinder.

A Londoner took a visiting American to see "Hamlet." When it was over and they were moving out the host asked "Well, did you like it?"

"Oh, yet. It's pretty good. But you're sure behind the times here. I saw that in New York four years ago." —Montreal Star.

The captain of a small trading vessel wanted to land some contraband at a certain port. Approaching the customs officer he said: "Joe, if I put ten shilling note over each eye, could ye see?"

"I could not," said Joe. "And if I had one in me mouth I couldn't speak." —Weekly Scotsman.

The lecturer was discussing erosion and told how Niagara Falls were slowly wearing back the brink, thus bringing the falls back toward Buffalo. And he predicted that in about 200,000 years Erie would have been reached and would tumble into the gorge.

Suddenly a woman in the audience began to sob convulsively. "Why, what ever is the matter?" asked her nearest neighbor.

"Oh, oh!" she wailed. "I've got a sister who lives in Erie!"—Railroad Magazine.

A physician's stethoscope designed to be heard by a medical ear 1,000 miles or more from the patient has been perfected at Los Angeles. It transmits by wire or radio minute sounds and such other vibrations as can be recorded in electrical energy. Heart action and some phases of blood circulation can be heard through the device named as cociographoscope. Edmund H. Hansen, Los Angeles inventor, has given private demonstrations of what it can transmit by wire, by radio to ships at sea and over more ordinary radio sets. He says that in emergencies physicians may use it to advantage.
